Mr. BERTRAM was cordially received by the audience. He objected to the Chairman imputing motives for Mr. Stratton's absence, and reminded them that Mr. Stratton had not had twenty year's experience in public life as Mr. Carnegie had. He did not propose to follow Mr. Carnegie into all the twistings and turnings regarding the wrong doing of the Mowat Government, but rather to look at the general aspect of some matters. That Government had been in office 14 years, and it had, in that time, no doubt made mistakes. They had done some things which he would condemn, and he would like to see the party lines loosened. Still, they had to choose now between Mr. Mowat and Mr. Meredith. Mr. Stratton had no public record; Mr. Carnegie, however, had a record. He held up a copy of Mr. Carnegie's address in 1883, and his address for this election, compared their length, and proved that the address of 1883 was the longest. He read a clause from Mr. Carnegie's address of 1883, and said that a clause in the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, prepared by the Mowat Government, was at variance with the opinions expressed by Mr. Carnegie, trying to hold him responsible for Mr. Mowat's utterances and thus to establish inconsistency. He wished to give Mr. Carnegie credit for being a most painstaking representative. He was seldom absent from his post. After the most searching enquiry into the Public Accounts, what was the result? Nothing; not a motion in the House. If Mr. Carnegie found anything wrong in the Public Accounts Committee he should have brought into the House a minority report. There was only one motion made in 1884 to curtail the expenditure, and that was for a reduction of about $2,000, money appropriated for the Burnt River Dam. Even on this motion the yeas and nays were not taken but it was "lost on a division," there not being four or five members who would support the motion. Mr. Carnegie had promised to advocate a reduction of the number of members of the Legislature, but had not done so, and on March 28th, 1885, he had voted for an increase of one. Mr. Carnegie stated that he approved of the taking of a member from Dundas and Cornwall, but on March 27th, 1885, he had voted against it, for he voted for an amendment to the Franchise Act in favor of Cornwall retaining a member. They used to hear a great deal about finances, but now the Mail, which recently announced its independence, said little about the finances. Had they heard of the "brawling brood of bribers?" He did not believe that Mr. Carnegie was privy to it or knew anything about it. If anyone told him he had he (Mr. Bertram) would not believe it without the most positive evidence. Yet they must remember that "Big Push" Wilkinson spoke for Mr. Carnegie in the last contest, and Mr. Carnegie should be careful about his company. The Mail was saying a great deal about separate schools and was saying that the separate schools were receiving undue privileges. This was raising a sectarian cry that was not advisable. They were all citizens in the one country and they should all have the same privileges. The British North American Act gave to the Roman Catholics the right to have separate schools and the Protestants in Quebec the same privileges, and provided that if the Legislatures refused to pass legislation required to carry on the schools there would be an appeal on the part of the minority to the Governor-General in Council He read from the Mail and said that it attempted to mislead by quoting one clause of the Separate School Act and not quoting a previous clause that modified it. The man who paid the taxes, he said, decided to which school they should go. It used to be that a ratepayer, if he wished to support the Separate schools, had to give notice of it, but now a Roman Catholic was put down as a Separate school supporter without that notice. If a Separate school supporter left a building for which he was assessed, and the landlord was compelled to pay the taxes, the landlord could decide which school should be benefitted by the taxes. The Mail tried to make its readers believe that Mr. Mowat, to curry favor, had favoured the Separate Schools. He had read the Act carefully and there was nothing in it that unduly favored the Separate schools. Mr. Carnegie had not moved an amendment to the school book contract, but had only voted against it being ratified. He endeavored to justify the monopoly by comparing the new readers with the old, and said that the children were actually paying less for books than before. There might be some truth in what Mr. Carnegie had said in regard to some acts of the Government being not right, but he wished to refer to Mr. Ludgate's timber limit. He (Mr. Bertram) applied to Mr. Bowell, Minister of Customs, for a drawback for some friends in business, and it was granted. He made another application to the Dominion Government for a rebate of $700, through a personal friend, a Conservative, who replied that he thought it was just, but the Government only offered $100. Mr. Ludgate owned a limit in Lutterworth many years ago, which was set apart as a mineral lot. Two or three years passed and it was not used for mineral purposes. Another party applied to have the lots put into his limit, and it was done, and Mr. Ludgate claimed that those lots should be given back to him. Finally the Government gave him other territory to make up for it. Mr. Bertram then sat down amid cheers.

Mr. CARNEGIE, on rising to reply, was received with loud cheers. Mr. Bertram, he said had followed Mr. Ross very well by making the best of a bad cause. He still stood upon his address of 1883. They must remember that since 1883 he had been on the opposition side, and had not been in a position to have his views carried out, his friends being in a minority. His reference in his address of 1883 to the Streams Bill was correct, for the Courts had decided that the law as it stood regarding streams was sufficient. He had opposed the Stream Bill because it was ex post facto legislation, and would always oppose such legislation. The legislature had no right to interpret the law, as was the purpose of the Stream Bill, as that was the business of the Courts, and the Legislature should not set itself up above the Courts. The Legislature might pass a law that their lands did not belong to them, if such Legislation was allowed to prevail. He was not opposed to expenditure on colonization roads if the money was properly expended, but it was not properly or judiciously expended he had shown, for instance the expenditure in Algoma. The papers brought before the Public Accounts Committee were in a bad shape, and the members were only allowed to examine them when the committee was in session, they not even being allowed a sub-committee for that purpose, as was done at Ottawa. They had not divided the House on the address, as they knew it was useless and they wished to get to the business of the session, but that did not commit them to the opinions expressed in the address. They did not get to business at once, however, for the Government did not have it ready, and they were practically idle for days when the expenses ran on. They had asked for particulars regarding telegraphic expenditure, and they were refused unless the names on the telegrams were struck off. No wonder the Government refused, for one telegram the country paid for was sent from Algoma to send $500 to an outside party to buy a paper for the Reformers, and another was from the Commissioner of Crown Lands asking that $1,500 be sent to him to spend in the Algoma election. In October the telegrams cost $20 for the Crown Lands Department, while during the previous three months, when the Algoma election was going on, they cost $100 a month. He had opposed the appropriation for the Burnt River dam, because the dam was for private purposes, and they would have as good a right to build any of the dams on the Otonabee river here as that dam. It was done to benefit Mr. Mansfield and the Messrs. O'Leary, of Lindsay. The motion was lost on a division without the yeas and nays, because the session was nearly over, and Fraser stated that, the House being thin, if the yeas and nays were demanded it would have to stand over till another day. The result, however, was that it did stand over that year, but it was put in the next year, and was probably now being spent to help defeat the Conservative candidate in West Peterborough. The object of the amendment regarding Dundas and Cornwall was to kill the Gerrymander, and for that he voted. Mr. Bertram had made a sly reference to the bribery conspiracy. He (Mr. Carnegie) was ready at any time to discuss that whole question. He was not to be frightened by sneers and stabs, and when the commission was sitting he went to give evidence. The Government would not call him to do so, but he gave it anyway. He was prepared to take up the evidence and prove that it pointed to the money used coming from the Mowat Government, and to the mysterious Lynch being a Mowat agent. He was ready to prove that every member of the Opposition stood clear in the matter, and the jury in the case had decided that the principal witnesses for the Government were not worthy of credence. When Mr. Mowat first brought matter up he said the Lynch, who paid the money, was an American and he afterwards said that he was a Mr. Stinson from the Northwest. The only connection established between Lynch and Stinson was a photographic resemblance, which was poor kind of evidence. For instance he (Mr. Carnegie) was frequently taken, in Toronto, for a son of Mr. Archibald McKeller. The Government said that John Shields was with Stinson, and pretended to be very anxious to have Shields give evidence; but when Shields came before the Commission they refused to call him to the stand. How was it that Wilkinson and others were arrested, while Lynch, who was there at the same time, was allowed to escape? Mr. Mowat said he knew what was going on, and was waiting for corroborative evidence —that is, he was waiting for money to be paid. Wilkinson could not get money to pay, but the mysterious Lynch appeared on the scene with money, and then Mr. Mowat had detectives ready to arrest all but Lynch, who paid the money. Why did not the Government ask the House to take action on the report of Justice Proudfoot, if they were sure of everything? Because a jury had decided that their principal witnesses were not to be believed. If Mr. Bertram wanted to bring the matter up, let him do it in a manly way and discuss the whole question. As to the school books, Mr. Ross compared the new readers with some cheap ones Messrs. Warwick had prepared to fill a gap when the old ones was done away with, which was an unfair comparison. Mr. Bertram's explanation of Mr. Ludgate's timber limit transaction was not correct. If the lots were taken for mineral purposes, as Mr. Bertram said, the timber would be exempt and would not have been taken out of Mr. Ludgates license, so the whole argument fell. Mr. Ludgate brought the matter up in the fall before the other firm had cut timber, and the squabble went on all winter, but then it was dropped until 1884, when the Registry Office was to be filled, and then Mr. J. B. McWilliams reported on the limits and Mr. Ludgate was given a timber limit.

THE SEPARATE SCHOOL QUESTION.

He now came to the question of Separate Schools, with which he had promised to deal. By the Act of 1863 Separate Schools were guaranteed to our Roman Catholic fellow-subjects in this Province, and he wished here to say that even if he could he had no desire to go back on that contract. Another matter—he had been, by some, made responsible for what the Mail says. He thought if he was held responsible for what he said himself, that was quite sufficient. (Applause.) And as he was pretty free with his tongue his responsibility was not a very light one. (Laughter.) The Mail, in its platform—and Mr. Bertram would like to hold him responsible for the Mail's platform—says that the Roman Catholics should be compelled to elect their trustees by ballot, as were the Public school trustees. Now, sir, so far as he was concerned, he would vote against any such measure unless he was specially petitioned by the Roman Catholics in his constituency. It was no one's business how Roman Catholics elected their trustees. If they wanted them elected by ballot he would do his best to bring in a suitable measure. It was not a matter which concerned his Protestant fellow subjects one iota. (Applause.) But there were other matters which we Protestants had to do with, and he had no hesitation in speaking out plainly on these matters. Mr. Bertram took it for granted that all of these laws were passed in 1863 and have ensued since confederation. But this is not the case. To begin at the beginning the original act which he held in his hand provided that: "Every person paying rates, whether a proprietor or tenant, who, by himself or agent, on or before the 1st day of March in any year, has given to the clerk of Municipality notice in writing tha the is a Roman Catholic, and a supporter of the Separate school situated in the said Municipality or in the Municipality contiguous thereto, shall be exemted from the payment of all rates imposed for the support of Common Schools, or of Common School libraries, or for the purchase of land or erection of buildings for Common School purposes, within the city, town, incorporated village or section in which he resides for the then current year and every subsequent year thereafter, while he continues a supporter of the Separate Schools; and such notice shall not be required to be renewed annually; and it shall be the duty of the Trustees of every Separate School to transmit to the clerk of the municipalities (as the case may be) on or before the first day of June in each year a correct list of names and residences of all persons supporting the separate schools under their arrangement; and every ratepayer whose name shall not appear on such list shall be rated for the support of common schools." What was the effect of that? Practically that the payer of the taxes decides to what institution he shall pay his taxes. That was the law since confederation down to 1877. It was not necessary for a Roman Catholic to fyle his declaration each year with the municipal Clerk that he wished to support the Separate Schools; for the Act stipulated that when once rated as a Roman Catholic such rating should remain the same until further notice was given, and unless given before the second Wednesday in January he would be held to support Separate schools for the ensuing year. It did not require renewal every year. Thus Mr. Ross' talk of the "endless confusion" in filing declarations was clearly all nonsense. In 1877 the first amendment was made. Under this the assessors were required to distinguish between Roman Catholics and Protestants. For some reason this was not found satisfactory. In 1879 the assessors were compelled to accept the statements of any person as to the question of a man's religion, and on this information they must enter him as a Separate or public school supporter accordingly. The simple meaning of that section was that a Roman Catholic was made a supporter of the Separate schools unless he gave the notice required to be given before the second Wednesday in January. Our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens should look into this law as well as Protestants. The amendments referred to by Mr. Bertram regarding assessment had caused considerable dispute. Originally it stood that whoever paid the taxes should say where it is to go, but as it now stands the religion of the Roman Catholic tenant determined where the taxes shall go even if the landlord pay the taxes. Mr. Bertram's fiends in Toronto had so piled clause upon clause of amendments to the Act that it was hard to understand it In the case of the Protestant tenant of Roman Catholic property, his religion did not decide where the taxes should go. The landlord might direct that the taxes be paid to the Seperate Schools, and it was right that he should. But if it was right in one case should it not be right in another. That was the question! Mr. Ross pretended to say that in the case of a Roman Catholic tenant leaving before the taxes were due, he being assessed for the property, that a landlord, if a Protestant could pay the taxes to the public school fund. He would like to be shown how this was to be accomplished? He had a case representing the situation. A Protestant landlord had a Catholic tenant who left before the taxes were due. The landlord went to pay the taxes and asked Mr. Cummings that the school tax go in support of the public schools. Mr. Cummings, who has no power to make this change told him he could not comply with his request. If he refused to pay his taxes what was Mr. Cummings to do? Would he hunt up and down the country to find out how he could make the change? No; he hadn't time to do that. If the taxes weren't paid the man's property would be sold. This whole question had been discussed a great deal lately, and the provisions of the Act had been interpreted in various ways. What was wanted was that the payer of the taxes, either Protestant or Roman Catholic, whether landlord or tenant, should be allowed to pay their taxes to the Separate schools or the Public schools as they wished. (Applause.) He was willing to give his Roman Catholic constituents every reasonable legislation so long as it was not unduly unfair to his fellow Protestants. He was willing to deal with Roman Catholics and Protestants as between man and man, but in all honesty he would not vote for a law in the interest of any particular class. In 1884 a bill was introduced authorizing separate school trustees and municipal councils to enter into an agreemant for an unlimited term of years, whereby instead of levying two rates, one rate should be levied for school purposes, and a fixed portion of the sum thus raised to be paid over to the separate schools as their share. He would like to know how his separate school friends would like to have a measure passed authorizing the Town Council of Peterborough to make an agreement of that kind with the public school trustees, which agreement might be of such a character as to give to the separate schools a portion much less than the amount actually paid by their supporters. He objected to the measure, and the result was that it was so amended as to provide that the council entering into such an agreement must be at least 33-5 Protestant and more important still, that any such agreement might be terminated on six months notice by either party. In reference to the Roman Catholic on the High School Board the reasons given by Mr. Ross here were not the reasons given in the House. Mr. Ross said here that it was to encourage a closer union between the Separate Schools and the High Schools. In the House it was said that it was because the Municipal Councils were so bigoted that they would not appoint a Roman Catholic. Mr. Frazer gave that as a reason. Well he was quite willing to allow the Roman Catholics representaion of the High School Board so that they might see fully what was going on. Though he did not like the principle, yet when Mr. Frazer stated that not a Roman Catholic in Ontario sat on a High School Board he thought it only right that they should when they were taxed to support it, and he not oppose the measure. He would be sorry to see any man's faith preventing him from filling a position which he was entitled to fill. He would ask his fellow citizens—Protestant and Roman Catholic alike—where they are standing at the present time? It was better to speak honestly and squarely, and not to go whispering here with one story and another there. (Applause.) He was not in favour of legislating for Roman Catholics, Methodists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, or any other body especially, but was prepared to do justice by all as Canadians. (Applause.) He was not here to ride any Protestant horse, but he would ask his Roman Catholic fellow-citizens if he were would he be to blame? In 1871 the Irish League was formed for a political purpose. Suppose the Presbyterians were to form a league how would the other bodies view the action. The head of the Roman Catholic Church in this Province, in declaring that if Meredith Government came into power the Roman Catholics might as well leave the country; had done an injustice to the Conservative party. We want to live here in this Canada as Canadians, worshipping God as our conscience dictates. (Applause). He would oppose any injustice to Roman Catholics, but as a Protestant, if any legislation was introduced to the detriment of Protestants, then perish this hand before he would take part in it.

Mr. Carnegie resumed his seat amid loud applause and cheers.

The meeting closed at a quarter to 12 o'clock in the usual loyal manner.

MR. BLAKE'S IMITATORS.

THE Woodstock Sentinel-Review, a Reform journal and one that has circulated the slanders against the Macdonald Administration and Conservative journals of dishonest jobbery as to public printing, has been proved to have fleeced its municipality in a most extortunate manner. It has been shown to have charged for municipal work at a rate far higher than those charged by the Hamilton Spectator for Government printing. Finding itself in a dilemma. it publishes the following explanations.:—

"We quoted from some source the amount of profit that the Spectator made out of the government. We did not take the trouble to see whether the amount was correct or not. And, in the language of Mr. Blake, permit us to say, that we do not greatly care. To this extent we withdraw this one statement that appeared in our columns."

Here we have, plainly avowed, a sample of the vile system of slander by which the Reformers hope to discredit the Conservative statesmen, who being entrusted by the people of Canada with the administration of their affairs, have performed their duty in the most satisfactory manner. Some Reform journal starts a vile caulmny in reference to Conservatives; then all the little Reform journals echo and re-echo it one after the other throughout the country, without the slightest effort to test its accuracy. Our contemporary quoted from "some source" the falsehoods it circulated. It did not "take the trouble to see" whether it was inaccurate. This is the morality of these Reform journals; they cannot take the trouble to be honest, but they can take the trouble to hunt up and circulate each others slanders, and they can take the trouble to shut their eyes to the palpable falsehood of most of the falsifications they thus circulate.

But the Sentinel-Review goes even further than this. It has been shown on its own confession, to have acted the part of a scoundrel, by bearing false witness against its neighbor without any foundation or even any belief. And then it proceeds to say that it "does not great care "whether it was speaking truly or falsely. In doing so it quotes the language, as it boastfully remarks, of its leader Mr. Blake, who is equally careless whether he is a slanderer or not, whether he is speaking truth or falsehood when his diseased ambition and lust of power impel him to spit venom at any political opponent.

Was there ever before a faction so degraded as to have a leader and a press that make a business of circulating slanders without taking the trouble to ascertain their falsehood—that do not greatly care whether they act like honest men or as lying rogues.

A RING

Presented to Miss Johnston on her Retirement from Teaching.

On Wednesday afternoon a happy occurrence took place in one of the rooms of the Central School Building. The teachers at that school came together at half past three o'clock and presented Miss Johnston with a beautiful gold ring together with the following address:—

DEAR MISS JOHNSTON,—A short time ago we learnt, with deep regret, that you had decided to give up the profession of teaching (in which for the past six years you have been so earnestly and successfully engaged), and consequently, as such, sever your connection with us.

You have by your amiable disposition, respectful bearing, and kindness, won the affection both of your associate teachers and the pupils committed to your charge.

We, therefore, kindly ask you to accept this ring as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held by us.

We assure you that in whatever sphere you may hereafter move, we sincerely hope that coming years hold naught but happiness for you.

Signed on behalf of the teachers and pupils of the Peterborough Public Schools,

WM. SMITH, MAY A. NICHOLLS, } P.P.S.T.

RALPH STONE, ANNIE HALL, } Pupils.

Nov. 30, 1886.

MISS JOHNSTON replied as follows:—

DEAR FELLOW-TEACHERS AND SCHOLARS,—It is with mingled feelings of pleasure and sorrow I meet you on this occasion. It is a pleasure to me, at the close of my teaching career, to know I have won the confidence of my associates in the work, and also the affection of my pupils. My heart is filled with sorrow that the tie which has hitherto bound us must now be severed.

Accept my sincere thanks for this token of friendship, which will in future be the means of recalling the many happy hours passed in your midst.

Dear scholars, improve the golden opportunities of your youth; be honest, be truthful. My earnest prayer will ever be that you may indeed be children of our Heavenly Father, and when our life is ended here we may meet in the "better land."

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

ENGLAND'S POSITION.

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—Major Otto Wachs, a German military officer, is about to publish a brochure on England's position among the nations of the world, with special reference to her relations with Russia. The publication will be a friendly criticism from military and political points of view. Major Wachs' previous brochures on the Channel tunnel question and on the Egyptian campaign were well received in England.

ABERDEEN ON HOME RULE.

GLASGOW, Nov. 30.—The Earl of Aberdeen, in a speech last evening, said that Home Rule for Ireland was certainly not the millennium, but still it was the solution of a great problem. He said that mistakes might be made by friends of Home Rule or by its opponents, but no mistake could be greater than that made by the last British Parliament.

POLITICAL RIELITES.

encouraged open revolt. Unfortunately for themselves, they had a designing and unscrupulous men on whom to pick as a leader, who by means of the relationship he bore them, and from the fact that he was their leader in the Red River rebellion, was able to weild them at his will. Not only this, but see written record shows—and it is but a page to the unwritten record—that there were English speaking men in the community who, from pecuniary or political moeives, aided and abetted Reil in defying the Government. They knew perfectly well that the Metis would, sooner or later, be defeated. But their object was to bring money into the country and rise the financial siege, and at the same time to have an excuse to hound the Government out of powder. What did they care if all the Metis perished so long as they escapde and where able to collect damages from the Govarnment besides?—Prince Albert Times.

CANADA'S CHIEFTAIN

THE RT. HON. SIR JOHN MACDONALD AND HIS COLLEAGUES ARRIVE.

An Enthusiastic Reception Tendered Them by the People of Town and County—This Evening's Programme.

At a quarter to twelve o'clock to-day Sir John Macdonald, Premier of Canada, accompanied by the Hon. Thos. White, Minister of the Interior, the Hon. J. S. D. Thompson, Minister of Justice, and the Hon. G. E. Foster, Minister of Marine, arrived in town by the Grand Trunk Railway.

Notwithstanding the cold and windy weather there was an immense gathering at the station to welcome them. As the train rolled up the 57th Battalion Band played suitable music. Messrs. J. Burnham, M.P., Geo. Hilliard, M.P., J. Carnegie, M.P.P., and Mayor Stevenson, entered the parlor car to welcome them. Sir John's appearance was the signal for loud cheering. He stood on the car platform and acknowledged the people's sentiments in his usual affable way.

The distinguished visitors were then conducted to carriages, Sir John's carriage being drawn by two pairs of handsome iron grays.

The people from both town and county formed into a procession and marched after the carriages.

George street looked particularly gay. The sidewalds on each side were lined with people. Over head numerous banners, flags, and festoons streched from side to side, bunting of different colors hanging from many of the stores, gave the street a holiday appearance.

Arriving at the Oriental Hotel the Chieftain was again greeted with loud cheers. After lunch a reception was held in the parlor, when Sir John met many of his old friends of this district and made new acquaintances.

At half past two o'clock the meeting in Bradburn's Opera House was opened. The place was packed to the doors. As we go to press the speaking is in progress.

This evening Sir John and his colleagues will dine with Mayor Stevenson. The Hon. J. A. Chapleau, Secretary of State, will join them, arriving by the Canadian Pacific Railway at 6.42 this evening. He will be met by the 57th battalion band, and a torchlight procession will conduct him to the Mayor's residence. This evening the Hon. Mr. Chapleau will address a meeting in the old Music Hall in the French language. Afterwards the Premier and all the visiting Ministers will be entertained at a banquet given in the Oriental Hotel.

Sir John and others will speak in the Opera House this evening, commencing at 8 o'clock.

THE CASE AGAINST DILLON.

Greeted with Tremendous Cheering on Entering Court.

DUBLIN, Nov. 30.—The case of the Government against John Dillon came up for hearing to-day before the Court of Queen's Bench. Mr. Dillon appeared, accompanied by Lord Mayor Sullivan, and Messrs. Healy and Sexton. Great crowds surrounded the building and the court room and corridors were packed. Mr. Dillon was greeted with tremendous cheering by the people when he arrived, and his passage into court was amid enthusiastic applause. Mr. Healy, on behalf of Mr. Dillon, applied for an adjournment of the hearing. He said he had only been instructed as to the nature of the Crown's complaint last night, and as the Crown's affidavits were exceedingly voluminous, the defence would require time to properly study them. Counsel for the Government made no opposition to Mr. Healy's request, and the hearing was adjourned until December 11.

He did not fear that the Church would lose its moral influence over the people. The movement was imperative to establish a rent-fixing tribunal, which would be independent of landlord and tenant alike. Social order in Ireland depended upon the success of this movement.

THE FASTING CRANK.

PARIS, Dec. 1.—Succi's last meal before he began his fast last evening consisted of oysters steak, sole, wine and coffee, followed by a cigar. Succi undertakes to drink aerated waters only, his body to be rubbed with oil as often as he likes. He drinks daily his mysterious liqueur which he refuses to allow to be analyzed. He will take on the 20th day a vial of another liqueur which he will allow to be analyzed. The latter, he says, is rank poison, to which the secret liqueur is an antidote. Half of the gate money goes to relieve the sufferers by the recent floods.

RESULT OF SUPERSTITION.

PARIS, Dec. 1.—Another murder, resulting from superstition, has been brought to light in Brittany. A widow and her two sons and daughters having been told that an elder sister was possessed of devils set upon her and atrociously tortured her to death by piercing her body all over with a sharp instrument, the mother and one sister meanwhile praying beside the victim to exercise the devil. When arrested they behave like maniacs. They were all sent to the asylum.

DISTURBANCE IN CORK.

CORK, Dec. 1.—The disturbance here this evening was caused by the police trying to disperse a meeting held in honor of Hurley, who had arrived here to-day, to be tried for having explosives in his possession and for resisting eviction. The police threatened to arrest Mr. O'Connor and a scuffle ensued, during which Mr. Tanner was knocked down. The latter sustained a scalp wound and was taken to an infirmary. Mr. O'Connor was not arrested.

KERRY LANDLORDS FURIOUS.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The Daily News says:—"The Kerry landlords are evidently furious at General Buller's appointment as under secretary for Ireland, but dare not speak out. The practice of sending forward impartial Englishmen to responsible posts in Ireland cannot be too highly commended."

THE MAIL CONTRACT.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Postmaster-General Raikes, speaking at Alnwick last night said he thought that the over abundance of American goods saleable in the English market and the standstill in the English trade with America were largely due to America's facility of frequent mails to England. The late Government, he continued, determined to remedy the defect in our mail service, and gave notice that it would conclude contracts. When the present Government came into office it decided to obtain the same frequent sending of mails as America enjoyed. It has become the duty of the Government, however painful, to consider the interests of the country before those of any particular body desiring a monopoly. The present arrangement effects a saving of £25,000 yearly, and provides an efficient regular service. I believe the country will accord hearty support thereto. At the same time we will be only too glad to utilize the services of the Cunard and White Star lines, provided those services can be reconcilied with the paramount interests of the country.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d99

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1886.

OUR COUNTRY'S STATESMEN.

THE visit to Peterborough of the foremost man in Canada, the Right Honorable Sir John Macdonald, the Premier of the Dominion, with some of his colleagues in the Administration will be hailed with satisfaction by our patriotic and loyal people. We will not on this occasion speak of Sir John as the leader of the Conservative party, highly as his services are valued in that capacity, for there are very many, even among those who do not altogether agree with him on political questions, by whom credit is given to him for his long and zealous services to his country. In him all must see the statesman under whose auspices at the head of our affairs our grand Dominion was formed. Under his administration provinces and territories have been added one after the other, have been added to what was formerly known as Canada, they have all been linked together from ocean to ocean by that great thoroughfare whose construction has excited the admiration of the civilized world, while a truly national policy has aided further to weld them together and promote their growth and prosperity. Without referring to debatable subjects these are achievements of which, as a people, we may well be proud, and even if it has been "a soldiers' battle," few will begrudge the Chief his full share of the glory.

Among his colleagues comes one who is no stranger to Peterborough. His youth and early manhood having been spent in our fair town, its citizens have watched with interest the progress of the Hon. Thomas White, and have felt a pride in his abilities and his success.

The other Ministers who are honoring us with a visit, if they come as personal strangers, are known to us by fame and will receive a cordial welcome. The very fact that they come from sister provinces will remind us that we are all the people of one great Dominion, of one united country with common interests and common hopes, the realization of which no true Canadian will endanger by sectional feelings. United and loyal we have a magnificent future before us.

In the name of the people of Peterborough we tender a cordial welcome to our distinguished visitors.

THE BRIBERY CONSPIRACY.

We certainly did not expect to hear public reference made by any friend of Mr. Mowat to the disgraceful conspiracy of Mr. Mowat, his colleagues and tools, to seduce men to give and take bribes in order that a planned exposure might save the tottering Administration. So signal, so disastrous had been the failure of their plot, that they did not dare to bring the matter before the House, and all mention of it by them and their friends has been very prudently dropped, except an occasional reference by some exceptionally rash and unscrupulous advocate.

But as the matter has again been made the subject of comment on a public platform in this contest it may be well to repeat the facts briefly. They are as follows:

A Mr. Kirkland, a citizen of the United States, bought some land near the international boundary, and close to some limits of his own across the line. He evidently thought that, as in the States, his purchase would include the timber, to acquire which was his only object. When he found his mistake, and that the timber on his land had been handed over to some political friends of the Administration, he felt aggrieved and far from disposed to acquiesce in silence. Again trusting to his experience in his own country he thought to gain his end by "lobbying," and his opinion of the corruptibility of the members was borne out as regards a disreputable little knot of Mr. Mowat's supporters. He succeeded by promises, by treating, and by various arts of that nature in obtaining the aid of some of these men. At this stage Mr. Wilkinson came to Toronto and learned what was going on. He had a personal antipathy for outweighing any political antagonism to Mr. Mowat and his friends, on account of the manner in which he had been hounded by them for years in vengeance for his exposure of the corruption of prominent Reformers. The very name they shamelessly gave him of "Big Push" referred to the formation, exposed by him, of a gigantic scheme of bribery in which some Reform senators were implicated. He thought he could utilize Mr Kirkland's efforts to get his timber reserve to aid him in an efforts to overturn the Ministry. So he joined in the attempt to gain over Mr. Mowat's loose fish. One of these either thinking he could make a better sale of himself to the Government, or fearing that some other of the gang might anticipate him in the double treachery, confessed his dealings. Then there was a regular stampede. Messrs. Hardy, Fraser and Pardee, with the sanction of Mr. Mowat, then started a disgraceful plot to strengthen themselves. They employed three or four of their most disreputable supporters to act as decoys and solicit bribes. A wild scheme of Mr. Bunting's to bring about a coalition was also to be connected, by means of trapping him if it could be done, or if not, by perjury, with the Kirkland and Wilkinson operations, so as to give some color for a false charge against the Conservative leaders. As, however, in spite of McKim's tears and Dowling's entreaties no money was forthcoming the Mowat plot hung fire, for no committee, no jury could be expected to believe the McKims and Dowlings. Then the plotters, with at least the partial knowledge of Mr. Mowat, ventured on a bold stroke. They sent one of their creatures to supply the money to Mr. Wilkinson, sent their decoys to beg for it, and then sprang their trap. Their emissary was spirited out of the way, a theatrical exposure was made in the House, investigations and trials were started, the plotters and their decoys gave their evidence, which a jury found to be utterly unworthy of belief. Judges and prosecuting counsel scouted the idea of any complicity, as had been insinuated, on the part of the Conservative leaders either at Toronto or Ottawa. The Mowat plot had failed.

How is all this substantiated? For the facts of the plot to invite bribery and to manufacture evidence of complicity we have the testimony of the decoys and their Ministerial employers, for, though the jury found their sworn evidence unworthy of belief, their admissions as against themselves cannot be disputed. As to the manner of supplying the funds, that rests upon circumstantial, but very convincing, evidence. Kirkland's partners in his lumbering operations refused to supply funds. Wilkinson had absolutely no resources. McKim was crying, Dowling was clamouring, Balfour was offering to sell himself for money, but no money was forthcoming. To have it discovered it had to be supplied by the Administration. So a stranger appeared on the scene, a man who was know to none, with one exception; a man who came none knew whence, with one exception; a man who disappeared mysteriously as he had come, none knew whither, probably with the same exception. He had handed the money to Wilkinson, the decoys, posted by their employers, were there ready to receive it, the county attorney, who had prepared his papers in advance, was ready in waiting close by, the detective, who had been notified in advance, pounced upon Kirkland and Wilkinson, but not upon the bearer of the Government funds. Oh, no; it was so planned that, his work being done, he should disappear.

And who was the exception to the dense ignorance regarding this agent? There is evidence that Mr. Mowat knew all about him, and Mr. Mowat alone. In his place in the House Mr. Mowat confessed that he knew him, he knew his name, Lynch—he knew where he came from, the States—who can doubt that Mr. Mowat also knew that his dirty work done, he was sent back to the States. Like that other Reform agent in Lennox, he was imported, did his corrupt work, and was then shipped off again.

An attempt was made to identify this agent of Mr. Mowat's intimacy with Mr. Stimson, but this was evidently an impudent falsehood. A poor photograph, said, but without any attempt at proof, to be Stimson's, was shown, and some of the witnesses thought it was like Mowat's friend Lynch. But great anxiety had been pretended to have the evidence of Mr. John Shields, because he could identify Stimson. Well, Mr. Shields was in court, and the conspirators did not dare to let their counsel call him, because he could prove the falsehood of their charge against Stimson The bearer of the money was Lynch, a man known solely to Mr. Mowat, who had a good right to know his agent. Probably he was well paid for that little job. The other minor conspirators are getting their rewards. Dowling was rewarded by a little clause over-riding the judges, condemnation of his corruption—a clause drawn by the Premier with his own hand, while he uttered the falsehood to the House that he disapproved of it. McKim is not now a candidate, as he is waiting till the election is over to receive his promised wages. And so with the others.

As to the leading conspirators, they diverted attention from their misdeeds for the time, but it was at the cost of being disgraced. Their plot against the Conservative leaders was a miserable failure.

THE LUDGATE LIMIT.

As the late Mr. John Ludgate cannot now defend himself there is all the more reason that full justice should be done to his memory. In the matter of the timber limit granted to him not long before his death Mr. Ludgate did nothing in the least unbefitting a strictly honorable man. He felt convinced that he had been treated unfairly by the Mowat Administration and that he had a just claim against them. When they made him what he considered a restitution he would have been more than human if he refused to accept it, because the motive for the act would not stand scrutiny. We cannot think that those are equally honorable who declared that they would stump the country against Mr. Mowat because he gave the Registership to Mr. Morrow instead of Mr. Ludgate, but who have been bought back to Mr. Mowat by the grant of this timber limit to Mr. Ludgate. And as to Mr. Mowat there cannot be a shadow of doubt that his conduct was distinctly dishonorable. Either Mr. Ludgate's claim was a just one, and then Mr Mowat wronged him of valuable property and kept him out of it for years to his very serious inconvenience, or Mr. Ludgate's claim was not justified and then Mr. Mowat misappropriated the property of the people of Ontario to the value of $14,000, on the pretence of making restitution, but in reality for the purpose of purchasing back the support of those of of Mr. Ludgate's friends who were aggrieved at the manner in which Mr. Mowat had bestowed his public patronage. Mr. Mowat may choose which horn of the dilemma he likes; on neither supposition was his conduct that of an honest man.

THE CENTURY

For 1886-87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, in the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES.

which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettysburg will be described by Gen. Hunt, Chief of the Union Artillery, Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chickamauga, by Gen. D. H. Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Generals Howard and Slocum. Generals Q. A. Gillmore, Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter, and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, etc., etc., will appear

NOVELS AND STORIES

"The hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelettes by Geo. W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorn, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year

WORSHIPING GOD.

NOTES ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON BY DR. JOHN HALL.

Lesson X of the International Series for Sunday, Dec. 5—Golden Text, Revelations v. 13—Lesson Text, Revelations v. 1-14.

The truth set forth in this chapter is of world wide and everlasting interest. To understand the need of revealing it the following facts must be recalled: John wrote this book when persecution was employed to put down Christianity. He was a victim himself (Rev. i, 9). Others were in danger or in actual suffering. Christ's name was hated by many. His cause was threatened. "Is it of any use to hold out?" So men might be tempted to think. The cause appeared hopeless. No; this revelation shows that the name so hated and dishonored will yet be universally praised. His is not a "lost cause," but a cause which it is God's will to make triumphant and honored forever.

V. 1. The "throne" has already been described in Rev. iv, 2-3. It is heaven. It represents supreme and sovereign power—that power which Jesus in his humiliation always acknowledged. (See for a parallel case Isa. vi, 1). The "throne" and some of its surroundings we find in the first chapter of Ezekiel. There we have the "living creatures" (v. 5), a happier rendering than "beasts." He who "sat on the throne" is described in Rev. iv, 2-3, and the "book" is also found in Ezek. ii, 9-10. When it is said to be written within and on the back side it reveals the fact that "books" were not then "bound," but consisted of long rolls of parchment commonly written on one side. This was written on both sides. The book represents the divine will, the decree of God. They are not known to men; see this illustrated in Acts i, 7. So Daniel is told to "shut up the words and seal the book" (Dan. xii, 4). This is the meaning of "sealed." Who can unseal, open and carry out the mind of God?

V. 2. This is the question which the "strong angel" puts, that the meaning may be clear and emphatic. It is a picture lesson for the race and for angels. "Who is worthy?" It is not a question of power only, but of worth, fitness, goodness.

V. 3. None can be found among the creatures, angels or men. This idea of creature-helplessness is set out in Isa. lxiii, 5. For saving man there was none; so God's "righteous servant," his Son, "brought salvation," and his zeal ("fury") upheld him.

V. 4. The apostle wept much. A spiritual instinct in him led to this sense of helplessness. The case seemed desperate. So Daniel was "grieved" (Dan. vii, 15-16.)

V. 5. One of the "elders," named in Rev. iv, 4, answers. There were twenty-four of these, probably from the "divisions of the sons of Aaron" in I Chron. xxiv, 1, 4-5, where sixteen and eight are named as "governors of the sanctuary and of the house." The conceptions of heaven to a Hebrew mind come from the Old Testament. (Perhaps the temple arrangements are images of the heavenly.) He gave comfort by announcing that one would open the book. The description is also twofold, also from the Old Testament: (1) "Lion of Juda" (Gen. xlix, 9-10 compared with Heb. vii, 14), and (2) "the root of David," as Isa. xi, 1-10. He prevails, as in Jer. l, 34. On the propriety of this description we have only to recall Christ's words, "All power is given unto me," etc.

V. 6. The apostle now sees more than he noticed before. On the same level, in the same place of dignity with him who sat upon the throne and who held the book "in the midst of the throne," etc., stood a Lamb (see the Baptist's words, "Behold the Lamb of God" (John i, 29)), with the marks of having been "slain." (See John xx, 25.) The slaying submitted to, the dying, made the Lamb "worthy," fit to "open the book.") See for full and plain statement of this truth Phil. ii, 6-9, ending—after the statement of his humiliation—with "Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him." It was never meant that pictures should be made of the Lamb. The symbols are taken regardless of art. The "horn" represents power, the "seven" the perfection of it; the "eyes" insight, wisdom and the perfection of it is also shown by the "seven." So the explanation is given, "which are the seven Spirits of God." Jesus had all knowledge when on earth (see John ii, 24-25), and "in him are hid all the treasures of wisdom."

V. 7 needs no explanation. John sees the Lamb in the vision coming and taking the book out of the hand of him that sat on the throne, i. e., as we see by

Vs. 8, 9, undertaking to open it and loose its seals, and unfold and carry out in the creation the will of God. This is matter of praise to God from the four living creatures and the four and twenty elders, who—as Aaron's sons represented the people (see I Chron. xxiv, 1)—represent the church, the true Israel of God, the incense representing "the prayers of saints" (not in heaven, but on the earth), says the apostle. From this representative body goes up a song of praise to the Lamb, and it is to be noted as confirming the view given above that they say, "redeemed us." Angels could not say this. Note also that it is not by holy example or matchless teaching or noble life, but by his "own blood" the redemption is effected. See on this vital matter Eph. i, 7; I Pet. i, 17-18. The wide range of the redemption is brought out in the words, "out of every kindred," etc.—not from Jews only. This hymn is again heard from the body itself represented in Rev. vii, 9-10, 14. Notice also the strong statement, "Worthy to * * * for thou wast slain." The kingship of Christ is made fitting by his work as a priest.

V. 10. Here we have in another form the prophecy of Dan. vii, 18, 27. In Rev. iii, 21, we see how saints are kings. The idea is of greatness, dignity, glory of surroundings. The language probably comes from God's word to Israel in Ex. xix, 6: "Ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests and a holy nation." What Israel was in type we have in reality in the glorified church of Christ. They "reign on the earth." "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth." (Matt. v, 5.) So it is also in Ps. xxxvii, 9.

V. 11. The company of angels, numbered as in Ps. lxviii, 17, and in Dan. vii, 10, "approve the song." They do not say, as in v. 9, "redeemed us." They did not need redemption. But they "look into" His work, magnify Him on account of it, and say in full view of His having been "slain"

(V. 12), "Worthy is the Lamb," etc. Men may reject Him and His redemption; angels adore Him in view of it

(V. 13), nor they only, for "every creature," etc., joins in the praise. It is the setting forth of the truth in Phil. ii, 11. In the same book, I Chron. xxix, 11-13, where the "four and twenty elders" are foreshadowed, we have the substance and words of this song of praise. God the Lord is not set aside by the Lamb, but the Lamb is joined with him. And the "four living creatures"

(V. 14) say "Amen," and the elders fall down and worship as we are called to do in Ps. cl, 1-6, which has here its complete and glorious fulfillment.

The following points deserve emphasis as we part from this glorious lesson.

(1) The church below and the church above make one complete whole. Here we are a poor, imperfect part of what will be in heaven complete and glorious. Here or there "we are the Lord's."

(2) Christ's atonement cannot be made too much of in class and pulpit. We see how it is rated in heaven.

(3) We see how Christ is head over all. He knows and does the Father's will. All power is His for the carrying out of the divine will. He reigns as mediator because He died for us.

(4) No saint need despond over drawbacks and discouragements in Christ's service. He will triumph in the end.

(5) There is a real place for missions. Let us teach men that Jesus, and not their idols, is worthy to receive blessings and glory and praise.

GENERAL,

Hundreds of letters from those using Ayer's Hair Vigor attest its value as a restorer of gray hair to its natural color. As a stimulant and tonic, preventing and curing baldness, and cleansing the scalp, its use cannot be too strongly commended.

The remains of James Phillips, of Picton, were stolen from the grave last week the day after they were buried.

During last week over one hundred thousand bushels of potatoes were shipped from the little port of Montague, on Prince Edward Island.

As a purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla acts directly and promptly. A single bottle will prove its merits. Many thousands of people are yearly saved from dangerous fevers by the exercise of a little timely care in cleansing the system by the use of this remedy.

Mothers! Mothers!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

OVER WORKED Women

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guarantee. See wrapper around bottle. Price $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00. A large treatise on Diseases of Women, profusely illustrated with colored plates and numerous wood-cuts, sent for 10 cents in stamps. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

SICK HEADACHE, Bilious Headache, and Constipation, promptly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pellets. 25c. a vial, by druggists.

Forewarned

of danger by the condition of your blood, as shown in pimples, blotches, boils, or discolorations of the skin; or by a feeling of languor, induced, perhaps, by inactivity of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, you should take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will renew and invigorate your blood, and cause the vital organs to properly perform their functions. If you suffer from Rheumatism,

or Neuralgia, a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla will relieve and cure you. Alice Kendall, 218 Tremont st., Boston, Mass., writes: "I have been troubled with Neuralgia, pain in the side, and weakness, and have found greater relief from Ayer's Sarsaparilla than from any other remedy." J. C. Tolman, 336 Merrimack st., Lowell, Mass., writes: "In no other remedy have I ever found such a happy relief from Rheumatism as in with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, there need be no fear of Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Catarrh, Liver troubles, or any of the diseases arising from Scrofulous taints in the blood. Geo. Garwood, Big Springs, Ohio, writes: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been used in my family for a number of years. I was a constant sufferer from but Ayer's Sarsaparilla effected a permanent cure. Seven years ago my wife was troubled with Goitre: two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured her, and she has never had any return of the disease. I regard this preparation as the best medicine in use for the blood." B. Barnard Wair, 75 Adams st., Lynn, Mass., writes: "For many years I suffered terribly from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Scrofula. Almost hopeless, I took Ayer's Sar-

Forearmed

Dyspepsia,

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

for young people is what the papers call St. Nicholas. Do you know about it,—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St. Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to-day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenant Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3 00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautifully illustrated catalogue (free) containing full prospectus, etc., etc. THE CENTURY CO., New York.

The Wrong Man.

The police, it seems, arrested the wrong man when they got Douglass Cahoon and charged him with larceny. No evidence was brought against him and he was accordingly dismissed. He says that his name is Douglass Cahoon, not Douglass Armstrong Cahoon. He never worked in Smith. In 1882, when he was said to be working in Smith, he was working for Mr. Metis, a short distance back of Port Hope.

Voters' List Revision.

A Court was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday and Wednesday, Judge Weller presiding, for the purpose of revising the voters' list of the town for Provincial election purposes. Application were made by the Reformers to put on 193 names, and of these 98 were added. The Conservatives applied to add 143 names, and of these 123 were put on. Nine names on the printed lists were struck off on the application of Conservatives. This makes the apparent gain at this Court 34 in favor of the Conservatives.

St. Andrew's Nicht.

Quite a gathering of Scotchmen celebrated St. Andrew's Day in the old fashioned manner by dining together at Morgan's Hotel on Tuesday evening. Mr. Thos. Menzies occupied the chair. The supper prepared was one which added to mine host Morgan's reputation as a carterer. The Scotchmen did ample justice to it, after which the usual loyal toasts were drunk and the evening given up to song and story recalling the days of "Old Lang Syne."

POLICE COURT.

LARCENY.

THURSDAY, Dec. 2.—Janas Curren a former laborer on the Burleigh Works, was charged by Charles Stone, with having stolen $78 from him. From the evidence given by the plaintiff it appeared that he had given Curren a ride from Peterborough to Lakefield. They stopped at a hotel and occupied a double bed-room, each taking a seperate bed. In the morning Stone missed his money, amounting to $78. Curren was followed to Peterborough and was arrested on Wednesday evening. He had purchased a ticket to Halifax. The case was adjourned till to-morrow,

"HERE'S TO NUMBER TWO."

Capt. Langford Entertains his Men at a Social Supper.

On Wednesday evening No. 2 Company of the City Battalion assembled in the drill shed at half past eight o'clock. As one of the first qualities of a good soldier is a good appetite, Capt. Langford wished to see how far his men possessed this accomplishment The march was made to J. J. Daly's restaurant where a rigid examination took place. Though many professed to have never underwent such a trial before, all stood the test like true veterans.

In the cosy dining room the table was lined at each side by red coats, while Capt. Langford and Lieut. Lee occupied the chair and vice chair respectively. After the viands had to a large extent disappeared Capt. Langford proposed the toast "The Queen," which all drank in cold water and then sang "God Save the Queen."

The Dawson Bros. and Green then sang a quartette, "The Buccaneer's Bride."

Lieut. LEE proposed "Our Guests," coupling the names of Lieut.-Col. Rogers and Quarter-Master Miller.

Col. ROGERS was pleased to see such good feeling among the men of No. 2 and hoped it would continue. Fraternity among the members of a company always did good to the battalion. (Applause.) He urged them to keep up their interest in No. 2, and he was sure if they did they would have a company second to none in Canada. (Hear, hear.)

Quarter-Master MILLAR said that he was an old member of No. 2. He was a member of that company when they did guard duty on the streets of Peterborough in 1866, and also along the frontier. Capt. Langford and himself were the only two old members here to-night. He could tell them that No. 2 has always been No. 1. (Laughter and applause.) When the appearance of No. 2 was such as to call forth favorable remarks from the Deputy Adjutant General he thought the members should be proud of it.

The company sang a chorus.

Sergt. DISTIN propbsed "Capt. Langford and Lieut. Lee," and the company showed their appreciation of the toast by singing "For they are jolly good fellows."

Capt. LANGFORD said he belonged to the company before many here were born. In the old times they were strict as to the height of the men allowed in the company. In the old hall they had a mark on the wall, and if a man didn't come up to the mark he couldn't get in. (Laughter.) Well, he was bound to get in. He tried to grow up to it for a year, but finally he resorted to borrowing a pair of high-heeled boots. (Laughter and applause.) He rose from the ranks by degrees till he became Captain of No. 2, an honor which he highly esteemed.

Lieut. LEE said that his first experience in soldiering was in 1867 and that little experience he liked very well. His first office was Orderly Room Clerk, then Paymaster's Clerk. In 1871 he passed his examination and obtained his certificate under the 60th Royal Rifles then stationed in Toronto. After he rose to the rank of 2nd Lieutenant and after several years he was promoted to his present position.

The Vice Chair proposed "The Ladies" to which Privates Henderson, Dawson, Turner and Thompson replied in lengthy speeches.

Sergt. ROBINSON proposed the "Army, Navy and Volunteers," which was drunk with enthusiasm, and "Rule Britania" was sung.

"The Press" was duly responded to and the "Host and Hostess" was also toasted.

After singing "God Save the Queen" the proceedings ended.

A LOT of Damask Table Cloths, slightly imperfect, cheap. J. ERSKINE.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

By Mr. Cluxton.

The outlook for wheat and flour continues favorable. The markets are steadily gaining strength. I do not look for lower prices until next harvest. I think we shall see higher prices during the winter and spring. The general arming of the great powers looks ominous, and war may, and probably will, break out in the spring. If this should unfortunately occur wheat would come to the front and assert its rights, which the bears in the States have no long deprived it of.

Shipments from India are falling off, For the week ending Nov. 20th there were 400,000 bushels. Previous week 500,000 bus., and week before, 960,000 bus. The advance in the price of silver to 47¼ pence means a rise in India wheat that will stimulate exports of American wheat.

The Mark Lane Express, in its review of the British grain trade, says:—

"Wheat dilliveries (farmers) have continued very restricted. Russia will cease to be an exporter until the opening of navigation in the spring, so that England and France will have to look to America chiefly for their supplies during the winter."

The Bulletin des Halles says:—

"It is evident that France's requirements of foreign wheat will be larger than it was thought a month or two ago, the home grown wheat giving a very short yield of flour."

Which, added to the deficit in production compared with last year, means that a large quantity of foreign wheat will have to be imported. The deficit, according to the Government report, makes it from 40 to 50 millions short of last year.

Seven hundred and fifty thousand bushels of wheat was consumed by fire in two elevators in Duluth last week, and the "visible" supply only increased 10,000 bush The destruction of this wheat caused an advance in the price in the States, as the wheat was sold for May delivery, and "shorts" had to cover their sales in Chicago.

BARLEY.—Barley in the States keeps quite steady in price. In Canada, owing to the close of navigation, the price has fallen off. Indeed, it may be said that barley is "sick," with no hopes of its recovery.

BUTTER—in this vicinity is from 12 to 17½ cents. This appears to be a risky business at 17½ and if buyers get their money back again "it will be more by good luck than good guiding."

CLOVER SEED—is more steady although the price still continues low.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The Queen now intends to pass Christmas on the Isle of Wight. "Convenient."

In another column of this paper you will find a holiday announcement of the arrival of Fresh Groceries, Provisions, &c., at R. H. Green's Grocery and Provision Store, corner Hunter and Aylmer streets. This is a very "convenient" place for families and others living in that part of the town to procure their supplies, and for farmers to do their trading, as Mr. Green deals in almost all kinds of farmers' produce, and sells cheap.

A Word to the Wise.

We are now getting a dip of genuine winter weather—weather that will stand no humbugging whatever—and the predestrain who is unfortunate enough not to be wrapped up in furs knows that it is really cold, with good prospects of still colder weather to follow. This is not at all comfortable—that is to the man who does not wear good warm clothing, and to all such the advice given by A. McNeil is to call at Habilliment Hall and get a sensible winter suit or overcoat.

Acknowledgement.

The Committee of the Peterborough Protestant Home thankfully acknowledge the following donations for November:—Mr. John Fallis, bag of flour; Mr. James Alexander, quilt, etc.; from a friend, parcel of clothing and quilt; Rev. V. Clementi, basket vegetables; Mrs. Aldridge, parcel reading matter; Mr. R. B. McKee, knives and forks; Mrs. James Best, parcel clothing; St. Andrew's social, basket provisions; from two boys named Carlisle, 40 cts.: Mr. Stephen Payne, vegetables; Mrs. Cox, clothing.

The Town List of Voters.

The voters' list for the town, as finally revised by the County Judge, was filed with the Clerk of the Peace at 10 o'clock on Thursday night. This ensures the use of the 1886 list for the town in the elections on the 28th. The Court completed the work on Thursday forenoon, and the Town Clerk, although he had a week to prepare the lists and file them, worked late and early and got them filed on that night. Had he taken the week allowed him by the law the 1885 lists would have been used in the elections and hundreds of voters would have been disfranchised. In this Peterborough has been more fortunate than some other places, where the 1885 list will have to be used on account of the elections having been sprung on the country.

STOCK well assorted in Flannels, Cottons, and usual Staple Goods. J. ERSKINE.

Young Men, Read!

The average young man of the present day is, in a greater or less degree, ambitious. If a man is content to mope his existence out in this busy world without ambition, he is at perfect liberty to do so, but the contrast between himself and the ambitious man, who is filled with push and business energy, will be so great that it will make him feel as insignificant in his own eyes, as he undoubtedly is in the eyes of his fellow-citizens. A man who lacks the essential qualification will always find his path anything but smooth, and the road to prosperity rugged. Young men who are ambitious and careful will get through difficulties that to the careless and indifferent seem insurmountable, and in the end they are better off in every possible manner. Be ambitious, young man; have some end ever before you, which you are determined to attain; always dress neatly, and be sure that you purchase your clothes at the premier gent's furnishing establishment. A. MCNEIL, Habilliment Hall.

THE BULGARIAN QUESTION.

A Conference of the Powers Likely—The Situation Reviewed.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—General Kaulbars arrived at St. Petersburg yesterday and was met by a great crowd and received enthusiastically. The idea is growing that a conference of the powers regarding the Bulgarian question will be resorted to. The Standard says: "Russia is negotiating with Parisian bankers for a loan of 75,000,000 roubles."

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The Tribune has the following from London: A correspondent of the Telegraph says it is as yet uncertain whether he Prince of Mingrelia will rule over Bulgaria. Another candidate, the Duke of Oldenburg, has already been mentioned, and it is thought he would be acceptable to the Bulgarians. Russia will not recede from her refusal to recognize the Sabranje and the Regency. The Porte has endeavoured to mediate between Russia and Bulgaria, with a suggestion that a modification of the Regency should be left to Turkey. The Bulgarians declined the offer, and now there are reports that Turkey intends to occupy Eastern Roumelia, in accordance with Russian views. In Vienna this is regarded as a mere empty threat, and it is not believed Russia would permit the Turks to return to a country from which Russia herself drove them at the cost of a sanguinary war. A Turkish occupation of Eastern Roumelia, undertaken against the will of the Bulgarians, would undoubtedly be the signal for a general conflagration in the Balkan peninsula, fatal in its consequences to the Turkish Empire. The mediation of the Porte is not expected to lead to any practical result. Gadban Effendi, the Turkish Commissioner, expressed the opinion that foreign military intervention would be required to restore order in Bulgaria. It was not apparent until lately that the Sultan was really disposed to play so completely in Russia's hands, nor was it known in London that British influence had lost so much ground at Constantinople since February.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—It is stated that the Czar is about to send Prince Nicholas of Mingrelia to the Sultan to obtain his consent to the nomination of the Prince as Governor of Roumelia, with the object of eventually compelling Bulgaria to accept him as ruler.

LAKEFIELD.

From a Correspondent.

HILLSIDE CEMETERY.—Under the direction of the President of the Company, Mr. J. Percy Strickland, Hillside Cemetery has been drained and fenced and the ground laid out in lots, accessible by good roads and paths, from a plan by Mr. Ranney, C. E. The situation, on rising ground overlooking Lake Katchewanook, adjoining the village limits, is an excellent one, and the natural beauty of the property will be increased next year by a number of trees that it is intended to plant there. Another cemetery on higher ground than either the Lakefield cemetery or the old C of E. burial ground, which is now closed was required here, and the Hillside cemetery is all that could be desired as a last resting place for those whose memory is dear to the living. Lots are for sale at reasonable figures. Plan of the property can be seen at the office of Mr. C. J. Blomfield the Secretary Treasurer.

THE DESK.—On Sunday last, the 28th, the Rev. Mr. Wilson, our Methodist Pastor, delivered a very emphatic sermon on Temperance. The reverned gentleman took for his text I Cor., viii, 13. The main point shown was the principles of common brotherhood. He upheld the Temperanee question as the main question of the day. He believed the Dunkin Act a good Act, but it had proved a failure. He believed the Scott Act to be a good Act, but it will prove a failure "What we wanted," he said "was a Prohibition Act." Touching slightly on the coming elections, only from a spiritual standpoint he said, "I thank the Legislature that gave the franchise to young men," and requested them when voting to cast their ballot for the man who would represent them honestly, soberly and truthfully.

Fatal Railway Disaster.

HAMILTON, Dec. 2.—A collision occurred on the Toronto branch of the Grand Trunk railway, three and a half miles from the city, at about six o'clock this evening. A pilot engine had helped a freight train out to Waterdown and was backing into the city, the driver thinking the express for Toronto had passed when the pilot ran into the express. Both engines were badly wrecked and the end of the baggage car was stove in. Two tramps who had been stealing a ride on the platform of the baggage car were killed. Durham, the driver of the express, was hurt but not seriously. Col. Shaw, the mail clerk on the express, was injured internally. R. Lee, the firemen, was slightly injured. Newcome, the driver of the pilot, escaped injury, and Harry Lowell, his fireman, was only slightly injured. The passengers of the express were unhurt, and were sent to Toronto over the Hamilton and North-Western. Newcome is said to be responsible for the accident.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d99

J. J. Daly's Restaurant.

Corner of Market Square and George Streets, is now open. Meals served at all hours. Oysters in all shapes a speciality. Also Fish, Steak, Canned Lobsters, etc., etc. Everything in Season furnished at a minutes notice. Charges moderate.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the ourden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d94

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1886.

THE DOMINION MINISTERS.

THE visit of Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues was in every way satisfactory as regards the numerous and intelligent audiences, the enthusiasm manifested, and the able manner in which the Ministers defended their measures and explained their policy. Their answers to the attacks of captious critics were complete and convincing. As a general election for the House of Commons must needs take place before very long, it is most fitting that the members of the Administration should thus give to the electors an account of their stewardship. That they are able to do so in such a satisfactory manner will undoubtedly secure them a continuance of the confidence of the people of Canada in spite of any factious attacks and unfounded slanders used by their opponents in default of a practical policy.

Our full reports of the proceedings will give those who were unable to attend an adequate idea of the triumphant vindication of their administration of our affairs by Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues.

MR. BLAKE SEEKING ALLIES.

Because a Reform petty official has had a convenient dream that twelve years ago Mr. Meredith, then himself only a new recruit in the Conservative ranks in the Provincial Legislature, offered to make him a Minister while posing as an independant member elected by Conservatives, the friends of Mr. Blake are dreadfully shocked. Well let us recall to memory what Mr. Blake did when he was trying his hand at a very dirty job of cabinet making. He did not content himself with appealing to independant members to join him, but conspired with one of the Ministry sitting at the Council board to betray his colleagues. Nay more Mr. Blake planned, as no honorable man could have done, that the victim of his Mephistophelian temptation, should still sit at the Council Board and on the Ministerial bench in the House, hiding his treachery from his colleagues till Mr. Blake personally gave him the signal for desertion in the midst of the conflict, that so the foul blow might be more startling and fatal.

And Mr. Blake, the great lawyer, the son of a judge, rewarded this base service by placing his fellow conspirator and victim on the judicial bench.

What utter hypocrits are these masquerading leaders of their so called "Reform" party.

SCRIPTURAL EDUCATION.

AMONG the most astonishing of the exposures of Mr. Ross' want of truthfulness, was the proof that he had even falsified his own report, asserting that the sales of readers only amounted to $70,000 a year, though he reported officially that they amounted to $100,000 a year, and even that was an underestimate. He uttered the falsehood in a dishonest attempt to break the force of the demonstration of his wasteful and corrupt dealings with Mr. Nelson, hoping, no doubt, that his fraudulent figures would be taken as accurate and would convey an impression that on other points, upon which he did not touch in detail, he had been misrepresented. It is sad to think that Mr. Mowat should have confided the charge of the education of the youth of Ontario, of the boys who, as Mr. Ross says, will some day be members of our Legislature and Ministers of the Crown, to one who has not the slightest regard for truth. Among the portions of Scripture that Mr. Ross judges fit to be taught in our Public Schools are the Ten Commandments. We would recommend Mr. Ross to look in upon the nearest school during the time devoted to this subject and to pay particular attention to the Ninth Commandment. If he succeeds in grasping its meaning he will, perhaps, refrain in future from setting such a bad example to the youth of Ontario of want of veracity.

A NICE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

MR. HART is not to be the candidate of the Prince Edward County Reformers. It will be remembered that Mr. Hart ran as a Conservative, was elected as a Conservative, and had his seat contested as a Conservative by the Reformers, who charged him with corruption. However, he sold himself to his political opponents, the purchaser being no less a person than the Hon. Oliver Mowat. And the price paid was characteristic of the hypocritical and dishonest Premier of Ontario. He, the Attorney-General, the first law officer of our Province, whose especial duty it is to see the laws enforced, personally corrupted a representative of the people, and did it by means of perjured disregard of his oath of office, using his position to check the legal proceedings for wrong-doing, that he might thereby purchase the support of the wrong-doer. If he shares the booty with the next thief who comes as a client to his law office, and then as Attorney-General interferes to prevent a prosecution, he would be guilty of conduct no worse morally than his dealings with Mr. Hart. And this is the man whose hired journal vilifies an honorable man like Mr. Meredith, because of an unfounded statement that he asked a member boasting of being elected by Conservative votes to join a Conservative Cabinet.

SOME Reformers are ridiculing the idea that Mr. Mowat should have taken steps to prevent saw-logs cut on the Ontario public domain from being taken across to the States to saw. Their excuse is that it does not come within Mr. Mowat's jurisdiction to prohibit exportation. And are there no other means of preventing this injurious system except by stopping the export? Mr. Mowat sells the timber of this Province when he was hard up for money, and attaches a number of conditions to the sale. What is there to prevent him from adding the condition that the logs must be manufactured into lumber in Canada under penalty of forfeiture? And as he has his timber officials who have to see to compliance with the other conditions, why could they not watch the fulfilment of this condition also?

SOME of the more unscrupulous Reform organs, are repeating over and over again, the falsehood that the Hon. Mr. Morris has been thrown overboard by the Conservative party. The truth, as is well known, is that Mr. Morris has been obliged reluctantly and to the great regret of his personal friends to abandon public life on account of the state of his health. Dr. H. C. Burritt, now of Toronto and formerly of Peterborough was one of the physicians on whose urgent advice Mr. Morris has retired from active politics. Dr. Burritt is too well known and too highly esteemed in Peterborough to be suspected of lending himself to any such plot as these Reform journals falsely charge and our readers may guage their veracity by this specimen.

THE Kingston News, in an ironical article on Mr. Mowat's claims to support in that city, mentions among them his appointment of his two brothers-in-law as Deputy Clerk of the Crown and Pleas, and Police Magistrate, neither of them being a lawyer. If the relation, however distant, of a Conservative Minister of the Crown for the Dominion is appointed to any office for which he is exceptionally well fitted, Mr. Mowat's friends howl about corruption and nepotism. But the appointment of unqualified connections by the Pecksniff now in power in Ontario is considered all right by his hypocritical admirers.

FRIGHTFUL DISASTER.

Four Men Killed by a Collision on the Northern Pacific Railway.

ST. PAUL, Dec. 2.—A frightful disaster took place on the Northern Pacific railway at a point east of Buffalo River, at Smizen's farm. The Pacific express and the east bound passenger train came in collision on a curve owing to the misunderstanding of orders. Four men were killed the name of one mail messenger Deenis, of Brainerd, only being learned. The others were the engineer, baggage master and fireman of the west bound train. The mail train caught fire and with its contents was distroyed. The passengers on both trains were seriously shaken up, but none were dangerously injured.

PORT HOPE.

SKILLFUL OPERATION.—A cow belonging to Mr. Martin Parker, of Baillieborough, got at a pea stack the other day and gorged herself with peas and chaff, until in a few hours she was unable to breathe; the peas having fermented and distended the stomach. Dr. Fisher was called and proceeded to puncture the cow's stomach. This allowed the gas to escape, and the animal appeared much better. In a few hours he was again called, when he found the cow in a dying condition. While examining her she fell, and he at once decided to perform the operation of rheumonotomy. This he did by making an incision of about five inches in lenght through the skin and lining of the stomach. Through this opening he drew out over two bushels of fermented peas, chaff, and straw. He then sewed up the wound, and at present the cow is almost as well as ever she was, though still a little weak. Considerable credit is due Dr. Fisher's skill and promptitude in this difficult operation.—Times.

THE CENTURY.

For 1886-87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, in the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency, there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES.

which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettsburg will be described by Gen. Hunt, Chief of the Union Artillery, Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chickamauga, by Gen. D. H. Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Generals Howard and Slocum. Generals Q. A. Gillmore, Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter, and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, etc., etc., will appear

NOVELS AND STORIES

"The hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelties by Geo. W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorn, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year

THE VETERAN PREMIER

Sir John A. Macdonald in Peterborough.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME.

AN IMMENSE AUDIENCE IN THE OPERA HOUSE.

Addresses by Sir John and Two of His Colleagues—Public Questions Forcibly and Clearly Dealt With.

The afternoon meeting in the Opera House, which was addressed by Sir John Macdonald and colleagues, was largely attended. The hall was filled to overflowing, and the gallery, which was reserved for ladies, was fully occupied.

The hall had been beautifully decorated for the occasion by the Young Men's Conservative Club. The platform was ornamented with flags, festoons, plants and flowers. The body of the hall was adorned with evergreens, flags in profusion, banners, red, white and blue festoons and other decoration, and between each window there was a deer's head and flags. Mottoes were also displayed on the walls, including "Welcome to Canada's Greatest Chieftain," "Confederation Must be Preserved," "One Law for All," and "True in the Past, We Trust You in the Future."

Before the speakers arrived the Opera House was crowded by the large audience waiting to hear them, a large majority of those present being from outside the town, some in the audience having driven forty and fifty miles to do honor to Canada's veteran Premier and his colleagues.

When Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues, the Hon. Messrs. Thompson, White and Foster, appeared on the platform, the 57th Battalion Band struck up "Auld Lang Syne," and the audience arose and cheered enthusiastically.

Mr. George Hilliard, M. P., occupied the chair, and there were on the platform, besides the speakers, Mayor Stevenson, the Conservative candidate for the Commons, Messrs. W. Cluxton, A. P. Pousette, Q. C., John Carnegie, M. P. P., H. T. Strickland, the Rev. V. Clementi, E. J. Toker, J. E. Belcher, J. H. Burnham, Dr. Geo. Burnham, G. W. Hatton, W. H. Wrighton, H. LeBrun, E. C. Crevier, J. E. Hammond, A. McNeil, James Kendry, James Edwards, R. Brodie, Thos. Kelly, W. H. Moore, John O'Meara; R. C. Strickland, G. Strickland, Lakefield; John Dobson Lindsay; W. H. Stephenson, Norwood, candidate for the Legislature in East Peterborough; the Rev. Father Kelly, Ennismore: John Fell, M. P. P. North Victoria; S. Hughes, Lindsay Warder; A. McQuade, ex-M. P. South Victoria; T. M. Willan, South Monaghan: R. Vance, Cavan; Chas Fairbairn, Verulam; Jas. Golborne, Douro; Dr. Shaw, George Read, ex-M. P. P., Keene.

The CHAIRMAN said he had no doubt it afforded them all great pleasure to welcome to Peterborough Sir John Macdonald and to see the good state of health he enjoyed. They were all pleased to meet the Hon. Thomas White, whom they might claim as a townsman, he having come to Peterborough in his youth and established a paper now second to none, the REVIEW. They would return thanks to Sir John for the many public works he had given us. There were some public works—such as the Fort Francis locks and the Neebing Hotel—for which Sir John would not claim credit; but there were many beneficial public works, railways, canals and others, for which he did deserve credit. And he also merited their thanks for his connection with the confederation of the Provinces, the acquisition of the Northwest and the National Policy. They had evidences of the benefit of the National Policy in Peterborough. Last, but by no means least, Sir John merited their thanks for the grand Canadian Pacific Railway. He referred to the way the Reformers had opposed the construction of that railway. They attempted to kill both the railway and Sir John, but the railway was built and Sir John still lived. He then introduced Mr. Jas. Stevenson, the Conservative candidate for the Commons in West Peterborough.

MR. STEVENSON was received with applause. He said that he did not desire the nomination he had received, but he had been selected by the convention, and he had to ask them for their support. He had no doubt he would receive it. This was a proud day for Peterborough. This County had great reason to be grateful to the Government of Sir John Macdonald. A few years ago they offered $150,000 to have a railway built to Ottawa, and they had the road to Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec, and to Toronto and the Great North-west, without costing them a cent. They had also the promise of the Government to build the Trent Valley canal which was in course of construction, and he hoped ere long they would see canal boats passing through here.

MR. JOHN CARNEGIE, candidate for the Local Legislature, was called on and was received with loud cheers. In view of the fact that he had addressed many in the audience recently, and also in view of the fact that the veteran Premier and several of his colleagues were present to address them, he would make way for those speakers.

The Hon. J. S. D. THOMPSON, Minister of Justice, was cordially received. It afforded him the utmost pleasure to be present and address the people of Peterborough. Until to-day he only knew Peterborough by name, but since the reception they had received they would know it as a place where they had met warm-hearted and true fellow countrymen. Their opponents told them that this was a grave crisis in the history of this country, and they agreed with them to a certain extent. While the country was happy, prosperous and contented, the time had come when they had to decide whether they would have prosperity and contentment continue, or accept the men who would reverse the policy that had brought about these good results. Because they recognized their responsibility as members of the Government, they were here to give an account of their stewardship. The country was united nineteen years ago. They had gone on since uniting the people, building up the country and extending commerce between provinces, and acting on the principle that they were one people. They acted on the principle that there should be one law for every race and creed in Canada. They were descendants of various nationalities, and the only way that peace could be preserved was by saying that while they honored each man's race, if a man offended the law he must suffer the penalty, no matter whether his whole race rose up to defend him. He had been accused of pleading for French votes in Chambly and abusing the French in Haldimand. He had never been in Chambly, and he had not said a disrespectful word of the French in Haldimand or elsewhere. The man who had a different story for each place or race, was not under the banner of Sir John Macdonald, but must be a follower of Mr Blake. They were here, as their colleagues in Quebec were in that Province, to tell the people that every man must have fair play and not receive favor on account of race or creed. Each one should have full liberty of citizenship, and all must be equal before the law and have one law for the whole people of the Dominion. Four years ago the Reformers were appealing to the electors of Ontario on the ground that the French had too much influence in the councils of the nation, and asserted that the Government were under French domination. Even last year they were trying to raise a cry against the French, but no sooner did the Government allow the law to take its course in the case of Riel than the Reformers harked back on what they had said, and now asserted that the Government had insulted the French. The Government could expect to gain nothing by the course they took, as they only did their duty, but they felt that they must administer the law justly. But the Reforms having taken up an unpatriotic position on the matter, they felt it to be their duty to go before the people and defend their course. The Reformers were making this the one great issue in Quebec, and the Government were ready accept it as an issue, and to defend the principle of one law for all before English and French. They felt confident of the result. They were prepared to go to the people of Quebec and to lay the matter before them, and he believed that they, as well as the people of Ontario, would sustain the principle under which alone they could dwell together in peace. They did not, however, wish to diminish other issues, and they stood upon the old principles which were accepted in 1878 and 1882. They still stood upon the National Policy, which was greatly benefitting the country. Was there any man of honesty who would deny that the number of men and brains usefully employed now was greater than in 1878? Compare the position of Peterborough now with its position in 1874, and they would have a fair idea of the manner in which the country had been benefitted. Since 1878 $10,000,000 worth of machinery had been added to factories, and while previous to 1878 thirteen new factories were annually established, since that time 48 had been established each year. Everywhere the wheels of industry were busy, and the hands were steadily employed. Previous to 1878 people who loved Canada were forced to go abroad because they could not obtain a living here. Some still went abroad of choice, but if they wanted to remain the principle was established that the man who wished to earn his own and his children's bread could do so on his native soil. He referred to the predictions of the Reformers regarding the National Policy, and to Mr. Blake's famous story about the amount of duty on seven yards of cloth for a shirt. Mr. Blake now says that they had got back to the lamentable era of deficits, and Sir Richard Cartwright recently said they had a deficit of $5,000,000, or, deducting Northwest rebellion expenditure, of $2,500,000. He was glad to be able to tell them that they had had passed the era of deficits. Since July—during the first four months of this year—they had more than half overtaken the deficit, the Northwest expenditure included, and the indications were that they would have a surplus. They were also able to show that the exports for those four months of the year were $1,140,000 greater than during the same four months of last year. This showed that while their imports had increased, their exports had also increased, and commerce was expanding. He also referred to their construction and extension of public works—promoting the industry, enterprise and energy of the people, and stimulating trade and commerce. The Canadian Pacific Railway compelled the admiration of people in the old country, and it was acknowledged that Canada had a system of public works such as no other country of its population in the world had. The extension of these works had saved for the people in expenses in travelling, &c., $12,000,000 a year, and the whole benefit in this way amounted to more than the whole interest on the public debt. The Canadian Pacific Railway assisted inter-provincial trade, and employed 14,000 workingmen, the amount paid to these men amounting to four times the interest on the subsidy. The benefit to the trade with China and to Canadian industries was mentioned. The policy pursued induced immigrants to come in and locate on the vacant land in the country. He then took up the subject of the public debt. Mr. Blake had argued that the net debt of Canada to-day must be $220,000,000. He would suppose for a moment that this were true. They must remember that they had assumed $106,000,000 of debts of the Provinces, which left $143,000,000. Mr. Mackenzie's government incurred $10,000,000 of debt, and the most that they could charge Sir John Macdonald's government with, during their fourteen years of office, was $74,000,000. Sir Richard Cartwright had said that if he were in office the debt would be $100,000,000 less, which would have been $26,000,000 less than nothing. For this debt they had the Canadian Pacific Railway and in his (Mr. Thompson's) own section the Intercolonial railway, and they had one of the noblest canal systems in the world. They had lighted the coast, acquired the Northwest, opened harbors and cleaned rivers. The Reformers when in office increased the debt $8,000,000 a year, and if they took out the Provincial debts Sir John Macdonald's government had assumed, they would see that they had only increased it $4,300,000 a year. While the Reformers increased the debt by eight millions a year and they only gave back seven millions on public work, while the present Government had only increased the debt by $4,300,000 a year, and had expended $8,000,000 per annum on public works. The credit of the country, he showed, was a great deal better now than it was when the Reformers were in office. The rate of interest paid, through the country's credit being improved, was so much lower that the burden of paying interest was no greater. The prosperity of the people was such that the savings of the

for young people is what the papers call St. Nicholas. Do you know about it,—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A Short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St. Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder; "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, R. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenent Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3 00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. FRIDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1886.

people had increased by $76,000,000 more than the increase on the public debt. An old man in his province (Nova Scotia) had accumulated money, and he said that he did it by buying property when the Reformers were in office and selling it when the Conservatives were in office. While Mr. Mackenzie was in office the people's savings decreased each year rapidly, and since they went out they had increased by many millions. He thought the people would not recall the Reformers with their misfortunes, but would retain Sir John and the policy that conduced to prosperity. The state of the country was a sufficient vindication of they policy, without appealing to theories. Mr. Blake had appealed to the people to save the country before they had none to save. They had seen, however, how much they had to fear from the debt, and they had nothing to fear from secession and rebellion unless the Reformers were in office. The people would say to these ravens who were croaking evil of their country, "Take your presence from my chamber and your shadow from my door." Mr. Thompson resumed his seat amid loud applause.

The CHAIRMAN introduced the Minister of Marine and in doing so said that it was owing to the firmness displayed by the Minister, backed up by the Dominion Government, that our fisheries had been protected, the rights of Canadian fishermen had been upheld, and it was shown that Canada could and would maintain her integrity as a nation. (Applause.)

Hon. Mr. FOSTER on rising was received with applause. He said that one of three things would have to take place—either the people of Ontario would have to modify their style of giving receptions, or he must leave it, or that he must get a new dictionary. Yesterday at Sunderland he told them that the demonstration was the most magnificant he had ever seen. He was now in position of the man who was driving a load of pumpkins up a hill and just as he got to the top the end board fell out and the pumpkins all rolled out. As the man sat gazing at the departing pumpkins the English language utterly failed to furnish words to express his feelings. He would do as that man did—he would say nothing—about the gathering. (Laughter.) However, he was here to speak and his audience was there to listen, and speak he would and listen they must (laughter) because he was a stranger and it would be bad manners for them to go out while he was speaking. He wanted to speak to them on an all important issue the discussion of which they could well afford to listen to. On the one side we had the Liberal Party so called, headed by the Hon. Mr. Blake. On the other side we had the Liberal Conservative Party headed by Sir John Macdonald. Between these two parties the people must choose. The people had heads on their shoulders and brains in their heads. It now remained for them to look at the theories advanced, and the practical carrying out of those theories, by both parties. We had Blake here and Macdonald there and the people of Canada would soon be called upon to say which they would place at the head of the Government of this Dominion. He would address them on one particular and on a very important particular. Both parties had a record. Between 1873 and 1878 this country under the Liberal rule was over run by slaughtered goods, and factories were languishing. Our markets were open to American goods, while the United States raised a tariff wall of 30 per cent against Canadian manufactures. Since the introduction of the National system workingmen earned a fair wage, there was commercial activity throughout the land, and industry and the results of industry were apparent everywhere. Now, what the electors should ask themselves was: "What position does Edward Blake take on this vital question?" One thing was sure: Edward Blake now stood before the electors of this country and asked to be placed in power. He would fain have the electorate to forget that such a thing as the National Policy was in existence to-day, but the people of Canada should demand of him whether, in case he be placed in power, this system would be changed. What does he say and what does his party say about it? In the city of Toronto the other day Edward Blake dealt for a half hour or more, and in that speech defined his position. He referred to his election pamphlet of 1882, which, he said, explained his attitude on the question. He then quoted from his address, in which he did not either take the free trade side or support protection. Why did he not say either one thing or the other to show the people of Canada what his position is? Why did he not come out honestly and courageously with the policy which his party had preached for the last eight years? Why didn't he say to the people of Canada, "Here is my policy; choose between free trade and protection." No; his first move was to say; "The present is defective and unjust" That was not an issue in this election. The Liberal Conservatives never held the tariff of 1878 to be perfect. It was not a cast iron rule set down for all time, but a policy which would change as the people of Canada wished it to change. What was best for 1879 was not best for 1882. And so it would continue to change as it was required to change. No Government could set down a policy without defect in some respects Edward Blake then continues to quote. "I have given in my address of 1882 certain important particulars in which I think the tariff might be amended. I hold this to-day but they are difficult of attainment." And why? because we have no surplus to dispose of! There was a great increase in the expenditure! And that was the reasons he could not make the changes. Any man could see through such defective reasoning. It was not a protective tariff but a revenue tariff which brought in great revenues. The one shuts out the goods; the other allows them to come in. Because the national expenditure had increased and that therefore he must keep up the protective tariff to meet that expenditure was no reason at all. Why in England they raised $11.68 per year per head with a revenue tariff, while in Canada under the protective tariff only $6.89 was raised. Was Mr. Blake yet inclined to the free trade doctrine he would not hesitate to adopt it because of that reason. But, he adds "the manufacturers need have nothing to fear for this high scale of taxation must be maintained." Had Great Britain any protection? and still its taxation was much higher than ours. High taxation and protection had nothing to do with each other. Then Mr. Blake said before there can be a reduction in the scale of taxation there must be a reduction in the scale of expenditure." He agreed with Mr. Blake there. But how was this to be accomplished? Was it to be done in the postal system? The whole people would cry out against that. Was it to be done in railways and canals. No It could not be done now without injury to the country. Even Mr. Blake failed to point out any place where a saving might be effected. If he wanted (as the Government wanted) to effect a saving, why did he not point out where it could be made. Was it in legal matters? It seemed not. Mr. Blake was always the first to urge the appointment of more judges and that they be better paid. Was it to be done in legislation? Mr. Blake rather favored increased expenditure in that way. He was in favor of an elective Senate, and would thus put the people to the expense of dividing the country into electoral districts and to that of elections. In fact there was not a single place where the expenditure could be curtailed. Then Mr. Blake, in speaking to the laboring men, said: "I am in favor of the necessaries of life being more lightly taxed. He would challenge Mr. Blake or anybody else to show where the necessaries of life are taxed any higher than under the tariff existing from 1873 to 1878 under the Reform Administration. They are more lightly taxed to-day. (Applause.) Look at bread. Was that taxed? How about vegetables of all kinds? How about tea? How coffee? The two last the people were heavily taxed for from 1873 to 1878. And molasses? And sugar? Take tea, coffee and sugar alone, and in 1877 there was $3,394,000 taken from the people more than was in 1885. In talking in this manner Mr. Blake simply wanted to catch the workingmen's vote. Then he went on, "I am in favor of admitting raw materials free of duty." Why, that was the essence of the National Policy. The present Government encouraged the importation of raw materials for manufacture in this country to such an extent that out of the whole $102,000,000 worth of goods admitted free there was $30,000,000 worth of raw materials. Then he says: "I would put a high tax on luxuries." That is precisely what exists to-day. On silks, velvets, spirits, jewelry and other luxuries there is a high tax. In 1885 there was $1,300,000 more collected from this source than during any year of Sir Richard Cartwright's regime. Why did Mr. Blake say this in the presence of workingmen. Simply to catch their vote, well knowing that they had not the time to search in the blue books for the facts. Mr. Blake was also going to "curb monopolies," but if he did that he must first enact a law to prevent a man owning above a certain amount of property. Our tariff was such as not to encourage monopolies, being as it is an average of only 18 per cent, while the United States tariff averaged 34 per cent. Then he was "in favor of reciprocity with the United States." Who was not? That had been an important plank in the platform of both parties for many years. We would like to deal equally with our neighbors south of us. But if they didn't choose to make such a treaty with us, then we would follow our own policy as an independent people and carve out a future for ourselves. (Applause.) All this was fine doctrine for Mr. Blake to preach. But would he put it in practice. Even though Mr. Blake were in favor of maintaining the National Policy in its integrity could he carry out his wishes. It was seen that in Reil question 25 English Liberals with Alexander Mackenzie refused to condemn the Government because the law had been allowed to take its course. These followers of Mr. Blake might vote against him on the National Policy question, so it would be well to see what are the opinions of some of the prominent Liberals. Mr. Mills said: "It is a system which is vicious in every part of it. I was not in favor of the National Policy when it was introduced. I am not disposed to think more favorably of it now after seven year trial. Our whole tariff system requires revision." Sir Richard Cartwright refers to the National Policy as "a very barbarous system." Speaking in Seaforth in Nov. 1886 he advised the Liberals, if they wanted a "terse and comprehensive platform," to adopt something like this: "Free soil, free trade, free speech, free men." Speaking in July last in South Huron he said: "Another error was their foolish protective policy. There is no possibility of promoting a protective tariff which shall do justice to the agriculturist and manufacturer in the way they pretend. I do not believe that a protective tariff does really benefit the vast bulk of manufacturers." The Hon L. H. Davies declares that it "compels us to build up a Chinese wall between ourselves and our neighbors to the south and west of us and it compels us to buy inferior goods from our Canadian brothers." But Richard Cobden, the father of free trade gave it as his opinion that "farmers had a great interest in the country and you could not touch him more sensitively than to injure the manufacturer, for in doing so you injured his best customer." Yes; every hundred men that the manufacturer gathered about him tended to make a better market for the farmer to sell his produce in, for men would have families and families must be fed. (Applause.)

The Chairman then introduced Sir John Macdonald, saying that this man when in opposition was not the man to adopt a policy of slander and obstruction. When his followers wanted to attack the Government he simply advised letting them alone and that they would bring condemnation on themselves. Sir John Macdonald was above slander.

SIR JOHN, when he rose, was loudly cheered for several minutes. After the tumult had ceased he said that this was not the first visit he had paid to Peterborough. It gave him pleasure to visit their city—for it was in fact—and especially pleasure at this time. On coming through the place to-day he scarcely recognized the town of some years ago. There had been a marvellous growth and progress since he was here last. (Applause.) He was glad to visit Peterborough and see for himself the progress and building up which he had heard so much about. (Applause.) He had been the subject of some remarks by the chairman. It afforded him the greatest gratification to find that he still had the confidence of a man with whom he had had so much to do. (Applause.) He thanked the chairman for the honor done him. He had been given different names which he esteemed very much. He had been called the Chieftain, a great statesman, and had been given other titles which he would be indeed insensible if he did not regard with gratification. But, sir, of all the names he was ever given one which was applied to him to-day he was the most proud of. When coming up stairs through the crowd a boy yelled out "There goes old Union Jack." (Uproarious applause). Yes, he had always been on the side of union—and for the maintainance of the union of our beloved country. (Applause.) He advocated the union of the Provinces in 1867, and after he favored the buying of the Northwest. The Dominion now extended from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and notwithstanding every attack the people would always find him "Old Union Jack." After the speeches just given by his colleagues, in which a clever exposition of what had been done by the Government had been given, he did not know that he could say much more. But this he could say, the Opposition of to-day had no policy but that of slander. Not content with slandering him personally they had descended to slander his wife and children, and bring them into the conflict because they were his wife and children. He despised and disregarded all such attacks. The respectable inhabitants of this country are shocked—no matter what political views they held, whether they are Reformers or Conservatives,—are disgusted at hearing the foul base attacks upon himself and his family. They were now making their progress through this Province giving an account of their stewardship, and giving a statement of the manner in which the policy in force for the past past eight years had been carried out. They were quite ready to answer any question put to them in regard to the working of that policy. He invited any honorable gentleman here present to rise and point out in what respect the administration had failed and in what respect their promises made in 1878 and renewed in 1882 had not been fulfilled. The people might remember now how fairly prosperous the country was in 1873. The McKenzie Government came into power, and how did it leave the country? They left it with business failures scattered up and down the country in all directions. The McKenzie Government came into power under every prospect of success. There was a good round sum in the Treasury to start them off, and they had no sins for omission or commission to answer for. With every advantage in their favor that Government, after a short reign of five years, was weighed in the balance by the the people of this country and found wanting. During that five years under a ruinous one sided free trade system he need not tell the people that factories went under the wave of depression and others had all they could do to keep their heads above water. Working men were thrown out of employment and had to go to other countries to earn a living; capital was withdrawn to be placed in more prosperous and encouraging fields, and with the departure of workingmen fell the market for farmers produce. When in the opposition himself and his friends said: "Can nothing be done to relieve the country of this sort of thing. Our climate is as healthful, our lands as fertile, and our people as industrious as those in any country under the sun!" (Applause.) They came to the conclusion that a wise policy was what was wanted to stimulate trade. Of course the depression was caused to some extent by other causes than the absence of a prudent policy, but the absence of that policy aggravated the dulness and in course of time that dulness would have increased. Well; a change of policy came in 1878. (Cheers.) Himself and his friends looked across the borders and saw that the fifty millions of people in the United States—God bless them—were superior to trade disasters. After the unfortunate war in which thousands of their loyal sons were slaughtered and millions of money wasted, the country immediately returned to prosperity. Himself and his friends saw how this was done, and they were not too proud to follow the example of their American brothers. The latter said "America for the Americans;" they replied, "Canada for the Canadians." They brought in their beneficent National System, the people adopted it, and the people remained happy and prosperous under it ever since. The Liberal Conservative Government carried out their promises then and had truly preserved "Canada for the Canadians." Mr. Mackenzie then said it was merely an electioneering trick and that the promises would never be fulfilled. But Mr. Mackenzie had the candour to say afterwards that we had certainly carried out our promises to the fullest extent—to use the expression in common parlance, "we had gone it whole hog." (Laughter.) Yes; they had carried out the National Policy fully and thoroughly. They did not believe in any half measures; hesitancy and timidity would do. Now the electors should look at the condition of the country in 1878 and compare it with the state of the country in 1886. Then workingmen were obliged to leave the country, capitalists refused to invest their money, the farmer was losing his best customers, and industries were crushed. Now everything blossoms like a garden Now not only Canadian capital but foreign capital is readily invested, Canadian workingmen have flocked back and are now earning good wages, and the farmer (for agricultural interests are really the backbone of the country) finds a home market for his coarse grains and all the miscellaneous productions of the farm. The farmers wife, also, finds at the nearest village a ready sale for her butter, eggs, poultry and such like. Did any farmer in this house this afternoon wish to return to the old state of thing? (Cries of no, no.) The farmers would not want the duty on wheat removed. In the event of a short crop a good price was the only thing to recoup the farmer for his loss. If that duty was removed, and in case a short crop came, the Canadian market would be flooded with American wheat, and the price would consequently be low, for in the United States, in consequence of their many climates, they were always sure to have an average crop. If the duty were taken off the Americans would take advantage of the Canadian market and lower the price. The only hope for the Canadian farmer was, in the event of a short crop, that he get a good price from his fellow-countrymen. He was thankful that there had been no short crops in Canada these last few years, and the Canadian farmers had been exporting their grain to Europe. Under the old system the American farmer was in a position to take advantage of the short crops in Canada. That was what he called a jug handle policy—the handle was all on one side. (Laughter.) But the handle was now turned around, and it was now on our side. (Applause and laughter.) The Government were alive to aiding the farmer in every respect for in aiding him it was aiding the whole country. By putting a duty on cheese the Government had raised an enormous industry in Canada. He remembered the time when the Americans used to feed the Canadians on skimmed milk cheese (laughter) but now Canadians were competing with Americans in Europe and he was proud to say that Canadian cheese was now looked upon more favourably than the best American make. (Applause) Had not the Government looked after the interests of the farmers? When it was proposed to introduce that noxious stuff called oleomargarine into this country to take the place of butter the Government promptly laid its hand upon the measure. They did not want the vile mixture in Canada at all, and they dtd not want to legislate against the interests of the farmer. Then the Government were establishing experimental farms in Ontario and Quebec in the interest of agriculture. These institutions were not like the Ontario Agricultural College. He did not wish to disparage the Agricultural College, but he maintained that the farmers of this Province did not send their sons to that institution. Any common sense farmer knows that the best training his son can get is on the farm. (Hear, hear.) This college was mainly filled with the sons of young Englishmen who had come to Canada to learn farming. (Laughter.) These experimental farms were different. They were well managed and were used for cultivating the various agricultural products and to find out by experiment what was the best kinds of seeds for the various kinds of soil. Similars farms had been of inestimable good to the people of the United States, and he was sure ours would also be so to Canadians. On these farms, managed by capable men, all matters pertaining to the selection of seed and cultivation of soil was worked out in experiment for the farmers of the country. He was confident they would be a great success. He asked the people if they approved of the general tenor of the Macdonald Administration, and if so to say so at the polls. He was again before them to ask for a renewal of that confidence which was reposed in himself and his friends in 1878 and repeated in 1882. They would soon be called on to choose. They had now had eight years of steadily increasing prosperity, peace and plenty. Would the people again support the men who brought about this state of things? Look at the 5 years previous to '78 and say whether you are or are not going to allow the men who ruled you then to rule you again. Were they to have business failures, despair, despondency and distress (cries of no no) or were they going to continue in prosperity. (Applause.) He appealed to the electors of this country confident that when the time came the answer would come from every honest citizen desiring the good of his country. "I do not want any change; I will support the Government which has given us prosperity." An Italian epitaph was once written, which, translated was as follows: "I was well; I would be better; here I am." (Laughter.) The people of Canada were well to-day. The commercial, industrial and agricultural health of the country was good. Then why not trust the old physician still. (Applause and laughter.) They should not go to the quacks who had made them sick before. (Cheers.) They knew they were safe under the care of the old physician. Then trust him still.

Sir John resumed his seat amid loud and long applause.

After the band had played "God Save the Queen" the proceedings ended, and Sir John and his colleagues went to the residence of Mayor Stevenson where they dined.

THE HON. J. A. CHAPLEAU.

The Hon. J. A. Chapleau, Secretary of State, arrived in town by the 6.42 train to join the Chieftain and his colleagues here. The Canadian Pacific Railway platform was crowded with the French people of this place and many of the hon. gentleman's English admirers. On his alighting from the coach he was greeted with vociferous cheering. A torchlight procession was formed, and headed by the 57th Battalion Band, conducted the carriage containing the Minister to Mayor Stevenson's residence, where Sir John and the others were at dinner. At arriving in front of the Mayor's residence the procession separated to allow the carriage to pass through the line, and while this was being done the crowd on the street gave cheer after cheer.

After having dined Mr. Chapleau addressed a meeting of his compatriots in the old Music Hall. Dr. Crevier occupied the chair and Mr. H. LeBrun was also on the platform. The hall was beautifully decorated with Union Jacks, flags, evergreens and other devices.

The Hon. Mr. Chapleau, speaking in French, commencing, said that some people thought if once they got into Parliament their fortunes would be made and they would be happy. (Laughter.) This was not true. He had had many years of Parliamentary life, he was now poorer than when he commenced it, and the life was anything but comfortable. The workingmen before him could go home at night, sleep soundly, get up in the morning feeling all right. But when the Government Ministers got up it was enough to take their appetites away to see how the Grit morning papers attacked them. He was ill before coming here, and it was with great difficulty that he responded to the telegram sent by Sir John to come. He then went into the Government's general line of action, dealing with their Canadian Pacific Railway policy, the National Policy, and other important issues. The last question taken up was the Riel affair. He pointed out how unworthy Riel was of their sympathy. How he had murdered priests and imprisoned nuns, and not content with that, he had started a new religion of his own and estranged the people from their spiritual advisors. The only reason why Riel should not have been made to suffer the penalty of his crime was that for some time it was doubted whether he was insane or not. He showed that the Government had done everything to give him a fair trial. It was proven beyond a doubt that he was sane and the law was allowed to take its course. He dwelt at some length on the absolute necessity, if Canada was to remain a nation, that one law for all should be upheld and maintained.

The meeting closed with cheers for the Queen, Sir John and Mr. Chapleau.

During his stay in town the hon. gentleman was the guest of Mr. H. Lebrun. To-day he, and his secretary Mr. Tache, were driven around town by a number of his friends. An enthusiastic farewell was given him at the C. P. R. station when he left on the noon train.

The musical services were rendered attractive by the singing of the children."

Young Men, Read!

The average young man of the present day is, in a greater or less degree, ambitious. If a man is content to mope his existence out in this busy world without ambition, he is at perfect liberty to do so, but the contrast between himself and the ambitious man, who is filled with push and business energy, will be so great that it will make him feel as insignificant in his own eyes, as he undoubtedly is in the eyes of his fellow-citizens. A man who lacks this essential qualification will always find his path anything but smooth, and the road to prosperity rugged. Young men who are ambitious and careful will get through difficulties that to the careless and indifferent seem insurmountable, and in the end they are better off in every possible manner Be ambitious, young man; have some end ever before you, which you are determined to attain; always dress neatly, and be sure that you purchase your clothes at the premier gent's furnishing establishment. THE BANQUET.

Cabinet Ministers Entertained at the Oriental Hotel.

The banquet on Thursday evening was a pronounced success. There was a large attendance and the utmost enthusiasm prevailed. Mr. Andrew McNeil occupied the chair, and on either side sat the Hon. Messrs. White, Chapleau, Foster and Thompson, Mr. Hilliard, M. P., Mayor Stevenson, Mr. H. A. Ward, M.P., Mr. John Carnegie, M.P.P., and others. Sir John Macdonald was unable to be present.

The CHAIRMAN read a letter from the Rev. Father Kelly, of Ennismore, regretting that the stern fact of pressing engagements prevented him from being present on such a memorable occasion. For more than twenty years, he said, he had been a constant admirer of Sir John A. Macdonald, and he now admired him in his old days more than at any period of his illustrious career. Concluding, Father Kelly expressed the hope that Sir John would live to be one hundred years of age, and "as his days so may his strength be," and might he live and die Premier of Canada. The reading of the letter was received with applause.

The toast of "the Queen" was duly honored.

"Our Guests" was next proposed, coupled with the name of Sir John Macdonald, and enthusiastically received.

The Hon. J. A. CHAPLEAU said that they were all sincerely sorry that Sir John was absent through a temporary indisposition. He expressed the feelings of the chief and others when he thanked them for the grand demonstration. The Quebec papers said that the Conservative party in Ontario was moribund, but if it was so lively in its last hours of life, he would liked to have seen it in its days of strength. He believed that in the last years of the great statesman, their chieftain, they would give him the sweet cup of sympathy and encouragement.

The next toast was "Constitutional Government."

The Hon. J. S. D. THOMPSON responded and said that he was pleased to be a member of a Government in whose honor such a toast could be proposed. Of all the demonstrations they had attended in the last five weeks this was the most successful, not, perhaps, in point of numbers, but none were more attentive or more enthusiastic. He was pleased to see the young men, the hope of the party and of the country, becoming prominent. Though they esteemed and valued the veterans, they were glad to see the young men coming forward. He expressed their deep sense of gratification for this demonstration, which the young men of Peterborough had managed so well.

"The National Policy" was the toast that followed.

The Hon. THOMAS WHITE responded, and during his remarks said he had seen Peterborough machinery in British Columbia mills. He pointed out the beneficial results of the Conservative policy in building up inter-provincial trade and in other ways.

"Reciprocal Trade with Foreign Nations" was proposed and honored.

The Hon. G. E. FOSTER responded. After some humorous observations he pointed out that before Canada could expect to push its way into foreign markets, it must be sure of its own markets. The N. P. was particularly designed to extend their foreign trade, because it was calculated to give manufacturers the home markets, when they could extend their business. Reciprocity with the United States had been part of the policy of both parties since 1845. The Government had appointed an agent at Australia to extend Canada's trade in that direction, and a commissioner was to go to the West Indies for the same purpose.

"The Union of the Atlantic and Pacific" was also honored.

The Hon. J. A. CHAPLEAU responded in an eloquent speech, dwelling briefly on the origin, history and benefits of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

"The Dominion and Provincial Legislatures" was responded to by Messrs. H. A. Ward, M.P., Port Hope, John Burnham, M. P., Geo. Hilliard M.P., and John Carnegie, M.P.P.

Mr. CARNEGIE proposed the health of "the President of the Club." which was received with cheers and duly honored. Mr. McNeil responded in a neat speech.

The proceedings were concluded by the company singing the National Anthem.

This concluded one of the most successful demonstrations ever held in Peterborough, and the members of the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Club must feel gratified with the pleasant and successful character of the events.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

WAR PREPARATIONS.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The sudden renewal of Turkish war preparations on a large scale is attributed by despatches from Constantinople to information leading to the belief that General Kaulbars' return to St. Petersburg will be followed by aggressive measures on the part of Russia. Telegrams from Paris state that the attempt to float the Russian loan upon the Paris bourse is expected to be successful. The scheme to confederate the whole of the Balkan principalities is received with alarm by the Porte, as a menace to the Ottoman empire.

A CABINET COUNCIL.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—A Cabinet Council was held to-day to discuss the advisability of further prosecution in Ireland like the one instituted at Dublin against Mr. John Dillon. The question of continuing Government assistance in the work of eviction was also considered. All the Ministers were present.

TENANT AND LANDLORD.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The Standard publishes a letter written to the Marquis of Clanricarde by one of his tenants. The writer complains of the terrorism of the National League and alleges that he is compelled to withhold the full amount of the rent due from him to Lord Clanricarde through fear of the power of the League. The writer also endeavors to show that it is fear of being boycotted and not general and voluntary acquiscence in the League's "plan of campaign" that influences the tenants to withhold their rents and demand sweeping reductions.

DENOUNCING THE GOVERNMENT.

DUBLIN, Dec. 3.—The corporation to-day adopted a resolution denouncing the conduct of the Government in prohibiting the National league meetings at Sligo and elsewhere. Lord Mayor Sullivan and Mr. Sexton delivered addresses. None of the Conservative members of the corporation were present.

A GHASTLY CRIME.

A Young Girl Cut in Pieces to Conceal an Unlawful Act.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 3.—A trial is in progress before the Assize Court which is creating intense excitement, notwithstanding that the investigation is being conducted with closed doors on account of the repulsiveness of the details. The prisoners are a midwife named Rodulet and her lover Masquelier, who are charged with having cut into pieces the body of Emma Beckman, a young woman who died from the result of the midwife's malpractice. On the court table the legs and other remains of the corpse lie in big jars, emitting an obnoxious smell. The woman Rodelet is forty-five, fair, plump and rather good-looking. Masquelier, who was a simple instrument in her hands, is well dressed, but presents an insignificant appearance. Some gendarmes sat between them, it being feared that Rodelet might assault Masquelier on account of the confession made by him during the inquiry. The reading of the indictment setting forth the facts lasted an hour. During the examination of Rodelet she asserted that she and Masquelier assisted in the cutting up of the body by a doctor whom she declines to name, but to this statement Masquelier gives her the lie. The cold-blooded details of the mutilation were revolting. It is believed the woman will be found guilty.

Attacked and Robbed by Roughs.

TORONTO, Dec. 3.—Mr. Radley, flour and feed merchant, of this city, was attacked by roughs in a lane behind the club saloon, Yonge street, last night, who robbed and then inflicted such injuries upon him as may prove fatal. There is a serious wound on the left side of his head, evidently made with a club or blunt instrument, and he is otherwise bruised and injured. Radley had been out collecting during the day, and had $200 in his pocket, which the robbers took away from him. Three arrests have been made.

The Highland Light.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Dec. 3.—The American schooner Highland, which Chief-Justice Palmer forfeited to the Crown and ordered to be sold on the 14th inst., will be bought in by the Dominion Government and immediately fitted up for a cruiser. She will probably be placed under command of Captain Lorway, who effected her capture. She is a beautiful craft, one of the finest models in the American fleet, and more like a yacht than a fisherman.

Patent Dust Pan.

Mrs Archie Shaw of Lawrenceberg, Ind. is likely to make a fortune out of a dust pan that she has patented. Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilised countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

The Daily Review.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1886.

MR. MOWAT ACCUSES HIMSELF.

MR. MOWAT again fills more than a page of the Globe, this time with a "memorandum" on the subject of Public and Separate Schools; a rather long "memorandum," but as Mr. Mowat has rented the Globe from its chief proprietor, he is of course the judge of how much of its space he will monopolize.

In this document Mr. Mowat brings a very grave charge against himself. For some purpose or other he accuses himself of the heinous offence of legislating in defiance of our constitution and depriving a portion of the people of Ontario of a right guaranteed to them by the British North America Act.

Not unfrequently we find it our duty to condemn Mr. Mowat for some of his doings. Conversely we hold it our duty to defend him when unjustly accused—even by himself. We therefore beg to state that we do not believe that Mr. Mowat is guilty of the wrong which he confesses to have committed, his mistaken confession probably arising from some temporary aberration, caused, it is likely, by overtaxing his brain in the attempt to understand his continual, confused and admittedly defective tinkering with the law in regard to the Public and Separate Schools.

Mr. Mowat states quite correctly that the B. N. A. Act precludes a Provincial Legislature from passing a law which "shall prejudicially affect any right or privilege with respect to denominational schools which any class of persons have by law in the Province at the Union."

Mr. Mowat also states quite correctly that the law at the time of the Union was that "every person paying rates, whether as proprietor or tenant," might by giving the required notice of being a Roman Catholic and supporter of a Separate school, obtain exemption from paying any rate for common school purposes.

But Mr. Mowat very inaccurately declares that he has changed the law so that the tenant, not the proprietor, if they are not of the same faith, shall determine whether the rates shall go to the Public schools or Separate schools, and that "no agreement between the landlord and tenant as to the payment of taxes between themselves shall be allowed to alter or effect this provision otherwise."

Now, if Mr. Mowat had done this he would have done very wrong, for he would have infringed upon a right guaranteed to Roman Catholic proprietors by our constitution. But Mr. Mowat has not done this, for in consolidating the Separate school law, as he terms his process of heaping up into a confused mass his contradictory and defective legislation, he carefully included the clause preserving the rights of Roman Catholic proprietors. Even if he had not done so, his legislation against them would have been of no effect, for as a breach of our Constitution it would have been invalid.

Perhaps Mr. Mowat had an indistinct idea of having thus legislated against some proprietors, and imagines that they were the Roman Catholics. If so he is mistaken, for it is the Protestant proprietors to whom he leaves no choice as to the destination of their taxes.

Whatever may be the origin of his muddled state of mind which has lead him to confess the commission of a serious fault, we are glad to have been able to show that Mr. Mowat has not really been guilty of an endeavor to infringe upon the privileges guaranteed by our constitution to the Roman Catholics of Ontario in regard to the Separate Schools. A solemn compact of that nature must be kept inviolate.

If, however, Mr. Mowat had not tinkered as he has with the Separate School law, he would have avoided scaring himself with the mistaken idea that he had invaded Roman Catholic rights, guaranteed by our written constitution and therefore inviolable.

TWO MEASURES.

WE find the following editorial note in the Brockville Recorder:—

"Because Messrs. Blake, Mills, Davies and Edgar were paid for professional services rendered as lawyers the Times calls them boodlers. Does it expect them to work for nothing? It cannot say it ever heard of them selling their influence as members of parliament and Mr. Cameron has furnished a long list of Tory members who have done so."

This is a fair sample of Reform logic. A Conservative lawyer, with a seat in the House of Commons, receives fees for professional services, and the Reformers howl at him as a boodler who has sold his influence as a member of Parliament. Some Reform lawyers, who are also members, receive fees for professional services, and we are told by Reformers that they were pure men who could not be expected to work for nothing.

If it is urged that no lawyer, no railway shareholder is to sit in Parliament, the rule should apply to both sides of the House; it is a mere dishonest absurdity to claim that Conservatives should be disqualified and not Reformers.

To take our contemporary's ground, Mr Blake is publicly described by a leading officer of one of our great railways with a large public subsidy, as being the legal adviser of the Company in Canada, and he certainly does not work for nothing, but expects to get his fee. Now it is well known to every one that in Parliament Mr. Blake was one of the strongest advocates of the Grand Trunk, and one of the fiercest and most persistent opponents of its rival the C.P.R. Now by the reasoning of the Reformers Mr. Blke should be more than suspected of having sold his influence as a member of Parliament, along with the professional services for which he received his fee, especially as he was opposing a great public improvement, the benefit of which is admitted by nearly every Canadian out of the ranks of the disappointed Reform office seekers, and the successful construction of which has gained us the admiration of the world. As to the kindred subject of the disqualification of members possessing shares in companies having dealings with the country, it was the Administration of which Mr. Blake was a leading member that repealed this provision, because they found it interfered with their practice of subsidising their supporters from the Speaker down.

It is not worth while to give similar details as to the smaller fry, the Edgars and Mills.

Any measure that would tend to maintain the independence of members, without driving out of Parliament all energetic, enterprising citizens will have our support. But the organized Reform system of condemning every Conservative and lauding every Reformer under the same circumstances is the very way to hamper any legislative action and to check the growth of a wholesome public opinion.

TWO OF A KIND.

THE friends of Mr. Cameron, of Huron, says that an immediate answer should have been given to the slanders based on forgeries with which he assailed Sir John Macdonald, when the Premier and Superintendent-General of Indian affairs was absent from the House through illness, though it had been announced that he would be in his place in a few days. Mr. Cameron and his friends also complain that a pamphlet should have been issued to expose his falsifications.

Now we will suppose that Mr. Cameron might carry his morality in political matters into his private business transactions. We then might imagine him taking to his banker a hundred promisory notes and other securities in order to obtain an advance upon them. In the temporary absence of the manager the other officials might examine the documents and see at a glance that the bulk of them at least were fraudulent. They might immediately state this generally, but they certainly could not be expected to point out on the spot the exact nature of the fraud in each of the hundred cases. Patient and long continued investigation might show that in some cases the documents were wholly forged, that in others the amounts had been raised, that in others the name of the maker or endorser had been forged, that though the method of the roguery had been varied 99 out of the hundred documents were fraudulent, and that only one, an insignificant note for a small sum was genuine. After careful comparison with genuine documents, correspondence with distant customers and similar investigation, the bank officials would not unnaturally give to the shareholders interested in the attempted fraud a detailed account of these forgeries.

This would be an exact parallel of Mr. Cameron's dealings with the Indian Department reports, some of his pretended quotations were sheer forgeries, some were ascribed to men who had never uttered them, all were falsified with one possible insignificant exception, in order to rob the trusted servants of Canada of their good name for Mr. Cameron's own benefit.

Mr. Cameron may feel aggrieved at the very suggestion of the possibility of his being guilty of such dishonesty in pecuniary matters. Mr. Cameron would not be justified in his indignation. Our imaginary forger with his attempt to rob the bank, would be every whit as honest, and would stand at least as high morally as Mr. Cameron the manufacturer of forgeries to wrong our public men and cheat the people of Canada. In fact the bank forger would have quite as much right as Mr. Cameron, of Huron, to feel indignant at the comparison.

THE CENTURY.

For 1886 87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, is the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history, by reason of the publication of this work.

THE WAR SERIES.

which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettysburg will be described by Gen. Hunt, Chief of the Union Artillery, Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chickamauga, by Gen. D. H. Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Generals Howard and Slocum. Generals Q. A. Gillmore, Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter, and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, etc., etc., will appear

NOVELS AND STORIES

"The hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelties by Geo. W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorn, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year

SPECIAL FEATURES.

(with illustrations) include a series of articles on affairs in Russia and Siberia, by George Kennan, author of "Tent Life in Siberia," who has just returned from a most eventful visit to Siberian prisons; papers on the Food Question, with reference to its bearing on the Labor problem; English Cathedrals; Dr. Eggleston's Religious Life in the American colonies; Men and Women of Queen Anne's Reign by Mrs. Oliphant; Clairvoyance, Spiritualism, Astrology, etc., by the Rev. THE VETERAN PREMIER

Sir John A. Macdonald in Peterborough.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME.

AN IMMENSE AUDIENCE IN THE OPERA HOUSE.

Addresses by Sir John and Two of His Colleagues—Public Questions Forcibly and Clearly Dealt With

At the evening meeting there was an immense attendance. It was unfortunate that there was not a larger hall in which to hold the meeting, because, while every part of the Opera House, including the aisles and platform, was crowded with people, many were unable to obtain admittance.

The Hon. Messrs. White, Thompson and Foster arrived shortly before eight o'clock and were received with loud cheers.

The CHAIRMAN announced that Sir John Macdonald being unwell, he would not arrive at the hall until about 9 o'clock, and the reading of the address would be postponed until then. He then introduced the Hon. Thomas White, Minister of the Interior.

The Hon. Mr. WHITE was received with loud cheers. He was glad, he said, to have the pleasure of addressing a Peterborough audience again. When he remembered that when he first came to Peterborough there were only three brick houses in the town, he was astonished at the progress that Peterborough had made. In the afternoon they had heard his colleagues discuss great public questions. The Globe had called them the "Chestnut Combination," but they had given the Reformers some hard nuts to crack. They had old stories to tell them. They had the old stories of public improvement and of one law for all—one policy for all parts of the Dominion. They might have nothing new, but he reminded them that the policy they advocated was the one which had given them the prosperity they now enjoyed, and would give them, if honestly carried out, greater prosperity in the future. He remembered when Peterborough gave £30,000 or $120,000 for the privilege of getting the town connected with the Port Hope, Lindsay and Beaverton railway. To do that the people of the town incurred a per capita debt equal to the per capita debt of the whole Dominion. He remembered that Peterborough agreed to give $150,000 for railway connection that they now enjoyed, through the policy of the Government, for nothing. This showed how absurd it was to talk of the public debt without considering the purpose for which the debt was incurred. Mr. Foster was right when, in the afternoon, he drew their attention to the utterances of the Reform leaders on the National Policy. An effort was being made to create the impression in the minds of the manufacturers that the National Policy was not in danger, but they should bear in mind that the question of protection was not a question of how much revenue they could get, but of how the duties could be imposed so as to protect industries and give employment. A party which told them that a protective policy was destructive and a policy of plunder and robbery, and in the next breath told them that they would be forced to continue it, was a party that ought not to be trusted at the polls. If he mistook not, the Reform candidate in this constituency, whose personal worth he acknowledged, appealed to the people as a protectionist and said by voting for him they would not endanger the National Policy. He would call their attention to the fact that respectable gentlemen, as worthy of credit as the Reform candidate here, went to Parliament in 1874 determined to have protection adopted, but were compelled by party alliance to support a fanatical free trade Government. Messrs. Wood and Irvine, of Hamilton, Charlton, of Norfolk, Paterson, of Brant, and M. C Cameron (he did not class Mr. Cameron, however, with the respectable men) were all pronounced protectionists, and yet they supported Mr. Mackenzie and Sir Richard Cartwright, who refused to give protection and denounced that policy. He asked them, therefore, when the election took place, to ignore the personal opinion on this question of the candidate and to deal with the statements of the leaders of the party. The policy of the Government was not much attacked, because every business man knew that it was in the interest of the country. The Reformers did not attack them much on their railway policy now. They had done so, but now the railway was built and thousands had crossed the continent on it and seen that it was a road well built and equipped as almost no other trans continental railway was equipped. Already they were gathering a trade for it such as they had not hoped to secure so early, and already the Orient was pouring its ritches into Canada through that channel. English statesman recognized that Canada had made a contribution to the Empire such as no other colony had ever attempted before. Consequently Reformers said little about their railway policy. Mr. Blake had attempted to alarm the people on account of the cost of the road, but he added to the subsidy to the road proper other amounts to swell the figures. Even Mr. Blake, with all his great power for alarming people, could not alarm the people in regard to that railway, with all its advantages, including a line through this town. Even the Franchise Bill was not talked of much now, as the thousands of workingmen and young men who had been enfranchised were soon to vote. Attacks on the policy of the Government were fruitless, and a new line of attack had been adopted. Having no policy on public questions, the Reformers had adopted a policy of personal attack and slander. If the Reformers could establish the charges they made the people would be justified in withdrawing their confidence from the Government, but they could not establish them. The first charge was in relation to the timber limits in the Northwest, which they alleged had been used to bribe supporters. In that country there was very little timber. Before 1878 the policy of Sir John Macdonald was to give the timber limits only by public tender, but Mr. Mackenzie changed this system so that anyone applying and complying with regulations could secure a timber limit. Mr. Mackenzie was influenced by good motives in doing this. The settlers felt the want of lumber, and Mr. Mackenzie thought that if they induced lumbermen to take up limits and saw lumber, the result would be that the Government would derive revenue from them and the settlers would get lumber cheaper. In his hands the plan was not successful. Just before resigning, however, on Oct. 7th, 1878, after being defeated at the poles, the Mackenzie Government granted to Messrs. Cook & Sutherland 200 square miles of timber areas along the banks of the Saskatchewan, and gave them three years in which to choose their limits in lots of 20 miles square. The first act of the present Government was to cancel that grant and to give the timber back to the people, to whom it belonged. The regulations were that any person who wished to go into the lumbering business in the Northwest could apply to the Government for a limit, and if there was no other applicant for the limit an Order-in Council was passed authorizing the Minister to issue the license when the conditions were complied with. The conditions were that the applicant should survey the limit and erect a mill, and pay a rent of $5 a year per mile, and 5 per cent. royalty on the timber cut. Any person could get a limit on these conditions. If two applied for the same limit the one giving the largest bonus for it secured the license. He challenged anyone to put their finger on a single Conservative in or out of Parliament who obtained a limit on conditions different from the regular ones. It was asserted that members of Parliament got limits as bribes. As a matter of fact, only two licenses were granted to members, both of whom were lumbermen, one being Mr. Sutherland a Reformer, and the other Mr. Dickinson, a Conservative. The Mackenzie Government had received a revenue of $7,000 from these limits, while the present Government had received $575,000 and the settlers had got lumber at less than half what it cost before. There was no ground for the charges that had been made. He went on to show, by giving details, that the charges regarding coal areas and grazing leases were equally groundless, and that the charges against Taylor, Messrs. McCarthy and Tupper & Macdonald and others were baseless. The Government was also charged with having caused a rebellion by having acted towards the halfbreeds in such a manner as to cause them to take up arms. This was a very serious charge, but it was not true. It was true that a number of petitions had been received. They began to come in as far back as 1873, and Mr. Mackenzie was in office five years after that, but did not settle the matters. In 1876 Mr. Mackenzie's government appointed Mr. Ryan to enquire into the grievances. They only notified him by telegraph, however, and gave him no definite instructions. In March, 1877, Mr. Ryan wrote to the department that [illegible] were he would be unable to deal with the claims. The Hon. David Mills replied that it was not necessary to look up the halfbreeds, and that if they cared for their claims they should come forward and establish them. That was the spirit in which the Mackenzie Government dealt with the halfbreeds. In 1878 Mr. Laird, the Lieutenant-Governor, telegraphed that Mr. Ryan's authority had lapsed and asked for its extension. The answer was that the Minister had the subject under consideration and would probably authorize Mr. Duck to investigate the claims. Mr. Duck was a local land agent, who would have to remain in his office, and could not leave it to attend to the claims. The Deputy-Minister of the Interior, in Mr. Mackenzie's time, expressed an opinion that if halfbreeds had settled on and cultivated land not otherwise taken up, it should be given to them free, but that legislation would be necessary to do that. That had been the policy of the present Government from the first. No halfbreed had been deprived of a foot of land upon which he had any claim. The petitions received referred to land matters generally. The policy that had been pursued was that a settler who was in advance of the survey and located on an old section, a Hudson Bay section, or a school section, had to leave and go on an even section; or if he made his entry after the land had been surveyed he had to do the settlement duties and pay according to the rates prevailing when the survey was made. These formed the subject of nearly all the petitions, including the celebrated petition from Dumont and others, and in October, 1882, every one of these concessions was granted by the Government. The surveys had been carried on from 1871 on the rectangular system. The halfbreeds, however, preferred a narrow front on the river running back a mile or two miles. The Government instructed the surveyors that where people who had already settled on lands asked for the river lot survey, they should make the surveys on that plan: but where there were no settlers they should follow the rectangular system. In St. Louis de Langevin the halfbreeds settled on the land after it had been surveyed, and they asked that surveyors should be again sent to re-survey it into river lots. This the Government refused, but in 1884 the land agent and Father Andre held meetings at which they told the people that, if they agreed to it among themselves, they could get the land in river lots by legal subdivision, and the patents would be issued in that way. They were agreeing to that now. There remained only the question of script. It was true that they got memoranda from Bishops regarding the script, but they all protested against issuing script, while that was what the halfbreeds asked for. And the Bishops were in conflict one with another as to the best course to pursue. On January 23th, 1885 an Order-in-Council was passed to appoint a Commission to go up and make an enumeration of the half-breeds with a view to a settlement of the script claims. They had the evidence of Nolan and of Father Andre that this information reached them in February and was announced at a meeting on March 4th Father Andre's evidence showed that every question was settled or to be immediately settled, previous to the out break, except those regarding wood and timber, and these were complaints against the ordinary regulations requiring settlers who wanted wood to sell to get a permit. The matter of script applied only to halfbreeds who did not receive script in Manitoba. The rebellion among these people was only at one place, and 92 per cent. of the halfbreeds there had received script in Manitoba and were entitled to no more. In other parts there was no rebellion among the halfbreeds, and one of the companies organized to put down the rebellion was a company of young halfbreeds. Mr. Laurier recently attempted to name two

Hall's VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Hall's Hair Renewer restores gray hair to its original color; makes the scalp white and clean; cures dandruff and humors; prevents the hair from falling out, and renders it soft and brilliant. The editor of the "Ocean Foam," Cape May, writes: "We speak knowingly, when we assert that Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is the best of its kind. The article is an elegant and cleanly one, without which we think no toilet complete." Thos. D. Jones, Middle Granville, N. Y., writes: "I have used

Hall's Hair Renewer,

Renewer about ten years, with satisfactory results." E. G. Perkins, Oberlin, Ohio, writes: "I consider Hall's Hair Renewer the best hair preserver in use. I have used it for the past twenty years, and my hair is in as vigorous and healthy a condition as when I was 30 years of age. Not a sign of gray hair to be seen anywhere.' Dwight L. Chamberlain, Oakland, California, writes: "My hair, which was nearly white, has been restored to its original color and luxuriance by the use of Hall's Hair Renewer."

The advance of time is heralded by bleached, thin, and falling hair. By the use of Hall's Hair Renewer, the hair may be restored to its original color, lustre, and vitality. M. N. Johnson, Fitchburg, Mass., writes: "My hair was weak, thin, and full of dandruff. Hall's Hair Renewer has removed the dandruff, and caused a vigorous growth of new hair." Abel H. Smith, Portsmouth, Va., writes: "My hair had nearly all fallen out, and that which was left was dry and dead. I used one bottle of Hall's Hair and now rejoice in the possession of hair as abundant as ever." E. J. Adams, St. Paul, Minn., writes: "A diseased scalp caused my hair to fall out, and, after using a number of preparations without avail, I finally tried Hall's Hair Renewer, which caused a vigorous new growth. I am still using it, and could ask for no better results." Mrs. R. H. Corning, Battle Creek, Mich., writes: "By the use of Hall's Hair Renewer, my head, which was quite bald, has been covered with a fine growth of young hair."

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

for young people is what the papers call St. Nicholas. Do you know about it,—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A Short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St. Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Rowing for Oil" and "Among the Geysers," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenent Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc. etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3 00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautifully illustrated catalogue (free) containing full prospectus, etc., etc. THE CENTURY CO., New York.

cases of dispossession. He said that one Salter had wanted land and a half-breed was dispossessed and that John Kelly had taken possession of part of a mission. The facts were these. Salter was an original settler and there was never any dispute regarding his land, and it had since been cancelled as he had left. Kelly settled on a lot which belonged to the Hudson Bay Company, and after the survey was made the Company was given land in another place to make up for it and Kelly remained. Mr. Laurier, he supposed, really referred to another case. Fisher, a half-breed, took up land, and there was a mission in the rear. When the survey was made it was found that the mission house was on the boundary of the mission lot and Fisher's land. Fisher was not dispossessed. He was given his patent on condition that he should give the mission a deed for the land on which the mission house stood. Mr. Laurier also said that Father Leduc and Mr. Moloney came to Ottawa and that promises made them were not fulfilled. The facts were that Mr. Dean, a surveyor, when through with the work given him, proceeded to survey further and was stopped. Father Leduc and Mr. Moloney came down to see if he could not proceed, and the Government gave him instructions to go on. When Father Leduc wrote again Mr. Dean had surveyed it and the notes of the survey were in the Department. Everything they had asked for was granted. The rebellion was caused by Louis Riel. Riel had a grudge against the Government, and caused himself to be sent for. As soon as he went into the Northwest he began to stir the people up, and from that time no resolutions or other representations reached the Government. Riel wanted compensation for what he called his claims. He at first asked for $100,000, and moderated the demand to $35,000, and told Father Andre that he might take less. When Father Andre said that if he was paid that money the halfbreed question would still remain, Riel replied, "If I am satisfied, the halfbreeds will be." Riel went into the Northwest for the purpose of levying blackmail on the Government and of using his unfortunate fellow-countrymen to that end. That was the hero-martyr, through the aid of whose friends Mr. Blake hoped to reach office. Riel told the people that the Roman Catholic religion was a thing of the past, and started a new religion of his own, and thus turned the people against the clergy and got control of them. He imprisoned priests and nuns and made himself master of the position. He announced that he was going to baptize his Secretary, Jackson, and on that pretence invited the halfbreeds to come and to bring their guns with them to fire a salute. When they came together he told them that 500 police were coming to drive them out, and thus got them into the Duck Lake fight and committed to rebellion. And yet they were told that the Government was responsible for the rebellion! Never was a community treated with such care and consideration as were those halfbreeds. Persons settling on lands were required to make their entries inside of three months or they would lose their rights, and yet halfbreeds had gone four years, after the survey had been made, without making their entries, and an agent had been sent to try to induce them to comply with the law. And yet the Government maintained them in possession. These transactions and the execution of Riel were depended upon to put Mr. Blake into office. The Ross Government in Quebec was nearly or quite defeated for not censuring the Dominion Government on account of the execution of Riel, and the Rielites were triumphant on account of that victory. Where did the congratulations on account of this Rielite victory come from? A Fenian organization in the United States sent congratulations, and down came a telegram from Mr. Mowat, Premier of Ontario, expressing the great joy he felt on account of the victory! The Reformers had made this question an issue. He referred to Mr. Laurier's speech in Chambly, where he declared had he been on the banks of the Saskatchewan he would have shouldered his musket with the rebels, said that they were not afraid to face British bullets, and called on them to avenge the death of Riel. That was the issue in every election in Quebec. The Government were quite willing to appeal to the people on their general policy, but when they found the Reformers taking their stand on the Riel side, and Mr. Mowat and Mr. Blake giving aid and comfort to the Rielites in Quebec, they had a right to appeal to the loyal men of Ontario whether they would allow an issue like that to triumph, or whether they should sanctify the principle that there should be one law for all and every man should be equal, whatever his race, creed or province. Mr. White, who had been frequently applauded, resumed his seat amid loud cheers.

The Hon. Mr. Foster was the next speaker. He said that the Hon Minister of the interior was not living up to his privileges. He had large tracks of timber limits to his proposal, but, notwithstanding the talk about giving away the countrys patrimony to political friends, only two members of Parliament got timber limits. And they paid full prices for them (Applause). The Hon. Mr. White had taken care of his department with that honesty which characterized him, (here Sir John entered the stage from behind and was received with wild enthusiasm). Though the remark deserved loud applause the speaker did not expect such a demonstration of approval. When he was at school he remembered that when a boy wanted to do a particularly mean thing he generally blamed some other boy in advance so as to divert condemnation. Now when the opposition charged the Government with dishonesty of principle he began to think that they were hatching something themselves. There were other things in the world besides timber limits. And he would undertake to show to honest thinking citizens that Edward Blake followed by some of his party, have tampered with the most sacred principles. He saw there on the the wall the motto "confederation must be preserved" (loud cheers) and another next to it which enbodied the fundamental principle if the presentation of confederation "On Law for all" (applause.) He would show that Edward Blake himself was the chief sinner in Canada to day. He was aiming at the subversion of both of these principles, sacred to every loyal Canadian (applause.) In the city of London Mr. Blake might have stopped all of this agitation in Quebec by simply denouncing it as a dangerous movement. But while he professed to say that one of the planks of his platform would not be made up of Riel scaffold he dropped certain expressions such as to lead the Rouges in Quebec to infer that they had Edward Blake at their back. He doubted Riel's sanity, doubted that the trial was a fair one, and doubted sundry other things. Nor were the Rouges wrong. They soon found that they had Edward Blake at their back. In London he had not the boldness to come out as he did later on when he denounced the Government for allowing Riel to be hanged. The Liberal party were today trafficing with immoral principles. (The Hon. Mr. Chapleau entered from behind. He was greeted with round after round of applause.) They had joined hands with the Rouges of Quebec in saying we will not have "One Law for All." And then the Liberals charged the Government with raising the "race and revenge cry." But who was it that raised the cry? For weeks, yea months, before the execution of Riel the Grit press from Sarnia to Gaspe were filled with challenges to the Government to hang Riel. They dared the Government to do it thinking then to pile denunciations on the Government for not fulfilling the law. The hon. gentleman read a dozen or more extracts from Grit newspapers all crying for Riel's blood. The last quotations given were from the Toronto Globe and the following from that illustrous affair, the Port Hope Guide:—"It has came to a pretty pass indeed when the red handed rebel can thus snap his dugers at the law." Before Nov. 15th, 1885, all of the Grit newspapers were crying for Riel's execution, but when the sun went down on the evening of the 15th and rose again on the morning of the 16th, and Riel expiated his crime, every Grit scribe throughout the land dipped his pen in gall and wrote about the martyrdom of a hero and patriot, or condemned the Government for executing a poor, insane man. The Government did not want to speak of the unhappy affair, but when they found the Grits making political capital out of it throughout Quebec and Ontario; when they condemned the Government it was not dishonest or dishonorable to reply to these statements, and to vindicate themselves (Applause). Mr. Blake has allied himself with a party opposed to "One law for all." Next we find him hand in glove with secessionists and annexationists. In Nova Scotia he was the friend of the first; and in New Brunswick, whenever the annexationist raised its head, Edward Blake was the champion. No wonder Mr. Blake had estranged from him hundreds and thousands of honest, patriotic Reformers throughout Canada, and especially in Ontario, by allying himself with such parties. It was only the extreme party men, whose party feeling was stronger than their own conscience, who followed Mr. Blake in his disloyal couse. He might be eloquent and try to explain his action, but the people had this fact before them, 'He has done these things" We Canadians want to build up a great country here; we want to preserve confederation; we want to treat every class, color and creed the same; we want one law for all. The speaker resumed his seat amid applause.

The Hon. Mr. Chapleau, who was next to speak, was greeted with ringing cheers. It was some time before the applause subsided. He had found it difficult to come to Peterborough. He was ill, and it was only when he found that a meeting of his countrymen had been called and that there would be one one to address them if he didn't come, that he came. He had addressed that meeting and now he was called on to give another speech. It was not right; it was cruel. And it appeared to him to be like the Roman circus of old, the fairest were first to put down their thumbs. (Applause.) However, he was on his feet, and he desired once more to enter his protest against the bad reputation which some demagogues had been trying to give his native Province, Quebec. The people here had been told that Quebec was completely aroused and that the wind of revolt had swept over that fair Province. It was true that this demagogues with their usual ability of suppressing truth and inventing falsehoods, had been able to deceive a large portion of this quiet community, but, he thanked God, their success had not been achieved and he hoped would not be achieved. (applause.) He came to tell them the great majority of the French people if left themseves would stand one and all for the preservation of confederation and for upholding the laws of the Dominion. But had been deceived by eloquence and blinded by party feeling. Himself was one of those who had most to suffer from the unfortunate excitement in Quebec (applause.) But he gloried in that suffering. (Cheers.) The tempters had offered him power, honor and wealth, but he had turn his back upon them (cheers). He had heard the temptation and had refused it. He had scorned it. He was glad to see the devotion which Ontario still expressed for the vetran Statemen Sir John Macdonald (loud cheering). The opposition might think it would triumph when Sir John retires from political life. He had announced himself that, in the ordinary case of nature, he might not be able much longer to guide the destenies of the country. But in this they would be but deluded. When Sir John left the arena of political life the people of Canada would have men capable and fit to carry on the great work which Sir John in his strength had built and which the people of Canada had supported with their whole hearts. The policy of the Conservative party had been one of progress, that of the opposition negation and defamation. No scandal they could rank up had been witheld from the people of Canada if they thought it would injure the Government. The master of the scandal-mongers was Mr. Cameron of Huron. Mr. Cameron would not fight; but rather had that gift possed by a certain small animal, which when attacked threw something at its adversaries which make him disgusted at being in the presence of such a foe (laughter). The expression might be considered vulgar; he hoped they would pardon the expression, but Mr. Cameron deserved the name of Skunk Cameron rather than anything else. The Opposition in their calumny had invented two words, "Boodle" in Ontario and "Pendards" in Quebec. In inventing the word pendards they had made a mistake, for instead of meaning "hangmen" as they wished, it signified rascals, a term which the Rouges richly deserved. There was another: they were called the "Chesnut Combination." That reminded him of the Reform "Chesnut" stories. Ruin and bankrupcy caused by Sir John—old chesnuts. Immorality and corruption of the Government—old chesnuts. Deficits every year, unlike the Mackenzie Government and the rule of the king of deficits, Sir Richard Cartwright—old chesnuts, Decrying their country and saying the country to the south of us is a better land than ours—old chesnuts. Unfortunately for the Opposition these chesnuts had been sown for a long time and Canadian soil was not good for their growth. (Cheers and applause.) If the trees had grown they had grown feebly—just enough to give shade and coolness to the small men who planted the seed. (Laughter.) As the number of professions of old were known by their costume; so the Grit-Rouge party were known by their policies. In Nova Scotia it was secession; in Quebec, rebellion; in New Brunswick, annexation, and so forth. In Quebec the party was allied with Senator Trudel, who was supposed to represent the most extravagant ideas of religion, and with Messrs. Mercier and Laurier, who were avowed freethinkers. In only one institution had he seen people who wore as costume one color on one side and another on another. (Loud cheers and laughter.) That institution they all knew well. (Renewed laughter.) The Opposition represented this class, inasmuch as they had rancour and bitterness in their hearts, no regard for the past, and hard labour before them. (Loud cheers.) In their insane greed for power they were trying to overthrow the Government which had brought prosperity to the country. In Quebec he was ashamed to see the Rouges a few days ago burning insense around the tomb of Sir George Cartier, saying that if he were alive the Government would not have been permitted to hang Riel, and that he was a loyal man and a great statesman. The same party reviled Sir George when he was alive. In a confession purporting to have been made by Sir George Cartier before his death, it was stated that he knew that Sir John was betraying the French. This party knew that Sir George was in his grave or they would not make such a statement. He (the speaker) was intimate with Sir George and knew that up till the last Sir John and himself were the warmest friends. But he must now stop. And if he died and a verdict of manslaughter was brought against the people of Peterborough for making him speak, he would not plead for mercy for them. (Laughter and loud applause.)

The Chairman said that the Junior Liberal Conservative Club intended to present an address to Sir John. He asked the President of the Club to present it now.

Mr. McNeil read the address as follows:

To the Right Honorable Sir John A. Macdonald, P.C., S. C. B., and Colleagues:

The Liberal Conservatives of the County of Peterborough tender to you, sir, and the honorable gentlemen accompanying you, a most hearty welcome to this Riding. In you, sir, the people of this Dominion see the guiding star of their prosperity, and we avail ourselves of this occasion to render to you the praise that the greatness of your statesmanship deserves. Time has worked its many changes, but under your control the destiny of Canada has defied its ravages. Serene, amidst the storm of hate and slanderous enmity, you have borne yourself with the dignity of the truly great. And when we wish to you, and to your Ministers, the success which the righteousness of your cause demands, we are but echoing the heartfelt praise of every true Canadian. We feel proud to belong to the party having as its leader the founder of the National Policy, and the main constructor of the Canadian Pacific Railway and of our great waterway, the Trent Valley Canal. At this moment Canada is called upon to chose between the upholders of a policy that has placed Canada amongst the nations of the earth, and the advocates of a policy that has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. To these best interests the people of Canada are true, and your return to the guidance of the state will be, once more, their vindication of a great and just cause. The tyranny of machines, and the malignity of falsehood, can find no abiding place with us, and, therefore, do we put our trust in you, the champion of progress and of liberty.

Sir John said in reply that he was paying the penalty of being an old man. He did not feel well, and therefore would not attempt to make a speech. The hon. gentleman had referred to the policy of slander and defamation which the Opposition were pursuing, but he was pleased to find that notwithstanding this he still retained the confidence of the country. He referred to the event of his retiring from public life. If he did so the people could see that among his colleagues there were those who were able to lead the party on to victory again. He was not here to make a speech. He was an old man now, and he had made up his mind to make his younger and more vigorous colleagues bear the heat of the battle. (Applause). He thanked the people for the courteous way they had received himself and colleagues, and also the young men for their handsome address.

A Word to the Wise.

We are now getting a dip of genuine winter weather—weather that will stand no humbugging whatever—and the predestrain who is unfortunate enough not to be wrapped up in furs knows that it is really cold, with good prospects of still colder weather to follow. This is not at all comfortable—that is to the man who does not wear good warm clothing, and to all such the advice given by A. McNeil is to call at Habiliment Hall and get a sensible winter suit or overcoat.

DISASTER AT SEA.

Numerous Vessels Wrecked and Lives Lost on the Nova Scotian Coast.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 4.—Numerous disasters at sea are reported from along the coasts. The schooner J. W. Dean, of Parrsboro, from Joggins for St. John, coal laden, has foundered with four men. Capt. McCarron, John Logue, Alexander Fall and Alexander Baird. The schooner N. J. Laughton, from Wolfeville, with a cargo of apples for New York, is a total wreck at Musquash, the crew being saved. An English barquentine, name unknown, believed to be from Newfoundland or Brazil for Sydney, ran on a reef projecting four miles off Flint Island yesterday. A tug boat went from Cow Bay, but could not get within hailing distance. Her masts are broken her boats smashed or lost and the vessel is pounding to pieces. Only four men were visible on the wreck, the rest of the crew are doubtless drowned. They can do nothing to save themselves, and no help can reach them till the weather moderates.

ALLEGED FAITH CURE.

A Remarkable Case of Restoration of Speech

WILKESBARRE, Dec. 3.—A remarkable case of alleged faith cure occurred on Sunday at Ashley, a small town near this city. Eight years ago Kate Martin, now eighteen years of age, was prostrated by a severe attack of measles and scarlet fever. The illness left her almost speechless. A short time ago her parents heard of many cures effected by visiting the Chapel of Knock, in Ireland. They were too poor, however, to send their daughter there, but they resolved to try the efficacy of water in which had been soaked some of the plaster taken from the walls of the church. With great difficulty they obtained some of this plaster, and on Sunday the remedy was tried. The girl drank freely of the water and spent the whole evening in prayer. She retired late at night, and in the morning found that her voice had been restored in all its fulness and power. Her parents were first acquainted with this miraculous restoration of her speech by hearing her prayer of thanksgiving.

PITCHED INTO THE WAVES.

The Rough Passage of a Steamer as Detailed by a Passenger.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Francis P. Fuhrman, of Newark, N. J., who came over on the steamer Westerland, tells a story which differs in material points with that told by the officers of the steamer. He says: "For two days before the accident occurred, we were pitched and tossed by winds and waves. On Sunday the weather became something fearful. The vessel pitched and tossed so alarmingly that we clung to anything to prevent being thrown about. The speed of the vessel never once slackened, and it seemed to pitch right into the waves like a locomotive into a snow bank. The steamer never once rode the waves, but plunged through them. It was the common talk among the passengers that the Captain was trying to make up for the twenty-one hours we were delayed on the start. It was also common talk among the passengers, who were unable to sleep, that the Captain never put in an appearance, but left everything to his officers."

UNPRECEDENTED CATCHES OF FISH

Two Boat Loads Taken in One Day by Nova Scotia Fishermen.

SHELBURNE, N.S., Dec. 4.—Reports from Cape Sable and other points eastward show an increase within the past fortnight in the catches of cod, herring and mackerel. The oldest fishermen are unable to recall the time when any of these branches of fishing could be prosecuted so successfully so late in the season. Formerly cod began to leave their inshore haunts for deeper water in the middle of November, and sometimes much earlier. There has always been a difficulty in procuring bait, for autumn run mackerel generally gave those shores a wide berth and herring were extremely uncertain in their movements. This autumn presents a contrast to previous years. Either the codfish have not yet begun their annual migrations, or new schools are continually arriving on the grounds. Judging by the number taken and the size of the fish, the latter would seem to be the case. Last week there were but two days available to the fleet of boats, but the catches were something extraordinary. On Tuesday many boats were loaded twice with codfish taken close in shore. On Thursday the doings were still better. Such of the boats as could not make two trips resorted to a novel expedient to save the fish they caught after their load was completed. They strung the codfish on lines and towed them ashore.

THE PACIFC CABLE.

The Views of Sandford Fleming on the Great Telegraph Scheme.

OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—Speaking of the proposed Pacific cable scheme, Mr. Sanford Fleming, C. E., an enthusiastic projector, in an interview, said the object of the company having the matter in hand is to establish direct telegraphic communication between Australia, New Zealand, Canada and Great Britain by means of a line perfectly independent of existing lines and freed from foreign influences. It is believed that this can be secured by establishing a chain of cables across the Pacific ocean from Brisbane or Sydney to the north of New Zealand, thence via the Fiji Islands and Sandwich Islands to Barclay Sound, Vancouver Island, then across to the new city of Vancouver on the mainland, the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Then the line across would follow the Canadian Pacific Railway as far as it goes, and be extended possibly to Gaspe, in the Province of Quebec. From Gaspe a cable would be laid through the Straits of Belle Isle to the United Kingdom, until it be found practicable to secure control of one of the existing lines across the Atlantic. The total length of the cables contemplated in the Pacific and Atlantic oceans is 11,135 miles, and the distance across the continent will be 3,450 miles making in all close on 15,000 miles. The whole question is now under the consideration of all the governments immediately concerned: Great Britain, Canada, Fiji, New Zealand, New South Wales, Queensland, Victoria, South Australia, Western Australia, Tasmania and India. It will take some time yet before the Australian governments can be heard from, but their co-operation is confidently expected.

THE FRENCH CRISIS.

Probable Dissolution of the Chambers and Appeal of the People.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—A special from Paris to the Courier Des Etats-Unis, says of yesterday's defeat and the resignation of the ministry: "The majority formed against the ministry was composed of deputies of the right and those of the extreme left. The general opinion is that the hostile vote is due in great part to the maladroitness of the ministers, who thought it their duty to oppose the obvious will of the Chamber by almost inopportune resistance on a question of secondary importance. There is talk of repairing the evil at to-morrow's (Saturday's) session by adopting an order declaring a vote of confidence such as will satisfy M. de Freycinet and his colleagues. Meanwhile it is not certain that this will be effected, for M. de Freycinet appears to be at the end of his patience. If the Ministry hold to their resignation a dissolution of the Chamber of Deputies and an appeal to the country are among the possible events of the near future. President Grevy, after the rumours that have been circulated, would be disposed to sign a decree of dissolution and to convoke the elections after a delay of three months, in accordance with article 5 of the constitution, provided M. de Freycinet consulted him as to such action. In that case it would be the first time that he would have exercised his prerogative since his election to the Presidency eight years ago."

A BIG SWINDLE.

A Bogus Agent of Mr. Abbey Sells Tickets for the Patti Nights in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 4.—For the last two days there has been great excitement in the City of Mexico over the sale of tickets at the National Theatre for the Patti season of five nights in January. The crowds around the National Theatre fairly blocked the street, and it seemed as if the city had gone mad over the expected advent of the great songstress. The prices of the boxes are $50 a night and the seats $5. The obtensible agent of Mr. Abbey conducting the sale was a man giving his name as Mayer. Seats were bought in whole blocks, some persons paying one thousand dollars for boxes en masse. The receipts amounted to $24,900. Last night Mayer went to a hotel accompanied by a policeman, nominally appointed to guard him, but in reality to see that he deposited all the money in the hotel safe. In some ingenious way Mayer transferred over $20,000 in bills on the National Bank and the Bank of London to his overcoat pocket, and deluded the policeman into believing that all had been deposited in the safe. Mayer disappeared during the night and has not since been seen. The authorities are looking for Mayer, and the speculators are receiving the mock condolences of their friends. This is said to be the biggest swindle of the kind ever known in this capital.

A CURIOUS DEVELOPMENT.

An American Vessel to be sold by a United States Officer.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 4.—A very curious fact has been developed in connection with the confiscation of the "Highland Light." The vessel is to be sold by H. A Hyndman, Marshal of the Admiralty Court. By a strange coincidence this same Hyndman is the United States consul at Charlottetown. After President Cleveland assumed office he appointed Mr. Keim, a Pennsylvania politician, to the Charlottetown consulate. The position is worth $1,500. Keim, who has a rich wife, expected the appointment of American minister to Rome, but accepted the Charlottetown consulate rather than nothing. He found the post too small and the place too dull, and resigned two months ago and selected Hyndman as United States representative. Thus it happens that an American vessel confiscated to the Canadian Government will be actually sold by a consul of the United States. Consul-General Phelan is astonished at the queer state of affairs, and will try to find a loophole out of the ludicrous situation by insisting that United States Consul and Admiralty Marshal Hyndman shall get a deputy to perform the last official rites over the remains of the American schooner Highland Light.

AFTER A FORTUNE.

A New Brunswicker Heir to Half a Million Dollars in Ceylon.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Dec. 4.—Another New Brunswicker has fallen heir to a fortune, Alexander Mitchell, of Aberdeen, Carleton County, had often heard around the old fireside in the Isle of Jersey, where he was born, tales of the fabulous wealth of an uncle in Ceylon. A year ago a letter reached him from a wife of this uncle, advising him of the uncle's death, and wanting him to go to Ceylon to look after the estate. The long journey for his wife and family made him hesitate, and he heard nothing more until a few days ago he was startled with an advertisement in a newspaper announcing the death of his aunt, and calling on this Alexander Mitchell, to whom by the will of his uncle all the property reverted on the death of his wife. Mitchell has taken steps to prosecute his claims and prove the title to an estate valued at half a million of dollars.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The Irish question was discussed for two hours at the Cabinet Council yesterday. The Government are apparently satisfied with their present rigorous policy, and have decided not to meet again till after Christmas, unless some unforeseen event compels them. Several of them have already left town for the holidays. Foreign affairs were scarcely discussed at all, as it is understood the Government do not regard the rumors about French interference in Egypt as serious.

THE CRISIS IN FRANCE.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The fall of the French ministry attracts less attention here than usual, because from the circumstances of the case, it is seen that M. DeFreycinet is inevitably his own successor. The Government will reorganize after shedding a few of its members and adding Radicals in their places.

UNIONIST APPROVAL.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The coercive policy of the Government is approved of by Lord Hartington. The Liberal-Unionist conference, which meets on Tuesday, will be asked to affirm the necessity of vindicating the law and the rights of property in Ireland. After the conference a banquet will be given. Applications for 3,000 seats have been received. This will be the first great demonstration held by the Unionists.

RENT TRUSTEES TO BE PROSECUTED

DUBLIN, Dec. 5.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chief Secretary for Ireland, returned to Dublin yesterday, in response to a hasty summons to attend a conference of the Lord Justice and law officers of the Crown. THE RENT MOVEMENT.

DUBLIN, Dec. 5.—The rent movement, instead of being checked, as anticipated by the Dublin Castle officials as the result of the proceedings against Mr. Dillon, continues to spread with increased rapidity. The difficulty of the leaders is to restrain rather than stimulate the tenants.

METHODIST CONFERENCE.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Committee of the English Wesleyan Conference has sent to the Board of Bishops of the Methodist Church in America and the presidents of the Conferences in Canada, Australia and the West Indies, circulars intimating that the second Ecumenical Conference will meet in America in 1891. DUBLIN, Dec. 5.—The tenants in many places are forcing a rupture, while the league prefers to exhaust every effort to arrive at a settlement with the landlords. The opinion is rapidly spreading among the tenants that their leaders will in a short time be imprisoned, and that the National League will be suppressed.

THE GERMAN ARMY.

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—General von Moltke's appeal to the Reichstag for a unanimous vote in favour of the military bill made a deep impression, and is said to have converted many opponents of the measure. It is considered certain that the bill will be passed.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

The Daily Review.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1886.

MR. MEREDITH'S ADDRESS.

THE address to his constituents by Mr. Meredith, the leader of the Conservative Opposition in the Legislature of Ontario, besides answering its immediate purpose, will very naturally be considered to embody also the platform of his party. It is so plain and outspoken that we have not hitherto considered it necessary to discuss it in detail, thinking a general expression of assent sufficient.

We observe, however, that a number of our contemporaries supporting Mr. Mowat, finding themselves utterly unable to combat this expression of Mr. Meredith's policy, pretend to believe that it is a very colorless document, and that it promises nothing of any moment. That such a criticism is an absurd pretence must be obvious to anyone who has read the document. If some criticism by Reform journals is indispensable they would have been more likely to obtain credence, at least from supporters of Mr. Mowat, and other Reformers afraid of reform, if they had argued that it promised more than he could hope to be able to perform. It certainly is a herculean task that is foreshadowed, but we believe not beyond the powers of Mr. Meredith and his supporters. They have the advantages of sincerity and earnestness on their side.

It will have been noticed that there is nothing claptrap, no sensational aiming at novelty about this address. It is an authoritative statement of a policy which has already been favored by the Conservatives in the Legislative Assembly. It will also have been noticed that as to very many points of great importance it is diametrically opposed to the less liberal policy of Mr. Mowat.

Manhood suffrage is a measure for which we believe our Province is prepared. It has been strongly urged by the Conservatives, but was flatly refused by Mr. Mowat. In fact the recent extension of the franchise was forced by the Conservatives upon Mr. Mowat, who combatted it point by point as long as he could, and even when he yielded at last he made it more restricted than the Conservatives advocated.

The cessation by the Province of expenditure on immigration is another salutary policy that Mr. Meredith and his friends have long advocated, being opposed by Mr. Mowat on the apparent grounds that the present system was established by himself and Mr. Mackenzie when in power at Ottawa, and that it affords opportunities for partizan patronage.

The proposal to spend more on colonization roads, and less on bosses to purchase party support, will be acceptable not only to our back country settlers, but also to all honest men. The use made by Mr. Mowat of this appropriation as a corruption fund, so administered as to secure the greatest political support with the least possible work, has long been a scandal, only partially veiled by means of cooked public accounts and studied delay in giving information.

The husbanding of our timber resources will be another change of importance. At present the timber of the Province (like the rest of its real estate) seems chiefly valued by Mr. Mowat for two purposes, to enable him by reckless alienation of our capital to meet his current expenditure, and to reward party services. How many of his recent supporters in the House had an interest in timber limits? And have not the services of some of the hardest workers for him in the Peterborough constituencies been secured by the same means?

The extension of the powers of our municipal and local institutions in place of Mr. Mowat's centralizing policy will be welcome. The system of these so-called Reformers and Liberals is to usurp by steady encroachments all that is possible of our local powers, funds and patronage, so that Mr. Mowat may use them for partizan objects.

Of a like nature is the contemplated improvement of removing our educational system from the control of a partizan head. We have seen the evil of Mr. Mowat's system in his imposing of an exorbitant price for school books upon every pupil, that by means of this valuable consideration to a dishonest publisher, he might hire from him the control of his journal. The Educational Department has indeed been made a factory of political capital.

The legislation foreshadowed in the interests of labor is judicious and expedient. That the promise is sincere is apparent from the fact that recent measures of this description have been unwillingly adopted by Mr. Mowat from the Conservatives. The Factory Act he kept inoperative for a year and a half, looking and begging for interference with it from the Dominion authorities, and only now giving it force because shamed into it. Other measures with similar aim were proposed by the Conservatives, opposed by Mr. Mowat, and only taken up by him at last in a mutilated form under this moral compulsion. The preference given by the Reform Administration to convict labor over that of honest men is an iniquity crying for the proposed remedy.

The equality of all men under and before the law is such an elementary principle of good government that it need have called forth no mention from Mr. Meredith, but for some of the recent fantastic tricks of Mr. Mowat and his friends.

The honest enforcement of the laws as to intoxicating liquors is another obvious duty, but is one that has been neglected by Mr. Mowat, who has preferred a system of neglect alternating with exceptional interference as partizan interests dictated.

We have not discussed each topic of this able address, but we have said enough on some of its chief points to show its character. It embodies a salutary policy, plainly and unmistakeably indicated. It pledges Mr. Meredith, and therefore indirectly his supporters, to great and valuable reforms. It frankly and firmly condemns the hurtful and unworthy policy of Mr. Mowat, and the grave faults of omission and commission of his Administration.

The electors of Ontario reading Mr. Meredith's address will find ample reason for confiding to him the power that has been abused by Mr. Mowat.

THE PUBLIC DOMAIN.

OF all the silly articles recently perpetrated by the London Advertiser perhaps the silliest is its effusion as to the Ontario Assembly being "illy" adapted to the work of administration in regard to our timber land. What ever meaning "illy" may have it apparently is not complimentary and may be applicable to a legislative that supports Mr. Mowat in rewarding friendly members and party services with timber limits.

Its leading object seems to be to combat Mr. Meredith's statement as vast as areas of our timber lands being "placed under license without the assent of the Assembly." It urges that the Legislature is unfit to administer our property and also that the Legislature authorized the Commissioner of Crown Lands to sell our timber. One of the chief pretences on which the Reformers crept into power in Ontario, was the accusation of wrong doing against the Sandfield Macdonald Administration for proposing to distribute among railways a fixed appropriation voted by the House. And now we find a journal that supports Mr. Mowat, advocating his right, or that of his colleague, to dispose of our valuable timber lands without any restriction as to the quantity alienated. But dishonest inconsistency is so common among Mr. Mowat's friends as hardly to invite comment; it is of more consequence to consider the principle now advocated. Our Legislature has important administrative as well as legislative duties, and one of these should be to determine the quantity of our property to be sold in any year, so as not to leave the Administration free to dip into our capital at its own sweet will to supplement deficient revenue. The present system seems to have been adopted with this end in view, and also to facilitate Mr. Mowat's dishonest dealing with our property for corrupt purposes. We believe our next Assembly will be quite competent to determine what portion of our forests it would be well to sell each year. We may remark, by the way, that what our contemporary erroneously calls securing a "revenue" of about $700,000 a year, is to a large extent squandering our capital to meet current expenditure.

The Advertiser having thus advocated the usurpation of the work of the Legislature by the Administration, proceeds to throw upon the Legislature a responsibility which might well be assumed by the Administration. It maunders on about a supposed impossibility to prevent our sawlogs being taken to mills in the United States, except by means of an export duty, or of prohibition of purchases by "Americans" of timber limits. Pray what is there to prevent a conditional sale for home manufacture?

Perhaps Mr. Meredith did make a little oversight as to the development of our mineral wealth. He can hardly have forgotten how Mr. Mowat helped in developing mineral wealth in this and the adjacent county by selling it out at a sacrifice to Mr. Coe that he might ship it out of the country, the transaction being intended to reward Mr. Coe at our expense for pandering to Mr. Mowat's malignity by putting a Dominion Ministry to the trouble of a contest in which Mr. Coe had no hope of success, but only of such adventitious "perquisites" from Mr. Mowat. Then, too, there is the more recent development of mineral wealth in favor of Mr. Morgan, M.P.P., in which Mr. Mowat alienated a portion of the property of the people of Ontario for the benefit of a friendly member, a transaction classed by the Reformers themselves in the category of corrupt dealings between Minister and member.

As to the proprietorship of the minerals in Northwestern Ontario, that is a question for the law courts rather than the Legislature. There is no doubt that Mr. Meredith will zealously protect our rights by a prompt appeal to the law, instead of following the bad example of Mr. Mowat in obstinately keeping us out of our rights for many years, through his struggle to make party capital by refusing to go to the courts, and then through either sulkiness, folly or dishonesty abandoning a large portion of our claim without an effort to secure our full rights.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SKATING.—The skating is splendid; but the sleighing is not all that can be desired.

SALE.—The lumber sale held on Monday by Mr. C. Young at his lumber yard was a decided success. About $900 worth was disposed of.

A SUCCESS.—The debating society is an assured success, its membership is steadily increasing and the greatest harmony prevails. The society meets every Friday night. The next subject of debate will be: "Which is the more preferable way of disposing of murderers—by capital punishment or by penal servitude for life?" A lively debate is anticipated.

OYSTER SUPPER.—Mr. and Mrs. C. Young entertained a few of their many friends at an oyster supper last Saturday evening. After discussing the edibles of a well appointed table the following toasts were proposed. The names coupled with the toasts were the respondents:—"Our host and hostess," Mr. C. Young; "Our steamboat interests," Mr. P. E. Young; "Our mercantile interests," Mr. W. J. Young; "Our financial interests," Mr. F. J. Young; "Our lumbering interests," Mr. C. Young; "Our schools and teachers," Mr. T. N. Lee. "The Ladies" and "The Queen" were responded to by songs. Music, singing and social chat followed, and caused the guests to spend a very pleasant evening.

THE CENTURY.

For 1886-87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, in the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES.

which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettsburg will be described by Gen. Hunt, Chief of the Union Artillery; Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chickamauga, by Gen. D. H. Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Generals Howard and Slocum. Generals Q. A. Gillmore, Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter, and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, etc., etc., will appear

NOVELS AND STORIES

"The hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelettes by Geo. W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorn, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year

THE SAINTS IN HEAVEN.

NOTES ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON BY DR. JOHN HALL.

Lesson XI of the International Series for Sunday, Dec. 12—Golden Text, Revelations vii, 15—Lesson Text, Revelations vii, 9-17.

The opening of this chapter, whatever differences of view may exist as to its interpretation (and on these teachers will not be expected to enter), suggests one great truth, namely, that the world will stand and the human race go forward till all God's people are safe. The angels having the winds in their hands are to keep them from their work of destruction till the servants of God are "sealed in their foreheads" and secured as the Lord's. Ezek. ix, 4, probably is the Old Testament basis for this figure of sealing. Of the New Testament Israel the Hebrew tribes were the type, hence the list. Paul speaks of "the election of grace" (Rom. xi, 5). Of course no literal view of this can stand. But it is not Hebrews only who are saved. Here the wide view which the apostle was to unfold is presented in the "great multitude" outside the tribes. The believers of other than the Hebrew nation were despised by none more than by Hebrews. Here is a lesson for all, Jews and Gentiles.

V. 9. After the sealing of the 144,000 from the tribes, the apostle had a vision of a great multitude—not Hebrews, but of "all nations," etc. The several words are employed to make the idea vivid and impressive. The attitude of this multitude is standing, in reverence and adoration. The position is "before the throne and before the Lamb." The garb is "white robes," of purity (see v. 14), not triumph. See Zech. iii, 2-5, for the Old Testament presentation of this idea, which is also in Isa. i, 18. They have "palms in their hands." Here the idea is probably of rejoicing and triumph, possibly of honor to the Saviour, as He was honored in His approach to Jerusalem (John xii, 12-13). See for the Old Testament precedent Lev. xxiii, 40.

V. 10. "Salvation to our God," the burden of their cry, means that the honor of it belongs to Him, as in Ps. iii, 8, and in Isa. xliii, 11. Notice that the Father and the Son are joined together. God gave the Son. Jesus did not die to win over the Father or to rescue us from His hands. He satisfied justice, but divine love provided Him as a Saviour. In this He and His Father are one.

V. 11. We are told that the angels desire to "look into" the things of salvation (I Pet. i, 9-12). God's grace is more wonderful to them than creation or providence. This appears in the next feature in this wonderful picture. "All the angels stood round about," and in view of the redeemed throng of men they, according to the eastern idea of homage to a king, "fell before the throne on their faces" and renewed their worship and adoration. The substance of their praise is in

V. 12. They were not redeemed, but they cry "amen" to the song of redeemed men's praise. They have seen their God in a new light, as never before. They recognize the glory of His grace and His justice. Seven elements enter (perhaps there is no design of representing perfection) their ascription of praise. And they say "our God"—always theirs or theirs in common with men now restored. Think of angels rejoicing over not one sinner saved, but a great, innumerable throng! Think of this goodly fellowship forever! Here we sing praises feebly and poorly, but what a joint song this will be before the throne!

V. 13. It is the way when intending to bring out a thing prominently to put a question, as here by one of the elders, "What are these," etc. There had been a glimpse of the party to which they belonged in Rev. vi, 9-11, where they are told that they are to wait till the number is completed. It is so now. The question is not put, as it is intimated in the apostle's reply

(V. 14), for information, but to prepare for giving and receiving it. So the angel answers, "These are they which came out of great tribulation," who fought, ran with patience, endured to the end, who were scoffed at, despised, counted ignorant fanatics, often sacrificed by violence and persecution, and who are now before the throne. But it was not the tribulation that saved them, not suffering or heroism of theirs. No. "They washed their robes," etc. This was the ground of their escape—the way of their salvation. The Lamb was slain; the marks of it remain on Him. They believed Him, or, in other words, came to His cross; or, in other words, washed their robes in His blood. No courage, self denial, sacrifice of ours saves. Christ saves, as the agent of salvation. Faith saves, as the means of joining us to Him and giving us the benefit of His work. See I Pet. i, 18-19.

V. 15. "Therefore are they," because He saved, and they trusted Him, and were faithful even unto death, "before the throne of God." They are dwelling with Him and He with them. They are in the real Eden, and God is in fellowship with Him, and they are not hiding from Him, but "serving Him day and night." The place is a temple, of which [illegible] was a type, and they are reasons for serving God here. It is preparation for the future. That will be perfect happiness. Any true happiness we get here will be from serving Him. Here we tire of service. Not so there, "day and night." Here we are often far off from Him, and the cry, "Nearer, my God, to Thee!" is fitting. Not so there. He that sitteth on the throne shall dwell among them. Teachers cannot too much dwell on this and try to make heaven happy, glorious and real in the minds of the pupils.

V. 16. Saints in John's time, and in all time, suffered much. The world, in spite of all that men say of it when in the sunshine, is a vale of tears. Sin brought in misery. We may have "trade unions," better laws, improved dwellings, larger profits, greater privileges and the like, but suffering, misery, pain, death, are here in spite of the best mere human means. But the redeemed shall have an eternity in glorious contrast with all that. Natural wants will never again prey on them. Heat shall never oppress them. Earthquakes shall never terrify them. Malaria shall never waste them. They are to be in the new heavens and the new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness, and with it perfect happiness. This is put in the most lively possible way in

V. 17. The Lamb—the good Shepherd—shall feed them and lead them to living fountains of waters (see Psalm xxiii), pure, perennial, gladdening. Zech. xiv, 8, and Ezek. xlvii, 12, give Old Testament precedent for this. And as for tears, God shall wipe them away—all of them. What brings tears! Sufferings, bereavements, sorrows, sins. There will be none of these forever. This also is an old promise. (See Isa. xxv, 8; li, 11; lxv, 19.)

The following points are worthy of renewed notice:

(1) God's servants have many blessings here—some that others never taste—but it is not here they find their heaven. They have many enemies here.

(2) Suffering for God is never forgotten by Him. It may be when a schoolmate says in scorn, "Oh, you are religious!" or it may be at the stake. He remembers it.

(3) Christ's work is not in vain. There will be an innumerable multitude saved. "He shall see of the travail of His soul, and shall be satisfied," great as is the love of His compassionate heart.

(4) We do not worship angels, for they are creatures and our fellow servants; and we do not ask them to pray for us, for that were to reflect on the prevailing intercession of the one Mediator; but we must be interested in them. They are our fellow servants now and will be for ever and ever. Finally,

(5) Let us make sure that we are washed in the blood of the Lamb.

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

for young people is what the papers call St. Nicholas. Do you know about it,—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St. Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. B. Lincoln, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder; "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenant Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3 00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. WE HAIL

Our customers, and once more invite them to inspect our stock, which is well assorted in all departments. As the Fall Season is now virtually open and the

INAUGURATION

Of which obliges us to compete with our rivals, we are determined to offer every facility to both our permanent and transitory customers, who wish to give us a call, and we assure them they will get no better value for their money anywhere.

We draw special attention to our stock of

Mantle Coths and Ulsterings

Which are made to fit the body, and not the body them.

Remember its not our intention to solicit your votes politically, but we have the temerity to ask your custom and will deem it an honor to serve you. As usual our motto is "Small Profits and Fair Dealing."

Among the subjects to be discussed will be the enforcement of the Scott Act, and electorial action. All upholders of law and order are invited to be present.

Orchestra.

Mr. D. B. McDuff announces his intention of organizing an amateur orchestra at the beginning of the new year. This will afford an excellent opportunity for the development of talent in that line and the practice of concerted music. Under Mr. McDuff's leadership the enterprise will no doubt be a success.

Machinery Manufacture.

The Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Co.'s Works are working full time, with a prospect of a busy winter season. Both the boiler and machine shop departments are now booming with business. Orders have recently come in from British Columbia for two boilers 5 feet in diameter, 14 feet long, and with 53 four-inch tubes; for a tubular heater; for a smokestack, 75 feet in height; and for an engine. This machinery is for the Royal City Planing Mills, New Westminster. From Fairbank of Toronto, an order for an upright boiler and two horizontal engines has been received. A large marine boiler, containing 133 three-inch tubes, is to be put under construction soon for one of the lake vessels. Added to this is a large amount of miscellaneous work, in which is a large contract for the supply of the iron-work to be used at the Trent Valley Canal Works at Burleigh and Lovesick.

FOR a nobby, well-made suit of Clothes, try A. MCNEIL, Habilliment Hall.

THE VOTERS' LISTS.

Result of the Revision Courts—A Large Conservative Gain.

The town list of voters for 1886 was the last one revised by the County Judge, the appeals on the town lists being disposed of last week. The result of these courts has been satisfactory to the Conservatives, as the additions and the number struck off in the riding were as follows:—

	Con. Ref.	Con. Gain.
Smith—
Added	14 0
Struck off	0 8	22
South Monaghan—
Added	23 10
Struck off	0 6	19
North Monaghan—
Added	5 0
Struck off	0 10	15
Lakefield—
Added	6 1
Struck off	0 11	16
Harvey—
Added	6 0
Struck off	0 15	21
Peterborough—
Added	123 98
Struck off	0 9	34
Total Conservative gain		127

In other townships there were no appeals. The lists for 1886 were filed in time with the Clerk of the Peace except the Galway and Cavendish list, and the 1886 lists will be used throughout the riding except in Galway and Cavendish, which will disfranchise a number of persons in those townships.

POLICE COURT.

INDECENT EXPOSURE.

MONDAY, Dec. 6.—On Saturday afternoon P. Windsor and C. Lauthier were fined $1 and $2.85 costs each, for having acted in an indecent manner about four miles from town. Mr. Geo. Cochrane and two ladies were driving along when these two stood in the road and exposed their persons. Mr. Cochrane drove to town, left the ladies here, and, accompanied by Chief Cooper, went after the offenders. The two and another were captured and arraigned before Magistrate Dumble with the above result. The three were drunk.

Concert Hall.

Mr. T. Bradburn has complied with the request of the Peterborough Musical Society, and has fitted up a very commodious and neat concert hall in the Opera House block. The hall is situated on the third flat on the east side. It is seventy feet long and twenty-five feet wide. The walls have been prettily tinted; dadoes add to the appearance of the place; and electeic light has been furnished. The improvements made consist in the erection of a stage at the north end, the construction of cloak rooms at the south and fitting the hall with chairs. The Society will hold its regular meeting to-morrow evening.

The Blue Noses.

A detachment of Nova Scotia Salvationists arrived in town on Saturday. Their names are: Capt. Archibald, Capt. Fielder, Capt. Creighton, Lieut. Mercer, Cadet Cope, Cadet Wilson, Cadet McAdams, Cadet Michael and Cadet Carvier. Meetings were held in the barracks, Aylmer street, which were well attended. On Sunday meetings were held in the Opera House, at which large crowds attended. In the conflict during the day four prisoners were taken from the devil's ranks. The operations of the day were commanded by Adjutant Bolton. The Nova Scotians have gone on to Toronto. Part of them will enlist under Staff Capt. Young, who is to lead the attack on Manitoba next week. Winnipeg will be the primary point of attack.

The Holiday Season

We are once more entering upon the gay and festive holiday season. About this time of the year the average parent begins to think how many turkeys it will be necessary to purchase in order to live through the X-mas and New Year season, while his less thoughtful boys are constantly reminding him of what he promised them at Christmas if they attended carefully to the woodpile during the year. The year fast drawing to a close has been a prosperous one. Although they are those who will complain, yet they are the exception, not the rule. Fathers, if you want to buy a holiday present for the boys buy them something serviceable. Go to Habiliment Hall and see what A. McNeil will do for you in this connection.

The Cattle Blockade.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Dec. 4.—The cattle blockade in Texas grows worse. There are 1,000 carloads of beef cattle between Fort Worth and Toyah awaiting shipment, with no cars to move them. At Colorado city there are 600 carloads, at Midland 100, and at Ranger, Abilene, Sweet Water and other points 300 carloads. The Texas and Pacific cars are tied up to a great extent in the north, where the roads about St. Louis and Chicago are using them. The Fort Worth and Denver and Missouri Pacific are also short of cars, and numbers of cattle are in the stock pens and being held near the lines awaiting shipment. This blockade is a serious blow to the stock men, who have their beeves in fine order for shipment, but they are losing weight daily by this tie up.

Drowned in a Gale.

BRONTE, Ont., Dec. 4.—On Tuesday evening, about five o'clock, the Bronte fishing fleet went out in the lake between Oakville and Point Credit to lift their nets as usual, and on their return trip they encountered a fearful gale and snow storm, after which they found that one boat, with its occupants, had gone to the bottom. They were brothers, William and Byron Dorland. The bodies have not been recovered. They both leave young wives and children.

The Manitoba Elections.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 4.—Later returns are that there were three elections by acclamation on Thursday: Hon. Mr. Lariviere, Conservative, at St. Boniface; Mr. Burke, Conservative at St. Francois Xavier, and Mr. Gelley, Independent, at Cartier. Mr. Burke's election by acclamation was due to the Liberal candidate's nominating paper being rejected owing to a technical informality.

EAST AFRICA.

A Rebellion Against the Portuguese Authority Suppressed.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Advices from Durban state that the revolt of the natives against Portuguese authority on the east coast of Africa, above the Transvaal, which began about Nov. 3rd, and which was about culminating in a concentrated attack upon the port town of Inhambane, has been ended. The Portuguese of Inhambane, assisted by the Government of Mozambique, succeeded in defeating and dispersing the insurgents and in suppressing the rebellion. The Transvaal Government offered the Portuguese the services of a contingent of Boer troops, but the Portuguese declined to accept them.

Now received, a large variety of the Willard Tract Depository Publications, consisting of Illuminated Scripture Text Books, Scripture Cards, and a general assortment of Books, Cards, etc., etc. J. ERSKINE.

LAKEHURST.

From Our Own Correspondent.

POLITICAL ADDRESS.—Mr. Carnegie, M.P. P., delivered an address in the town hall, Lakehurst, on Thursday Nov. 25th, in which he ably exposed the delinquencies of the Mowat government in regard to colonization roads, model farms, and the finances of the country generally. He was opposed by Mr. Louis Wilcox, leader of the Reform party at Lakehurst. Mr. Elliott filled the chair and the meeting was conducted in an orderly manner.

A TEXAS STEER.—A gentleman here lately owned a very remarkable steer, which he twice tried to take past Buckhorn bridge to the drovers, but in each instance it baffled his attempts, inflicting some injuries on its drivers. He then determined trying a different mode of warfare. To accomplish his purpose he called together the Harvey cowboys, armed with muskets, lasso and bowie knife, who forthwith proceeded to exterminate the animal. But the animal was not of the same opinion evidently, for on receiving a charge he suddenly became furious and set out for the wood, cowboys in hot pursuit. The woods now became a scene of general disorder till at last the beast becoming indignant turned on his merciless pursuers, and they thinking that "discretion is the better part of valor," and agreeing with the old adage "He who fights and runs away will live to fight another day," betook themselves to the tree-top with the greatest activity. The steer having sustained this unequal conflict for a day and a half was obliged to succumb to the musket of one of the cowboys, who, taking advantage of the animal's blindness, fired and killed it from behind a stone pile, and thus ended its unparalleled career.

A LOT of Damask Table Cloths, slightly imperfect, cheap. J. ERSKINE.

Canadian Pacific Navigation Co.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 4.—The Canadian Pacific Navigation Company has ordered from the Union car company of San Francisco a steel screw steamer of 1,000 tons to be used as a feeder for the Canadian Pacific Railroad. It will ply on Puget Sound. The price agreed upon is $200,000.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the ourden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

Colonel Gilder Heard From.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 4.—Colonel Gilder and his companion, Lieut. Griffiths, who seek to reach the North Pole, are wintering among the Esquimaux, near York Factory, with a view to learning the language and habits of the people.

"We say at night, 'Would God the day were here,'
And say at dawn, 'Would God the day were dea','"

How well Swinburne has emphasized the feelings of thousands of Earth's fairest daughters, who are laid prostrate by disease's fell hand. But, instead of the anguish of despair, what a song of joy ascends from the hearts of those ladies who used Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," and by its means been restored to the glorious sunshine of health. It is a positive remedy for those derangements, irregularities and weaknesses so common to our best female population. Price reduced to $1. By all druggists.

THE DOMINION MINISTERS.

THE Montreal Herald, which is always assailing everything Conservative with the rancor of a renegade for pecuniary consideration, is now assailing Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues for delivering addresses in Ontario and our people for listening to them. Our factious contemporary pretends to believe that this tour was planned to aid Mr. Meredith in the Provincial elections, though if it had enquired into the facts before writing about them it would have ascertained that these visits were arranged and announced before Mr. Mowat conspired with Mr. Blake and others to spring the elections in the holiday week, with the voters' lists for this year still incompleted so as to disfranchise thousands of voters. However much the Herald may object, the people of Ontario are glad to hear the Dominion Ministers give an account of their successful and beneficial administration. Mr. Thos. White comes in for an especial share of the Herald's abuse; as to which we may observe that apart from his position as a very capable member of the Canadian Cabinet, the electors of Ontario would always gladly hear his opinions on the affairs of our Province, to which he is no stranger. In Peterborough we are not likely to admit that our former fellow-townsman is intrusive if he does display an interest in matters concerning his old abode.

IT appears that Mr. Morgan M. P. P. is not blameworthy as between himself and the discoverers of the valuable mneral lands patented to him and his associates, he having purchased their rights to their satisfaction. This does not effect the transaction between Mr. Mowat as Premier, and Mr. Morgan as a member supporting him in the Legisiative Assembly, a transaction according to the Reform theory in Dominion affairs, which made Mr. Mowat guilty at once of robbing the people of Ontario and of corrupting one of its legislators.

THE Provincial elections for Manitoba are now taking place, it being the interval between the days for nominating and polling. There is a Conservative Administration and the Blake journals in Ontario have been telling us that the people of Manitoba are determined to overturn it. Well, the nominations have taken place, with the result that several members supporting the Government have been returned by acclamation and not one of the Opposition. This is an indication of the want of foundation for the Reform boasts.

HIGH SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The Origen of the Provision for Appointments by Seperate School Boards.

We have been requested to publish the following letter to which no reply has been received and to which no publicity has been given by Mr. Mowat to whom it was mailed on the day of date:—

Peterborough, Dec. 3rd, 1886.

Hon. Oliver Mowat, Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—I observe that in a memerandum on the "No Popery Cry," published by you in the Toronto Globe of yesterday you seize upon an alleged statement of mine (first heard of by me on seeing it in the same Globe of the preceeding day) to the effect that I had stated at a meeting in this county that I had been convinced by the Hon. Mr. Fraser of the "fairness" of the provision made by your Government and its mechanical majority in the Legislature for the appointment of a High School Trustee by the Trustees of Separate Schools.

To this statement, now that you have endeavored to bolster up a bad cause with it, I desire to give an emphatic denial. And I think I have a righ to request that you shall cause this denial to be given the same publicity as your memrraudum.

Yours truly,
JOHN CARNEGIE.

The following is the Mail's report of the discussion in the House on this point:—

Mr. MEREDITH asked if this was not introducing a new principle altogether? He could not see, on principle, why the Roman Catholics should have the right of representation any more than Methodists, Presbyterians, or any particular body. He did not wish to deprive the Roman Catholics of any right they may fairly claim, but where the council, representing all the people, appointed the trustees, he did not see the necessity for this.

Hon. G. W. Ross was afraid that councils too often overlooked the interests of Roman Catholics in the High Schools.

Hon Mr. FRASER said that there was no case in the Province where the council had appointed a Roman Catholic on these boards, as they had the power to do.

Mr. MEREDITH said he did not object to the presence of Roman Catholics on these boards. He would be sorry if the state of public opinion was such in this Province that a man's faith should exclude him from this office. If the hon. gentleman said that the absence of bigotry was such as to produce this result, then there was probably some justification for the proposition, though it seemed to him that it could not be justified on principle.

Immediately after the clause had been accepted by the Opposition on Mr. Fraser's assurance, its inaccuracy was demonstrated, by proof coming in from various quarters that municipal councils had appointed Roman Catholics on the High School boards.

N. B.—After the above was in type the Toronto Globe came to hand with Mr. Carnegie's letter embodied in an abusive and untruthful editorial, to which we will refer later. [Ed. REVIEW.]

A STORY OF SUFFERING.

Terrible Adventure of a Shipwrecked Crew on Lake Michigan.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Last Tuesday the schooner Farr left Muskegon for Chicago with a load of slabs. On Wednesday afternoon she went ashore on the beach near Michigan City, Ind., and her crew reached this port this morning. The wind was blowing from the northwest when the vessel left Muskegon and there was a moderate sea running. It was thought Chicago could be easily made with the wind as it then was. All went well until Wednesday morning, just as Chicago harbour was sighted the wind then freshened to a gale and veered to the west. The change in the wind made it impossible for the schooner to keep her course for Chicago. The wind grew fiercer and the cold more intense, until every drop of spray that struck the vessel froze as it fell, gradually loading her down on her lee side, until she was nearly on her beam ends, and her canvas being solid sheets of ice two or three inches in thickness, and totally unmanageable. The sea began to rise and run from the north, and every wave broke over the vessel now so loaded with ice that she was almost hull down in the water. South Chicago was sighted, but the crew was unable to do anything toward ga n ng it, and she drifted helplessly by. A determined effort was made by the crew to get in the stiff frozen canvas, and it was brought down though the sails were broken in pieces as they were folded on deck. By this time the crew were almost dead from exhaustion They had been on deck all night and were covered with the frozen spray. Several of the men were badly frozen, and Captain Granso, who had stuck to his post in the iced rigging keeping a lookout for the shore and giving orders to his men on deck was in a pitiable condition. His nose, face, fingers and toes were frozen, and he was completely encased in ice. As his vessel drifted near South Chicago the captain saw that all hopes of making the harbour was gone, and he determined to put his vessel before the wind and beach her in the sand, near Michigan City. This was done about 2 20 o'clock. The vessel struck a bar seven miles this side of that town. She grounded on this bar, and the next moment a tremendous wave swept her over the bar and drenched her with water from stem to stern. Another bar lay beyond, and the schooner struck again and was once more carried over the bar by another wave, which froze as it struck and left the vessel little more than a mammoth iceberg. The schooner struck on the beach, but it is very sloping; and the crew were still a long distance from shore. The yawl was lowered, but it was immediately struck by a cake of ice and swamped. The tackle still held, and the boat was regained and the crew managed to crawl into her and make their way through a field of floating ice to the shore, where, almost dead from exhaustion, they were cared for by the villagers. The men were in a terrible condition, and the medical force of the vicinity was kept busy in attending to their numerous frost bites. Capt. Granso's injuries were most severe, his fingers being perfectly black. They were lanced, and it is hoped his hands will be saved. The crew were cared for until last evening, when they left for Chicago. The Farr is completely surrounded by ice.

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1886.

VOTES INSTEAD OF ROADS.

THE platform speakers on behalf of Mr. Mowat are pretending that Mr. Meredith and his friends are responsible for the increased expenditure, because they did not object to a larger portion of the appropriations when the votes were taken. Especially in regard to the Colonization Road fund do they advance this fallacious argument.

We will illustrate this matter by a comparison. We will suppose that a lumberman operating largely has acquired a new timber limit. He places in charge a manager who was to investigate and make the necessary preparations for working the limit. Presently the manager reports that he wants a credit of such a sum for the season it order to open up the limit and render it workable, as it would be necessary to dam some streams to retain water, to build some slides, to remove boulders and other obstructions, to construct some roads and put up several bridges. The lumberman remarks that it is a large sum, but that it may be a good investment if judiciously expended. As he cannot leave his other operations to look into the details on the spot, he authorizes the manager to expend the proposed sum, holding him responsible for its economical expenditure and for its producing a satisfactory result. With confident assurances of acting so as greatly to benefit his employer, the manager departs for the scene of operations.

When the day of reckoning comes the lumberman finds that the manager has considerably overdrawn his very liberal credit, and later on he even discovers the accounts to be cooked, some heavy payments being deferred so as to appear in the balance sheet of the succeeding year, thus giving a too favorable view of the results for the year in question. Closer investigation shows that the improvements do not fairly represent the sum alleged to have been spent upon them. All the leakage cannot be traced, as there has been concealment, fraudulent entries, absence of vouchers for payments, and even withholding or destruction of documents that might throw light upon the dishonest use of his money. Some traces he finds of the swindle that has been perpetrated. For instance, one piece of alleged road making, to give access to his limit, turns out to be the laying down of a sidewalk on the street of a neighboring village, another is a drive from a summer resort hotel to a pretty waterfall. Some hundred dollars had been employed to buy the services of the village paper, which had been previously attacking the manager, but then became a sycophantic admirer of him. Large sums had been spent to buy votes for a candidate for the reeveship who was a friend of the manager. Even on the roads and other improvements really useful the expenditure had been excessive compared with the work, this being partly explained by pay sheets signed by one man for the whole doubtful list, by extravagant pay to friends of the manager or voters for his friend the reeve, by materials and supplies bought from favored allies at their own prices, and other dishonest dealings covered up as carefully as possible, so as to lead to the suspicion of still worse behind, if the whole truth were known. As to the manager, he refused to give information of the particulars—grumbled that if his employer were too great a skinflint to spend money he could not expect to open his new limits—and impudently refused even to give names in connection with the enormous bill for telegrams and messages sent and received by him in connection with the municipal election and his expenditure on behalf of his candidate for reeve, the messages themselves having been destroyed by him, because he dare not let them see the light.

It was a bad job, but there was no help for it. The lumberman had been swindled, but he had given authority, and was therefore responsible. Criminal proceedings would be useless, as important links in the evidence had been destroyed, or were in the hands of the culprit and his accomplices. Nothing could be done but to pay the bills and dismiss his dishonest manager, so as to save himself from further plundering.

Similar to these have been the relations between Mr. Pardee and his colleagues on the one side, and the people of Ontario on the other. There is the same remedy left—their dismissal from the positions that they have abused.

EVADING THE CUSTOMS.

A MERCHANT who seems as sore as if he had been detected in an attempt to evade customs duties, writes to the papers to complain of the system of appraising goods at the wholesale price of the country of export, not at the special price made for sales to Canada. He seems to think that the sharp importer, who makes so good a bargain, should have the full benefit of it, first in his purchase and then over again in regard to the duty payable on it. This contention shows either gross ignorance of the very principle of our tariff, or an obstinate antipathy to it. One of the chief objects of the N. P. was to prevent Canada being made a slaughter market whenever manufacturers in the United States, having supplied the home demand at good prices, thought it a smart stroke of business to unload upon Canada even at the barest shade of profit, their surplus stock, or the additional goods that their machinery could turn out without greatly increasing their expenses. This system, so prevalent at one time, had the prejudicial effect of curtailing the Canadian manufacturer's market, and also introducing an element of uncertainty into all his operations, as he could not tell at what moment he would have to compete with a sale much like that of "baukrupt stock." It was no less prejudicial to the Canadian consumer in the long run, as it was common for the manufacturers of the United States to offer these low prices till they had broken down the Canadian factory, and then to raise their figures. On the other hand by giving the Canadian manufacturer fair play the result, as was prophesied and as has been shown to be the case, is that domestic competition has lowered prices till we are supplied more cheaply that when we imported, and at the same time retain the benefit of the employment for our own people.

A little consideration will also show that the claim of the importing merchant is ill founded. Almost every man in business must know from his own experience that when the N. P. was first adopted, the manufacturers of the United States being unwilling to lose the Canadian market, were constantly offering to ship goods to Canada and to pay the duty on them. This was often effected by an allowance on the face of the invoice, in excess of any they made at home, and with the avowed object of recouping to the purchaser the amount he would pay for duty. After a time this special allowance was made off the wholesale price without any expressed reference to the duty, but the understanding is still clearly the same. Why then should the Canadian importer, having received from the foreign manufacturer the money to pay the duty, by a reduction from the amount he is to remit, expect the people of Canada to make him a further present of the duty on that portion of the cost which has already had presented to him to induce his custom. If looked at in this true light his claim is preposterous.

This consideration of the subject leads to another point which is too commonly ignored. In such cases as we have mentioned the N.P. has not attained one of its objects, that of preserving our market for our own manufacturers. But it has attained its other great object of raising a revenue and that in the most satisfactory manner. Not only is the duty paid under such circumstances, but it is paid by the foreign manufacturer. Thus, for instance on our importations of coal, as to which so much nonsense is talked by freetraders, the duty is paid by the United States colliery owners, who make a special rebate to the importers for that very purpose. Thus not only on coal, but on many other imports as well, foreigners pay the duty and contribute a very handsome sum to our revenue, which is consequently in no sense taxation of our people.

We will conclude by saying that it seems as if there was room for amending the customs regulations as carried out notably at Montreal. Any change should look in two directions. There should be greater leniency, perhaps, in the case of oversight by honest importers. There should certainly be far greater severity in the case of those who dishonestly attempt to evade payment of their full dues. The loudest complaints have generally come from those who were attempting to defraud the customs, that is to pay less than their rightful share, leaving it to be borne by other people and more especially by their honest competitors.

No less than thirty-seven elections for the Quebec Assembly are contested in the Courts. That is in the case of more than a majority of the House there are more or less strong grounds, in the minds of those who are willing to back their opinion by considerable pecuniary outlay, that the members returned do not really represent the electors. Here is another strong reason against the attempt to introduce the mischievous system of government by round robin. Before the usual time for the session arrives the courts will very likely have made a most material change in the constitution of the House, and the bye elections may give a substantial majority either to the Conservatives or the Rielites.

R. S. DAVIDSON, Chairman.

Peterborough, Dec. 3rd, 1886.

The report was adopted.

FIRE WATER AND LIGHT.

Councillor RUTHERFORD read the following report:—

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Committee beg leave to report and recommend that an electric light be placed at the foot of London street near the Dixon raceway, the Gas Company to discontinue lighting two lamps. One at the corner of London street and one at the corner College street. That the Electric Light Company erect the same at the expense of two gas lamps.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. RUTHERFORD, Chairman.

Councillor MOORE asked why the Chairman had not reported in reference to the lamp in front of the Baptist Church.

Councillor MCNEIL said that the committee had recommended a light to be placed on Smithtown hill. He did not understand why the Chairman did not report.

Councillor Cahill intimated that a petition had asked for a light on the corner of Reid and Aylmer streets.

Councillor MENZIES demanded the Smithtown hill light.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that the committee had been called together, but at eight o'clock there was not a quorum. Subsequently he called another meeting. As to the Baptist Church light the committee deemed it advisable that no more lamps be introduced this year. No doubt when more lamps were introduced the Baptist Church would not be forgotten. As to Councillor Cahill's light—

Councillor CAHILL.—Oh, it isn't mine.

Councillor RUTHERFORD.—Yes it is; it's in your ward, and you know very well that it was up before the committee and was thrown out.

Councillor MENZIES.—That Smithtown light was passed in committee and I want it granted. There's no electric lamp in No. 4 ward. I move to amend that report to get the Smithtown hill light.

Councillor MCNAUGHTON.—Mr. Menzies, your motion is all poppycock—

At this point Councillor Menzies and Moore fell into an animated discussion as to the Smithtown light, and councillor Yelland rose to make explanations as to the Baptist Church light.

Councillor MCNAUGHTON demanded order.

Councillor YELLAND still held his ground, and after a hearing had been gained proceeded to explain that the Baptist Church light would do away with five gas lamps. That would be a saving of $25 a year.

Councillor MCNAUGHTON, replying to Councillor Yelland, said there was splendid light at the Baptist Church. There was no electric light in front of the Charlotte street Methodist Church. As to Mr. Menzies' motion, he would call a point of order on the expenditure of money.

Councillor MENZIES.—It passed the Committee, Mr. McNaughton.

Councillor MCNAUGHTON.—That's got nothing to do with it.

Councillor MENZIES.—Well, all right. Do what you like.

Councillor HARTLEY said that it was not a square thing on Mr. Rutherford's part to bring in another report to what was passed in the Committee.

Councillor RUTHERFORD stated that Councillor Menzies asked him not to bring in the report as to the Smithtown light, and as there was no quorum until after 8 o'clock, he did not recommend it.

Councillor MENZIES.—I want the Smithtown light. We must have it, too.

The report was adopted.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.

Councillor MCNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor KENDRY,—That an electric lamp be placed on the corner of Edinburgh and Bethune streets.—Carried.

BYLAW.

The bylaw to appoint places for holding the approaching municipal elections and appointing returning officers, passed its several readings.

BYLAW.

The Council went into a Committee of the Whole on the second reading of a bylaw to prevent coasting and tobogganing on the public streets, and to prevent the drawing of vehicles by dogs. It passed its third reading after the last clause was struck out.

LICENSES.

Councillor MCNEIL read the following report:—

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN,—Your License Committee to whom was referred the matter of T. H. Thornton, asking for rebate on Butcher's license, and Wm. Clancy, asking for a three months billiard license, beg leave to report and recommend,

That the treasurer issue his check in favor of T. H. Thornton for the unexpired license.

Also that Wm. Clancy be granted a three months billiard license, from Dec. 1st to March 1st, 1887 for fifteen dollars.

Respectfully submitted,

ANDREW MCNEIL, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

TAXES.

Councillor KENDRY moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That a cheque be issued re John Newton's taxes.—Carried.

PAYLISTS.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That the Treasurer be authorized to pay paylists No. 20 and 21 and that they be paid to-morrow.—Carried.

DOG TAX.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor MOORE,—That any person or persons having a dog or bitch, but having been assessed for one, on making a statutory declaration that they had none, the amount so charged be refunded; also, that in cases where the landlord is obliged to pay the taxes of a tenant on a dog or bitch, be refunded.—Carried.

CHARITY.

Councillor MCNAUGHTON announced that he was paying $3 a week to a family in his Ward. He would not give any more unless authorized by the Council. There were five children in the family.

Councillor RUTHERFORD thought that if the Council were called upon to remit the taxes of the Barnardo Home, the Home should take in these children.

Councillor MENZIES moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY—That the charity Committee be authorized to apply to the Barnardo Home for admission for the children of David Menzies—Carried.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor CAHILL—That Mr. Geo. Portsmouth be informed that if he does not furnish the necessary support of his mother that the court would take steps to do so; also that Mr. John Welsh be notified to the same effect.

AN APOLOGY.

Councillor MCNEIL stated that he had been charged with having brought about the Scott Act charges recently brought against Messrs. J. E. McIntyre and T. Giroux. Capt. Cooper was now here and he wished to be exonerated from any such blame.

Capt. COOPER stated that Mr. McNeil had nothing to do with the information. He regretted that Mr. McNeil's name had been used.

The Council adjourned to meet at the call of the Mayor.

Hundreds of letters from those using Ayer's Hair Vigor attest its value as a restorer of gray hair to its natural color. As a stimulant and tonic, preventing and curing baldness, and cleansing the scalp, its use annot be too strongly recommended.

The opinion in London is that Lady Cambell has been glaringly indiscreet rather than actually guilty, while the opinion with scarcely a divergence of sentiment is that Lord Campbell has been actuated by the bitterest and most vindictive spite against his wife.

As a purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla acts directly and promptly. A single bottle will prove its merits. Many thousands of people are yearly saved from dangerous fevers by the exercise of a little timely care in cleansing the system by the use of this remedy.

Hall's Hair Renewer restores gray hair to its original color; makes the scalp white and clean; cures dandruff and humors; prevents the hair from falling out, and renders it soft and brilliant. The editor of the "Ocean Foam," Cape May, writes: "We speak knowingly, when we assert that Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is the best of its kind. The article is an elegant and cleanly one, without which we think no toilet complete." Thos. D. Jones, Middle Granville, N. Y., writes: "I have used

BEWARE

OF WORTHLESS IMITATIONS

As there are many inferior goods, corded with jute, hemp, etc., offered and sold as Coraline by some unprincipled merchants trading on the reputation of our genuine Coraline, we warn the ladies against such imposition by drawing their attention to the necessity of seeing that the name is stamped on inner side of all Coraline goods, Without which none are genuine.

'CROMPTON CORSET CO.'

Mr. George Gumpricht is in town for a few days. Orders may be left at Mr. T. Menzies' bookstore, or at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's bookstore.

Oddfellows.

The Dominion Oddfellow states that a lodge of instruction will be held in Peterborough on Thursday, January 5th, and in Campbellford on Friday, January 6th.

Taxes.

The taxes have been paid in to Mr. Cummings this year with remarkable freeness. Already forty nine thousand dollars has been paid in. Only eight thousand dollars remain to be collected.

Gun Club.

The scores made at Monday's meet of the Gun Club are as follows:—

Judge Weller	1	0	0	1	0	1	1	0	0	1—5
E. J. Hartley	0	1	1	1	1	0	1	1	1	1—8
H. Calcutt	1	0	1	1	1	0	0	1	1	1—7

Let Them Have Sport.

At Monday evening's Council meeting the refusing to permit dogs to be hitched to sleighs was discussed. Some councillors thought it a cruel practice. Others stood up for the boys and their sport, and, recalling the days gone by when they themselves took infinite delight in driving "Rover," made spirited speeches in favor of leaving the custom intact. The boys were allowed to manage their dogs as they pleased.

SALT and Fresh Water Fish at OSTROM'S

The Rink.

The Charlotte street rink was opened for curling and skating on Monday evening, for the first time of the season. The clear, crisp ice, "made" under Mr. Cousin's careful eye, was covered with skaters before the evening was far advanced; while the skips and their men hardly allowed a fair chance for digestion before they were up and at it. The three rinks were kept in constant use from seven o'clock till after ten. From the enthusastic way in which the season opened curling promises to be even more popular than it was last winter. The early opening of the rink bids fair for a prosperous season.

The Eastern Campaign.

Mr. W. H. Stephenson, the Conservative candidate in East Peterborough, held the first meeting of the campaign in Havelock on Monday afternoon. There was a good attendance for an afternoon meeting. Mr. Carnegie was also present and addressed the electors. During Mr. Carnegie's address a gentleman present stated that Mr. Blezard told him that the Riel matter did not come up in the Ontario Legislature; but when Mr. Carnegie opened the journals and read the motions made and Mr. Blezard's votes upon them, the misstatement was exposed. The meeting was an encouraging one and the prospects seem good for the Conservative cause.

FOR a nobby, well-made suit of Clothes, try A. MCNEIL, Habilitment Hall.

The Holiday Season

We are once more entering upon the gay and festive holiday season. About this time of the year the average parent begins to think how many turkeys it will be necessary to purchase in order to live through the X-mas and New Year season, while his less thoughtful boys are constantly reminding him of what he promised them at Christmas if they attended carefully to the woodpile during the year. The year fast drawing to a close has been a prosperous one. Although they are those who will complain, yet they are the exception, not the rule. Fathers, if you want to buy a holiday present for the boys buy them something serviceable. Go to Habilitment Hall and see what A. McNeil will do for you in this connection.

It May be Remarked

—That Peterborough's prosperity is shown by the ready way in which its citizens pay their taxes.

—That the roarin' game is in full swing and everyone says that John Cousins knows how to make ice.

—That the Fire Brigade Band will be at the rink on Friday evening.

—That the boy who christened Sir John "Old Union Jack" is named Wells.

—That he is a youth who know a thing or two.

—That the County Temperance Convention meets to-morrow.

—That the new post office will likely be ready for occupation in January.

—That Mayor Stevenson will probably be re-elected for 1887.

Hames.

Mr. E. T. Carter, of Auburn, has developed quite an industry in the manufacture of hames. Although in the business only a comparatively short time he now makes twenty-three different styles from original designs. The output amounts to over two hundred and fifty sets per week, which find ready sale in Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa. The hames are of an exceedingly substantial make. The wood consists of the best straight grain white oak and the finishing is done with the best wrought iron. The wood is steamed and bent to suit the shape of the different styles. Just now the principal kind made is that for use in shanties and heavy team work; but we also noticed shown the neatly finished article for carriage work, which is made during the summer. Considering that Mr. Carter can easily sell all he makes, there appears to be no reason why this industry should not grow in importance.

Obituary.

The death of Dr O'Shea, formerly of this place, will be learned with regret by his many friends here, particularly so on account of its suddenness. About a week ago while attending on a patient he was blood poisoned. The poison gained a foothold in a small scratch on the right hand, and, notwithstanding every possible thing done to arrest its influence, it spread through the system and caused his death this morning. James O'Shea was born in the township of Asphodel in 1856. In his early manhood he followed the vocation of school-teacher, having taught in his native place, in Ennismore and in Hastings, in all which places he was well known and esteemed. In 1878 he commenced the study of medicine. He entered Queen's University, Kingston, in 1879, and graduated in 1881. He first practiced in Dublin, Ontario, and in 1882 came to Peterborough. During his practice here he had a very peculiar case in charge, that of the young girl at the Oriental Hotel, gifted during her illness with remarkable vision. In 1885 he removed to Campbellford where he since lived and where he died.

POLICE COURT.

ASSAULT.

TALKING EIGHT HUNDRED MILES.

Successful Test of a Newly-Invented Telephone at Galveston, Tex.

GALVESTON, Tex., Dec. 6.—What is regarded here as an important test in the newly-invented telephone was made yesterday and proved a success. The instrument is known as the Barritt-Nelsons' telephone, being the invention of S. L. Barritt and W. W. Nelson, both young men, residents of Houston. The test consisted of talking over a wire 830 miles long, it being the distance to New Orleans and return. The articulation was far more distinct and perfect than over the ordinary short circuits by the Bell telephone. A dozen leading citizens talked over the circuit, and all agreed that they had never held more satisfactory conversations. The new invention differs from the Bell and all other telephones by peculiarities enabling the use of a large amount of battery. Yesterday's test was made with three cells. For a short distance no battery whatever is requested, the automatic dynamo current being sufficient to articulate with great distinctness and steadyness. The inventors claim that they can talk from New York to San Francisco with the same distinctness as is yesterday's test.

Heavy Sleet Storm.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 6.—For the past 60 hours the heaviest storm ever experienced in this city has been in progress. The whole surface of the country is covered with from three to six inches. The street railway has suspended operations.

A RACE OF PIGMIES.

Explorer Wolff Finds a Horde of Dwarfs in Africa.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 6.—The explorer Ludwig Wolff, just returned from the Congo, reports having met in the Sankourou region many tribes of dwarfs, generally measuring less than four feet, beardless and with short and woolly hair. They live by hunting and are wonderfully agile and good tempered. Thousands of them are dispersed over this wild region, and are known under the name of Batouas. They mix very little with the full-grown population. This, says Wolff, confirms the ancient conjectures of Herodotus and Aristotle as to the existence of a race of pigmies in Africa. "These African Liliputians received me very hospitably," said Mr. Wolff.

COLONIZATION COMPANIES.

The Result of a Tour of Inspection in the North-West.

WINNIPEG, MAN., December 6.—Mr. Rufus Stephenson, inspector of colonization company lands, has arrived in this city after a trip over the territories, lasting since last August. During that time he has travelled a buckboard over thousands of miles of territory, comprising the Edmonton, Prince Albert, Battleford, Regina and Calgary districts. Out of twenty-six colonization companies which existed three years ago only fifteen are left, and these are doing fairly well. Mr. Stephenson says he found amongst the settlers a universally stronger feeling of contentment than he ever observed during any of his previous visits. They have all been doing fairly well and have few grievances to complain of. In the Battleford, Prince Albert and Edmonton districts the crops are very good, no trouble from frost being experienced.

THE FRENCH CRISIS

Causes a Great Sensation at Berlin and St. Petersburg.

PARIS, Dec. 6.—A desire is evinced on all sides that M. de Freycinet should remain in office. His refusal to continue is supposed to indicate fears of European complications. Should M. de Freycinet insist upon retiring from office, it is expected that President Grevy will summon M. Floquet, who is willing to form a Cabinet. The crisis caused a sensation in Berlin and St. Petersburg. It is rumored that M. Herbette, the French ambassador at Berlin, sent in his resignation. The likelihood of M. Floquet becoming Premier is much discussed in St. Petersburg, where his famous "Vive la Pologne, Monsieur," to the Czar, when the latter visited Paris, is remembered. The Russian press hoped for the formation of a Boulanger Cabinet and that of Germany's fear by the retention of M. de Freycinet. The Clemenceau party advocated M. Floquet for the Premiership, regarding an extreme Radical Cabinet as not likely.

THE BRUSSELS MURDER.

Both Prisoners Convicted and Sentenced to Imprisonment.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 6.—The excitement over the Rodelet-Masquelier trial increased as it progressed, more especially since the doors were opened to the public, the first part of the examination having been conducted in secret. Mme. Rodelet, a midwife, was charged with having caused the death of Emma Beeckman by abortion practices, and then with having hacked the young woman's body to pieces, being aided by her lover Masquelier. The alleged interference of a doctor was disproved; the counsel for the defence of the midwife, however, maintained it and pleaded extenuating circumstances, the only crime being abortive practices. The counsel for the defence of Masquelier said the latter was irresponsible, and a slave to the influence of his mistress, Rodelet. After a short deliberation the jury returned a verdict of guilty. The woman Rodelet, was sentenced to fifteen years' penal servitude and Masquelier to one year's imprisonment.

A Somnambulist's Fatal Fall.

OTTAWA, Dec. 6.—Advices from Maniwaki state that about midnight last Sunday Joseph Desloges while asleep upstairs in Messrs. Roy & Roy's store, got out of bed, opened a window and walked out over the edge of a verandah and fell to the lower platform a distance of fifteen feet, sustaining fatal internal injuries, to which he succumbed on Thursday morning. Mr. Desloges was a storekeeper at Aumond, eight miles from here. He leaves a family and many friends to mourn his loss.

Thirteen Lives Lost.

ST. JOHN, Nfld., Dec. 5.—The schooner "Edith," from St. Pierre for Langlaid, was lost on Sunday near Miquelon Island. The crew of thirteen men perished.

Challenge to Hanlan.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 6.—John Teemer has arrived from England. He expects Hanlan home about Christmas and will then challenge him.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

AN ENQUIRY.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—The Reformers announce that Mr. Laurier will be here to deliver an address on the 17th inst., but omit to tell us whether he intends to bring his musket along or not. As I was in the North-west fighting for my country and helping to suppress the rebellion. I am anxious to know. Can you inform us?

Yours truly,

A MIDLAND VOLUNTEER.

Peterborough, Dec. 8th., 1886.

NEW BISHOP OF PETERBOROUGH.

The Catholic Record, of London, Ont., contains the following in reference to the successor of the late Bishop Jamot:—

"The news has come from the Eternal City, and gladly will it be received by the widowed Church of Peterborough, and the faithful generally of that diocese, that the Very Rev. Father Dowling, Vicar-General of the Diocese of Hamilton, and rector of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Paris, has been appointed Bishop of Peterborough, in succession to the Right Rev. John Francis Jamot, of happy and venerated memory. The grief that filled the hearts of the clergy and faithful of that diocese when the hand of death fell upon its devoted and apostolic chief pastor, and robbed the Church in this Province of one of its foremost champions, it is impossible to portray. The Holy Father, therefore, anxious to assuage that grief, eager to show his devoted children of Peterborough and of Ontario generally, his hearty solicitude for their wants, his cordial regard for their feelings, and his studied purpose to continue the work of evangelization and salvation in their midst, has made choice of a successor to the lamented Bishop Jamot, gifted with every mental quality, adorned with every virtue, and honored by such distinction and confidence on the part of Bishops, clergy and people throughout the country, as will ensure him a fruitful, peaceful and prosperous episcopate. Father Dowling brings, indeed to the episcopal officers many high qualities of mind and of heart. Scholarly, profound and eloquent, urbane, kindly and generous—he is also a keen judge of men and of passing events, cautious in judgement, slow but firm in decision. Father Dowling is politic, considerate and eminently prudent. All his qualifications and exalted merits are crowned, extolled and vivified by a virile and unostentatious piety that invariably wins respect, unquestionably ensures confidence and must powerfully influence the conduct of all within the scope of its action. Father Dowling, during the many years of his pastorate in Paris, has proven himself a just man, a God-fearing citizen, an exemplary priest. His heart was ever in his work, but this work, arduous as it was, did not prevent his fulfilment of his duties of kindly neighborhood to his non-Catholic fellow-citizens, nor draw him from that love of learning and of literature which has ever been a marked and distinctive characteristic of the new Bishop of Peterborough. In the delicate and difficult task of Vicar-General of the diocese, an honor first conferred on him by the late venerated Bishop Crinnon of Hamilton, who justly prized his worth and esteemed his merits, in the still more arduous and trying position of administrator of the diocese of Hamilton during the interregnum consequent upon Bishop Crinnon's death, Father Dowling displayed a sound judgment, a consummate tact and a sacerdotal benignity that raised him to the very highest place in public regard and confidence. Of him it may justly be said that he sought not the mitre, but the mitre has sought him. The call of the Holy Father withdraws him from a happy home, a pious united and devoted flock, deep in its attachment to its pastor. It calls him to a field of labor and of self-denial. It calls him to duties, varied, manifold and trying as man can be summoned to discharge. But Father Dowling's happy and successful past gives promise of a thrice fruitful future. We pray that God may give him all strength of heart and due length of days, that his pastorate of Peterborough may be renowned in the history of the Canadian Church. The Catholics of Peterborough and of all Canada are under a deep debt of gratitude to the Holy Father for his judicious and exceedingly fortunate choice of a successor to the late illustrious Bishop Jamot. This choice will, if such were possible, make Rome and its Pontiff still dearer to Catholic Canada, for it gives further proof and more emphatic endorsation of the truth of Peter's undying reign, sung by the sweet Catholic poet of old Erin, the renowned Aubrey de Vere:

"Onward like a wheel,
The world rolls blindly and the nations pant;
But God upon His Church hath set His seal,
Fusing His own eternal adamant
Through all its bastions and its towers in thee,
Luminous it stands through thy solidity."

THE LABOR COMMISSION.

Appointment of the Members at a Cabinet Council—Their Fitness.

OTTAWA, Dec. 6.—At the Cabinet meeting to-day an order-in-Council was passed creating the Royal Commission and appointing the members. The appointments are:—Hon. James Armstrong, of Ottawa, late Chief Justice of St. Lucia; A. T. Freed, of Hamilton, publisher; John Armstrong, of Toronto, printer; Samuel B. Heakes, of Toronto, boatbuilder; Jules Helbronner, of Montreal, journalist; Michael Walsh, of Halifax, N. S., carpenter; and James Alfred Clark, of Carlton, St. John's, N. B., builder, together with such others as may be added if deemed necessary by order-in-Council.

The personnel of the commission will give general satisfaction aside from the importance of the duty they will have in hand. Hon. James Armstrong is a jurist of renown and his appointment to the chief Justiceship of the Island of St. Lucia, in the West Indies, by the Imperial Government was owing to his great knowledge of civil law. Mr. Freed, of Hamilton, is well-known [illegible] Ontario, [illegible] and an acute reasoner. He is especially adapted for the position. The two Toronto members are well-known advocates of the cause of the working classes, and enjoy the full confidence of the workingmen of Ontario. The Quebec and Maritime Province representatives are all good men, with special fitness for the position they will be called upon to occupy. The work of the commission will be one of great importance to all classes in the country.—Mail.

Liberal Unionist Banquet.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—There were 4,000 guests at the three banquets this evening, the chairman of which were the Marquis of Hartington, the Duke of Grafton and the Duke of St. Albans. Mr. Goschen, in his speech, said the Liberal-Unionists would be untrue to themselves if they failed to realize that their leader was in power, though not in office. They were asked to join Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Parnell in a policy of connivance at revolutionary measures, and to maintain silence in the face of a plan of plunder. The centre of the discussion had now shifted from the National to the Agrarian question. Were they prepared to follow Mr. Gladstone in such a course? He (Mr. Goschen) believed that if the Home Rule bill had been passed confiscation would have followed on the lines advocated by Dillon and O'Brien. Lord Hartington spoke in a similar strain.

Situation in Ireland.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—At the Liberal Unionist conference referring to the situation in Ireland, Lord Hartington said that the present anti-rent agitation was not spontaneous. It has, he maintained, been created for political purposes, and was simply anarchy. If speeches like John Dillon's were not checked, the result must be the subversion of every principle of liberty in Ireland. "We are told," said the speaker, "that the English democracy will not stand these evictions, but I think the English democracy will ask who is responsible for them." "Mr. Gladstone," added Lord Hartington, "may not be able to control John Dillon, but Mr. Gladstone can speak the one word which will dissolve the alliance between the agitators of Dillon's class and the Liberal party. The English people are awaiting that word, which if delayed will seriously endanger the good name of the Liberal party." (Great cheering.)

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

FATAL JOKING.

VIENNA, Dec. 7.—At Pesth, last evening, five officers and some young actresses from the Orpheum, entered a cafe at a late hour. As there was not room enough for all at one table one of the officers named Schneeweiss, jokingly ordered Rosa Taciano, a little nine year old songstress, to give her place to him. She refused, whereupon the officer pointed a pistol at her and said: "Go away or I will shoot you." Rosa replied saucily, "I shant." The officer pulled the trigger and Rosa fell lifeless. Horror stricken at the accident Schneeweiss fired a bullet into his own brain.

ALLEGED "EXCLUSIVENESS."

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The story of the engagement of Viscount Weymouth to pretty penniless Princess Victoria of Teck is now officially contradicted, and was never believed by friends of either of them. The Marquis of Bath is not the man to sanction such an alliance for his son. There is nothing against the girl, but her parents, in spite of her mother's royal blood, hold but an equivocal position in English society.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The Government of Victoria has invited the Prince and Princess of Wales to visit the exhibition at Melbourne in March, in honor of the centenary of Australia.

DOUBLE SUICIDE.

VIENNA, Dec. 7.—A doorkeeper of the Pesth Music Academy, a waiter and a waitress, went together to a cafe yesterday, and after a drinking bout either shot each other or committed suicide. The waiter, before his death, wrote that he would die with his friends.

BRIGHT AND CHAMBERLAIN.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—A meeting of the executive committee of the Liberal Unionists was held yesterday to arrange for the public meeting to-day and take measures for maintaining the organization. A strong letter from Mr. John Bright was read, insisting that the defeat of an old and any measures looking towards Mr. Gladstone's Irish policy must be the prime object of all the Liberal Unionist body, and that on no basis could the Liberal party be reconstituted save on a basis of loyalty to the Imperial Union. A committee [illegible] to-morrow [illegible] Chamberlain suggested that the Separate Liberals should be challenged to defend their position in the conference, and point such measure may be proposed by Mr. Dixon, of Birmingham. The whole temper of the meeting was defiant and determined.

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1886.

DEAD SEA FRUIT.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD and several of his colleagues have been making an extensive tour through a great part of Ontario, holding meetings in the chief centres of population so as to give an account of their stewardship, before the newly enfranchised electors, together with those previously in enjoyment of the privilege, are called upon to choose their representatives for the next Parliament of Canada. So great has been the popular enthusiasm, and so satisfactory have been found the Ministerial addresses, that Mr. Blake's supporters are very crestfallen. Unable to find fault with the statesmanlike policy as set forth by the speakers or to refute their arguments and statements, their critics can find no better weapon than the use of a slang phrase, and we hear of "Chestnuts," "Chestnut Combination," "Chestnut Bells," with silly reiteration, till this not very brilliant joke is worn threadbare and betrays their poverty of imagination and utter lack of more tangible grounds for objection. The fact is that to those who reflect the slang term has its complimentary side. "Chestnut," in the language of these witlings, means an old, an often repeated story. It is far from discreditable to the Ministers that they should repeat themselves. The story they have to tell of the prosperity of the country, the soundness of its finances, its growth and development, the failure of Reform attempts at disintegration, and our bright prospects will bear repetition. Their statements of their policy, of what they have done, what they are doing, and what they propose to do, are necessarily repeated, for the Conservative leaders have one story to tell in all places and to all audiences, without any tricky variations to suit different circumstances and different hearers, or any dishonest concealments or pretences to beguile the deceived people into an approval of sham. They are honest, truthful and consistent, so they have one story to tell, and need not be ashamed of their chestnuts. To take its literal meaning, too, the chestnut is a palatable, wholesome, nutritious and invigorating food, and thus fittingly symbolises the policy of the Conservative statesmen, under which the country is thriving.

In neither sense can Mr. Blake and his allies be said to have chestnuts to offer. They have not the same story to tell to all men in all places. In every province, to every class, to every creed, to every race, their story is different. There is no regard for truth to hinder them from varying, there is no honesty to keep them from any misrepresentation that may seem serviceable at the moment, there is no patriotism to preserve them from fomenting sectional cries. As they tell the farmer that the N. P. has lowered the price of his produce, and raised the price of clothing, the millhand that it has raised the price of farm produce, the manufacturer that it has lowered the price of the stuff he weaves—as they promise free trade here, and a tariff with plenty of incidental protection there—as they preach in one Province or another rebellion, secession, annexation etc., etc.,—as they utter their discordant cries if perchance they may catch a vote here and a vote there, they need have no fear of hearing the chestnut bell ring for them. And as to the sound fruit, they deal in no such wholesome satisfying wares; sour grapes perhaps but not nourishing food.

There is however, a fruit famed in story as old as the very oldest chestnut, to which the promises of Mr. Blake and his friends may not unfitly be compared. Who has not heard of the Dead Sea Fruit, fair and pleasant to the eye, goodly as to the outside, giving promise of nourishing, grateful, refreshing meat within. Who has not heard of the same Dead Sea Fruit when plucked crumbling to dust in the hand, filling the eager mouth with ashes, disappointing the hopes of invigorating, refreshing food, fair without and foul within as any whited sepulchre, inviting till tried, worthless when possessed? Could there be a more fitting symbol of the self-styled Reformers when in opposition and when in office. We have heard their boasts of purity, and have seen their corruption as recorded in our law courts. We have heard their promises of retrenchment and seen them increasing expenditure, piling up debt faster than before or since, and inflicting on us chronic deficits. We have heard them clamour for the independence of Parliament and seen them buy Speakers in the chair and repealing laws that stood in the way of corrupting members. We have heard their lavish promises and have seen their performances.

Those who have once been beguiled to defile hand or lip with the deceptive Dead Sea Fruit, care not to pluck it again. We have learned to know the men thus typified; we will be foolish indeed if we are again deceived.

WAS IT A SALE?

THE Kingston Whig speaks as follows in reference to some remarks in the REVIEW:

"It may be news to the country that Mr. Hart sold himself to Mr. Mowat. How? When? The people have a right to know?"

Mr. Hart ran in opposition to Mr. Mowat's standard bearer, canvassed Conservative electors on that footing, and was elected. Before the House met Mr. Hart declared himself an opponent of Mr. Mowat and a supporter of Mr. Blake. The Reformers showed their appreciation of his position by contesting his election for alleged corruption. Mr. Mowat had a personal interview with Mr. Hart, obtained from him a promise to desert his declared allies and support the Government, in consideration of which Mr. Mowat, Attorney General and our chief law officer, withdrew the application to unseat Mr. Hart for what the Reformers held to be corruption till they found it was committed in their favor. If Mr. Hart did not sell himself and Mr. Mowat purchase him we cannot understand what constitutes a sale, unless indeed it is claimed that the word implies hard cash and excludes the idea of barter. If so we are quite willing to substitute the words "a corrupt inducement" for "sale."

THE HOLIDAY ELECTION.

As the elections and the holidays simultaneously draw nearer, louder and louder grow the complaints of our business men over the wilful injury done them by Mr. Mowat. They feel that he has deliberately taken money out of ther pockets by fixing the elections for the holiday season, not through any constitutional necessity, but for the dishonest and selfish motive of endeavoring by this petty trick to catch his opponents unprepared, even if he had no more unjustifiable reason in secret. They ask if there is any reason why an election at the end of January would not have been quite as well-timed in the public interest, and for the needs of public business. The only reply given by Mr. Mowat's friends is that the dates were not fixed on public motives, but that it was a pretty smart trick to dish Sir John and catch Meredith napping. Some of Mr. Mowat's former friends, who have now left him, say that a probable motive is that he found he was losing so many old supporters that he hurried on the elections prematurely through fear of a general stampede if he allowed much time for discussion. Many good judges in all parts of the country express their opinion that if such were his motive he is already too late.

Is Mr. Ross so utterly regardless of the truth that he persists in his falsehood that the Dominion timber limits are sold for $5 a square mile, when he knows that it is a payment made yearly, not once for all, as in the case of Ontario, with which he makes a dishonest comparison? It will not even help Mr. Ross to plead that there are also yearly payments in the case of the Ontario timber limits, for the Dominion dues are higher than the Provincial. It is a mere slander uttered by Mr. Ross to bring the chosen statesmen of Canada into contempt and odium, if possible, because they are his political opponents.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

A Conference to Meet in London—The Colonies to be Represented.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Right Hon. Edward Stanhope, Colonial Secretary, has sent a despatch to the Governors of colonies under responsible Governments, and a circular to the Governors of colonies not possessing that form of government, announcing the Queen's summons to a conference to be held next spring to discuss the subject of Imperial Federation. In the opinion of her Majesty's Government the question is urgent and capable of useful consideration on the subject of organization for military defence. The time has arrived, the despatch says, for a better understanding between the Imperial Government and the colonies. A system of defence should be established throughout the Empire: but no new project, entailing heavy expenditure, is contemplated. Postal and telegraph service, second only in importance to the question referred to, needs consideration in the interest of the requirements of every part of the Empire. The Colonial Secretary deprecates the discussion of any scheme for the political federation of the Empire until colonial opinion has been ascertained. The proposed conference will be purely consultative, and will consist of the Agent-General and one public man from each colony, the Colonial Secretary presiding.

THE NEW PRINCIPAL

MR. J. H. LONG, M.A., TO PRESIDE OVER THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

A See-Saw Regarding Public School Appointments--The High School Inspector's Report--School Attendance and Other Matters.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education was held on Tuesday evening.

There were present: Mr. James Stevenson, Chairman, and Messrs. Burnham, Sawers, Sproule, Weir, Wrighton, Rutherford, Denne, Errett and Dumble.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

ENQUIRIES.

Mr. RUTHERFORD brought up a matter in reference to the alleged severe whipping of pupils in more than one of the Ward schools.

Nothing was done in reference to it.

Mr. DUMBLE asked if any change had been made in the heating apparatus.

The CHAIRMAN replied that there had not.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were read as follows:—

From John Seath, giving a statement of the condition of the Collegiate Institute as it was on Nov. 2nd. The improvements made were very satisfactory, but more were needed.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The statement of the attendance at the Collegiate Institute and Public Schools was submitted as follows:—

	On Roll.	Ave. Att.
Collegiate Institute	143	123
South Ward School	239	182
West Ward School	185	167
Central School	709	509

FEES.

The fees received from the Public Schools for the month of November was $11.50.

THE LATE DR. TASSIE.

The CHAIRMAN referred in feeling terms to the lamented death of Dr. Tassie. It was a great shock to him and he was sure it was the same with the others of the Board. In his death the school had lost its head and her head lost a friend whom he sincerely respected.

A motion of condolence Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. ERRETT,—That the sudden and unexpected death of Dr. Tassie, Principal of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, calls from us the expression of profound and deep sympathy with his bereaved wife and family. Though but about two years with us, he had by his dignified and courteous bearing, won the respect and esteem of all, while the lads that for so long a period he had occupied a prominent position as an educator of Canadian youth, makes his removal a matter of widespread regret to the many hundreds of Canadians who in his famous Galt School, and elsewhere had enjoyed the privilege of his careful and skilful training. This Board deeply regrets the death of a kind and good man, and unite in the hope that He who holds the issues of life may comfort and sustain his sorrowing wife and family. And resolved, further, that this resolution be inscribed in the minutes and a copy transmitted to Mrs. Tassie.—Carried.

APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. DUMBLE read the report of the committee on appointments as follows:—

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—The Committee on appointments beg to report that in accordance with the general usage of the Board, they have recommened the promotion of teachers where qualified, and so fill the vacancy caused by Miss Johnston's resignation.

Your Committee recommend that Miss Hall be appointed to Miss Johnston's place; Miss Keele to Miss Hall's; Miss Errett to Miss Keele's, and that Miss Errett's place be filled by Miss Richardson.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

D. W. DUMBLE, Chairman.

Mr. SAWERS moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. DENNE—That the report of this Committee be amended by placing Miss Aldridge's name in place of Miss Errett's, to fill the place occupied by Miss Keele.

The amendment was lost on the following tie:

YEAS—Messrs. Sawers, Denne, Rutherford, Wrighton and Weir.

NAYS—Messrs. Dumble, Errett, Sproule, Burnham and Stevenson.

The report was lost, also, on a division of six to three.

THE NEW PRINCIPAL.

Mr RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Mr. DENNE—That in the opinion of this Board Mr. Long be and is hereby appointed Principal of the Collegiate Institute, thus filling the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Tassie; the salary to be the same as paid the late Dr. Tassie, and the duties to commence on January 1st.

The following applications for the position were received: From Mr. J. O'Connor, Lindsay, and L. Lapp, Uxbridge.

The motion was carried unanimously.

TEACHERS.

An application was received from Miss Simm for promotion and from Miss Kearns for a position on the public school staff.

ELECTIONS.

Mr. ERETT moved, seconded by Mr. DUMBLE—That the following returning officers are and are hereby appointed to take the ensuing elections for school trustees on the 29th of December 1886, viz: Joseph Lundy for No. 1 Ward; Charles Cameron for No. 2 Ward; John Irwin for No. 3 Ward; and Wm. Lee for No. 4 Ward. And that the same polling places as used at the municipal elections for this year be the polling places for these elections.—Carried.

SALARIES.

On motion it was decided to pay Dr. Tassie's salary for the full month of Dec., and to pay Mr. Earle for the time he has been absent from school in consequence of a broken leg.

Mr. RUTHERFORD moved for a reconsideration of the report of the committee on appointment. The motion was lost on the following divisions:—

YEAS—Messrs. Denne, Sawers, Wrighton, Weir, Burnham and Rutherford.

NAYS—Messrs. Dumble, Errett and Sproule.

A majority of the whole board (eight) was requested to pass a motion for the consideration.

Mr. RUTHERFORD moved a motion dealing with the appointments.

The CHAIRMAN ruled that this was reconsideration of the matter and that it required the majority of the whole Board.

Messrs. Dumble and Errett left the chairs claiming that there was no quorum.

But there was still eight at the board.

Another resolution was moved but Dr. Burnham objected to it and rising left no quorum.

At last a motion for adjurning till Monday was passed. Dr. Burnham returned and the motion was carried.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

MR. MOWAT'S OMISSION.

Rather should Mr. Mowat be judged by the results of his policy than by the excellent quality of his Presbyterianism. The letter is several columns long, but contains no reference to the Carleton registrarship. —Ottawa Journal (Indep.)

"REFORM" POLICY.

Hon. Mr. Thompson was a complete failure. He looks like a man that had been fed on red herrings and consumed considerable rain water.—Owen Sound Advertiser (Reform.)

THE POLITICAL HEAD.

In a large degree any difficulties which may exist in the school system have been created by encroachments upon the independence of the ratepayers of the school section.—London Advertiser (Reform.)

TAKES CONTROL OF HIS OWN.

Mr. Mowat has now taken unconcealed editorial control of the Globe. His manifesto in yesterday's issue is probably the first document of that nature ever issued by a Prime Minister without signature. The late George Brown, though acknowledged owner and editor of the paper, would scarcely have gone so far as to efface his political self in an editorial "we." But times are changed.—Toronto World (Indep.)

UNPATRIOTIC SUPPORT.

The Globe gives editorial prominence to a London despatch to the effect that the Imperial Government takes no interest in the fisheries question, and that the Canadian authorities are not favorable to a settlement. This is plainly a misstatement of the facts, and smacks of Yankee concoction. The Canadian authorities are not favorable to a settlement upon the basis laid down by Senator Frye, and they would be false to their trust and traitors to their country if they were. Our neighbors can have a settlement upon equitable lines just as soon as they wish and upon no other. The Frye faction having found that bullying, fraud and larceny do not pay, have fallen back upon whining misrepresentation, in which position they have the support of the always unpatriotic Globe.—Toronto World (Indep.)

DOUBTFUL WITNESSES.

Where a witness is false as to one statement, the court can caution the jury to weigh his testimony with care and close scrutiny. When there has been a wilful or intentional disregard of truth by a witness the old legal maxim, "False in one, false in all," has not lost its force.—New York Sun.

MR. MEREDITH'S ADDRESS.

The strongest feature of the address is its unequivocal committal of the party to manhood suffrage, the abolition of all immigration expenditure, progressive labor legislation, and reform in municipal taxation. On these points the Opposition programme is far in advance of that of the Administration, and should the election result in the defeat of the Government, it will be largely due to the obstinate refusal of Premier MoWat to concede the reforms thus promised.—Toronto News (Indep.)

HARPOONING REFORMERS.

No sooner were the Quebec elections over than Mr. Mowat dashed off a telegram to Mr. Mercier, congratulating him on his supposed victory, Mr. Mercier being the leader of the Rielite agitators. Why should Mr. Mowat, as leader of the Reform party in this province, seek to harpoon Reformers into the ranks of the race and revenge party in Quebec? The Toronto organ of the Rielite faction would do well to sing small on this subject while the Reform candidates are in quest of votes. It has printed rubbish enough about Riel. —Toronto Telegram (Indep.)

THE DISFRANCHISEMENT.

Every effort has been made to repair the effect of Mowat's haste in springing the elections, so far as regards London, but without avail. The wage-earners whom Mr. Mowat professed to consider in the action taken by him, are to be really disfranchised, and for the period of four years. The voters' list to be used on the 28th of December will be that of 1885, and not the new list which has been in course of laborious preparation, but is not and will not be in time completed.—London Free Press.

NO RESEMBLANCE.

If the Hon. George Brown the old editor of the Globe, is looking down upon Canada now, as Sir John expects to do after death, he must be grieved at the deterioration in the character of the newspaper which he made great and influential. Except in name there is no resemblance whatever between the Cameron Globe of to-day and the Alexander Brown Globe of a few years ago.—Montreal Star (Indp.)

MR. MOWAT'S KNAVERY.

Mr. H. E. Clarke takes fair ground when he maintains that Toronto is entitled to four members and four electoral districts, but that under the new act it is only permitted to have three on condition that two of the votes cancel each other, thus leaving a hundred and thirty thousand people with only one member in the Ontario assembly. There may possibly be locked up in Mr. Mowat's breast, struggling to make its escape in the form of a seven column letter to the press, a reasonable excuse for this apparent juggling with the representation of Toronto, but if there is, the public has been kept in ignorance of it.—Toronto Telegram (Indep.)

THE BUZZARD VARIETY COMBINE!

As the Globe and its little weaklings throughout the country endeavor to belittle Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues with their small wit, calling them the "Chestnut Combination," &c., we would suggest the "Buzzard Variety Combine" as a very appropriate name for Mr. Blake and his Grit Stumpers. The name is applicable, and should fit and stick to them.—Port Hope Times.

BRITISH COLUMBIA BLACK COD.

Fishermen of Newfoundland and Labrador Anxious to Get at Them.

OTTAWA, Dec. 6—Mr. Foster, minister of marine and fisheries, has of late received quite a number of enquiries from Labrador and Newfoundland fishermen regarding the discovery of black cod in the Pacific, off the British Columbia coast. The fishermen are intensely interested and if the glowing reports of the deep sea fisheries are confirmed, it is expected many will move to the West in the spring. Mr. Foster is still awaiting the report of the exploratory expedition.

IN NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Dr. S. E Sylvester, Portland, Me., says: "I have used it in nervous debility with most satisfactory results."

Mothers! Mothers!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guarantee. See wrapper around bottle. Price $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

Hall's VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Hall's Hair Renewer restores gray hair to its original color; makes the scalp white and clean; cures dandruff and humors; prevents the hair from falling out, and renders it soft and brilliant. The editor of the "Ocean Foam," Cape May, writes: "We speak knowingly, when we assert that Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is the best of its kind. The article is an elegant and cleanly one, without which we think no toilet complete." Thos. D. Jones, Middle Granville, N. Y., writes: "I have used

The advance of time is heralded by bleached, thin, and falling hair. By the use of Hall's Hair Renewer, the hair may be restored to its original color, lustre, and vitality. M. N. I have used it for the past twenty years, and my hair is in as vigorous and healthy a condition as when I was 30 years of age. Not a sign of gray hair to be seen anywhere." Dwight L. and now rejoice in the possession of hair as abundant as ever." E. J. I am still using it, and could ask for no better results." Mrs. R. H. Corning, Battle Creek, Mich., writes: "By the use of Hall's Hair Renewer, my head, which was quite bald, has been covered with a fine growth of young hair."

A Satisfactory Appointment.

The appointment of Mr. J. H. Long to the position of Principal of the Collegiate Institute gives general satisfaction. The success with which he conducted the Modern Language department since his appointment, two years ago, goes to show that he is a capable teacher, and the manner in which the Institute has been managed since his pro tempore appointment proves that he is qualified for the position which he now holds. Mr. Long's degrees are B.A., LL.B. He practiced for some years as a barrister, solicitor, etc. He has had a wide experience in educational matters.

Musical Society.

The regular meeting of the Peterborough Musical Society, was held in the new concert room, Opera House block, on Tuesday evening. There were about a hundred and twenty-five members present. The evening work consisted in choral singing. Mr. Seward, the director, conducted the exercises.

Released.

Mr. C. W. Sawers, who acted as counsel for Thomas Purcell on his trial for rape two years ago, when he was found guilty and sentenced to seven years in the Kingston Penitentiary, has been applying to the Minister of Justice for his release upon the ground that the evidence showed that only an assault had been committed, and that at the expiration of two years he should be released. This morning Mr. Sawers received a letter from the Hon. Mr. Thompson, Minister of Justice, stating that the request had been complied with.

A Gross Insult.

Never in the history of the town and county of Peterborough have their loyal people been so grossly insulted as by the announcement that on Friday, Dec. 17th, they will be addressed by Wilfred Laurier, the avowed rebel, perjured Privy Councillor, and defender of murder. Very recently our people assisted at the ceremony of unveiling the memorial to Capt. Brown, shot down by the rebels while fighting for Canada; and as Gen. Sir F. Middleton, commander of the Canadian forces, appropriately performed this duty, fitting acknowledgement was made of the services of Mr. R. Cook, standing there with evidence of the desperate wound received from the Rielites in arms, and of the decorated men of our own regiment who only regret that they were not actually in the field of battle to share in the glory gained by their comrades under the gallant leadership of Col. Williams, another lamented victim. And now our people are called upon to welcome a man who boasts that if he had been on the banks of the Saskatchewan he would have shouldered his gun with [illegible] seriously with the hope of shooting down some more of our gallant men. False to the Queen, false to his country, false to his religion, this Laurier defends the murderers of missionary priests, as befits an admirer of the red Republicans, the Communists of Paris, who brutally murdered their venerable Archbishop. And this is the man who is brought here in the train of leaders of the Reformers in our Dominion and our Province. The insult to our whole community is great, but it is exceeded by the insult to loyal Reformers of such a vile attempt to connect them with the cause of treason and murder. There are thousands of loyal Reformers among us who will indignantly repudiate such an outrage.

WORSE THAN CHINESE LABOR.

We have seen how the convict labor of the Central Prison is made to clash with the labour of honest men in a ruinous way. Two industries carried on in this city are injuried in an especial sense, viz., the making of hand sleighs and of brooms and brushes. The prison labor is all handed over under contract for a term of years. The contractors have no rent to pay, no taxes, no interest on capital, nor wear and tear of machinery, nor machinery itself. They have roomy shops given to them; these are fitted with 48 different sorts of the best machinery for "turning out all kinds of wooden wares." They have an engineer and stokers paid by the Mowat Government. They have a certain number of prisoners allowed them as overseers to see that the men put in the full time of ten hours per day. And the labor of these working prisoners is given them at 40 cents per day. The result is that the contract work at the Central Prison is turned out at so cheap a rate that the market is demoralized. The products of honest labor have but a small chance in competition, and must take a secondary position. For how can a private master mechanic, who has to pay heavy for his plant, who has to pay heavy rent and taxes, and a fair rate of wages to his men, carry on successfully? He is under the greatest disability, and must go under, as has just been illustrated at Berlin, where a sleigh manufacturer has closed down, and his men all been discharged. There is another trade that has been more or less affected for years past, by the prison labor system. We refer to that of brickmaking. Many millions of brick have been produced at the Toronto institution, and now it is to be carried on to a much more injurious extent than was ever before in contemplation. It seems that all the bricks to be used in the new Parliament buildings are to be made by the prisoners, and for this job short-term prisoners are to be drafted from every county jail. We have shown that the cost of the buildings is to be nearly three times as much as the sum voted by the House. The masonry alone is to cost the Province $830,000. The bricks for this purpose will be produced by labor paid for at less than 40c. per day. The honest men who make brick as a trade will have no share in this expenditure. There will be no extra market for brick due to the large building operations of the Mowat Government. The rogues and thieves will do the work for less than the price of their meals. Thus one by one the honest industries of the country are invaded and in part supplanted by the cheap labor of the gaol population, more fatal to them than the labor of a horde of Chinese. The Mercer Reformatory was turned into a gigantic laundry, where all the fewd bags o' the country were set to do up the family linen of Toronto's residents, thus taking the bread out of the mouths of three or four honest women who had only that means of support for themselves and their children. That institution was built out of a private fortune escheated—pounced upon—by the Mowat Government, snatched out of the hands of an unfortunate young man, whom all the power of the Province had been used to brand with social degradation, in order that the public coffers might be enriched by his father's hoardings. No wonder so few people take any pleasure or pride in it, feeling that little luck can ever come to an institution so established. But the mechanical labor that goes on in the Central Prison is yet more unpleasant to contemplate, because it is against the interest of so many honest men, depressing their means of employment and taking the bread out of their mouths. Why cannot the prisoners be made to labor at some other occupation? Why must they go into such keen competition in the mechanical trades of the country?—London Free Press.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the ourden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d34

ROBUST PETERBOROUGH

A VERY LOW DEATH RATE DURING THE PAST YEAR.

The Board of Health Wind up the Year's Business—The Medical Health Officers Report.

A meeting of the Board of Health was held on Wednesday evening for the purpose of receiving the Medical Health Officer's annual report. There were present Messrs. T. Menzies, in the chair, R. W. Errett, E. Pearce, Mayor Stevenson and Dr. Clarke.

The report was submitted as follows:—

To the Chairman and members of the Peterborough Board of Health:

GENTLEMEN,—In presenting the third annual report of the Medical Health Officer I would congratulate you on the freedom of the town during the past year from epidemic disease, on the low death rate we have experienced, and on the increasing compliance on the part of the public with the provisions of the Health Act. While we have not been free from diseases which are due to removable causes I believe their extent and severity have been as moderate as in any town in the Province, and have been considerably limited by the sanitary precautions that have been used. I will refer as briefly as possible to the various points that demand our attention.

SLAUGHTER HOUSES.

These have been inspected at frequent intervals and found generally satisfactorily. Complaints have been made several times about one or two, and on investigation have been found not altogether without cause. I am glad to say, however, that the owners have promised to remove them before next spring.

HOG PENS.

There has been a large decrease in the number of these since the board commenced operations. But every year a few have been found hidden away here and there within the proscribed distance from the dwellings, in some cases giving rise to considerable trouble. If there were better and more economical ways of getting rid of kitchen refuse there would be less temptation to keep hogs.

REMOVAL OF GARBAGE.

This has been more systematically attended to this year, several persons finding employment in the work. The greatest difficulty is where vegetable matter, in a state of decay, is allowed to collect. Indeed, in some places, it would require the constant presence of a sanitary inspector to keep things in order. The advantage of a public scavenger paying regular visits is apparent. In such a case refuse would be gathered up and exposed instead of being spread out or concealed.

DISPOSAL OF EXCRETA.

Earth closets are gradually being substituted instead of privy vaults, and will continue to increase in number as their sanitary value is recognized. The majority of vault closets are cleaned out once a year according to law. Some are emptied several times a season, the excreta being used for fertilizing purposes principally. The old prejudice against this is wearing away. It will be necessary next spring to provide a nuisance ground as the old one has not been available of late.

WELLS.

I have examined many samples of well water this season, and am glad to say that there is a marked decrease in the amount of organic matter present. This is no doubt due to the greater cleanliness above ground, filth and rubbish being removed before the surface becomes saturated. Another cause in some cases is the yearly cleansing which the law requires. But I am of opinion that many wells are used from year to year without annual purification, or the work is done in a perfunctory manner to evade inspection. Where wells have been found highly impure they have been closed up.

COMPLAINTS.

A large number of complaints have been made during the past year. To many the duties of a Health Officer appears to be of the most comprehensive kind. The blowing of steam whistles or the too early crowing of fowl are supposed to be proper questions for the investigation of the Board. Many are neighbors' quarrels, and many are just and proper complaints. Your officers have investigated and rectified these in the simplest and quietest manner possible. All that has generally been found necessary is to state the law clearly to the offending party, and there is usually very little further trouble.

SEWERAGE.

Most of the complaints in the centre of the town have arisen from causes which a good system of sewerage would remove. Having referred to this before, I need but say that the extension of the waterworks system not only creates, by the freer use of water, a necessity for better drainage, but provides facilities for it as well. Some of the drains have required frequent charges of disinfectants to keep them in good order.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

The principal matter to note under this head during the past year is the prevalence of diphtheria. Peterborough has not been alone in this respect, almost the whole Province having suffered. A circular relating to the number of cases, their causes, their courses, best means of prevention, etc., was filled out at the request of the Provincial board, and with others formed the basis of a paper read by the Provincial Secretary at the meeting of the American Public Health Association in Toronto last October, which I regret I was not able to attend. The number of cases in town throughout the year, as nearly as can be ascertained, is about 75, 22 houses having been placarded. Among these there were only 8 deaths, all of them being children. I believe bad water and bad drainage to be the principal causes. In a thinly settled town where the lots are large and admit of a good distance between well and privy vault there may be no danger, but as the town fills up the lots become smaller and houses more crowded, and in consequence the well and closet are apt to be in dangerous proximity. Unless earth closets are generally used this will be attended with considerable risk, and to avoid it I should strongly recommend boiling or filtering all water for drinking purposes. An instance may be given of the perils of impure water. Diphtheria broke out in a family. Everything appeared to be in good order and no cause could be at first assigned. On closer examination it was found that the kitchen slop pipe connecting with the waste pipe from the well had rusted through, thereby allowing the contents of the former to trickle down alongside of the pump. As it was impossible to determine the amount of contamination the well had to be closed. All cases cannot be traced so exactly as this. The most rigorous examination in some houses where the disease had occurred failed to detect any source of danger. But there must have been a sanitary leak somewhere, and this shows how careful families with young children should be during the prevalence of diphtheria. Wherever cases have appeared rigid isolation has been resolved upon, the other children kept from school, and when the disease has subsided the house and clothes have been disinfected with sulphur, chloride of lime or carbolic acid under the direction of the medical attendant or the officers of the Board. Cases this year have been pretty faithfully reported. I am glad to say that at present the disease appears to be dying out.

TYPHOID FEVER.

There have been fewer cases of this disease during the past year than for some years previous. Sanitary measures are evidently beginning to have their effect. Two deaths have occurred from typhoid, and one from typho-malarial fever.

SCARLET FEVER.

There have been a few cases but fortunately no deaths.

MORTUARY STATISTICS.

In 1885 the Dominion Government included Peterborough among the towns in which mortuary statistics are collected. We thus know the exact death rate of the town, which was 18.46 per thousand last year. When we consider that 17 per thousand was fixed upon by the Registrar-General of England as a standard to be aimed at by sanitarians we may congratulate ourselves on exceeding it so little. During the same year the ratio in the city of Toronto was 20.61 per thousand.

A BENEFIT.

On the whole, I think we can look back on the two or three years since Boards of Health were inaugurated with considerable satisfaction. To be sure we have had no large municipal measures put in operation, but there has been a vast deal of individual work, and without this all municipal measures would be useless. It has been said that few places will pay any attention to health considerations until the fear of death is staring them in the face. I am glad to be able to say that this state of affairs is rapidly passing away in Peterborough. The public sensibilities have been sharpened, and as this process goes on a firmer demand will arise for those more important measures of sanitary reform which will prove an inestimable boon to the town and assist in no small degree the operations of the Board.

Respectfully submitted,

J. CLARKE, M.D.,
Medical Health Officer.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

RIOT AT LURGAN.

DUBLIN, Dec. 8.—The Catholics of Lurgan, County Armagh, formed in procession last night and marched through the streets to show their joy at the acquittal of some of their number who had been tried on charges of rioting. The Orangemen resented the demonstration, and attacked the paraders. A fierce riot ensued, and sticks, stones and revolvers were used. The fighting lasted several hours and was finally quelled in early morning by a troop of dragoons, which had to be called upon. A score of persons were wounded, and several houses partly wrecked.

MINISTERIAL PROGRAMME.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The Marquis of Salisbury, speaking at a Conservative meeting in the city to-day, said the Marquis of Hartington made co-operation between the Government and the Liberal-Unionists an easy task. He said the Ministerial programme for next year would be local government for England, Ireland and Scotland, and after the Land Tranfer bill had been introduced and dealt with, the House would be asked to consider the rules of Parliamentary procedure; but it was possible the condition of Ireland might be first considered. The speech was received with the greatest enthusiasm.

THE LORD MAYOR'S OPINIONS.

DUBLIN, Dec. 8.—At the National League meeting the Lord Mayor said the Government might reintroduce all the most repressive of the obsolete statutes, but it could only fail in its endeavours to cope with the anti-rent movement.

WATER WORKS.—The vote on the waterworks by-law was taken on Wednesday, Dec. 1st, and was defeated by a majority of fifteen votes.

NEW PAPER.—The first number of the Lakefield Chronicle will be published on Friday, Dec. 17th. May the new venturer have a long and prosperous career.

WELL REPRESENTED.—Lakefield was well represented at the demonstration in honour of Sir John and the other Ministers on Thursday last. Many who could not get away during the day drove down for the evening meeting notwithstanding the extreme cold.

THE CAMPAIGN.—On Friday evening the electors of Lakefield and district were addressed by Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Stephenson, Mr. Isaac Garbutt, Sr. in the chair. Mr. Stephenson in a concise address placed before the electors his position on the questions of the day, and was followed by Mr. Carnegie, who in a splendid speech lasting nearly two hours explained his actions during the past Parliament and reviewed the proceedings of the Mowat Government during the same period. Mr. Carnegie was listened to with the closest attention throughout his address, and was loudly applauded whenever he made a good point, which was very often. There was a very good attendance and had it not been for the extreme cold there is every reason to believe the hall would have been crowded. Mr. Stratton did not put in an appearance.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

The Daily Review.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1886.

HIGH SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

Mr. Mowat, as requested by Mr. Carnegie, has given publicity to his letter disclaiming the statement attributed to him by Mr. Mowat in regard to the appointment of High School Trustees by Separate School Boards.

In commenting editorally upon this letter the Globe is of course abusive, but that is only its way of showing that it differs from Mr. Carnegie in politics, and needs no further comment.

But the Globe also indulges in falsehood to misrepresent Mr. Carnegie, and it will be well to set it right.

In the first place it says that it can prove the version of Mr. Carnegie's words given by it and used by Mr. Mowat in his seven column "memorandum" to be correct. Their version was that in referring to the change in the law Mr. Carnegie said that "he had favored it, and that Mr. Fraser had advanced such arguments as convinced him of its fairness." Now even the Globe's own evidence does not show that Mr. Carnegie either favored the change or was convinced by Mr. Frazer's arguments of its fairness.

The Globe goes on to make the false statement that the REVIEW makes Mr. Carnegie "speak in identical terms." What the REVIEW said in its necessarily condensed report was this:—

"Though he did not like the principle, yet when Mr. Fraser stated that not a Roman Catholic in Ontario sat on a High School Board, he (Mr. Cameron) thought it only right that they should, when they were taxed to support it, and he did not oppose the measure."

The Globe stops there, omitting the next words:—

"He would be sorry to see any man's faith preventing him from filling a position which he was entitled to fill."

It omits also with similar unfairness the immediately preceeding words:—

"In the House it was said that it was because the municipal councils were so bigoted that they would not appoint a Roman Catholic. Mr. Fraser gave that as a reason. Well, he was quite willing to allow the Roman Catholics representation on the High School Boards, so that they might see fully what was going on."

Even the words quoted by the Globe are very far from being identical in terms with favouring the measure and being convinced by argument of its fairness. The portions conveniently omitted by the Globe plainly contradict the version of Mr. Mowat and the Globe, while they show that Mr. Carnegie was anxious to do the fullest justice to all.

The facts are that Mr. Meredith (as we have shown by the report of what he said at the time in the House), Mr. Carnegie and other members of the Opposition, were far from favouring the change in the law, because they disliked the principle of special denominational representation, but they reluctantly ceased from opposition when assured that an injustice had been done. They would have preferred that the municipal councils, elected by men of the different denominations and containing men of the different denominations, should have appointed High School Trustees without restriction of creed, and including Roman Catholics. They were moved not by Mr. Fraser's "arguments," but by his false statement made to them in the House to gain his end, that the municipal councils had appointed no Roman Catholics on the High School Boards. They accepted this statement, made by a Minister of the Crown in the House, as being true, till protests shortly coming in from all quarters proved it to be false.

If it was a mistake in Mr. Carnegie to assume that Mr. Fraser was speaking the truth it was the mistake of an honorable man. If it was a mistake in Mr. Carnegie to waive the correct general principle that such appointments should be made without regard to creed, because in this particular instance he had been made to believe that it worked harshly towards one creed, it was the mistake of a man free from bigotry and anxious to give fair play to all.

MR. BLAKE'S ASSOCIATE.

SOME attempts are being made by the Rielite press to throw a doubt upon the treasonable utterances of Mr. Laurier, the rebel and perjurer. He has repeated his disloyal and unpatriotic boast several times in public since he first gave vent to it, but we will give his last recorded avowal of his criminal aspirations. At the nominations for the Chambly election he said:—

"I have said that had I been on the banks of the Saskatchewan I should have taken up my gun and used it. I now repeat it."

As it is not likely that he meant to "use" his gun against his brothers, Riel and the other rebels, he could only have used it in the attempt to shoot down our gallant volunteers, perhaps to make another Peterborough man die in the cause of his country.

And it is this bloodthirsty ruffian whom Messrs. Blake and Pardee bring here with them on Dec. 17th to insult with his presence every loyal man in Peterborough.

OUR FORESTS.

We would be loath to do anyone an injustice even by passing over in silence what is worthy of approval though it be in a political opponent. We therefore, note the the reminder of Mr. R. W. Phipps that Mr. Mowat has done something towards the conservation of our forests, inasmuch as he has employed forty men at a cost of $1,000 to prevent forest fires. To this we may add the appointment of Mr. Phipps, who by his official reports and other writings has been so zealous and efficient in educating public opinion in this important respect. It is satisfactory to know that Mr. Mowat has not been altogether neglectful of his duty even in regard to a species of public property which in other respect he has administered so wastefully and so corruptly, as we have often had to point out. But though even a first step in the right direction is gratifying, it must be admitted by all who have the slightest acquaintance with the subject that the conservancy of our forests is sadly neglected as compared with what is done in the rest of the civilized world, even Russia, which we are accustomed to look upon as a nation little removed from barbarism in many respects, setting us an example well worthy of imitation in this matter. Other portions of the "Greater Britain," Australia, New Zealand, the South African colonies, etc., are far in advance of us on this question, having wisely adopted measures for preserving old forests and planting new ones. In the last Indian paper to hand we find in the Burma Gazette the names of no less than nine forestry officers, not new appointments to this branch of the service, but promotions, posting to stations, &c., some being in Upper Burma, the subjugation of which is still incomplete.

Though it is very necessary that public opinion should be formed on this subject, yet it is one as to which the Administration should not wait upon public opinion, but should act in advance of it; the property of the people is involved, and it is one of the first duties of a Government to protect and improve the public property in their charge, even if the people are too short-sighted to see the necessity of looking after their interests, or are not sufficiently acquainted with the subject to know what steps are advisable. The Dominion Government is moving in the right direction by setting apart forest reserves, and Quebec is doing the same. Ontario should not be behind them, and indeed might go much further with great advantage.

We are glad to see that Mr. Meredith is duly impressed with the necessity of conserving our forests before it is too late. Under his statesmanlike leadership we may look forward confidently to wiser dealing with this very important portion of the wealth of Ontario.

THAT bitter Rielite journal the Montreal Herald has an article fiercely attacking Mr. Meredith, who, being an honest man, is naturally distasteful to the Herald. The first line in this abusive editorial describes Mr.. Meredith as speaking in Peterborough last Friday and the rest of the article is equally true.

Snow in the States.

ST. PAUL, Dec 7.—The Manitoba road reports 200 cars of wheat snowbound at Willmars. Trains which started for Minneapolis and Duluth loaded with wheat are compelled to keep dropping off cars at way stations until when arriving, they have little more than the caboose left. The St. Louis road is greatly troubled for water, besides the difficulty from drifting snow. The Hastings and Dakota road is also troubled for water, especially in the James River country, in some cases having to send engines fifty miles out of their regular destination, and filling water-cars and hauling them to points where needed.

Killed at a Railway Crossing.

LAPORTE, Ind., Dec. 8.—A terrible accident occurred yesterday afternoon at a crossing on the Grand Trunk road near Mill Creek, in this county, in which Reuben Hill and his three sons were instantly killed, and his daughter had her right leg broken, by being struck by a passenger train as they were driving across the track. The siding was filled with freight cars and prevented them from seeing the train until it was upon them. Mr. Hill was a farmer about 50 years of age. The young people ranged from 14 to 18 years.

Stabbed by a Sailor.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Dec. 8.—During a fight on board the brigantine Ida Maud, loading oats for Demerara, a Spanish sailor Juan Maccolda, aged 22, stabbed the second mate, James Smith, aged 26, son of Alexander Smith, of Lockport. There are no hopes of his recovery.

HEW TO THE LINE, LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY MAY!

On account of my Extremely Low Prices some people are very skeptical, and desining dealers will tell them that my goods are shoddy, etc., etc. Well, be that as it may, I only ask the public to praise as they prove me, and in the face of this I boldly make the assertion that my stock for SUPERIORITY IN TEXTURE and MAKE SURPASSES anything in the County of Peterborough, and is only equalled by one store in Toronto, and surpassed by none in Canada. I defy any man to contradict this and prove the assertion. If they do, I will forfeit $1,000. Remember, by One Price and Square Dealing to ALL, I will ascend the Ladder of Fame, and as I do, I assure those who help me, that I never wish to meet them coming down. CANADA'S DEFENDERS.

We take from a volume of poems, just published by Mr. John Imrie, of Toronto, the following verses, "written on the occasion of the return of our brave volunteers from the North-West expedition, 1885." It will be seen that Mr. Imrie by no means sympathises with the ideas of Laurier, Pacaud and Co. He agrees rather with the Hon. Mr. Chapleau.

Home again our Volunteers,
Home again 'mid ringing cheers,
Vanquishing our anxious fears,
Canada's defenders;
From the scenes of strife and war,
From the rifle-pits afar,
True as steel or Polar star,
Canada's defenders.

Back to home and kindred dear,
Back to loved ones waiting here,
Back from death and every fear,
Welcome, brave defenders;
Ye did make a noble stand,
Under Middleton's command,
For the honor of our land,
Welcome, brave defenders.

Welcome back to peace and joy,
Welcome back to your employ,
Rebel threats no more annoy,
Canada's defenders;
Stretching wide from sea to sea,
Canada may boast of thee,
Soldiers daring, brave and free,
Canada's defenders.

Let us join the merry throng,
Welcoming with shout and song,
Singing praises loud and long,
To our brave defenders;
Ye have made the rebel Riel
Cower 'neath your charge of steel,
Own your pluck, and then appeal
To our brave defenders.

LAKEHURST.

From Our Own Correspondent.

METHODIST TEA-MEETING. — According to announcement our Methodist friends held their annual tea-meeting on Thursday, Dec. 2, and we congratulate them on their success. The tea, which was served in the basement of the cheese factory, was a marvel of culinary art, and was voted, by all who had the pleasure of partaking of it, one of the best that has ever been served in the neighborhood. After ample justice had been done to the viands the people adjourned to the Town Hall, where they were entertained with addresses by the Rev. Messrs. Smith, McMullen and Adam, readings by Misses Montgomery, G. Young and Master H. Coons, singing by the choir, a song, "We'd Better Bide a Wee," by Miss Maggie Weir, and "The Dying Tramp" (in costume) by Master Robert Weir. The latter excited especial interest and was loudly encored, but had to beat a hasty retreat on account of his tattered appearance. Messrs. Graham and Henderson, of Lakefield, deserve especial mention, as their comic songs and duets added greatly to the evenings pleasure. They were loudly and repeatedly encored. The proceeds, which amounted to $25.50 was handed, by the chairman, Mr. Shaw, to Rev. Mr. Adams to go towards furnishing the parsonage. At the close of the meeting a vote of thanks was tendered to the ladies, who had provided so bountiful a repast, and all parties who had taken an active part in the proceedings. The entire audience then joined in the National Anthem and the meeting was brought to a close by Rev. Mr. Smith pronouncing the benediction.

PERSONAL MENTION.—We are sorry to say that Miss E. Young who has recently been giving music lessons in the settlement has taken her departure much to the regret of her numerous friends and acquaintances, who wish her every success in future and pray that wherever her lot may be cast her life will be a happy one.

Hundreds of letters from those using Ayer's Hair Vigor attest its value as a restorer of gray hair to its natural color. As a stimulant and tonic, preventing and curing baldness, and cleansing the scalp, its use annot be too strongly recommended.

Judgments on a number of cases were delivered by the Supreme Court on Tuesday. Among others the appeal of the Canadian Pacific railway against the injunction restraining it from extending its line from Port Moody to Coal Harbour was allowed with costs.

As a purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla acts directly and promptly. A single bottle will prove its merits. Many thousands of people are yearly saved from dangerous fevers by the exercise of a little timely care in cleansing the system by the use of this remedy.

Fourteen heavy failures have occurred on the San Francisco Stock Exchange since the speculative craze in mining stocks commenced. On Tuesday the leading stocks took a downward plunge, Consolidated Virginia, dropping from 65 to 36, and a correspon ding break occurred on the New York Mining Exchange, Sutro falling from 6½ to 3½.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

Hall's VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Hall's Hair Renewer restores gray hair to its original color; makes the scalp white and clean; cures dandruff and humors; prevents the hair from falling out, and renders it soft and brilliant. The editor of the "Ocean Foam," Cape May, writes: "We speak knowingly, when we assert that Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is the best of its kind. The article is an elegant and cleanly one, without which we think no toilet complete." Thos. D. Jones, Middle Granville, N. Y., writes: "I have used

Hall's Hair Renewer,

Renewer about ten years, with satisfactory results." E. G. Perkins, Oberlin, Ohio, writes: "I consider Hall's Hair Renewer the best hair preserver in use. I have used it for the past twenty years, and my hair is in as vigorous and healthy a condition as when I was 30 years of age. Not a sign of gray hair to be seen anywhere." Dwight L. Chamberlain, Oakland, California, writes: "My hair, which was nearly white, has been restored to its original color and luxuriance by the use of Hall's Hair Renewer."

The advance of time is heralded by bleached, thin, and falling hair. By the use of Hall's Hair Renewer, the hair may be restored to its original color, lustre, and vitality. M. N. Johnson, Fitchburg, Mass., writes: "My hair was weak, thin, and full of dandruff. Hall's Hair Renewer has removed the dandruff, and caused a vigorous growth of new hair." Abel H. Smith, Portsmouth, Va., writes: "My hair had nearly all fallen out, and that which was left was dry and dead. I used one bottle of Hall's Hair and now rejoice in the possession of hair as abundant as ever." E. J. Adams, St. Paul, Minn., writes: "A diseased scalp caused my hair to fall out, and, after using a number of preparations without avail, I finally tried Hall's Hair Renewer, which caused a vigorous new growth. I am still using it, and could ask for no better results." Mrs. R. H. Corning, Battle Creek, Mich., writes: "By the use of Hall's Hair Renewer, my head, which was quite bald, has been covered with a fine growth of young hair."

Renewer,

The Holiday Season

We are once more entering upon the gay and festive holiday season. About this time of the year the average parent begins to think how many turkeys it will be necessary to purchase in order to live through the X-mas and New Year season, while his less thoughtful boys are constantly reminding him of what he promised them at Christmas if they attended carefully to the woodpile during the year. The year fast drawing to a close has been a prosperous one. Although they are those who will complain, yet they are the exception, not the rule. Fathers, if you want to buy a holiday present for the boys buy them something serviceable. Go to Habiliment Hall and see what A. McNeil will do for you in this connection.

KILLED.

A Young Man Named Bailey Falls from a Scaffold.

On Wednesday afternoon at about four o'clock a sad accident occurred at Mr. T. G. Hazlitt's new house, Water street.

A young man named Bailey, about twenty-two years of age, was employed about the place to attend to the carpenters. As he had no work to do he went up on the roof to watch the painters while at work on a pedment window. He remained there a short time. In coming down he missed his footing, fell to the scaffolding and then to the frozen ground twenty feet below. In an instant the blood gushed out of his mouth and nose, continuing to flow for several minutes. Dr. Kincaid being summoned made an examination. He found the heart to be still pulsating, though faintly. The neck was broken, the right arm was broken a little above the wrist, and the top of the head and face were lacerated and bruised.

The body was removed to the boarding house, and the deceased man's brother, who lives in Tilton, near Campbellford, was telegraphed for. The latter arrived this morning and took the body with him for interment.

The deceased was unmarried. He came out from the old country this summer.

SCOTT ACT.

A County Convention of Supporters of the Canada Temperance Act.

On Wednesday afternoon a convention was held in the old Music Hall of supporters of the Scott Act in the town and County. There was a very good attendance.

Dr. FIFE, President of the Scott Act Association, occupied the chair and explained the object of the meeting. The first subject taken up would be, What is being done towards enforcing the Scott Act?

Dr. MASSIE, Keene, said they were doing nothing in Keene, because he was not aware that there was much to do. One hotel keeper, who opposed the passing of the Act bitterly, now observed it. The others, if they sold liquor, did it very discretly. Some men who had drunk a good deal before, were now, speaking generally, sober men. There were times when private persons brought in liquor, but the Act was fairly enforced.

Mr. A. R. KIDD, Dummer, said that the Act was fairly carried out in Warsaw. He thought that he could say safely that he had not seen one drunken man in the village since the Act came in force.

Mr. J. CAMERON, Asphodel, said that in Westwood and vicinity the Act was being observed.

Mr. METCALFE, Westwood, said that since May 1st he had seen only two drunk men go out of the village, but did not know where they got the liquor. That was all he had seen of the effects of drinking.

Mr. W. GRAHAM, Smith, said that there were no hotels near where he lived.

Mr. MANNING, Selwyn, said there was no tavern where he lived, but in Buckhorn they were selling as freely as ever. The Inspector had been informed and took no action. In Young's Point the Inspector had brought up two, one of them twice, but in the second case let the offender off with a first offence fine.

Mr. A. R. KIDD—They say he will enforce the Act after the elections are over.

Mr. PAUL, Bridgenorth, said that if the law was violated there it was done in a very sly manner.

Mr. PRIEST, Lakefield, said the Act was doing good work in Lakefield, though liquor was being sold. Doctors abused the privilege given to them. He mentioned cases where families had been benefitted.

Mr. J. CAMERON said he had met a man from Apsley who said the Act was being enforced there.

Mr. J. W. FLAVELLE said that he had some information from Norwood. The Act was being violated openly and with impunity. There was not attempt to enforce it.

The Rev. Mr. JOHNSTON, Keene, said the Act was giving satisfaction—in fact, he might say entire satisfaction.

Dr. MASSIE said he had a talk with a man from Norwood (Mr. W. H. Stephenson) who said the Act was not being enforced there. The temperance men in Norwood had not, he (Dr. Massie) believed, moved a finger, and it was largely, he thought, their fault.

Mr. JAS. STRATTON said that he could tell them of a new drink they were trying to introduce. It was brandy with a little cod liver oil in it. Another drink, with a fancy name, was the pure quill.

Mr. J. W. Flavelle, town, said that on May 1st they recognized that they would have to do a great deal of work themselves. At a public meeting some $4,000 or $5,000 was subscribed for that purpose. They had employed an Inspector, Mr. Henry Rossiter, and he bore testimony to the efficiency of his work and to his sincerity as a Christian. They had also employed private detectives, and in all these cases but one these detectives did not have to go into Court. For the first few weeks they got half the fines, but the Dominion Government cut off that sourse of revenue. For six months the money was locked up. Now the money was turned over to the counties, cities, and towns seperated from counties, and they did not receive half the fines. They had spent about $1,000. Latterly they had handed over the information to the Inspector, allowing him to prosecute. There had been 80 prosecutions, and $4,200 or $4,300 imposed in fines. About $2,000 had been paid into the bank, $1,000 to the Magistrate, and $1,000 uncollected or represented by commitments to gaol. He blamed the Mayor for not using the police force to enforce the law, and said that the Chief of Police was a poor tool. They had the Council against them, although four Councillors had stood up manfully for them. They had also to fight the Inspectors. Mr. Darling was an honest man, but it never seemed to occur to him that he should look up information. Mr. Darling had not been used well by the temperance people of Norwood, yet the Inspector was culpable. In the West Riding they had objected to Mr. Leary being continued as Inspector, and Mr. Leary had resigned. They then asked that Mr. Joseph Paul be appointed, but Mr. J. R. Stratton, after consulting with Mr. Hazlitt and other leaders of the Reform party, told them that Mr. Paul would not be acceptable and suggested Mr. Cochrane. Rather than have no change they agreed to Mr. Cochrane's appointment. In the second or third month of the Act the liquor interest was in trouble. One of the most persistent offenders had been fined twice, and they got information to secure a third conviction. The Inspector asked that he be given the case and the information was handed over to him. A week passed, and Mr. Yelland, meeting the Inspector, asked him why he did not move in the case. He (Mr. Flavalle) also met the Inspector and spoke to him about it, and they went Mr. Wood's office together to lay the case. Mr. Cochrane asked if he would enter the charge as a third offence, and he (Mr. Flavelle) replied that it was for the Inspector to decide. The Inspector then entered it as a third offence. The day previous to the trial Mr. Cochrane came into his store and the subpœnaes were not served. Latter in the day Mr. J. R. Stratton came in and said that if the charge was changed to a first offence the hotel keeper would plead guilty. He (Mr. Flavelle) refused to be a party to making the change. Mr. Cochrane came in later and the papers were still not served. Mr. Wood, the County Attorney, came in next morning to see about making the change. Mr. Wood said that the change would be made and it was made. Since then the liquor interest had them by the throat. The hotel-keepers did not care for fines. Another hotel keeper openly stated that he would vote Reform because he had been saved $50 in the same way. They had been abused by both political parties. He felt sore because, after after an honest effort and hard work, their path had been crossed by men who did it to secure a few votes. He mentioned other cases where information had been handed in for second and third offences and they had been changed to first offences. One hotel keeper had been sentenced to imprisonment, but, although he was in town and had even written a letter in the police barracks, he had not been arrested. Liquor was being sold, but not one glass now to fifty formerly. There was, taken all around, a better state of affairs. Out of 70 cases not 10 per cent. had come from the Inspectors. He thought it wrong that private citizens had to act as detectives, but they must do it to have the law enforced. He mentioned two cases where the Chief of Police and Inspector had declined to act. He then gave a statement of finances. The town had received a large sum of money through the work of the Association and the Council should return them a portion of it to help to pay their expenses. They also needed changes in the Board of Commissioners, and needed Commissioners appointed who would see that the Inspectors did their duty. He suggested a Deputation to wait on the Provincial Government.

The CHAIRMAN said that the next subject was, What would they do? They ought to elect men to positions who were favorable to the law.

A discussion then took place in regard to municipal action in the towships.

Dr. MASSIE said that one Commissioner in the East, appointed on the recommendation of the representative in the Legislature, should be removed.

Mr. FLAVELLE said that at the convention in Toronto a member of the Provincial Government, Mr. G. W. Ross, told them that if any Commissioner was opposed to the Act the Government would remove him. The convention should take some action.

Mr. S. ARMSTRONG, of Otonabee, moved that Dr. Massie be appointed to convene a meeting at Norwood to decide what action should be taken in the East regarding the Commissioners, and that Dr. Fife be appointed to convene a meeting for the same purpose in the West—Carried.

Mr. CLEGG moved, that in the opinion of this meeting the Provincial Government should be asked to remove Mr. Walton, in the West, and Mr. Wilson, in the East, from the Board of Commissioners.—Carried.

Mr. GRIFFIN advocated having the appointing power placed in his hands of the people.

Mr. Flavelle mentioned three cases where informations had been given to the Inspector in the West and had not been acted on.

Mr. CLEGG—Why not ask for his removal, also?

Mr. FLAVELLE said that the Inspector got too little pay, but he should do his work or resign.

The CHAIRMAN said that the Provincial Government not considered that they had no right to enforce this law.

Mr. FLAVELLE said that the Provincial Government had undertaken its enforcement, and had issued instructions to that effect to the Inspectors, and they should enforce it properly or throw the work on the Dominion.

Mr. JAMES STRATTON suggested that a Committee by appointed to wait on the Town Council to ask the Council to hand back a portion of the fines received through the work of the Association.

The CHAIRMAN said that he and Mr. Flavelle had been appointed for that purpose.

Mr. FLAVELLE said that the Inspector was a good and capable man, but he was not let alone.

A committee was proposed, to consist of Messrs. Hilliard, Yelland and Fife, to wait on Mr. Cochrane, the Inspector, to inform him of the views of the convention.

Dr. FIFE said that he had been appointed for that purpose before.

Mr. YELLAND said that he had waited on Mr. Cochrane several times already.

Finally Messrs. Yelland (convener), Galvin, Hilliard and Northey were appointed.

The Convention adjourned.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

GLOBE EDITORIAL WRITERS.

THE Rev. Mr. Inglis, one of the editorial staff of the Globe, has been making another effort to show his feeling that "the cap fits him" in regard to untruthful writing by partizan journalists. He is assailing in his church courts his brother ministers, who are editors, directors or shareholders of the Presbyterian Review, in the correspondence of which the general charge appeared. Of course such a wholesale charge was so evidently a rather bad example of the figure of speech called "hyperbole," that any journalist innocent of the offence would deserve ridicule for absurdity if he assumed it to apply to himself personally. Mr. Inglis seems determined to show all the uneasiness of a guilty conscience. Hence, apparently, arises his rancour against his brother ministers, men of the highest standing.

Mr. Inglis is doing grave harm to the cause of religion in forcing so persistently upon the notice of the world that such little value can be set upon truthfulness by a minister like himself, when carried away by the prejudice of a partizan. It is established on his own authority that he contributes an average of six editorials weekly to the Globe. Now there are very few weeks in which six editorials appear in the Globe free from deliberate falsehood—not expressions of mere difference of opinion, but positive misstatements of facts. We will, however, take it for granted that none of these articles are by Mr. Inglis, that he can lay claim to all the exceptional articles not thus contaminated, though on this supposition it would be at least very difficult to make up his average. But allowing Mr. Inglis to be personally free from reproach for his own individual writings, can he thus absolve himself from blame? How can he reconcile it with his very sensitive conscience, and especially with his sacred profession, that he should continue thus to associate himself with those who are most certainly guilty of the very offence the imputation of which to himself he so strongly resents? Why then does he make himself the accomplice of such offenders? And why does he retain such a position, when, as it is impossible to discriminate between the truthful and untruthful editorial writers on the Globe staff, he recklessly exposes himself to doubt in the minds of the scornful derogatory to his holy calling?

WHY does not Mr. Blake carry one of his Secessionist associates from the Maritime Provinces round with him in his train, along with the rebel Laurier? Then he would have his happy family more complete for exhibition.

MANITOBA CONSERVATIVE.

Mr. Norquay Handsomely Sustained—The Riotic Pretences as Viewed on the Prairies.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 10, 3 a. m.—The elections throughout Manitoba were held yesterday. The result up to this hour would seem to indicate that Premier Norquay will be sustained by a good working majority. The probable result, with four constituencies to hear from, are Conservatives 17, Liberals 11, Independents 3.

THE PACIFIC CABLE.

An Influential Company Formed in London for its Construction.

OTTAWA, D c. 9.—Mr. Sandford Fleming has received cable information that a Pacific cable company has been formed in London under the name and title of "The Pacific Telegraph Company Limited," with a capital of £2,000,000 sterling, in £10 shares, for the purpose of establishing, maintaining and working telegraphic and other communications between Australia, New Zealand and other places in the Pacific Ocean, Africa and America. The articles of incorporation were registered in London within the present month. A subsidy of £25,000 per annum is expected from the Home Government, and it is estimated that the various colonial governments will co-operate. It will be seen that the company, which is composed of the following, is a strong one: Lord Milton, Sir J. P. Corry, M. P.; Sir Daniel Cooper, Bart; Lord Folkestone, Hugh G. Reid, Sir Alfred Slade, Bart; J. H. Heaton, M. P; Hon. E. M. Young, Sir Donald A. Smith, Sanford Flemming, Sir Samuel Wilson, E. G. Finch Hutton, Capt. Ed. Ward Palliser, Randolph C. Want, Sir W. J. Clark, P. Perkins and Sir George Coote. The company are now awaiting replies from the various Colonial governments before commencing operations.

A Novel Invention.

A novelty in the house heating line is now on exhibition at Breeze & Bain's stove and tinware show rooms, Crystal Block. The inventor is a citizen of Peterborough, Mr. H. W. Cox, who in bringing his device to a successful completion, no doubt has expended much thought, as well as a considerable amount of money. The machine is a hot water heating aparatus, being constructed on recognized principles. The heating surface is suspended, and consists of a series of steel plate chambers which are so arranged that each one is brought in actual contact with the fire. Every chamber receives its legitimate share of heat, which is due to the peculiar arrangement of the flues, it being the only system under which an equal distribution of heat can be effected. The first and all important advantage claimed is the economy of fuel, which is arrived at (1) by contact of the heating surface with the fire; (2) by quicker transit of heat by reason of lightness of plates; (3) by the more complete absorption of heat than under ordinary circumstances; (4) by rapid circulation, due to the direct communication of each chamber with the supply and return columns. The machine is free from the fault of being hard to clean, the whole of the surface being easily got at. These corrosions in the summer, which some machines of the kind are subject to, is impossible in this case, it oiled in the spring while hot. Another defect in some boilers is the ineffectual drainage. In this case it is quite satisfactory. By a very ingenious plan, the furnace is made self-feeding. The boiler is very compact. It does not take up as much room as the ordinary cook stove. The test recently made was found to be very satisfactory, and doubtless the "Cox Steel Plate Boiler" will before long be an article of furniture in many homes.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

STUDENTS ARRESTED

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 8.—The excitement among the students of St. Petersburg continues. There were several conflicts to-day with the police and General Gresser, the prefect, while trying to appease the rioters was intreated. Many students were arrested.

A LIBERAL EMPLOYER.

DUBLIN, Dec. 8.—Sir Edward Cecil Guinness's bounties to the assistants who aided him in building up the greatness of his firm have been unprecedented. It is stated that Mr. Purser the manager of the brewery for many years, has received a cheque for $1,000,000.

ARCHBISHOP WALSH.

DUBLIN, Dec. 8.—Archbishop Walsh, in a letter published in Dublin to-day, warns the Government of the difficulties, which are already appalling, and which will be immensely increased if it persists in its attempts to convict prisoners by packing or packing juries, as was recently done in Sligo and other places.

THE STORM IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The British steamer Avondale, for Philadelphia, the ship Pegasus and the Norwegian barque Dagmar, the latter from St. John, N. B., have been wrecked at Holyhead. The crews were saved. The storm yesterday was worst in the Bristol channel. The sea walls were demolished and many goods cars were overturned. The storm has not yet abated on the northwest coast. The sea is running mountains high at Holyhead. Baltimanore castle fell in to day and Miss Ody, one of the inmates was killed.

THE FRENCH CRISIS.

PARIS, Dec. 9.—The following is a list of the probable members of the new cabinet:—M. Goblet, President of the Council and Minister of the Interior; M. Ducloro, Minister for Foreign Affairs; M. Dupuis, Minister of Finance; M. Burdeau, Minister of Public Instruction; M. Sarrien, Minister of Justice; General Boulanger, Minister of War; Admiral Aube, Minister of Marine and the Colonies; M. Granet, Minister of Ports and Telegraphs; M. Lockroy, Minister of Commerce; M. Richard, Minister of Agriculture. The Chamber of Deputies has adjourned until Saturday.

THE BULGARIAN QUESTION.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—A despatch from Constantinople says Russia has withdrawn her objections touching the validity of the elections for members of the Sobranje, but insists upon a change in the Bulgarian regency.

THE RUSSIAN PRESS.

ST PETERSBURG, Dec. 9.—It is reported that the press of Russia has been prohibited from detailing the movements of Russian troops.

THE DELEGATION.

VIENNA, Dec. 9.—Prince Leobanoff, the Russian Ambassador, has consented to receive the Bulgarian deputation, and will inform them whether the Czar is willing to receive them.

MURDERED AND ROBBERY.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—A despatch from Odessa says a postilion and guard on the mail from Ekaterinoslay to Konkaski were murdered yesterday, and that 70,000 roubles of crown money in their charge was stolen.

THE IRISH POLICY.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The Daily News and Daily Telegraph interpret Lord Salisbury's speech last evening as ridiculing the intentions of the Government to introduce a coercion bill in Parliament. The Times says:—"Lord Salisbury shows that he comprehends the value of the Unionist support. The country may now look for an invigorating policy towards Ireland."

CONFIDENCE SHAKEN.

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—In the Bourse yesterday there was a marked depression and heavy selling of international securities, especially Russian. Russians have fallen 1½ per cent. since the opening on Tuesday, and Austrian, Hungarian and Turkish 1 per cent. The decline on Tuesday was attributed to speculative realization, but yesterday's business leaves no doubt that the public is selling owing to growing fear.

REPLIES TO THE PORTE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 9.—A majority of the powers have replied to the Porte's circular, asking advice as to the solution of the Bulgarian difficulty. The replies are all either evasive or indefinite. Some of the powers ask for a further explanation, and none throw any new light on the matter. The British Foreign Minister refers the Porte to England's view on the Bulgarian question previously expressed. Italy alludes to the alleged difficulty the Bulgarians must experience in accepting Prince Nicholas of Mingrelia.

A TERRIFIC GALE.

Damage to Shipping—Destruction of Property and Loss of Life.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—A terrific gale, accompanied by lightning and thunder, prevailed last night and this morning in the southern counties of England and in the Channel, where a number of vessels were wrecked At Brighton much damage was done to property. Throughout the United Kingdom rain and hail fell. The storm caused widespread disaster. In Scotland there was also a heavy fall of snow.

The gale abated somewhat during the daytime, but raged with increased violence during the night over the whole kingdom. In the west of Ireland the storm was terrific. Steamers are delayed in making Queenstown and all the harbours are filled with shipping. The high tide at Limerick is flooding the warehouses on the water front, and at Armagh the spining mills have been stopped by floods. Damage to property, accidents and some cases of houses being set on fire by lightning are reported from all parts of the kingdom. A French vessel foundered off Dymchurch and six persons were drowned. On the Danish coast many vessels have been wrecked. Four ships struck on the Elsinore breakwater.

The gale was of unprecedented violence. At Liverpool and on the Isle of Man the barometer sank to the lowest point within the memory of man. The storm is now passing to the eastward of Scotland. Telegraphic communication on the Continent is greatly interrupted. Heavy damage was done at most of the seaside holiday resorts, where trees were uprooted and many persons injured by falling tile and chimneys. It is feared there has been a great loss of life. The papers had no telegrams from the Continent last night.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1886.

MR. BLAKE'S PLATFORM.

As nearly every Reform journal we have seen, and we see a great many, has published the following as the platform of Mr. Blake and his supporters, we presume we may look upon it as authentic. We therefore publish it with some remarks upon it:

"MR. BLAKE'S PLATFORM.

1. Manhood suffrage, with the repeal of the franchise and gerrymander act;
2. Taxation for revenue only, not on the necessaries of life;
3. The senate to be made elective;
4. No sale or lease of national property except by public auction after advertisement.
5. The Scott Act to be enforced wherever accepted;
6. No member of parliament or senator to be interested personally in any contract with the government, under a penalty of disqualification;
7. The absolute independence of each parliament in its own sphere of action;
8. The reduction of the public expenditure by at least $5,000,000 per annum;
9. Reciprocity with the United States;
10. Compulsory arbitration in labor disputes;
11. The land for the settlers only;
12. The securing for Canada of the right to negotiate commercial treaties."

1. We believe in manhood suffrage, and Mr. Meredith, with his supporters, voted for it, but Mr. Mowat flatly refused it. As the Ontario Legislature and the majority of the Quebec members opposed manhood suffrage it might well be considered premature to adopt it for the Dominion. Mr. Blake should talk to Mr. Mowat. To repeal the Franchise Act would be to restrict the franchise. To repeal the Dominion Act redistributing the constituencies would deprive Ontario of the additional members rightfully our due. It was Mr. Mowat who passed two wholesale gerrymandering acts, without being under any obligation to interfere with the constituencies, but with the sole object of obtaining an unfair advantage. Again Mr. Blake should talk to Mr. Mowat.

2. Taxation for revenue only and not at all for protection would close Canadian factories and throw Canadian workmen out of employment for the benefit of foreigners. There is no taxation on the necessaries of life in Ontario, and very little in the Dominion.

3. When Mr. Blake and his colleagues were in power they did not attempt to make the senate elective, but they did attempt to increase their power of nominating senators.

4. It was Mr. Blake and his colleagues who legislated for the sale and lease of national property without public auction after advertisement, changing from the Conservative system in order that they might have power to favor their friends.

5. It is in the jurisdiction of the Province not the Dominion to enforce the law. Again Mr. Blake should talk to Mr. Mowat.

6. It was Mr. Blake and his colleagues who changed by legislation the Conservative system, and made it lawful for members of parliament, as shareholders, to have an interest in contracts with the Government, in order that they might be enabled to hire the Speaker and reward other supporters. A majority of the members of the legislature supporting Mr. Mowat have had contracts with his Government. Again Mr. Blake should talk to Mr. Mowat.

7. Mr. Blake and his colleagues repeatedly interfered with the legislation of the Provinces on matters within their own sphere of action, because such legislation did not suit their views.

8. Mr. Blake when previously in Opposition also promised to decrease the public expenditure, but when in power he increased it.

9. Mr. Blake when in power failed to obtain reciprocity with the United States. The Macdonald Administration has placed a standing offer of reciprocity on our statute book, but we cannot force it upon the United States Senate, which possesses and exercises the power to reject such treaties.

10. Arbitration can be made compulsory, but not its acceptance, for no power can make workingmen continue to labor for wages they consider insufficient, nor make manufacturers keep open their factories if the profits do not satisfy them. The encouragement of voluntary arbitration would be better, but would be too practical for Mr. Blake. This would not be of much consequence, however, as Mr. Blake would close the factories by his "taxation for revenue" instead of protection, if he gained power.

11. Mr. Blake when in power offered land wholesale to railway companies, not to settlers. He provided for large grants to colonization companies, not to individuals. Some of his chief colleagues and supporters, Sir R. Cartwright and Mr. M. C. Cameron, for instance, hold large tracts of late Dominion lands for speculative purposes, not to settle on them, having obtained them by the underhand device of getting bogus settlers to take up land and ansfer it to them.

12. We have already virtually the power of negotiating commercial treaties. We cannot, as Mr. Blake endeavors to imply, force other people to make treaties with us. It takes two to make a bargain.

We have thus briefly considered the dozen planks that make up this rickety platform. Some of them, as we have seen, are mere impractical "isms"—sheer claptrap to catch the unreflecting. Some are matters which concern Mr. Mowat, who is not orthodox rog ding them in the eyes of Mr. Blake, who should attempt his conversion while on one of their joint stumping expeditions. Some are promises which Mr. Blake made before when in Opposition, only to break them when he attained power by beguiling the people, who have thus been taught not to trust his professions again. Some are old Conservative measures, which he and his friends repealed when in power, as hampering them when rewarding their friends.

We cannot but notice the absence from this list of several of Mr. Blake's most important planks. He keeps in the background his policy of advocating and fostering rebellion and murder in the Northwest, secession and annexation in the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia, superiority to the law in Quebec, slander and forgery in Ontario, disunion and disintegration throughout the Dominion.

But in fact these dozen planks do not make a platform, but a fence to keep from our view Mr. Blake's real platform—the Regina scaffold—by the help of which alone he hopes to climb to office, as he once did over the body of Scott. The victim or his murderer are equally acceptable to Mr. Blake as stepping stones to place and power.

THE GLOBE-READER JOB.

Mr. G. W. Ross is still repeating the falsehoods in regard to the public school readers with which he endeavored to mislead his hearers in Peterborough. Contrary to the evidence of honest men familiar with the subject he persists in his assertion that the charge for these books is not too high. But we need not appeal to others to show that Mr. Ross is stating an untruth, since he is convicted out of his own mouth. He excuses his nefarious monopoly by pleading the necessity for compensating the publishers who had acquired a vested interest, and that his choice lay between giving them a large sum in cash, and granting them a privilege of sole publication for ten years. How could there be a compensation in this privilege, equivalent to the payment of a large sum of money, if the books were only to be sold at such a fair profit as would have been fixed by open competition? Mr. Ross proves the falsity of his own assertion.

But this is not the only instance of Mr. Ross's misrepresentation on this subject. We may take it for granted that he is correct in admitting that he and his colleagues thought it expedient to give a valuable privilege to these monopolists, for in this he is borne out by the facts. But when he says that the privilege was given as compensation for vested interests he is simply attempting to deceive the people of Ontario. There were not such vested interests as he pretends. In the case of one of the three sets of readers there had been no authorization and there was no vested interest at all. As regards the other two sets the arrangement made was that the agreement could be terminated by giving notice, and if that notice had been properly given the time would have expired, or would at least have so nearly run out that the amount of compensation for the remaining period would have been very trifling. The pretence of vested interests is a mere impudent attempt to conceal from all the parents of public school children of Ontario the truth as to the robbery committed upon them to enrich these monopolists. One of them had to be bought, and it was necessary to treat them all alike.

The facts are simple. Mr. Nelson was the principal owner of the Globe newspaper. Mr. Mowat and his colleagues wished to acquire complete control of the Globe. They therefore gave to Mr. Nelson a valuable privilege, estimated by Mr. Ross as being equivalent to the payment of a large sum of ready money, the privilege being that of overcharging every public school pupil in Ontario for ten years. In return Mr. Nelson handed over to Mr. Mowat's control the proxies for his shares, by virtue of which Mr. Mowat elected a board of directors composed of his own tools, and turned out the former editor, filling the place with his own creatures. Thus the Globe became the mere mouthpiece of Mr Mowat (or with his permission of his friend Mr. Blake), Mr Nelson obtained a rental for his unremunerative property, and Mr. Mowat cunningly shifted the cost of hiring for his benefit Mr. Nelson's paper upon the shoulders of the public school children of Ontario.

One Price and Square Dealing to All.

GOUGH'S LADDER TO FAME.

THIS WEEK the public will receive the benefit of an Extraordinary Low Purchase of Seasonable Overcoats and Suits, and any intending purchaser will miss it if they do not call and examine them. We are determined to be the poor man's friend, and if in fulfilling this mission we break the backbone of those HIGH-PRICED CLOTHIERS, I am sorry, for I wish them no harm; but, having inaugerated this Low Price and One Price System in the City of Peterborough, I will continue to

HEW TO THE LINE, LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY MAY!

On account of my Extremely Low Prices some people are very skeptical, and designing dealers will tell them that my goods are shoddy, etc., etc. Well, be that as it may, I only ask the public to praise as they prove me, and in the face of this I boldly make the assertion that my stock for SUPERIORITY IN TEXTURE and MAKE SURPASSES anything in the County of Peterborough, and is only equalled by one store in Toronto, and surpassed by none in Canada. I defy any man to contradict this and prove the assertion. If they do, I will forfeit $1,000. Remember, by One Price and Square Dealing to ALL, I will ascend the Ladder of Fame, and as I do, I assure those who help me, that I never wish to meet them coming down. Always bear in mind the man who does as he advertises, and refunds the money if Goods are not satisfactory, is Explosion Of Dynamite.

FORT SMITH, Ark, Dec, 8.—A terrible explosion of dynamite occurred at Black Loone tunnel, on the Frisco extension, yesterday, by which two men were instantly killed and three wounded, one fatally.

At a special meeting of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council it was decided to donate $250 towards defraying the expenses of the two labour candidates for the Local Legislature.

Large findings of gold have been made in the South Australia diggings in the region of Teetulpa. Five thousand men are already congregated in that locality. The largest nugget yet found weighed thirty ounces.

"We say at night, 'Would God the day were here.'
And say at dawn, 'Would God the day were dead.'"

How well Swinburne has emphasized the feelings of thousands of Earth's fairest daughters, who are laid prostrate by disease's fell hand. But instead of the anguish of despair, what a song of joy ascends from the hearts of those ladies who used Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," and by its means been restored to the glorious sunshine of health. It is a positive remedy for those derangements irregularities and weaknesses so common to our best female population. Price reduced to $1. By all druggists.

UNDER PROTECTION.

Twenty-five blast furnaces, 65 railroad companies, 12 woodworking establishments 18 electric light companies, 73 foundries, mills and machine shops, 59 mining and smelting companies and 35 flour mills were organized in the twelve Southern States during the past three months. We might have something like this to boast of in Canada if we had protection for the making of iron as well as for the use of it in various manufactures.—Canadian Manufacturer.

COSTLY BLUNDERS.

Mr. Ross's explanation when examined simply amounts to this, that the Government blundered in the school reader business, that it is making the people pay for the blunder, and that the tribute the people pay is not voted by the Legislature, but is granted by the executive directly out of the people's pockets. There are three distinct wrongs committed by the Government in this connection, and upon any one of them the Ministers should be condemned.—Toronto Mail.

WEATHER NOTES.—If our Local dissolution has had any control over the departed month in bringing snow, rain and a large amount of rough weather, we may expect something of an unusual occurrence before 5 p. m. of the 28th, as the latter end of these notes will explain. The commencement of the month bids fair to show its feathers. Our hottest day was on the 3rd at 3 p. m., the thermometer standing at 77° in the shade; the coldest on the morning of the 30th, the thermometer dropping to 2° above zero, leaving the mean temperature of the month at sunrise and sunset 33° 28-30.

A COLD DIP.—On the morning of the 3rd the thermometer stood at 3° below zero, on the 4th at 14° it never rising to zero during the day, and at sunset 2° below, and on the morning of the 5th at 16° below, but it is now getting more moderate.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

THE MARKET REPORTS.

REVIEW OFFICE,
Thursday evening, Dec. 9th

During the week the delivery of wheat and coarse grain has been up to the average. Wheat shows a very gratifying increase in price, the same qualities as bought a few weeks ago for 73 and 75, now bringing 78 and 81 cents per bushel. The increase is due chiefly to the buoyancy of the English markets. Barley remains much the same; a trifle lower. Peas and oats also are a shade lower. There has been a large delivery of dressed hogs for the past two weeks, but the supply is still not up to the local demand. Dressed hogs by the car load are continually being brought in from Toronto and other points. The price of butter is steady and firm, but the trade is not very active. Mr. Cluxton's usual "Outlook" will be found in another column of this issue.

BEWARE
OF WORTHLESS IMITATIONS

As there are many inferior goods, corded with bone, hemp, etc., offered and sold as Coraline by some unprincipled merchants trading on the reputation of our genuine Coralines, we warn the ladies against such imposition by drawing their attention to the necessity of seeing that the name is stamped on inner side of all Coraline goods. Without which none are genuine.

'CROMPTON CORSET CO.'

We draw special attention to our stock of

The Campaign.

As the date of the election draws nearer, the excitement is growing apace, and the friends of both political parties are becoming more and more confident of success. Those who profess to know a great deal are, as usual, telling how many a hard fought battle went in days gone by and giving the reasons why everything will be right this time. Well, after all, this sort of thing is well enough in a way, but then in most cases elections are a good deal like horse racing, you cannot tell much about the ultimate result until after they are over. The advice to be taken in connection with this is for everybody to "keep cool" (there is no trouble in doing that this weather) go to the polls on the morning of the 28th, vote as your conscience dictates—not as everyone tells you—and buy your clothing, after all is quiet again, from A. McNeil, Habiliment Hall.

NUMBER FOUR'S SPREAD.

Officers and Men Seated Around a Loaded Board at Morgan's.

No. 4 Company of the City Battalion held its first annual dinner at the Morgan House on Wednesday evening. The officers and men met at the drill shed and marched down to the hotel where a sumptuous spread awaited them. The dining hall was prettily decorated with union jacks, evergreens, etc., and the mirrors were fringed with red white and blue bunting. The table was studded with flags. After doing what was right to the viands before them the Company proceeded with the toasts.

"The Queen" was the first toast drunk. The company sang "God Save the Queen."

Mr. Geale, being called on for a song responded with "The Warrior Bold" after which he was subjected to loud and long applause.

"Our Colonel and Major" was the next toast.

Lieut.-Col. ROGERS after thanking the men for drinking his health so heartily said it gave him great pleasure to be at any of these social gatherings. As he gave his orders to Major Bell he would now command that gentleman to rise and make a speech. (Laughter.)

Major and Adjutant BELL said that the orders given by Lieut.-Col Rogers were not always the most agreeable to execute. Sometimes he felt that perhaps the men in getting their orders thought him (Major Bell) a little harsh and might consider him personally severe. But they should not look on it in this way, nor should they blame Lieut.-Col. Rogers if any order was given which displeased them, for all orders emanated from the head of the regiment. He hoped that they would look at it in this light, and that as "obedience is the first duty of a soldier," he hoped they would always obey orders strictly. If they objected there was always redress after the order was executed. In the old military school he was told that if an officer gave the order "Go to the devil," go. (Laughter.) They would get their redress after they came back. (Laughter.) Or if they ever got the officer there then they could go for him. (Renewed laughter.) He was pleased with the way they had gone through their drill whenever he had commanded them. He had considerable experience in military matters. It lacked three months of being 21 years since he entered the service. He commenced at the bottom and rose through every rank to that he held at present. (Applause.) Some of the men thought that the officers who rode on horseback while they tramped through the mud had a soft time of it. That was a mistake. The men had a "softer" time in getting through the mud. (Laughter.) He had had some pretty hard work in his time. In '66 and '70 he saw service and he remembered marching when blisters as big as pennies were on his feet. He charged the men to always carry out to the letter the orders of their superior officers. (Applause.)

"Our Captain and Lieutenant" came next.

Capt. BIRDSALL said that when the City Battalion was first mooted he had doubts as to whether he could take a part in it. He did not think he could maintain a company in town, and it would have been impossible had it not been for his energetic Lieutenant. (Applause and shouts of hear, hear.) He felt proud of the company of which he was the Captain. Their efficiency was chiefly due to the painstaking Lieutenant and the non-commissioned officers. If the men progressed as they had been doing he felt that in a short time their company would be second to none in the district. He had seen regulars in the Old Country marching, but No. 4's marching on inspection day up George street, and especially their doing the wheel at the corner of Murray street, was equal to anything of the kind he ever saw. He referred to the success of No. 4's men in the Toronto Rifle competition, and to No. 4 as a company in taking the Lieut.-Col. H. C. Rogers cup, put up at the County Competition. He hoped that next year they would carry it off again. (Applause).

Lieut. HILL was received with applause. With his wonted modesty he disclaimed any credit for the efficiency of the company, but was at the same time very proud of it, and very proud to be connected with it. From the first there was a spirit of emulation among the men. He hoped it would continue. (Applause). The success of the company depended largely upon this, but chiefly upon the popularity of the Captain. (Cheers). He commended the men upon their regularity in attending drill. Some were away over time, and few, if any, had not put in full time. (Applause).

Bugler Walke sang "There's bound to be a Row."

"The non commissioned officers" was next proposed. "For they are Jolly Good Fellows," was sung loudly and lustily. The toast was replied to by Sergt. Distin, Corp. Wright, and Corp. Bay.

"Our Sister Companies" was the next on the programme, "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" was again sung. Messrs. Geal, Kirby and Schofield replied.

Pte McGill sang "The Picnic Party" and being encored sang "Good Bye Biddy Dear."

"The Press" was responded to be representatives of the REVIEW and Examiner.

"The Ladies" found champions in Messrs. Schofield, Geale Wright Kirby, Hill and Dickson.

Capt. Birdsal recited "The Charge of the Light Brigade."

"The Bank Clerks" brought Messrs. Hamilton and Geale to their feet.

"The Cavalry was responded to by Lieut. Hill, formerly of that corps.

A neat speech from mine host Morgan, in replying to "The Host and Hostess," brought the proceedings to a close. The company sang "God Save the Queen."

Temperature.

The thermometer readings to-day at the hours mentioned were as follows:—8 o'clock a. m., 41 above zero; 1 o'clock p.m., 50 above zero; 3 o'clock, p. m., 44 above zero.

A Fall.

Mr. H. Holland, a young man employed in the Lock Works, had a narrow escape from serious injury on Thursday afternoon. He was on the top flat and took hold of the rope of the hoist intending to come down by it. The ball holding the catch became displaced and the young fellow fell to the ground floor, a distance of about thirty-five feet. When picked up he was stunned, but it was found on examination that he was not badly hurt. No bones were broken, though the bruises inflicted give him considerable pain.

Presentation.

In consequence of the promotion of Miss T. Hall from the West Ward School to the Central School, the teachers and pupils whom she was thus leaving presented her with a handsome writing desk accompanied with the following address:—

DEAR MISS HALL.—It was with feelings of sincere regret that we learned of your intention of severing your connection with our school, a month ago, but then it seemed remote, and now it is a thing of the past.

The pupils in thinking of you will have the happy memory of kindly painstaking interest in their welfare; and the teachers, of pleasant social intercourse and active co-operation in the discharge of the duties of the school.

May this writing desk be simply a reminder of our best wishes for you, and we hope that when you use it your written thoughts may be happy, and bearing witness to "a life that stands, as all true lives have stood, firm-rooted in the faith that God is Good."

W. MCCREARY, L. WALLACE,
M. MCFARLANE, A. MERRICK.

Miss Hall subsequently made her acknowledgments in suitable terms.

PRODUCES SWEET AND NATURAL SLEEP.

Dr. C. K. Dake, Belleville, Ill., says: "I have found it, and it alone, to produce sweet and natural sleep in cases of wakefulness caused by overwork of the brain, which often occurs with active professional and business men."

Mothers! Mothers!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

SATURDAY. DECEMBER 11, 1886.

A NORTHWEST SCENE.

In the simple but heartreuding account published by Mrs. Delany, of the Frog Lake massacre, we find the following description of the murder of her husband, followed by that of the priest who was giving him the last consolations of religion:—

"My husband and I walked ahead. When we got about one acre from the house we heard shots, which we thought were fired in the air. We paid little or no attention to them. I had my husband by the arm. We were thus linked when old Mr. Williscraft rushed past bare-head. I turned my head to see what was the cause of his excitement, when I saw Mr. Gowanlock fall. I was about to speak when I felt my husband's arm drop from mine, and he said, "I am shot too." Just then the priests rushed up and Father Fafard was saying something in French, which I could not catch. My husband staggered over about twenty feet from me and then back again and fell down beside me. I bent down and raised his head upon my lap. I think over forty shots must have been fired, but I could not tell what side the shot came from that hit my husband. I called Father Fafard and he came over. He knelt down and asked my husband if he could say the "confiteor." My husband said "yes," and then repeated the prayer from end to end. As he finished the prayer, the priest said: "My poor brother I think you are safe with God," and as the words died on his lips he received his death wound and fell prostrate across my husband. I did not see who fired the shot."

It was not Laurier, for the reason that he was not there with the gun he boasts he would have used. Perhaps he would have used it to put another bullet into the faithful official dying at his post, or the devoted priest martyred while thus offering the last consolations of religion, or quite as likely into the agonized widow.

And we are to be told that it is an insult to gallant and loyal Frenchmen, to honest Reformers to condemn the man who boasts of his sympathy with such crimes and expresses his readiness to have taken part in such warfare—the man who is now using every endeavor to punish all those who took part in bringing such criminals to justice. It is an insult to loyal Frenchmen and to loyal Reformers to attribute to them the slightest sympathy with such a cause or its advocate, an insult which they will not be slow to resent.

There are some Reformers, such as Mr. Blake, who try to make political capital out of the crimes perpetrated by their allies; such as Laurier, who wanted to share in them; such as Mr. Cameron (Huron), who basely slandered this brave Delany, murdered at the post of duty; such as Mr. Mowat, who has for his standard-bearer Pacaud, another admirer of the criminals and vilifier of the loyal men who brought them to justice, but the number of such Reformers will be found to be few. Honest loyal Reformers will refuse by thousands to remain under such a standard—to follow such leaders.

And we are told forsooth that we are to treat courteously as a political opponent the boastful defender of such crimes—the would-be participator in them. The good people of Peterborough are always ready to give a fair hearing to all, in spite of any difference in political opinion, and may they always continue so. But murder and rebellion are not politics—would-be rebels and murderers are not politicians but criminals.

Ran Aground and Burned.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., Dec. 10.—The schooner Atwood from Port Williams, lumber laden, for Boston, ran aground at the mouth of the river. Next morning a fire was discovered on the forward part of the vessel. The foremast was burned off and the forward house consumed and the cargo considerably damaged. Had the tide been down she would have been totally destroyed. The vessel was subsequently floated and brought to this port.

Working for the Presidency.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Hon. John Sherman is the most active of the Republican candidates for the Rupublican nomination of 1888. Mr. Sherman is working with his usual energy and adroitness. He believes he was cheated out of the nomination by General Garfield, at Chicago, and that if General Garfield had honestly represented him he would have been nominated that year, and been elected. The Democrats generally believe that Mr. Sherman is the one stronghold of the Republicans.

Free Sugar and Free Tobacco.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—A Washington despatch to the Journal of Commerce says that Senator Sherman's speech upon the tariff yesterday was a carefully prepared statement of the Republican position, and is so accepted by nearly all the Republican senators. Free sugar and free tobacco are the principal planks of the platform upon which they stand. Free tobacco seems to be growing in favor with the Democrats also, and in order to secure this, they may agree to repeal the tariff on sugar. There will be no further attempt made in this Congress to pass a bankruptcy bill.

CAMPBELLFORD.

CALLED AWAY SUDDENLY.—Mr. Robert McAlpine, of Seymour, was taken suddenly ill while in the village on Monday last, and was unable to return home. He called upon Dr. Wallace at whose residence he remained for treatment. His case was seemingly a hopeless one from the beginning and his condition became worse every hour until the following day at 2 o'clock when he died. The cause of his death was congestion of the heart and lungs, produced by a severe cold which he contracted a short time previous. His remains were conveyed to his late home in the township. The deceased was a brother of Mr. James McAlpine, councillor. He leaves a wife and four children.

KILLED UPON A CROSSING.—On Thursday last, a team of horses belonging to Mr. Patrick Collins who resided near the boundary line division of Percy and Seymour, west of Campbellford, was killed on the track by the train moving westward. The horses were attached to a load of wood, and Mr. Collins was driving them himself. On his farm there is a private crossing, and as he approached this he was startled to see the train only a few rods away. Comprehending in a moment the great danger to which he was exposed, Mr. Collins jumped from the waggon in safety, but his horses continued to move, stepped upon the track and were struck by the locomotive and thrown clear of the rails. One of them was instantly killed, while the other had its legs broken and was otherwise so badly injured that it was necessary to shoot him. Both animals were colts, and valued at about $300.—Herald.

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of m stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

The Daily Review.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1886.

MR. BLEZARD A RIELITE.

We have been asked repeatedly to give information as to the actual facts of the refusal by the Mowat Administration to admit that the rebel leaders were justly punished, and more especially as to the action taken by Mr. Blezard in this matter. His friends, we are informed, deny, where they cannot be immediately confronted with the proofs, that he or his leaders deliberately showed their sympathy with the Rielites.

We will give the actual proceedings, as recorded in the official journals of the Legislative Assembly, with brief explanations.

On January 28th, 1886, the Lieutenant-Governor opened the session of the Legislative Assembly by a speech from the throne, written by his advisers the Mowat Administration. The second paragraph ran as follows:—

"Immediately after the rising of the House last year the attention of our people was anxiously drawn to the Northwest Territories by most unhappy occurrences. That vast Territory, like the intervening Province of Manitoba, is allied to Ontario by the closest ties of affection and kindred. Many of the pioneers in those distant settlements are the sons of your constituents, or lately were themselves your constituents; and their hardships and dangers touch very directly the hearts and homes of Ontario. When the volunteers were called out to restore order, it was gratifying to observe the spirit in which our Ontario youth answered the summons, and undertook what in every civil strife must needs be a most painful duty. While sincerely deploring the necessity for their services, we all felt a natural and just pride in our citizen soldiers as we witnessed their patient endurance on the march, and their unflinching courage in action. When tranquility was restored, it was again gratifying to observe the alacrity with which they returned to their civil duties, and resumed the avocations of peaceful industry."

It will be observed that the House was invited by the Administration to express an opinion upon facts connected with the Northwest rebellion. Recognition of the services of our volunteers, and of sympathy with the settlers formerly from Ontario, might have been expressed in a few adequate words. But on this peg was hung a rigmarole which seemed carefully framed to avoid the slightest appearance of disapproval of rebellion and murder, while hinting a sympathy with the unpatriotic attacks made upon the Dominion authorities for suppressing and punishing it. They were "unhappy occurrences," it was "restoring order," it was "civil strife," it was a most "painful duty" for the volunteers, the "necessity for whose services" was "sincerely deplored," and "tranquility was restored." The slightest appearance of disapproval of rebellion against our Queen and country was avoided with scrupulous care, and under the pretence of thanking them our brave, loyal volunteers were even insulted by the insinuation that they had performed "a most painful duty," that though they had obeyed orders their hearts were on the other side.

On January 29th, Mr. Hawley moved, seconded by Mr. Conmee, that an address be presented to the Lt.-Governor in reply to his speech, the second paragraph of which was re-echoed in the motion, with the mere verbal change necessary.

The proposed address was then read paragraph by paragraph.

On February 1st, on consideration of the second paragraph given above, Mr. Meredith, the leader of the Opposition, moved, seconded by Mr. Morris, that the following words be added to the resolution:—

"And while thus recognizing the gallant services of the volunteers of our own Province, we have much satisfaction in recording our like high appreciation of the conduct of the permanent military forces of Canada, and the volunteers of the other Provinces of the Dominion, and of the alacrity and patriotism with which they too responded to the call of duty, and in recognizing that the speedy restoration of tranquility to which His Honor refers was due to the united exertions of all."

The Opposition leader and his followers very properly thought that when they were invited to express their recognition of the services of Ontario men in defence of the Dominion, it would be invidious to suppress any credit to their gallant brethren in arms of the regular force, or from other Provinces. They did not limit their approbation, like Mr. Mowat, to a mere effort to please Ontario voters, the hypocrisy of his pretence being shown by the adoption as his standard bearer of Pacaud, the denouncer of our brave volunteers as assassins of wounded men, insulters of women, and greedy thieves.

Mr. Sol. White then moved in further amendment, seconded by Mr. Morgan, that the following words be added to the amendment:—

"And we trust now that peace has been restored; THE SUPREMACY OF THE LAW VINDICATED AND MAINTAINED, AND JUST PUNISHMENT INFLICTED ON THE PRINCIPAL PARTICIPANTS IN THE REBELLION, it may be consistent with the public interests to extend the merciful consideration of the Crown to the cases of those who are now undergoing imprisonment for offences committed during, or arising out of it."

This appeal for mercy was fitly moved by Mr. Sol. White, himself of French descent, himself with Indian blood in his veins, but who like so many others of his race was too loyal and patriotic to refuse to admit that it was the supremacy of the law that had been attacked and maintained, that it had been a rebellion, or that the rebels had been justly punished.

Mr. Mowat his colleagues and supporters would not admit these facts. They refused to ask for mercy for the misguided followers of the rebel leaders because the appeal recognized the supremacy of the law and the justice of punishing the rebels. On February 2nd after a long discussion they voted down Mr. White's amendment.

Mr. Blezard's name appears on the division list as voting with his leaders to refuse to acknowledge the supremacy of the law or the justice of the punishment of the rebels.

On the same day in the hope of making political capital and if possible of setting themselves right with their new allies without losing their old supporters, Mr. Fraser moved, seconded by Mr. Pardee the following amendment to Mr. Meredith's amendment:—

"That the second paragraph of the proposed address, now under consideration, and the proposed amendment thereto, express no opinion with regard to the cause or occasion of the recent disturbances or rebellion in the Northwest Territories. That any expression of opinion thereon, or in respect of any of the matters or proceedings subsequent thereto, and arising thereout, or connected with, or bearing upon any Executive, Governmental, Administrative or other action of the Queen's Advisers in the premises, would, on the part of this House, be an unwise and unwarrantable intrusion upon the proper domain in that behalf of the Dominion Parliament. That this House consequently refuses to express or commit itself to any opinion or motion bearing upon, or having reference to, any such matter or proceeding, save to the extent and as set forth in said paragraph and said proposed amendment, when amended as hereinafter proposed. And therefore this House resolves that said proposed amendment to the said paragraph be amended only in this respect, namely, by adding thereto the words following:—'And that this House now hopefully trusts that peace and tranquility having been fully restored, it may be found consistent with the public interests to extend the merciful consideration of the Crown to those who are now undergoing imprisonment for offences connected with or arising out of the rebellion.'"

This long preamble put forward a false view of the facts. The Mowat Administration had invited an expression of opinion as to the military servants of the Dominion; they had refused to express an opinion as to the civil, the judicial servants of the Dominion. By their language they had guardedly, but unmistakably, indicated that their sympathies were rather with the rebels than with the authorities of their country. Even the hesitating admission that there was any rebellion had been forced upon them by the Opposition. And then Mr. Fraser's own amendment proceeded to interfere with the Executive, Governmental, Administrative action of the Federal Authorities in the premises, by advising as to the exercise of the Royal prerogative of mercy—an "intrusion" that we believe to be warranted by the circumstances, but which shows the utter hypocrisy of Mr. Fraser and his colleagues in refusing even to acknowledge that the punishment of rebels and murderers was just under the pretence that it would be an "unwarrantable" intrusion to do so. We have printed in italics the substantive portion of Mr. Fraser's amendment, and if it is compared with that of Mr. Sol. White it will be seen to be practically identical with the latter portion, the difference between the two being Mr. Fraser's omission of the words showing satisfaction at the vindication and maintenance of the supremacy of the law, and acknowledging that the punishments inflicted for rebellion were just. Such a stubborn refusal to adopt this view was as strong a form of negation as could well have been used.

Mr. Fraser's amendment was put to the House and Mr. Mowat, his colleagues and supporters voted to refuse to acknowledge that the Dominion Authorities had vindicated and maintained the supremacy of the law or had inflicted just punishment for rebellion, because they would not interfere with Dominion matters, while in the same breath they interfered on behalf the the rebels.

Mr. Blezard, M. P. P. for East Peterborough, who has never once refused to follow his party leaders blindfold, is, of course, to be found in the division list on the same side on this occasion also. Mr. Blezard voted his refusal to countenance the vindication and maintenance of the supremacy of the law, or just punishments for rebellion, but readily voted to mitigate the punishment of the rebels.

MANITOBA SPEAKS.

The result of the Manitoba general election with its substantial majority for the Conservative Administration of Mr. Norquay gives a most emphatic and practical denial to the pretence of Messrs. Blake, Mowat, et al, that the Conservatives have no right of such maladministration in the North-west as to ask public opinion against them. The opposition to the Norquay Government was mainly founded upon the assertion of their being too friendly to the Macdonald Administration at Ottawa, and in the face of this cry Mr. Norquay has been triumphantly sustained. If there had been oppression, culpable neglect or maladministration on the part of the Dominion authorities in the North-west, the people of Manitoba could not fail to be acquainted with it, or to sympathise with the sufferers from it. That they take the first opportunity of showing their confidence in a Conservative Administration friendly to the Dominion Government is a verdict on their part, that cannot be gainsaid. And it may be observed that it is especially in the French constituencies in Manitoba that the support of the Conservatives has been most thorough, they having pronounced without exception in favour of Mr. Norquay. This is the strongest proof that the Rielite cry fomented by Messrs. Blake, Laurier and Mowat is a mere political dodge, having no real foundation and repudiated by those best able to judge and who would have been most effected if there had been good grounds of discontent.

"We say at night, 'Would God the day were here.'
And say at dawn, 'Would God the day were dead.'"

How well Swinburne has emphasized the feelings of thousands of Earth's fairest daughters, who are laid prostrate by disease's fell hand. But instead of the anguish of despair, what a song of joy ascends from the hearts of those ladies who used Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," and by its means been restored to the glorious sunshine of health. It is a positive remedy for those derangements, irregularities and weaknesses so common to our best female population. Price reduced to $1. By all druggists.

One Price and Square Dealing to All.

GOUGH'S LADDER TO FAME.

THIS WEEK the public will receive the benefit of an Extraordinary Low Purchase of Seasonable Overcoats and Suits, and any intending purchaser will miss it if they do not call and examine them. We are determined to be the poor man's friend, and if in fulfilling this mission we break the backbone of those HIGH-PRICED CLOTHIERS, I am sorry, for I wish them no harm; but, having inaugerated this Low Price and One Price System in the City of Peterborough, I will continue to

HEW TO THE LINE, LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY MAY!

On account of my Extremely Low Prices some people are very skeptical, and desining dealers will tell them that my goods are shoddy, etc., etc. Well, be that as it may, I only ask the public to praise as they prove me, and in the face of this I boldly make the assertion that my stock for SUPERIORITY IN TEXTURE and MAKE SURPASSES anything in the County of Peterborough, and is only equalled by one store in Toronto, and surpassed by none in Canada. I defy any man to contradict this and prove the assertion. If they do, I will forfeit $1,000. Remember, by One Price and Square Dealing to ALL, I will ascend the Ladder of Fame, and as I do, I assure those who help me, that I never wish to meet them coming down. Always bear in mind the man who does as he advertises, and refunds the money if Goods are not satisfactory, is HIGH TAXATION—THE NICHOLAS HOSPITAL.

To the Editor of the Review.

MR. EDITOR,—Please publish the following in your daily paper. To the ratepayers of Peterborough, in the midst of the indignation which at present exists over the extravagant expenditure of you hard earned money by a spendthrift council, remember that the only remedy against such an evil is within the reach of each one of you, viz.: In the elections for 1887 send men to the council who look upon the financial interests of the town as being identical with their own. There are men around our council board who pay little or no taxes, who own little or no real estate and who don't care the snap of a finger whether our taxes are ten or twenty-five mills on the dollar, men who think more about seeing their names figure in the council report than they do about the interests of the men who send them there. I believe our council meetings are looked upon more as occasions of fun and amusement than of downright earnest business meetings. $57,000 of our money is spent at those jocular gatherings annually, but when that $57,000 is to be paid at the close of the year, with an addition of five per cent. to a great part of it (which, by the way, is an injustice to the poor man) then I say it is hard to see the funny or amusing side of the matter. Many of councillors are not men of property what do they care how much our town is burdened with taxes. Take that Nicholas Hospital for instance (to which I will refer again.) The expenditure or the amount demanded by the trustees of of this institution from the town for this year is equal to the interest for $100,000 at 5 per cent. They demanded $5,000 and receive $3,000, which sum raised our taxes 1 mill. Next year probably they will demand $10,000, and receive $8,000, which will only raise our assessment 2½ or 3 mills. Pooh, that's nothing to many of our councillors. It's only a matter of $8 or $10 a year to them if our taxes are 15¾ or 19¼ mills on the dollar. They will willingly pay the difference for the honor and sake of being a councillor. The city of Toronto was nearly ruined by this class of men. Men were elected to transact the business of the city who had little or no property and who were running the city head and ears into debt. But what did they do? Just what the property owners of this town have to do. They elected men to the Council of sterling principle—property owners—who went there to protect their own estates as well as those of their fellow citizens from the iron grip of high taxation. How did they go about the matter? The property owners united. Every man who owned a house or lot put shoulder to shoulder, selected their men from among them and placed them to the council. The result was emancipation from high taxation.

Ratepayers, you will have to do the same, and now is the time for action. Elect men of the right stamp—men whom you can trust to spend your own money, and who suffer with you when taxes are high.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.—On Wednesday, Dec. 8th, at 6 o'clock p.m., a very interesting ceremony took place at the residence of Alex. McGregor, Esq., 4th con., Smith. Mr. Thos. H., son of Wm. Graham, Esq., was united in holy wedlock with Miss Maggie H., daughter of Alex. McGregor, Esq., who gave the bride away. The Rev. J. C. Wilson, uncle of the bride, officiated, assisted by the Rev. A. E. De St. Dalmas. The bride was prettily dressed in golden brown satin, with flowing veil and orange blossoms. After numerous congratulations the company repaired to the dining hall and partook of a sumptuous repast. The evening passed pleasantly with social conversation, interspersed with music, vocal and instrumental. About 11.30 the bridal party left for their new home, carrying with them the best wishes of their friends. The presents were numerous and handsome.

Hundreds of letters from those using Ayer,s Hair Vigor attest its value as a restorer of gray hair to its natural color. As a stimulant and tonic, preventing and curing baldness, and cleansing the scalp, its use annot be too strongly recommended.

Henry Alleyne Nicholson, professor of natural history in the University of Aberdeen is dead. He was only 42 years of age.

As a purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla acts directly and promptly. A single bottle will prove its merits. Many thousands of people are yearly saved from dangerous fevers by the exercise of a little timely care in cleansing the system by the use of this remedy.

The English Court of Queen's Bench has issued an injunction restraining the White Star Steamship company from refusing to take the English mails.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

A WONDERFUL REMEDY.

The value of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, in the protection it affords from the dangers of pulmonary disorders, cannot be overestimated. Mr. C. K. Philips, Pittsburg, Pa., writes: "About three years ago I had severe Laryngitis, which resulted in chronic hoarseness. By the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral I have since entirely regained my health." Mr. Henry Russell, Excelsior Printing Co., New York, writes: "Influenza became epidemic in my neighborhood. Several members of my family suffered severely with it, all of whom took Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and were cured by it in a few days. It is a wonderful medicine for Influenza. Too much cannot be said in its favor."

E. M. Sargent, 41 Andover st., Lowell, Mass., says: "I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral about the year 1842, as a family medicine, for Coughs and Colds, and have always kept it in my house since that time. I consider it the best remedy that can be had for these complaints." Dr. J. B. Robertson, Clayton, N. C., writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, in my family and practice, for a number of years, and have no hesitation in recommending it. It is an admirable preparation, and well-qualified to do all that is claimed for it." E. J. Styers, Germanton, N. C., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the best Cough preparation I ever saw. It gives instant relief."

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

has cured a Cough in a few doses. It always relieves irritation of the lungs or throat, and arrests the tendency to inflammation. It strikes at the foundation of all Pulmonary diseases, is without a rival as an expectorant, and is a sure cure for the most obstinate Coughs and Colds. L. Garrett, Texana, Texas, writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twenty years. For throat and lung diseases, I consider it a wonderful remedy."

OF WORTHLESS IMITATIONS

As there are many inferior goods, corded with jute, hemp, etc., offered and sold as Coraline by some unprincipled merchants trading on the reputation of our genuine Coraline, we warn the ladies against such imposition by drawing their attention to the necessity of seeing that the name is stamped on inner side of all Coraline goods, Without which none are genuine.

'CROMPTON CORSET CO.'

The Peterborough Contingent.

The Port Hope Times has the following notice of the performance announced to take place in Bradburn's Hall next Friday evening:—"The Buzzard Variety Show, consisting of Messrs. Blake, Pardee and Laurier, 'perform for one night only,' on Friday next, in Peterborough. The latter will have his 'musket' with him, so as to show the Peterborough contingent how he would have 'cleaned them out' had he been with Riel when the North-West rebellion broke out."

Wool Fascinator, Toquets and Shashes, Tomashanters Etc., at R. FAIR, Golden Lion.

Dramatic.

The Dick Gorman Comedy Company will appear in Bradburn's Opera House on the evening of Thursday, December 16th, presenting the taking comedy "Conrad." Of the play the New Orleans Times-Democrat says:—"Dick Gorman, as Conrad, entertained quite a large audience at the Avenue Theatre last evening in his sensational comedy drama 'Conrad.' The play goes well, particularly in the second act, where La Lettie Sadie, the precocious child actress, is afforded an opportunity to display her versatility. The scene is a pretty one—a wild cayon in Colorado, with a hut in the backgrounds—and Gorman and the little actress have the stage all to themselves. She dances and sings in a most natural manner, fairly capturing the ladies and earning the applause accorded her. Little Sadie is already a favorite."

Tribute to Mrs. Tovell.

The members of the Friday afternoon class of girls spent a thoroughly pleasant time in the parsonage last evening. After refreshments were served a pleasing programme of music, readings and dialogues followed. Near the close of the evening's entertainment Mrs. Tovell was taken by surprise by two young ladies rising and reading an address and presenting her with a pair of beautiful silver salt stands. Equally surprised was Mr. Tovell when the same girls slipped a handsome inkstand into his hands as a token of esteem. After the reading of the address Mr. Tovell and Mr. J. W. Flavelle, Superintendent of the Sunday School, made a few appropriate remarks. Prayer followed, "Blest be the Tie that Binds" was sung, the benediction was given, and the happy young group took their departure.

Trent Valley Works.

The summer work at the Burleigh and Lovesick Trent Valley Canal works, is suspended owing to cold weather setting in. The Burleigh locks are about three parts completed and those at Lovesick about half done. The men, to the number of ninety, are still retained in building the dams between Lovesick and Burleigh. It is altogether likely that by the middle of next summer navigation will be open between Lakefield and the back lakes.

Runaway Accident.

On Friday afternoon as a spirited pony, the property of Mr. Robt. Walton, Smith, was being driven around town by his little son "Buddie," aged about 12 years, who was accompanied by Mrs. A. D. Browne, it took a notion to run away, and did so in fine style. After running a considerable distance it turned the corner near the residence of Mr. T. G. Hazlitt, upsetting the phaeton and depositing the occupants on the side of the road, and continued on in its flight until caughtt by some men near Mr. Hazlitt's mill. The little boy was considerably cut about the face, while Mrs Browne escaped with very slight injury. Dr. Boucher attended the little fellow, who is now doing well. The phaeton was badly damaged.

Grand Choral Festival.

The citizens of Peterborough should turn out in large numbers on Monday evening next to the Children's choral festival of four hundred trained voices in Bradburn's Opera House. Mr. Seward, who undertook this work solely for the pleasure of the children, should be well backed up by the people, as he has devoted considerable time and talent to it, and it will please him more than anything else to see the little ones, who have also taken great interest in its success, treated to an overflowing house. The orchestra on the occasion will consist of the full Fire Brigade Band (reed and brass) twenty-four strong, and the grand musical effect that this immense volume of voices and brass instruments will produce can better be imagined than described.

A Thing of Beauty.

The young men of Peterborough are known far and near for their good looks, straightforwardness, manliness, honesty and uprightness, all essential and much-to-be-sought-after qualifications. This may sound to the jealous ears of Lindsayites, Port Hopeites, Cobourgites and other places as "soft soap," so to speak, but it is nevertheless true. The young men of Peterborough are, as a rule, sound and practical in a great many things. In the matter of dress they are the acknowledged leaders, and when they augment their stock of fashionably made clothing with one or more of A. McNeil's holiday neckties (to be seen in his window) they will make those jealous young men of the aforesaid sister towns mad with envy. Boys, just look at 'em! They are beauties! A. MCNEIL, Habiliment Hall.

The Campaign.

As the date of the election draws nearer, the excitement is growing apace, and the friends of both political parties are becoming more and more confident of success. Those who profess to know a great deal are, as usual, telling how many a hard fought battle went in days gone by and giving the reasons why everything will be right this time. Well, after all, this sort of thing is well enough in a way, but then in most cases elections are a good deal like horse racing, you cannot tell much about the ultimate result until after they are over. The advice to be taken in connection with this is for everybody to "keep cool" (there is no trouble in doing that this weather) go to the polls on the morning of the 28th, vote as your conscience dictates—not as everyone tells you—and buy your clothing, after all is quiet again, from A. McNeil, Habiliment Hall.

MAY AND DECEMBER.

Marries an Old Man, is Divorced, and Weds a Younger Husband.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 9.—A few years ago a Septuagenarian farmer named Church, residing at Falmouth, married a handsome young girl named Christie and settled $3000 upon her in her own right as one of the terms of the marriage. The bride soon tired of the dull monotony of country life, and fell in love with a young man named Wm. Lithgow, son of wealthy and highly connected parents. The husband became furiously jealous, and a separation followed. Subsequently a legal document was drawn up and agreed to, by which she returned to his home in the capacity of a friend and companion, but not to resume the relations of wife. This state of affairs, however, was as of brief duration as it was unsatisfactory, but Lithgow's persistence in continuing his attentions to Mrs. Church soon enabled the husband to obtain an absolute divorce. Then Lithgow, the correspondent, married the divorced wife. As soon as that was accomplished, Church brought an action against him for alienating his wife's affections, and obtained $1,000 damages. Next he brought suit to recover the $3,000 settled upon the woman when he married her. Chief-Justice MacDonald has given a verdict in his favor for the full amount with interest and costs.

A "HAUNTED" SHIP.

Alleged Mysterious Doings on a Norwegian Vessel at Bathurst, N. B.

BATHURST, N. B., Dec. 10.—The sale of ship Squanda, lately wrecked, has been postponed. It is very difficult to get men to work on her, especially at night. Queer noises are heard in the cabin, which no one could explain, and the men believe the vessel is haunted. When the Squanda was in San Francisco, some years ago, the captain and his wife killed the first mate, severing his head completely from the body with and axe. The captain was hanged and his wife got a long imprisonment. The new captain was subsequently killed during a mutiny and the two following captains died on board the vessel. It is alleged by the master and sailors who arrived at Bathurst on her that she was haunted and they left in a body. The Norwegian consul then engaged two watchmen, but one night was enough. They alleged that they saw headless men walking in the cabin, that the bed clothes were hauled off them, that handspikes were flying around the deck and that a cold, clammy hand was laid on their faces and a voice told them to depart. Subsequently the watchmen say that they saw a boat manned by men hovering around the ship, which had the power of appearing and disappearing at will. The vessel is now without watchmen, as no one can be found to stay on board during the night. The Minister of Customs has ordered an investigation into the cause of the wreck.

THE BULGARIAN QUESTION.

Russia Justifies Her Action in the Past and Indicates Her Programme.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 10.—The Official Messenger says:—"The recall of the Russian agents was not intended to sever the relations of Bulgaria and Russia. It only signified that Russia refused to recognize the legality of the condition of affairs under which an insignificant minority seizes supreme power, and imagined it was entitled to guide Bulgarian destinies and make all the people its tools. Revolutionary passions have had a pernicious effect upon public morality in Bulgaria. The Bulgarians' peaceful disposition and love of work were pledges of the future prosperity. Through these qualities Bulgaria was making rapid progress when the revolution of Philippopolis suddenly diverted the country into the path of dangerous political adventures, which entailed heavy sacrifices and resulted in the present condition of affairs, which, if it continues, will end in anarchy, and be a constant menace to peace in the east. Russia's duty is towards the maintenance of peace in the east. While remaining on the basis of the treaty, she intends to endeavor to remove the pressure which is weighing heavily upon Bulgaria and to re-establish local order, which will serve as a guarantee of future prosperity and justify the sacrifices Russia has made. The Russian Government will not accept any arrangement which, under cover of legality, will merely perpetuate the present abnormal condition in Bulgaria. Russia is satisfied with the attitude of the Porte. She regards Turkey as working seriously for a pacific solution of the Bulgarian problem in conformity with existing treaties, and as being therefore entitled to the support of the powers.

A Railway Casualty.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 10.—Meagre particulars have been received of an accident near Neenah, Wis., to the Wisconsin Central Limited train. By the spreading of the rails the sleeper overturned, and the Durvin brothers, acrobats, of Duluth, Minn., were seriously injured and several other passengers slightly hurt.

There is a revival in the Clyde shipbuilding industry. Orders for 32,000 tons of new steamers and sailing ships have been booked during the last month.

A Sad Case.

COBOURG, Dec. 10.—Eliza Cassau, 20 years of age, and of respectable parentage, came to a sad ending on Wednesday. Previous to her death she stated she had been nursing her sister, who is married and living on Gerrard street in Toronto, and while there her brother-in-law affected her ruin. About two months ago she came to Cobourg to live as a domestic at one of the hotels, which she shortly left to go to service in a private house. Finally she lived at a house in University avenue, where she became a mother, and two days afterwards died. Her remains were removed to Campbellford, where her relatives reside.

WILL THE GLOBE INFORM US?

WITH all the dignity of black faced type the Globe quotes this portion of the school law:—

"And in any case where, as between the owner and tenant or occupant, the owner is not to pay taxes, if by the default of the tenant or occupant to pay the same the owner is compelled to pay any such school rate, he may direct the same to be applied to either Public or Separate school purposes."

This is the law beyond contradiction, but the Globe would oblige a good many owners, some score in Peterborough alone, if it would kindly inform them in what practical manner they can avail themselves of it—how in the case of the removal of a tenant of another creed the owner can change the destination of the school rate. The collector says he can neither change the amount (double for Separate schools this year), nor do anything to alter its destination, so he collects it, by distress if necessary, and hands it over to the Town Treasurer. The Treasurer says he is not empowered to make any change, but is compelled to credit it, if collected, to the Separate or Public schools, in accordance with the roll. No one in Peterborough can point out any remedy; the owner grumbles and pays. Perhaps they are wiser in Toronto. If the Globe can suggest a method it will be welcome.

MESSRS. HART AND PARDEE.

THE Kingston Whig does not deny the correctness of our explanation of the manner in which Mr. Mowat purchased Mr. Hart, but asks if we know it to be true or if it is simply a surmise? Well, we will give our authorities.

As to Mr. Hart's political standing the Belleville Ontario stated in January, 1883, that Mr. Hart had been a Reformer, but had transferred his allegiance to the Conservative party. As to Mr. Mowat's purchase, the Globe boastfully announced in April, 1883, that the Attorney-General had prevailed upon Mr. Striker not to file the petition against Mr. Hart, because of Mr. Hart's assurance that he would support the Government We could produce other evidence, if necessary, but surely these two good Reform authorities should be sufficient for the Whig.

The Whig suggests that the proceedings against Mr. Hart may have been discontinued because it was found to be a mistake to suppose Mr. Hart's election was won corruptly. The Reform authorities at the time suggested no such reason, but agreed in stating that the charge was dropped because he promised to support Mr. Mowat.

In illustration the Whig advances the idea that Mr. Meredith did not press his charges against Mr. Pardee because there was no evidence to substantiate them. There was evidence, but Mr. Pardee and his friends, knowing that it would convict him of shameless corruption, if not of misappropriation of public funds, destroyed the evidence.

The Panama Canal.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 9.—Mr. E. C. Priber, who has just crossed the Isthmus of Panama, says that, in the opinion of those in a position to know, with whom he talked, the Panama Canal will not be finished in this century.

GUELPH FAT STOCK SHOW.

Lack of Interest Shown by Farmers—Success of the Christmas Fair.

GUELPH, Dec. 10.—The Provincial Fat Stock Show closed to-day. The attendance was light and the patronage bestowed upon it was by citizens, the farmers showing a lack of interest in their own exhicition by their attendance. The Shattuck cup was won by John Kelly, jr., Shakesphere, and the Reinhart gold medal by George Kelly, Elora. A number of fine animals were sold at fancy prices for the Christmas markets at Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton and other places.

The annual Christmas fair was a success so far as quality of cattle was concerned, there being about 500 head offered. Buyers were plentiful. Sellers, however, grumbled at the the low prices offered, but mostly all of the stock was disposed of at the ruling figures, 3 to 4½ cents.

UNITED STATES CROPS.

December Report of the Agricultural Department.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The crop report of the Department of Agriculture says:—"The December returns of average farm prices by counties show a material reduction as compared with values of the crops of 1885, in wheat, rye and barley. Corn has made an advance nearly acquivalent to the percentage of reduction in quantity, and oats in sympathy with corn rather than with the small grains used for human food, average a slightly higher value than last year. The farm value of corn was 33c per bush. in December last year. It is now 37c., one cent higher than the crop of 1884. The average for the previous five years was 44, and for the ten years prior to 1880 it was 42.6 cents. The average decrease price of wheat is 69 cents, a reduction of 8 cents from the average value of last crop, and 4½ cents above the price 1884. The average value of oats is 29.9 cents, against 28.5 cents last December. Rye averages 53.1 cents against 57.9 cents last year. Barley 53 cents, last year 56.3. Buckwheat, 51.4 cents, a reduction of 1.5 cents per bushel. Potatoes, 46 cents, 1 cent higher than in December of last year. The value of hay averages [illegible] per ton.

A TERRIBLE CRASH.

Sudden Collapse of a Mammoth Hardware Store—Two Employees Killed.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 11.—About 2.30 o'clock this afternoon the upper floor of the A. F. Shapleigh and Cantwell Hardware Company's extensive establishment fell with a great crash. This floor was covered with heavy agricultural machinery, and its fall carried down the third floor, stocked with shelf goods, and the second floor filled with sample goods. In a moment the debris caught fire, and wich startling rapidity the flames shot through the building. By 4 o'clock nothing was left but broken walls and a great mass of burnt and ruined goods. At the time of the crash fifty employes were scattered through the building, but so far as can be learned all but two of them are acounted for, and it is thought these will turn up later. Several of the men received slight injuries. The house carried $500,000 in stock.

ST. LOUIS Dec. 12.—There is now no doubt that the two men reported last night as missing were victims of catastrophe which destroyed the A. F. Shapleigh & Cantwell Hardware Company's establishment yesterday. Streams of water have been poured upon the mass of smoking debris all day, but the ruins are still so hot that a thorough search cannot be made for the bodies.

AN AWFUL CRIME.

A Woman Deliberately Murdered by Two Negroes.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12.—On Friday evening a negro man brought to the Maryland University on Lanbard street the body of a white woman and left it with the janitor, saying he would call again for the $15, the price agreed upon. The body was taken to be prepared for keeping until needed for dissection, but it was found that the head was horribly crushed and that there were two wounds in the left breast, and the police were notified. Yesterday a post mortem examination of the body was made, and the physicians stated positively that the wounds were made after death, leaving the inference that it was simply a case of body-snatching and that the work had been done by a novice. To-day, however, the body was identified as that of Emily Brown, a woman sixty years of age, who for the past six months had been boarding with a coloured family in the western section of the city. She was a dissipated character and lived on what she could beg. She was at her home three hours before she was taken to the University, and it is now evident that she was brutally murdered for the price of her body would bring for use on the dissecting board. The janitor who received the body denies that he ever saw the woman, but he is known to have been a boarder at the same house and to have eaten breakfast with her on the morning of her murder. He was to-day arrested as accessory to the crime. The coroner's inquest to-morrow is expected to develop full particulars of the crime.

Late to-night John Ross and Albert Hawkins, both colored, were arrested and confessed to having killed the woman at the instigation of Janitor Perry. They followed her to her room, and Ross smashed her head with a brick, while Hawkins held her and stabbed her through the heart with a knife. They then carried the body to the university in a bag furnished by Perry, who received it and shaved the head to make identification difficult. The bloody clothing was thrown into a tub of dirty water. Ross also boarded in the house with the unfortunate woman. The price to be obtained for the body was the sole object of the murder.

The Queen's Jubilee.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—This Government has received, through the British legation at Washington, an official invitation to participate in an international exhibition which is to be held in Manchester, England, next year, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of Her Brittanic Majesty's reign. The object of the exhibition will be to illustrate as fully as possible the progress made in the development of arts and manufactures during the Victorian era.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

THE BRITISH IN EGYPT.

CAIRO, Dec. 11.—Although Count Daunay, French agent here, declares that his government prefers to continue the status quo, rather than treat for a settlement of the respective positions of France and England in Egypt until the date of the evacuation of Egypt by the British has been fixed, yet it is understood that France will not refuse to co-operate in the work of reforming the Egyptian administration.

DEEDS OF VALOR AT SEA.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The Norwegian bark Ajax sprung a leak, south-west of Start Point. A boat was launched from the Harway, of Nova Scotia, to rescue the crew of the Ajax. The boat went adrift, but two sailors of the Ajax jumped overboard and succeeded in overtaking it. With this boat the crew of the Ajax were transferred to the Harway, which afterwards landed them in London.

A RASCALLY "BOURSE."

PARIS, Dec. 11.—Prodeedings have been instituted against a concern known as the Petite Bourse (not the official Petite Bourse) in Richelieu street for misappropriating funds entrusted to it. The police seized the books of the concern and have arrested a director named Bloch. The latter's partner named Serrano escaped.

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The new rules of Parliamentary procedure empower the Government to give notice of closure and call a division thereon, instead of awaiting the Speaker's initiative. It is stated that Lord Hartington approves of the proposals.

LOOKING AFTER THE LEAGUE.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The Citizen learns that should the National League persist in its plan of campaign the Government intends to introduce a bill enabling the payment of rents lodged with trustrees to landlords.

AN IMPORTANT BILL.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The Daily Telegraph says: The Cabinet at its meeting, yesterday, resolved to modify Mr. Ritchie's draft of his bill, making local bodies entirely elective, in such way as to have also a number of ex-officio members of such bodies, with powers enabling them to dispose of land allotments. Scotland is put on the same footing as Ireland.

THE REASON WHY.

PARIS, Dec. 11.—Baron de Courcel has declined the office of Foreign Minister on the ground of poor health, but the real reason is supposed to be his desire for the return of the Duc D'Aumale to France to which General Boulanger is opposed.

A DEADLY WEAPON.

PARIS, Dec. 11.—The Government is testing the new mitrailleuse which weighs twenty-eight pounds and discharges 600 bullets a minute.

THE GERMAN ARMY BILL.

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—The commission of the military bill continued the discussion of the measure yesterday. Gen. Von Schellendorf denied the accuracy of Herr Richter's statements about the forces of France, and reminded the committee that the Algerian army corps appeared swiftly on the scene of action in 1870. He took less account of the Russian army than of the French.

"A NEW BROOM," &c.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—The new Cabinet has decided to abolish the office of the under-secretary except in the navy and finance departments. Gen. Boulanger, Minister of War, has announced that he will hold himself entirely aloof from politics and will devote his attention to military affairs exclusively.

TRACKING THE THIEVES.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 11.—The London police are on the track of the thieves who belong to a gang engaged in a number of mail robberies. The railway officials here recognized one of the suspected robbers by a photograph sent here. He returned to London on the night of Nov. 27 and has since visited the receivers of stolen diamonds in that city.

THE ANTI-RENT CAMPAIGN.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—An article in the Tablet, reflecting the views of English Catholics, opposes the opinion of Archbishop Walsh and declares that the anti-rent campaign and other doctrines of the Irish National League teach anarchy and revolution.

FIRE AT QUEEN'S COLLEGE.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—A fire in Queen's college, Oxford, to day destroyed two valuable libaries belonging to professors. Several rooms were gutted. Prompt attention prevented damage to the historical collections. The total loss is $40,000.

"WHAT'S IN A NAME?"

ODESSA, Dec. 11.—In accordance with an Imperial order all small towns and villages in Russia bearing German names will be given Russian names at the beginning of the new year. The Russo-German inhabitants bitterly resent this action of the Government.

THE DILLON TRIAL.

DUBLIN, Dec. 12.—The case of the Government against John Dillon for agitation in favor of the Irish National League's "plan of campaign" was brought up for hearing yesterday. Mr. Dillon was absent. Attorney General Holmes, in presenting the case for the Government, declared that the so-called plan of campaign was illegal, and stated that he had never said otherwise. After a prolonged wrangle with the court and lawyers for the Crown, Mr. Healy, counsel for Mr. Dillon, secured the right to cross-examine witnesses from whom the Government had obtained the affidavits upon which the prosecution is largely relying for its testimony. The case was adjourned to give an opportunity for securing the attendance of these witnesses. The trial will be resumed to-morrow.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1886.

MR. BLEZARD'S RECORD.

As Mr. Blezard is offering himself for reelection it will be interesting and instructive to examine some of his votes since he last solicited the honor of representing East Peterborough.

On Feb. 26th, 1884, Mr. Carnegie moved, seconded by Mr. Creighton, in amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply—"That this House disapproves of the action of the Government giving authorization to two sets of readers for use in the schools of the Province."

Mr. Blezard voted against this motion and with the Government in favor of two sets of readers, a blunder that according to Mr. Ross created vested interests which necessitated our payment of heavy compensation when the mistake was acknowledged.

On March 4th, 1884, Mr. Meredith moved: "That inasmuch as this House is of opinion that the right to regulate the liquor traffic by license laws, belongs under the B. N. A. Act exclusively to the legislatures of the Provinces, it is not expedient to settle a scale of duties under the Dominion License Act of 1883, which this House believes to be beyond the jurisdiction of the Dominion Parliament."

Mr. Blezard voted against Mr. Meredith's defence of our Provincial rights, and with the Administration voted an acknowledgement of the validity of the Dominion License Act.

On March 21st, 1884, Mr. Meredith moved to add to the Boards of Police Commissioners in cities two members of the Council in addition to the Judge, Police Magistrate and Mayor.

Mr. Blezard voted with the Government against this extension of municipal self-government.

In that year Mr. Blezard did vote once and only once, on the opposite side to Mr. Mowat, but then he had Messrs. Fraser and Pardee with him. It was on March 5th, when he endeavored to keep from widows and unmarried women the right to vote at municipal elections.

On Feb 10th, 1885, the Opposition moved the issue of a writ for East Simcoe, Mr. Drury's election having been adjudged void by the Court of Appeal.

Mr. Blezard voted for the Attorney-General's amendment to refer the matter to the Committee on elections, thus overriding the decision of the Court, and leaving East Simcoe unrepresented for the session.

On Feb. 25, 1885, Mr. Gibson (Hamilton) having moved an expression of opinion in favour of new Parliament buildings in keeping with Ontario's high position, Mr. Meredith moved an amendment that the Government should first deal with the matter on their responsibility.

Mr. Blezard voted against this, and in favour of relieving the Government of responsibility by the action of the House.

On Feb. 27, 1885, Mr. Meredith moved the second reading of his Bill for rendering employers liable for compensation for the injuries of workmen in their services.

Mr. Blezard voted to refuse this justice, assenting to Mr. Fraser's motion for the six month's hoist.

On March 3rd, Mr. Meredith moved an amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply, objecting to the Government favouring increased subsidies from the Dominion, as in consequence the demands of other Provinces could not be resisted.

Mr. Blezard voted in favour of these appeals to the Dominion for funds to enable his leaders to meet their extravagant yearly expenditure.

On March 6, 1885, Mr. Carnegie moved for a select committee to enquire into the Agricultural College and Farm, especially with regard to the financial management.

Mr. Blezard voted for the amendment to leave the matter to the Public Accounts Committee, well knowing that the Ministers gave the committee insufficient time for its ordinary work.

On March 9th Mr. Broder moved in favour of making some suitable recognition of the public services of the volunteers of 1837-8. The Attorney General moved an amendment to give thanks also to the rebels of that period, and Mr. G. W. Ross moved in amendment to his leader to add the volunteers of 1866, who resisted the Fenians.

Mr. Blezard voted to thank the rebels, though several Reform members were too loyal to do so, the Government majority being reduced to 4.

On March 10th, 1885, Mr. G. W. Ross moved the approval of the agreements with Messrs. Nelson and the two other publishing firms forming the School Reader ring.

Mr. Blezard voted for monopoly and for exacting an exorbitant price from the school children.

On March 17th, 1885, Mr. Hardy moved the second reading of the Bill to divide Algoma and to gerrymander the rest of the Province.

Mr. Blezard voted for the gerrymander.

On March 18th, 1885, Mr. Fraser moved the House into Committee on resolutions appropriating a sum not exceeding $750,000 for new Parliamentary Buildings.

Mr. Blezard voted for this increase of the appropriation from the $750,000 of the former Act, though as it now appears even the larger sum will be greatly exceeded.

On March 24th, 1884, Mr. Meredith moved an amendment in favour of manhood suffrage to the second reading of the Franchise Extention Bill.

Mr. Blezard voted with the Ministers and all the Reform members against Manhood Suffrage.

On March 25th, 1885, Mr. Creighton moved an amendment to going into Supply condemning the unsatisfactory and extravagent manner in which the moneys voted for Colonization Roads were expended so as not to secure an adequate benefit to the localities.

Mr. Blezard voted against a business-like expenditure and in favour of the present system of making the Colonization Road appropriation a corruption fund.

On March 26th, 1885, Mr. Meredith moved an amendment to the third reading of the High School Bill requiring the approval of the House to regulations altering the basis of distribution of the High School grant.

Mr. Blezard voted for leaving to the Government the absolute power without check, [illegible]

On March 26, 1885, Mr. Merrick moved to reduce the expenditure on Sessional Clerks.

Mr. Blezard voted against the reduction.

On the same day Mr. Creighton moved in favour of paying to the municipalities the interest to which they were entitled on the School Land Improvement Fund, as the right is acknowledged and the Province holds an available fund.

Mr. Blezard voted against giving the municipalities their dues at present.

On the same day Mr. Wood moved condemning the over expenditure of $174,454 in 1884 and declaring that $50,000 should cover unforeseen expenditures.

Mr. Blezard voted against condemning this misappropriation and in favour of the unrestricted squandering of our funds.

On March 27, 1885, Mr. Morris moved an amendment to the third reading of the Franchise Bill objecting to the partial disfranchisement of the electors of Toronto by allowing them to vote only for two of the three members.

Mr. Blezard voted for this plan of seating by statute a Reform member for Conservative Toronto.

Mr. White moved an amendment to prevent the gerrymandering of Essex, and Mr. Gray an amendment to prevent the gerrymandering of York.

Mr. Blezard voted for both these schemes to unfairly strengthen Reform candidates.

Mr. Kerr moved an amendment condemning the disfranchisement of Cornwall, while eight eastern constituencies with a population of 166,057 returned eight members, and eight western constituencies with only 124,275 returned eight members.

Mr. Blezard voted to increase the inequality in favour of the Reformers.

Other amendments were moved by Conservative members against gerrymandering the Bruces, the Ontarios, the Simcoes, Cardwell and Peel.

Mr. Blezard voted for all of these partisan devices to falsify public opinion in favour of the Reformers.

Mr. Gibson (Hamilton) moved, seconded by Mr. Awrey, to give the city of Hamilton two members.

Mr. Blezard even voted against this act of justice, though the proposer and seconder were both Reform members.

Mr. Preston moved against the disfranchisement of Leeds and Grenville, pointing out the unfairness of reducing the representation of Eastern Ontario by two members.

Mr. Blezard voted in favor of this partizan dodge to increase an existing inequality in favor of his party.

Mr. Metcalfe moved against depriving Kingston of its 50 years' old right to a member, and adding country districts to it.

Mr. Blezard voted against the appeal of the ancient city.

Several other amendments were put to preserve a number of constituencies from unfair gerrymandering.

Mr. Blezard voted for the fraud in each case. He even voted against the motion of Mr. Carnegie, seconded by Mr. Fell, to save our neighboring county of Victoria (with Haliburton), from being cut into ribbons to strengthen Mr. McIntyre.

Mr Meredith moved that in dividing the constituencies the representation in the House should have fair relation to the party strength in the county, that by the present division the Reformers had an undue advantage, and by the proposed changes this disproportion would be greatly increased, so none of the changes should be made except the division of Algoma, Muskoka and Parry Sound, and the addition of a member for Bruce.

Mr. Blezard voted in favor of the plan of his leaders to secure a majority of supporters in the Legislature from a minority of electors.

Mr. Robillard moved to omit the clause relieving Dr. Dowling from the disqualification and penalties declared against him by the judicial tribunals for his corrupt practices.

Mr. Blezard voted to insult the judges, to make himself and his friends a court of appeal, to bring the law into contempt and to seat Dr. Dowling by statute as a reward for his criminal services to the Reform party.

Mr. Kerns moved to give the franchise to clergymen, school teachers and enrolled volunteers.

Mr. Blezard voted of course that such people were not fit for the franchise. This being the last amendment the iniquitous Gerrymander Bill (1885) was passed.

On March 28th, Mr. Meredith moved to strike out the appropriation for $10,000 to pay Mr. Caldwell's laid costs in his legislation with Mr. McLaren.

Mr. Blezard voted for paying the expenses of the private lawsuit of a supporter of Mr. Mowat.

On March 28, 1885, Mr. Meredith moved to enable County Councils by a two-thirds vote to discontinue the office of a Police Magistrate.

Mr. Blezard voted to prevent Counties from having any such voice in their own expenditure. And so ends the record for 1885.

MR. BLAKE has been giving to the public his version—two versions indeed—of the statistics of settlement in the Northwest, complaining that they do not equal the anticipations of the Conservative leaders. He neglects to take into account that Purvis and others of his friends and supporters published a warning to intending settlers to keep away, and that subsequently others of his friends and supporters raised a rebellion, massacred and pillaged the settlers. These operations by his friends naturally checked settlement for a time, and caused the falling off so distressing to Mr. Blake.

THE BRIBERY CONSPIRACY.

Mr. Pardee and His Associates as Described by Judge and Jury.

As the Mowat Administration and its friends have been calling attention again to this unsuccessful conspiracy to procure bribery in the hope of foisting even an appearance of evil upon Conservative leaders, and as Mr. Pardee, one of the ringleaders, is soon to address us, it will be well to quote the opinions of judges and of jurymen in regard to this matter.

THE JUDGE DESCRIBES THEM.

In summing up the evidence taken at the trial Chief Justice Wilson thus distributed the responsibility, showing how Messrs. Pardee and Fraser were as guilty as their tools:—

"Now, while I am reading this part, I will just refer to what has been said about the Ministry, and what they did, or counselled and advised—because it is a very difficult thing to distinguish between those who do an act and those who advise it to be done; for a person who does an act at the solicitation, inducement or direction of another, is in effect the agent of the other: for the rule of law is, that the one who directs the act to be done is just as much concerned in the doing of it, in the honor or dishonor attaching to it, as the person or persons who perform the act at his or their dictation. And this is what is said in regard to that: The members of the Government told me (McKim) to take the money. Some members of the Government, after I told all that had taken place, said, Let these parties go on and see how far they will go—or what they will do. And Balfour said, I wanted to see how far they would go in trying to bribe me—that is, he was told by the Ministry to see how far they would go in trying to bribe him; and, he says, I was told by the Ministry not to be afraid of these parties, and it was better to hear what they had to say, and they advised me to go and take the money. Then Dowling said, when he told FRASER AND PARDEE that he had been asked to go to Bunting's office, and the conversation he had had with Wilkinson about it, they advised him to go—he said, I went to Bunting's office, although I had objections to going, and had refused to go. FRASER AND PARDEE said to me to go to Bunting's office and not be afraid.

THE MOST DISHONORABLE CLASS.

Later on in his charge the Judge thus fittingly described these Ministers and their tools:—

"But there is a still further depth to which few, very few will descend—and that is, by assuming to be the accomplice of another, pretending to take a part in his schemes and to co-operate in all he does, and by encouraging and leading him on to the commission of a crime. That is the most dishonorable class by far. There can be no man, who has a particle of respect for himself, who would undertake such a service. Yet this is the conduct of these three men—MCKIM, BALFOUR and DOWLING—who are bearing testimony against the defendants. And further, they are told to go and do that by MINISTERS OF THE GOVERNMENT. Now gentlemen, I do not say that such conduct as that, dishonorable as it is—now a judge has to speak plainly, for there are some very disagreeable duties a judge has to perform, and one of them among the rest is to make no distinction of persons) even although they are told to do it, and do it, is any reason for disbelieving them; it is only a reason for looking upon every word they say with more care, and carefully weighing the probabilities as to the truth of their story.

THE JURY VALUES THEM.

And this is what the jury thought of these conspirators, and of the value of their sworn evidence; not the mere opinion of individual jurymen, but their solemn verdict:—

"The jury have agreed that the first count is not sustained by the evidence before us; also that the third count is not sustained by the evidence placed before them. The second count, the jury consider, would have been sustained if the principal evidence furnished by the prosecution had been of an unquestionable character; but having doubts, they feel compelled to give the defendants the benefit of them, and pronounce them acquitted."

THE CONSERVATIVE MEMBERS.

How different is the judicial estimation of the Conservative members. The following is from the Report of the Royal Commission, consisting of judges appointed by the conspirators themselves:—

"Nor does there appear to be any reason for supposing that any of the Conservative members of the House of Assembly attempted to use improper means to induce the members of the other side of the House to change their votes."

THE CONSERVATIVE LEADER.

Mr. S. H. Blake, the counsel for the prosecuting conspirators, and who certainly cannot be suspected of any leaning towards the Conservative leader, thus addressed Mr. Meredith when he had given his evidence:—

"Will you allow me to say with what pleasure I have listened to your explanation, and, personally, I believe your statement to be correct."

A STRONG CONTRAST.

It will be seen what a marked contrast there was between the Conservative and Reform leaders in this matter. And the dishonor of the Reformers and the honor of the Conservatives are not matters of political opinion, but are attested by judges, jurymen and leading counsel.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

School Board.

A special meeting of the Board of Education will be held this evening to make Public School staff appointments.

Personal.

Mr. P Mungovan, the original and only "Rambler" (all others are imitations) is in town on a visit.

Temperature.

The thermometer readings to-day at the hours mentioned were as follows:—8 o'clock a. m., 40 above zero; 1 o'clock p.m., 42 above zero; 3 o'clock, p. m., 43 above zero.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. George Gumpricht is in town for a few days. Orders may be left at Mr. F. Menzies' bookstore, or at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's bookstore.

St. John's Bazaar.

Remember St. John's Bazaar on December 14th and 15th. All the articles will be of a useful nature. The Mikado and tableaux will be given on the last night.

FLORIDA Oranges at 50 and 60 cents per dozen at OSTROM'S.

Musical.

On account of the children's choral festival taking place this evening, Mr. Seward will be unable to conduct his elementary class as usual, but a full attendance is requested for to-morrow evening in the society's rooms, Opera House building.

Council of War.

A Salvation Army council of war is called to be held in Peterborough on Christmas eve. Twenty-five officers from all parts of the division have been summoned. Open air knee drills and reviewing of the troops will be held. Adjutant Bolton will take command.

Ice Races.

Mr. W. McCaffrey, secretary of the Ottawa Turf Association, has sent the REVIEW programmes of the ice races which are to take place on Crystal Park, Ottawa, from February 13th to 19th. Those wishing to consult the programmes may do so by calling here.

Rehearsal.

The public school children to the number of five hundred or more rehearsed their choruses for the last time on Saturday night in Bradburn's Opera House. The full Fire Brigade Band accompanied the choruses, producing a really grand effect. The children are seated on tiers of seats which slope from the footlights to the back of the stage—up among the clouds in the scenery. To-night the festival is to take place, when doubtless the hall will be filled to hear this holiday novelty in the musical line.

Church Notes.

The Rev. Mr. Ratcliffe preached in the Baptist Church, Murray street, on Sunday morning and evening.

Mr. Calloway, travelling evangelist, preached in the George street Methodist Church on Sunday evening.

The Rev. J. E. Starr, formerly of this town, preached in the Charlotte street Methodist Church on Sunday morning and evening. In his evening sermon he came down upon non-working Christians. He said there was a class which were always running to the preacher, to have their pulses felt or their tongues examined, to find out what was their state of spiritual health. All they wanted was exercise. They should work. As swinging the scythe in the bending hay gave the farmer brawn and muscle, so would it be with Christians who worked for Christ—they would develop untold spiritual strength.

Special music was given in St. Luke's Church on Sunday, on the occasion of the opening of the new chancel.

Mr. A. L. Davis sang Ambrose's "Abide With Me" in the Charlotte street Methodist Church on Sunday evening.

For the largest show of Fancy Handkerchiefs for Christmas go to the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

THE NEW CHANCEL

In St. Luke's Church Used for the First Time on Sunday.

On Sunday morning and Sunday evening there were large congregations at St. Luke's Church, on the occasion of the new chancel, recently completed, being used for the first time. The Rev. Mr. Cooper, of Trinity College School, Port Hope, preached at the 11 o'clock service, and the Rev. Rural Dean Allen, of Millbrook, at the 7 o'clock service. Both clergymen referred, in their sermons, to the improvements which had been made.

The present chancel is twenty-six feet long by twenty-four feet wide. The floor has been raised three inches and the ceiling about three feet. This deepening and heightening has produced a very good effect. The ceiling has been handsomely finished in panneled woodwork, with divisions of heavy stained ribs. New stained glass windows have been put in, richly figured and ornamented. A new gasalier has also been put in. Formerly the organ rested below the floor. A new chamber has been built and it now stands even with the raised chancel floor. An entrance has also been made to the organ chamber and chancel from the south side.

The enlarging of the chancel and the addition of the organ chamber, gives more accommodation to the choir. Seating capacity for thirty choristers is provided, while the new organ chamber is large enough to admit of an enlargement of the organ, which will be made before long.

At the north side of the chancel building the vestry has been made larger and more comfortable, and a passage way has been constructed from it to the school room.

The improvements, which cost upwards of $1,200, have made the church more complete and adds to its good appearance.

Diaries for 1887.

A Social.

The ladies of the Charlotte street Methodist Church will hold a social on Tuesday evening, December 14th. The Rev. J. H. Starr and others will deliver addresses. A good musical programme will be provided Tea will be served in the school room from 6 to 8 o'clock. Admission 25 cents.

In the Police Court this morning, judgment was delivered in the case Queen vs. Lipset. The case was dismissed, costs to be paid by the complaint. The case Queen vs. Kennealy was also dismissed, no evidence being produced against the defendant. In the case Queen vs. Cavanagh 14 witnesses were examined, but no evidence was forthcoming.

Died.

The Calgary Tribune of December 6th contains the following:—"The funeral of the late Geo. A. Shaw, who died on Saturday night, took place this afternoon to the Calgary cemetery. The deceased was a son of the late Geo. Shaw, who for several years was manager of the Ontario Bank, at Peterborough, Ont. He had been in the Northwest for about four years, excepting a few months spent in British Columbia. At the time of the rebellion he joined the Albert rifles and served during the whole of the campaign. Deceased was of an easy generous nature, and was well esteemed by his friends and acquaintances here. There is an expression of genuine regret and sorrow at his early demise."

A Thing of Beauty.

The young men of Peterborough are known far and near for their good looks, straightforwardness, manliness, honesty and uprightness, all essential and much-to-be-sought-after qualifications. This may sound to the jealous ears of Lindsayites, Port Hopeites, Cobourgites and other places as "soft soap," so to speak, but it is nevertheless true. The young men of Peterborough are, as a rule, sound and practical in a great many things. In the matter of dress they are the acknowledged leaders, and when they augment their stock of fashionably made clothing with one or more of A. McNeil's holiday neckties (to be seen in his window) they will make those jealous young men of the aforesaid sister towns mad with envy. Boys, just look at 'em! They are beauties! A. MCNEIL, Habiliment Hall.

Terrorism by Tramps.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Dec. 12.—A band of about thirty tramps who have been making their headquarters just outside the borough limits during the past few weeks, came into town last night, and after getting drunk raised a riot in a saloon, fatally injuring one and probably three men. The tramps, after clearing out the barroom, withdrew to the street and wrecked the front of the building. Nine of them were subsequently arrested and four were committed to gaol.

By Election in Quebec.

MONTREAL, Dec. 12.—The following is the result of the elections held in Montcalm and Iberville Counties on Saturday. In Montcalm Taillon, the Conservative candidate was returned by over 480 majority, and Duhamel, the Liberal candidate, by over 400 majority in Iberville.

An Inventor's Sad Lot.

The Chinese and Missionaries.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Steamer advices say the Chinese Government has refused to grant a pass to the American Methodist Episcopal Mission for its steam launch to ascend the interior rivers on Missionary work.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

THE LATE CONTROLLER.

The Globe says nothing now of the sums which Tory journals receive from the Dominion Government for printing and advertising. It has enough to do in trying to defend its chief stockholder and controller, Mr. Thomas Nelson, from the charge of taking the hard-earned pennies of the school children of Ontario to swell his already enormous fortune.—Toronto World (Indep.)

MOWAT'S GERRYMANDER.

Under Mr. Mowat's Gerrymander Act seven rural constituencies having a total population of 60,234 have seven members; but three cities having a population of 66,000, or 5,800 more than the seven rural constituencies, have but three representatives. It seems that this second redistribution is more unfair than the first.—Mail.

MOWAT TAXING THE COUNTIES.

An Ottawa paper says:—"Instead of Mr Mowat having materially increased the taxes of the Province, he has actually abolished two of the most remunerative, and there are to-day, except on liquor licenses, virtually no taxes imposed at all for Provincial purposes." This statement is altogether misleading. Municipalities are now called upon to pay large items of criminal justice expense, by direct taxation, which, before Mr. Mowat took office, was paid out of Provincial funds. For more than a year York County resisted these encroachments; but the Premier had the advantage—the county could not force its claim in the courts without the Attorney-General giving his consent to a trial, and this he positively refused. The County has been taxed for this large annual increase ever since, while the Sheriff, County Attorney, and gaol surgeon got an increase to their annual income.—Newmarket Era (Ref.)

GERMANY'S ARMY.

Warlike Speech of Gen. Von Schellendorff—Necessity of Being Prepared.

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—In giving a detailed comparison of the strength of European armies, Gen. von Schellendorff said that the distribution of Russian, French, German and Austrian troops along their respective frontiers showed the necessity of immediately strengthening the border garrisons of Germany. He doubted both their offensive and defensive power if she attacked Russia without allies. He earnestly insisted upon secrecy regarding the strategic maps showing the routes in Eastern Germany toward Russia, and the routes in Western Germany toward France if attacked. The whole tenor of his remarks indicates that the Government is preparing for a hostile coalition against France and Russia.

His pronounced and favourable estimate on the effective condition of the French army are becoming the subject of occasional comments among the members of the commission. Gen. von Schellendorff said that if anyone should be surprised that he spoke less about the Russian that the French army, his explanation was that he did so because, from a military point of view, the latter afforded more serious cause for apprehension, owing to the completeness of the system adopted by the French Government of mobilizing its troops and its combined facilities for concentrating them at determined points on the frontier and in the interior. Replying to a question from Herr Richter, concerning the relative expenditures of Germany and France, Gen. von Schellendorff showed that the burden imposed upon German taxpayers is much lighter than that placed on the French and Russians. The Government organs are now confident that the commission will approve of the whole bill.

The arming of the German troops with repeating rifles is being hastened. Five army corps have already been equipped with the improved arms, and the fifteenth corps, which occupies Alsace-Lorrance, is now receiving them.

SALT and Fresh Water Fish at OSTROM'S

AUDACITY.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR.—I am amazed at the audacity of the Hon. Wilfred Laurier that he should announce himself as prepared to speak here, in Peterborough, in the very heart of the famous Midland Battalion. Did the volunteers of Canada endure the frightful hardships of the Northwestern campaign—did they yield the obedience of soldiers and of loyal citizens to their Queen and country to be ridiculed and cursed by one who however much he may be convinced that he is right should not spread treason and insults with the rage of tyrannical bigotry? A man worthy of the name of statesman knows that there are critical periods in the government of any country, and that, when a rebel who had offered himself and his cause for glittering gold, demands more or threatens war, justice and liberty are in peril in his hands. Who can find words to fit the scorn of a ruffian who sacrificed the lives of misguided men to extort—what? Justice? No. Gold! Yet there are not only apologists of such trafficking villainy—not only champions of disorder and revenge, but these men who would be dubbed "statesmen," forsooth, who name the men, the brave men whom we all know as proud of mien and chivalrous of heart, "the murderers of old men and babes, and the outragers of defeaceless women." To opinion the ears of just men are ever open, but the studied calumny, insult and falsehood that have gone abroad throughout the world from the mouths of such men as Wilfred Laurier, the patience of the traduced and vilified can scarcely endure. What would be the answer of one of our soldiers to a man who would hiss in his teeth "you are a robber, a murderer and a cowardly outrager of poor undefended women." It would be a good honest British blow that would fill up the traitor's mouth with something less native to it than slander. That manhood which the chivalry of Old France has taught me to adore does not bid me to silently endure the injustice of falsehood or the insults of traitors.

A NEBRASKA MAN'S LOVE.

Wants to Marry a Sioux Chief's Daughter—A Novel Request.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—A novel request was received to-day at the Interior Department from a young man living in Nebraska, who wants to marry a daughter of Standing Bear, a Sioux Chief. She was educated at Carlisle. The young man, however, wishes to go and live on the reservation with his prospective and her relations, and for this reason it was necessary to obtain the permission or the Interior Department. White men are not allowed to stay on Indian reservations unless with authority of the Government. The Secretary of the Interior considered the matter from its practical rather than its sentimental side, and concluded that while he could not prevent the young man from marrying the girl he could prevent him from going to live with the old folks, and if he was as anxious to marry the young woman as he professed to be he might provide her with a home. Secretary Lamar will write a letter to the ambitious lover, and while not discouraging the ardour of his love will suggest the practical view of the situation, which seems to have escaped him. Until there is some change in the present plans of the young man the paternal benediction of the Interior Department will be withheld.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 12.—A mine containing about 200 pounds of dynamite exploded today against the King's summer residence at Cotrocene. It is supposed the intention was to destroy the palace. Every window in the building was smashed. The mangled corpse of a strange man was found in the vicinity. There is no clew to the culprits.

A DIFFERENT RITE.

Religion According to Riel—Blasphemy, Sacrilege and Murder.

MR. BLAKE, speaking on the same platform with Laurier, described his brother leader as a christian man worshipping the same God though by a different rite. We will see what was the religious rite of Riel, the leader by whose side Laurier would have been glad to use his gun, etc.

The Rev. Father Fourmond thus describes this rite:—

"On the 26th March Riel, in his turn, assembled his warmest partisans in the profaned church of St. Anthony, and there, in the midst of scenes rivalling each other in absurdity, folly and impiety, he publicly renounced the Holy Church of God, which was henceforth to be contemptuously called by the name of the Old Woman of Rome. Having proclaimed his intended mission as a prophet sent from God to reform religion, the reformer gave himself the name of Exovide and his council the Exovidat. Orders were given for the persecution of the faithful, and especially the clergy; and they tore us from our dwellings, us and our pious, faithful companions of Jesus; and placed us in a place of siege and exposed us to the greatest dangers in the new Presbytery of St. Antony at Batoche. We were indicted several times before the Exovidat, where listening to the impieties and blasphemies of the Exovidat Rev. Fathers Morlin, Vegreville and myself had to confess and defend our insulted faith, thereby drawing upon ourselves a deluge of outrages and threats, and exposing us to the fire of the enemy if we remain obstinate in refusing to submit to the will of the tyrant. Meanwhile messengers had been sent to the poor savages of the prairie, for the most part obstinate infidels, always discontent with the domination of the white man, and asking nothing better than to see the hour of deliverance if not of vengeance arrive. Barbarism has returned to the bloody ferocity of its worst days, and in some places, particularly at Frog Lake, the whites have been massacred, and with them the missionaries who tried to save them and prevent the revolt. The latters were the Rev. Fathers Faford and Marchand. Their mission had been burned as well as all the dwellings of the whites."

The following extract from an affidavit by Roger Goulet shows how Riel held forth in a church:—

"About the 23rd day of March last past Louis Riel came to the church where the people were assembled and told them: "You will go to Garnot's and get the prisoners and give them to the Indians to kill them to-night; also the two prisoners at Solomon Venn's but you will see that the Indians do not torture them."

Such were the religious rites of Riel under whom Laurier tells us he could have served if he had been on the Saskatchewan.

THE Brockville Recorder professes to know all about the transactions between Mr. Hart and Mr. Mowat. We will be glad to read the Recorder's version of them, and to compare it with the version of the Globe, which stated at the time that the Attorney-General had caused the proceedings for corruption to be dropped because Mr. Hart had promised to support him. Other Reform journals of standing had previously described Mr. Hart as a Conservative, nominated by Conservatives, supported by Conservatives, and opposed by Reformers. If the Recorder can throw any light on the subject it should do so, for the transaction looks black enough on the evidence of Reform authorities.

FINE Bulk Oysters at OSTROM'S.

A GERRYMANDERED REFORMER.

Pounding Mr. Mowat with the one Hand left-Tricksers Rebuked.

The following is the speech of an old Reformer at a recent public meeting at Collins' bay:—

"Dr. Brown then rose, being called on by the audience, and said he was not a party man, but almost persuaded to become a Conservative. Hitherto he had been a Reformer but not a Grit. A Grit was an unreflecting and narrow minded adherent of a faction. He had never been that. He had generally voted Reform—his vote had been cast for Mr. Funn, and the persons of that party in municipal matters—but he had occasionally put his ballot in the box for a Conservative on the ground of his personal worth. He considered Sir John Macdonald as faulty as humanity and public men are wont to be but after long watching his career he had come to the conclusion that he was the greatest statesman that Canada had ever seen. (Cheers.) It was not of his own free will that he was supporting Mr. Metcalfe. He was a farmer and desired to belong to a county consituency; but Mr. Mowat had coerced him into the city of Kingston. Formerly he had two votes, and he had been accustomed to strike the Conservative with both hands. He had only one hand left, and that was his right and he would pound Mr. Mowat with that. (Laughter.) He had anticipated voting for Mr. Wilmot, but now he would vote for Mr. Metcalfe. He knew James H. Metcalfe to be able, honourable and warm in his sympathies. He had more confidence in him than in Mr. Whiting, or any other Kingston lawyer. The city might perhaps think it required a lawyer to look after its wants, but the farming community did not want him. During his practice of medicine he had assisted a great many young men into the world in the township, who now had votes, and he was going to canvass every one of them for Metcalfe. The little despot of Toronto had hit them, the farmers, an unfair blow, and he hoped they would, on the 28th of the month, strike that cutcoat under the fifth rib." (Prolonged cheering.)

DARING HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

Two Farmers Attacked by Three Men—Beaten and Robbed.

BRANTFORD, Dec. 13.—On Saturday night, between 8 and 9 o'clock, Mr. Dawson and Mr. Mulligan, two farmers, were driving home in a waggon, and when about a mile south of the city they were attacked by three men. Dawson was knocked almost senseless with a stick and then pounded, receiving some ugly cuts on the head. Mulligan, an old man, was pulled from the waggon and robbed of from $75 to $80. He is unable to give any description of the robbers, who, as soon as the booty was secured, made off.

Prince Edward Island Sound.

Hon. Mr. Ferguson, Provincial Secretary of Prince Edward Island, in an interview at Ottawa, pronounced as ridiculous and altogether devoid of foundation the statements published in the New York press and purporting to be despatches from Ottawa to the effect that Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick had threatened the Dominion Government that they would fall into line with Nova Scotia in the secession movement if their claims for the fulfillment of the terms upon which they entered Confederation were not satified. Their only grievance was the want of continuous communication with the mainland, which they were now satisfied they had a good prospect of getting, as the Dominion Government were giving the matter their serious attention.

Trade with Holland.

Mr. Kalker, of the firm of Kalker & Norden, leather and hide merchants of Amsterdam, Holland, arrived in the city with a view of examining into the prospects of increasing the trade between Canada and Holland. Mr. Kalker so far expresses himself satisfied with what he had seen. He was first led to come to Canada through seeing the Canadian section of the Colonial Exhibition in London. He proposes to come to Canada again next year with several other Holland merchants who are also interested. Any inquiries as to the development of the trade between Canada and Holland will be cheerfully answered by addressing Kalker-Norden, curis et Pleaux en Poil. Amsterdam, Holland.—Montreal Star.

A Political Priest Suspended.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The World says Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn, who took such an active part in supporting Henry George's candidature for the mayoralty of this city, has, by order of Archbishop Corrigan, been suspended from saying mass or exercising any of the functions of a priest, and Rev. Dr. James T. Curran is now acting as rector of St. Stevens. Dr. McGlynn has been under suspension for about two weeks, and nobody can tell when the suspension will terminate.

Sinews of War Wanted.

TORONTO, Dec. 13.—Some days ago the Globe made an appeal to the Reformers for subscriptions to carry on the elections. A similar appeal was made by the News for the labor candidates, but so far only two persons' names are given as subscribing, the sum they gave being $30. Frank Somers, a leading Orangeman, now issues an appeal for subscriptions for Brother Clarke of the Orange Sentinel.

Imprisonment for Life.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Dec. 13.—Gilbert Craig has been sentenced to imprisonment for life upon charges of brutally ill treating his wife and children. Judge Fraser, in delivering the sentence, addressed the prisoner in strong language. The prisoner, who had eight little children, had, the judge said, made his home a hell upon earth.

The Revised Lists.

OTTAWA, Dec. 13.—With the exception of North York, Ontario and Ottawa County, Quebec, the revised voters' list from all other constituencies has been returned. It is expected that the above delinquent counties will be heard from in the course of the present week.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

OPINION IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The meagre summary of the fishery correspondence cabled here excites little discussion and languid. The English press, oblivious of its old dislike of arbitration, urges the appointment of a mixed commission and seems unaware that the American Government has decided to enter upon general negotations, while the policy of aggression is continued by Canada.

A DASTARDLY ACT.

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—A shabby-looking man threw a stone into the study window of the Emperor William's Palace, yesterday afternoon. The Emperor was not hurt. The man was arrested.

A TRAITOR EXPELLED.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 13.—The Government has expelled M. Patrice, editor of Le Mousegetaire, for calling upon France to counterbalance the loss of Alsace-Lorraine by annexing Belgium.

THE BRITISH IN EGYPT.

CAIRO, Dec. 13.—It is stated here that unless unforseen events occur the British army of occupation in Egypt will be largely reduced in April next.

A SOCIALIST ELECTED.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 13.—In the municipal elections here a Socialist workman is among the successful candidates, the first instance of the kind on record.

A GERMAN VIEW.

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—The German press adversely criticize the new French Cabinet. The papers consider that the rapid fall of M. DeFreycinet and the refusal of Baron DeCourcel to join the Ministy afford evidence that no French Government which advocates peace has a chance of permanence.

A DISABLED SHIP.

CORK, Dec. 13.—The British ship Euphrosyne, from San Francisco to the Clyde, arrived at Queenstown yesterday in a battered and disabled condition. She reports that when 250 miles west of Fastnet, on December 8th, a tremendous sea swept across her, carrying one man overboard, and clearing her decks of everything movable. Four seamen were seriously injured, but fortunately were not in the direct path of the wave and escaped being swept overboard.

A ROYAL CELEBRATION.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—The King of Greece and all the members of the Royal Family, at the head of a grand procession, attended the cathedral to-day to assist in celebrating the coming of age of the Crown Prince. The day was observed as a general holiday. The city was thronged with people, and much enthusiasm was manifested.

FIGHTING IN BURMAH.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—Advices from Mandalay state an engagement between British troops and natives has taken place near Pakoko, and that 200 insurgents were killed.

REDUCTION OF RENTS.

DUBLIN, Dec. 13.—Sir Croker Barrington, after refusing to reduce the rents of the tenants on his Murroe estate, has granted an abatement of 20 per cent. from the unjudical rents, which the tennants have accepted.

STUDENTS IN RUSSIA.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 13.—The student agitation in St. Petersburg continues. The students almost daily issue manifestoes to the Russian officials, foreign diplomats and journals, denouncing the brutality and senseless severity of the Russian policy. Numerous arrests have been made, but the police have not been able to discover where the manifestoes are printed.

WHOLESALE EVICTIONS.

DUBLIN, Dec. 13.—Wholesale evictions are threatened on the Stackpoole and Westroph estates in Kilkee, County Clare. The tenants are preparing to resist.

RAIDING FOR ARMS,

DUBLIN, Dec. 13.—Nine young men have been arrested at Castleisland, for raiding Tubber Muher house yesterday for arms.

A ROYAL POETESS.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—It is reported that the Queen of Roumania, known as a poetess under the name of Carmen Sylva, intends to give weekly lectures on modern literature in the girls' high school of Bucharest.

THE "PLAN OF CAMPAIGN."

DUBLIN, Dec. 13.—Judge Boyd, Recorder of the Land Court of Dublin, has announced that he will treat the Irish Land League's "plan of campaign" with contempt. "This court," the Judge declares, "will know how to deal with tenants who pay their rents to trustees instead of to the landlords or legal agents, and it will also know how to deal with the trustees who take the money."

MUST HAVE LIBERTY.

DUBLIN, Dec. 13.—Mr. Sexton, speaking here to-day, advised his hearers to abstain from violence if their demands for abatements from rents were refused. He declared that the tenants were simply unable to pay the rent exacted by the landlords. In concluding his speech, Mr. Sexton said, "Separation or otherwise, Ireland must have liberty."

ITALIAN STATESMAN FUNERAL.

ROME, Dec. 13.—The funeral of Signor Minghetti, the Italian statesman, took place to day. The cortege included all the members of the Italian Senate, Chamber of Deputies and the diplomatic corps. In addition to these the hearse was followed by an enormous procession made up of the Liberal Associations of Rome and many thousands of the populace.

THE DILLON TRIAL.

DUBLIN, Dec. 13.—The case of the Government against John Dillon for agitating the "plan of campaign," was called up for hearing again to-day. Counsel for the defence stated that he had withdrawn, Mr. Dillon having assumed the task of conducting his own defence. The case was adjourned till to-morrow.

PROTESTANT HOME RULE.

DUBLIN, Dec. 13.—The Protestant Home Rule Association of this city had a meeting to-day and adopted a resolution in favor of free speech, open air meetings and fair play to Catholics. Magistrate Clark, in a speech, said Lord Randolph Churchill had no faith in the Conservatives, yet he had not the courage to leave them, believing it better to reign in hell than to serve in Heaven.

BISMARCK BETTER.

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—Prince Bismarck's physician, who has just returned to Berlin, reports the Chancellor is improving, but requires rest.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1886.

LAURIER IN TORONTO.

WILFRED LAURIER, the forsworn Privy Councillor and professed "brother" of Riel the murderer and rebel, has delivered his address in Toronto. His principal object, by his own account, was to face the charges made against him of being a traitor and a rebel, and we have read how he did it. He only added another to the proofs of his total disregard for truth and of his cowardice, for he told quite a different story from that with which he has been basely endeavoring, in his own province, to excite sectional animosity by his treasonable appeals.

He did not say in Toronto, as in the Province of Quebec, that Riel, the rebel, the murderer, the blackmailer, the blasphemer, the imprisoner and slayer of priests, the instigator of Indian risings, was his "brother." He did not say in Toronto, as in the Province of Quebec, that if he had been on the Saskatchewan he "would have taken his gun and would have fired it." Whom was he to fire at? Evidently, from the context, not at the rebels—so it must have been at the volunteers, unless like some of his "brothers" it were at unarmed settlers, officials or priests.

He claimed not to use different language in the two Provinces. He must have relied upon his hope that many of his hearers do not often see newspapers from the Province of Quebec, and were therefore unacquainted with the facts. Those of us who have seen them know that his speeches and those of his followers teem with fulsome praise of the rebels and murderers—with vile abuse of every loyal man. They were all "hangmen," "orangistes," &c., whether French or English, Roman Catholic or Protestant, if they would not join him in his endeavours to excite hatred against all who were opposed to the crimes of his "brothers." It was in his presence and with his sanction that Ministers of the Crown, loyal French Canadians, were silenced at public meetings with cries of "hangmen," had noosed ropes cast at them, had insulting caricatures thrust into their faces, were submitted to personal violence because they had done their sworn duty to their Queen and Country.

In Toronto his tune was changed and he did not appear as the open advocate of rebellion and murder, but as the dishonest, tricky advocate of tricky, dishonest men. His main argument was based on fraud. For instance, he read petitions from Gabriel Dumont and others, from Wm. Bremner and others, from Louis Schmidt, claiming exceptional privileges, expensive re-surveys, &c., under the pretence of being the old original inhabitants of the country, or long time settlers on their lands, and, therefore, having special claims to consideration. Well, the truth is that more than three-fourths of these petitioners were only masquerading as old inhabitants of the Saskatchewan, were Manitoban halfbreeds, who, in that Province, had received land and scrip in full settlement of their special claims, had sold them, and had then moved on westward to renew this profitable operation under false pretences. Nearly every leader under Riel was of this class. And these imposters were not satisfied to acquire a new homestead, which was cheerfully allowed, but, forsooth, they must pick and choose land as often as they liked and wherever they liked, regardless of all regulations that would bind settlers, say from Ontario, must have expensive surveys and re-surveys just to suit them, must take what land they liked, even if they interfered with the holdings of others, and must act as if lords of the whole soil, with none to say them "nay." It was in fact the same claim as that advanced by Riel (and which he offered to sell out cheap) that the soil of the whole Northwest belongs to the half breeds and Indians, not to Canada and the people of Canada as a body.

But even these claims, though not fairly tenable, were granted almost entirely and whenever practicable. The assertion that entries could not be made in the cases where the regular surveys could not be distributed is proved false by the fact that numbers of these petitioners have since made their entries by the established quarter-quarter sections, so as to include their holdings. The promise that where there were a number of old settlers together the narrow river lot surveys should be adopted was carried out. Where they chose to flock in from Manitoba and elsewhere after survey, their views have been met as far as possible.

But the falsehood of the statement that the halfbreeds were forced to rebel because they were driven out of their homes and holdings, is most conclusively proved by the fact that their zealous and unscrupulous advocate, after a search of more than a year, cannot find one case, cannot name one man who was actually dispossessed. His one pretended instance, shows there is none genuine to be found, for if one man had been really dispossessed, it would not be necessary to use as the solitary example the fact that when two men claimed a title to the same land, one of them had to go without it. If there had been such wholesale driving of a people from their homes as to afford the faintest excuse for rebellion, is it conceivable that the whole country would not have been made to ring with the names of some at least of the victims, and full details of the outrage? The whole cry is a dishonest and impudent fraud.

Between two crimes, it must be a matter of opinion which is most distasteful. For our part we must own that of the two we feel rather less disgust and contempt for the Laurier in the Province of Quebec ranting treason, howling for vengeance on all loyal men who will not condemn the punishment of his "brother" Riel, and calling (at a safe distance) for his gun, than for the Laurier in the Province of Ontario with his cowardly disavowal of his Quebec double, his insulting masquerade of the loyalty he spurns when at home, and his tissue of falsehoods uttered in the service of the political allies he has come to help in return for their sympathy with his partial success at home by means of his cry for "vengeance on the hangmen."

In conclusion, we may say that it is quite unnecessary for Wilfred Laurier to inform us that the French-Canadians are a loyal people, for we are well aware of it. We can assure him that we do not judge his compatriots by such a base specimen as himself. We prefer to judge them by true men like their leaders the Hon. Mr. Chapleau, Sir H. Langevin, Sir A. Caron. We are quite content to judge them by our excellent fellow-citizens the French-Canadians of Peterborough.

MR. BLEZARD'S RECORD.

WE continue Mr. Blezard's record in the Legislature.

On Feb. 1, 1886, as we have already described, Mr. Meredith moved to add to the recognition, in the Address, of the services of our volunteers, a similar tribute to the permanent forces of Canada and the volunteers of other Provinces, to which Mr. Sol. White proposed to add an appeal for mercy for the rebels still in prison, now that their leaders were justly punished, and the supremacy of the law had been vindicated and maintained.

Mr. Blezard, as we have seen, voted against this and in favor of Mr. Fraser's amendment refusing to acknowledge that the rebel leaders had received just punishment, or that it had vindicated and maintained the supremacy of the law.

On March 12, 1886, Mr. Meredith moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Registry Act, by giving the power of appointing the Registrars to the County Councils.

Mr. Blezard voted against enabling County Councils to appoint Registrars paid by the fees of the people, and in favor of leaving the patronage to Mr. Mowat for partizan purposes.

On March 23rd, Mr. Fell moved, in amendment to the third reading of the County of Haliburton Bill, to provide for the appointment of the gaoler of the district by the County Council instead of by the County Judge.

Mr. Blezard of course voted against giving any power or patronage to a Municipal Council.

On the same day Mr. Creighton moved in amendment to the third reading of the Liquor License Bill to express regret that no portion of the additional license money was to be received by the municipalities, but that the whole was to be applied exclusively to the use of the Province.

Mr. Blezard voted against this and in approval of Mr. Mowat grabbing any funds he could from the municipalities in order to make both ends meet in his extravagant financing of the Province.

Mr. Blezard voted in favor of retaining this limitation in regard to these railways.

On the same day on the third reading of the Franchise and Representation Bill Mr. Meredith moved to add a clause to count the value of board or lodging furnished in lieu of wages as part of the amount entitling a wage-earner to the franchise.

Mr. Blezard voted against it, refusing to do this justice to the wage-earner.

On March 24th, Mr. Meredith moved in amendment to the third reading of a Bill to amend the Municipal Act by striking out the sections imposing on county councils the duty of maintaining bridges crossing rivers over 100 feet wide within the limits of towns not separated from the county and connecting any highway leading through the county.

Mr. Blezard voted to leave such burdens on the Counties.

Then Mr. Meredith moved another amendment to allow a voter, not entitled to vote in the constituency where he resides, to vote in the constituency where he had a qualification.

Mr. Blezard voted to disfranchise these people, perhaps for a change of residence from Peterborough to Ashburnham or vice versa.

Then Mr. Kerr moved that "occupant" should include a person living with and maintained by his son or other person in consideration of giving up the property to him.

Mr. Blezard voted against this and refused to allow the franchise to an old farmer who should convey his farm to his son, reserving a maintenance for himself.

On the same day Mr. Meredith moved in amendment to the third reading of the compensation to Workmen Bill, to omit Section 17, limiting the application of the act in the case of certain railways.

On the same day, March 24th, Mr. Meredith moved in amendment to the Division Courts Bill, that the powers of appointing or altering the Divisions should be vested in the County Councils.

Mr. Blezard of course voted against giving County Councils any such voice in managing the local affairs of their constituents.

We may observe that between these two divisions on the 24th of March in which Mr. Blezard took part, there were several others at which he did not find it convenient to be present. He thus lost the opportunity of voting with Mr. Meredith and Mr. Carnegie to strike out the item of 1,400 for cost of the East Simcoe Returning Officer, costs incurred by his own neglect of duty, really saving Mr. Drury's pocket, and which the country should not be called upon to pay. He also lost the opportunity of voting with the Opposition against the expenditure of $18,800 for immigration in the year now so near its end. He also lost the opportunity of supporting Mr. Meredith's motion that the House, while always prepared to deal liberally with the settlers in the outlying districts, disapproved of the practice of expending, without any appropriation by the House, large sums of money for colonization road purposes in constituencies in which there were elections, as infringing on the prorogative of the House, being calculated to endanger the purity of elections and being otherwise objectionable.

If Mr. Blezard had been very anxious to vote against these grave wrongs committed by the Administration he could surely have done so, since he was in the House both before and afterwards. But, perhaps Mr. Blezard was afraid to place himself on record before his constituents as voting for such abuses, yet dare not vote against the offending Administration.

We have thus traced the more important votes given by Mr. Blezard in the three years since the electors of East Peterborough entrusted him with the duty of representing them. The record may be satisfactory to Mr. Mowat, who may value such a servile follower. We are sure that it will not be satisfactory to any of Mr. Blezard's constituents, whether Conservatives or Reformers, who may take the trouble to consider it.

THE Toronto World says:—

"The Telegram had an excellent picture of Riel on Saturday, but by a typographical error the name of Mr. Laurier was appended thereto."

Well, we know on the authority of Laurier, whatever that is worth, that he is Riel's brother. Perhaps they were twins. Or perhaps it is only the moral resemblance shining out through the flesh.

On account of my Extremely Low Prices some people are very skeptical, and desining dealers will tell them that my goods are shoddy, etc., etc. Well, be that as it may, I only ask the public to praise as they prove me, and in the face of this I boldly make the assertion that my stock for SUPERIORITY IN TEXTURE and MAKE SURPASSES anything in the County of Peterborough, and is only equalled by one store in Toronto, and surpassed by none in Canada. I defy any man to contradict this and prove the assertion. If they do, I will forfeit $1,000. Remember, by One Price and Square Dealing to ALL, I will ascend the Ladder of Fame, and as I do, I assure those who help me, that I never wish to meet them coming down. What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

"What is an epistle?" asked a Sunday School teacher of her class. "The wife of an apostle," replied the young hopeful.

Many people take no care of their money until they have come nearly to the end of it, and others do the same with their time.

It doesn't tire a man half so much to saw a cord of wood as it does to nurse a baby for an hour while it's mother's away.

"What are you writing such a big hand for Pat?" "Why, you see, my grandmother is deaf, an' I'm writing a loud letter to her!"

Marketman:—"Why did you return that pair of fowls yesterday?" Customer:—"Because I thought you had better send them to a home for aged couples."

"What makes you love me?" asked a young mother of her little daughter. "I don't know, mamma," was the reply; "but I fink it is because I have known you so long.

"I am willing to give a young man a start in life," said old Hunks, as he kicked Jones out of the door, "but I don't consider my daughter a chromo to be thrown into the bargain."

Not wisely, but too well. "What's home rule John," asked his wife at tea, "that the papers talk of so?" John looked as sad as he could be and groaned in utter misery, "I wish I didn't know."

A Sharp Railway Run.

The capacity of the iron horse for covering space has just been successfully tested, the occasion being an incident in connection with the visit of Prince William of Prussia to the Czar during the recent manœuvres in Poland. The day before the arrival of the Prince, about four o'clock in the afternoon, Czar Alexander, who had already arrived at Brest Litovsk, ordered his valet to get his Prussian uniform ready for the next day. "But, your Majesty," the valet replied tremblingly, "we have no Prussian uniform here; your Majesty ordered me to leave it behind at St. Petersburg." "Most vexing misunderstanding," the Emperor exclaimed and called the aide-de-camp on duty. "My Prussian uniform must be here at 7 to-morrow morning," was the preremptory order of the Czar. The adjutant bowed and retired. Two minutes later he sent a telegram to the Imperial wardrobe office at St. Petersburg, and another to the Warsaw Railway. At six o'clock in the evening a locomotive was ready to start from St. Petersburg. An Imperial courier with a trunk containing the uniform mounted the engine, and the race against time began. Relay locomotives were held in readiness at Dunaburg and Wilna to take up the courier and continue the run, as no single engine could have made a continuous run of such a length. The iron horses accomplished the task assigned to them, and, to use a sporting phrase, "came up smiling," or rather puffing. At 7 o'clock in the morning the uniform was at Brest-Litovsk. The courier had performed 539 miles in 13 hours, or 45½ miles an hour without a rest. At eight o'clock Prince William arrived at Brest-Litovsk, and the Czar received him in his Prussian uniform. —Iron.

Walking on Water.

NIAGARA, Ont., Dec. 13.—Alphonso King, a young Frenchman, recently accepted a bet of $3,000 that he could walk across the Niagara River, a distance of 180 feet, in a pair of shoes of his own invention. Yesterday forenoon, accompanied by a few friends, he went down to the ferry landing and prepared for the trip. The shoes used are shaped like a fish, and are thirty-two inches long by eight inches wide. They are provided on the bottom with paddles, which are made so as to take a smooth surface when the foot is pushed forward. Three men in a boat went along to assist King by the whirlpools. King moved along all right for a third of the way, when he struck a swift current and was thrown forward on his face. Those who witnessed the feat are of opinion that the shoes could be made practicable in ordinary water.

A WONDERFUL REMEDY.

The value of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, in the protection it affords from the dangers of pulmonary disorders, cannot be overestimated. Mr. C. K. Philips, Pittsburg, Pa., writes: "About three years ago I had severe Laryngitis, which resulted in chronic hoarseness. By the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral I have since entirely regained my health." Mr. Henry Russell, Excelsior Printing Co., New York, writes: "Influenza became epidemic in my neighborhood. Several members of my family suffered severely with it, all of whom took Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and were cured by it in a few days. It is a wonderful medicine for Influenza. Too much cannot be said in its favor."

E. M. Sargent, 41 Andover st., Lowell, Mass., says: "I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral about the year 1842, as a family medicine, for Coughs and Colds, and have always kept it in my house since that time. I consider it the best remedy that can be had for these complaints." Dr. J. B. Robertson, Clayton, N. C., writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, in my family and practice, for a number of years, and have no hesitation in recommending it. It is an admirable preparation, and well-qualified to do all that is claimed for it." E. J. Styers, Germanton, N. C., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the best Cough preparation I ever saw. It gives instant relief."

has cured a Cough in a few doses. It always relieves irritation of the lungs or throat, and arrests the tendency to inflammation. It strikes at the foundation of all Pulmonary diseases, is without a rival as an expectorant, and is a sure cure for the most obstinate Coughs and Colds. L. Garrett, Texana, Texas, writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twenty years. For throat and lung diseases, I consider it a wonderful remedy."

P. Clementi-Smith, of Cuddesdon College, formerly curate of St. Paul's, Brighton, in succession to the late Rev. C. F. Chase.

Christmas.

The near approach of the Christmas season is heralded with delight by old and young alike. The changes that are ever coming to the Christian world does not alter the love of all for this merry season, 'Xmas. Springtime, with its buds and blossoms, singing birds and bright warm sunshine, has its delights; summer, with its sweet and flagrant flowers, ripe and juicy fruits and green clad hills, has its charms; autumn, the season that constantly reminds one of the flight of Time, with its falling leaves and fading flowers, has also its charms; but Christmas tide, the season of family reunions—when loved ones from afar oft send greetings to dear friends who are divided from them by thousands of miles of land and water—and the season that gladens the hearts of the little ones that play around the home fireside—this is the one season of the year that is truly beloved by all. Let old and young join in making the season of 1886 a time of rejoicing, and let "Peace on earth, good will toward men," take the place of any envious and uncharitable thoughts that may have stolen into your hearts since last 'Xmas. "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all" is the wish of McNeil, Habiliment Hall.

A MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

FOUR HUNDRED CHILDREN SINGING GLEEFUL CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

The Opera House Crowded to the Doors—The Receipts to go Towards the Purchase of Christmas Presents for the Children—The Performance to be Repeated on Saturday Afternoon.

At eight o,clock on Monday night the gas light shone cheerily on four hundred merry faces in Bradburn's Opera House, and great interest was expressed on about a thousand more. The public school children, who have been under Mr. Seward's training for the last month or more, were seated on the stage and some in the north end of the gallery. The girls, dressed in white, occupied the tier of seats stretching back and rd from the front of the stage. The b were ranged in the north end of the gallery and the west end of the stage, These choral singers numbered considerably over four hundred. In front of the stag Mr. Seward sometimes stood, and sometimes sat at the piano in directing the choruses, and behind him, in the first row of the reserved seats, twenty one men blowing twenty-one brass and silver and reed instruments, were seated.

The first grand chorus was the well-known hymn, "Onward Christain Soldiers." The strength and freshness of the chorus, accompanied by the band, was perfectly inspiring.

A duet "Star of the Twilight" was sung very nicely by Miss Ida Hill and Miss J. Wood, the whole four hundred joining in the chorus with grand effect.

In "Sing for Joy on Chistmas Morn." all sang from beginning to end.

"Little acts of Kindness" was given in a very pleasing manner.

"Let the Little Ones Rejoice" was a song and chorus. Mrs. Seward took the solo.

"Hark! the Alpine Hunter's Horn" met with great favor with the audience. The carol runs thus:

Hark! the Alpine hunter's horn,
Tra la la tra la la,
Wakes the echoes at the dawn,
Tra la la la la,
Following fast and following far,
Thro' the icy mountain air,
Tra la la la la la la, tra la la, tra la la, tra la la la la la,
Tra la la la la la.

And as the children finish the hunter's horn sounds a sivery echo.

In response to an encore the last verse was repeated.

"Home from the Woodland," was a quartette and chorus, Misses R. Irwin, L. Cunningham, A. Charman and R. Fox taking the first part.

One of the prettiest pieces on the programme was the solo and chorus, "Who is He?" Mrs. Seward was the soloist. It resembled antiphonal singing. It opens with the solo:

"Who is he in yonder stall,
At whose feet the shepherds fall?"
And then the four hundred reply:
"'Tis the Lord, oh, wondrous story,
'Tis the Lord, the King of Glory;
At His feet we humbly fall,
Crown Him, crown Him, Lord of all."

"Mid Pleasures and Palaces," a sextette and chorus, was also happily rendered. Misses A. Sproule, D. Sproule, M. Stevens, L. Rombough, M. McFarlane, and K. Phillips took the former.

But the number which brought down the house was that in which the boys were the chief figures: J. Cavanagh, C. King, W. Bowman, J. Coulter, E. Brown, A. Elliott and A. Bell. The first verse and chorus is sung, and then comes the whistling chorus in which all the boys joined. The audience clamoured for a repetition, which the boys gave with the gracefulness of lads in their teens.

Mr. SEWARD said a few words to the audience. He wanted the people of this city to come out of their shells, take an interest in their boys and teach them music. They would then prevent them from being little savages. (Laughter.) Most boys were forbidden by nature to have a good voice. But all had lungs, and could make them strong, as well as developing a taste for music, by learning to play some brass instrument. He wanted the people of Peterborough to take an interest in their band and sustain it.

Mr. A. P. POUSSETTE, after a few eulogistic remarks as to the manner in which Mr. Seward had brought the children forward in choral singing in such a short time, proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Seward, the children and the band, for the very interesting entertainment given to the people of this town. It was carried with applause.

Mr. POUSSETTE proposed that the performance be repeated on Saturday afternoon. The children consented to come and the audience approved of the idea by a standing vote.

Mr. Seward consented to give a repetition on that day, but on further consideration he has decided not to give it till some time in January.

The proceedings closed with the singing of the National Anthem by the children and the audience.

Mr. Seward deserves credit for this undertaking. It was at the risk of losing a good deal, with nothing to gain, that he undertook to give the festival. It must be gratifying to him to find that the people attended in such large numbers on such a disagreeable night. The receipts, over and above expenses, go toward the purchase of Christmas presents for the children.

Temperature.

The thermometer readings to-day at the hours mentioned were as follows:—8 o'clock a. m., 20 above zero; 1 o'clock p.m., 30 above zero; 3 o'clock, p. m., 30 above zero.

THE BAZAAR.

Now Going on in Bradburn's Opera House.

The bazaar under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of St. John's Church announced some time ago, was opened this morning in Bradburn's Opera House.

The attendance this forenoon was fairly large and the scales were proportionate. The seats have been cleared away and in their places the various tables stand covered with an infinite number of articles of all sorts, shapes and sizes.

Along the south side there is one long table containing plain and fancy goods and Christmas cards, it is in the charge of Mrs. Jemison and Mrs. Foote. Up the west side, half way along the hall, the young ladies have their department. It is presided over by Miss Barlee, Miss Archer and Miss Beck. Another fancy goods table is presided over by Mrs Hammondand Miss Toker. The cheif articles in this department consist of painted ware, fancy work and carving in wood. Along the north side of the hall there are two tables; one in charge of Miss Halliday and Miss Pearce and the other in charge of Miss Ferguson, Mrs. Clementi and Mrs. McDonald.

The refreshment tables are in very capable hands. They are in charge of Mrs. Mills, Miss Quinn, Miss Mills, Miss Perry, Miss Goddard, Miss Ward, Miss Mildred Beck, Miss Wrighton, Miss Stevenson, Miss Dumble. Miss Snider, Mrs. Sherwood, Miss Carnegie, Miss Hall, Miss Stapleton, Miss Bingham, Mrs. Rubidge and Miss F. Stevenson. The bazaar will be open this evening, to-morrow and to-morrow evening.

A Social.

The ladies of the Charlotte street Methodist Church will hold a social on Tuesday evening, December 14th. The Rev. J. H. Starr and others will deliver addresses. A good musical programme will be provided Tea will be served in the school room from 6 to 8 o'clock. Admission 25 cents.

Runaway.

This afternoon, at three o'clock, Mr. Hooton, of Cavan, had his horse scared on Simcoe street by a stock of sheep skins on the sidewalk. By a sudden plunge of the horse he was thrown out and the buggy passed over him. The horse ran down to George street, around the corner and went on toward the park. He was caught by Mr. Wm. Hoskins and restored to the owner who, though covered with dirt, was in no way injured.

A Sad Bereavement.

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—"The second wife of Mr. Jas. Yourex, of Thurlow, died in Peterborough on Saturday under distressing circumstances. She was visiting with her father, Mr. Rose, near Peterborough, and when driving to town the horse took fright at an approaching train, which resulted in a serious scare to Mrs. Yourex. Complications set in and she expired on Saturday after a few house of intense agony. The deceased was 31 years of age, and a bride of hardly of a year. Her remains are to be interred at Peterborough on Tuesday."

In Black and White.

Those who feel any interest in our neighboring county, Victoria, may see a curosity if they will take the trouble to call at our office. It is a map of Victoria with the provisional county of Haliburton, as gerrymandered by Mr. Mowat. The long narrow area would naturally called for a division into North and South Ridings, but it has been wantonly cut into two narrow ribbons as East and West Ridings. Omemee and Emily are divorced from Ops and Lindsay, and united with Nightingale a township three tiers north and three east of Minden Dalton and Carden are separated from their neighbors and linked with Ops. The change was plainly made for no public convenience, but for the dishonest purpose of bolstering up Mr. McIntyre, a servile follower of the administration. In this map Mr. Mowat's knavery is plainly shown in black and white.

Our Band.

The admirable manner in which the band rendered their sweet music in the Opera House on Monday evening drew forth exclamations of praise from a great many. Mr. L. Seward, the organist and choirmaster of St. John's Church, (who conducted the musical festival), spoke to the audience eulogizing the band, and calling on the citizens of Peterborough to render them all the assistance possible. Mr. Millar the indefatigable bandmaster deserves great credit for the able manner in which he has conducted this splendid musical organization during the past twelve years, and the members themselves are also deserving of high commendation for the way in which they always render their assistance on occasions of a public nature. The band will soon be on their annual New Year tour again, and it is sincerely to be hoped that they will meet with that favor from our citizens they so richly deserve.

A Significant Incident.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 12.—The Dalhousie Law School has an attendance of forty of the brightest young men in the Maritime Provinces. They have a mock parliament where they discuss constitutional and political questions. For the last three nights repeal was debated. Party lines are evenly divided, but the Liberals moved amendment after amendment to escape a vote on the main question. These were defeated by narrow votes. When the main question was put the Liberals left in a body, and only one of the forty recorded his vote in favor of secession. This incident shows in what light conscientious young men, trained by eminent teachers, regard the political trick of Fielding and his fellow national assassins.

A Philanthropist Dying.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Catherine L. Wolff, the philanthropist, was thought to be dying last night.

CANADA'S WATER WAYS.

Further Deepening of the Welland Canal Locks Suggested.

OTTAWA, Dec. 13.—A prominent gentleman who is considerably interested in the water-carrying trade of Canada, stated to-day that while the Government works on the Welland canal were a great improvement over the old system of things, they would yet be found insufficient for the constantly increasing trade going through them. The locks are now being built 270 feet long and 14 feet deep. He thinks they should be 350 feet long and 16 feet deep. This would admit vessels of the largest size, and with a little alteration of the St. Lawrence canal locks would permit of shipment right through to the seaboard from any of the lakes without breaking bulk. Larger vessels are being built on the upper lakes each year in order to handle the increased traffic, and the Department of Railways and Canals is being inundated with enquiries as to the size of the vessels that can go through the locks. The gentleman referred to, who is himself deeply interested, says that if the line he indicated were adopted it would stop the Americans from enlarging the Erie Canal, would send the whole water carrying trade of the north and west through the St. Lawrence, and would prove a national success equal to the Canadian Pacific railway.—Mail.

MR. MOWAT'S PLOT.

A CAMPAIGN pamphlet of over thirty pages is now before us. It is entitled "LE GOUVERNEMENT MOWAT ET SES ADVERSAIRES."—the Mowat Government and its adversaries. It is an authoritative party document, bearing on its title page the words "Toronto: published by the Provincial Reform Association, 1886.

It is in French, and is addressed to the French-Canadians of Ontario. The bulk of it consists of translations of the Reform campaign sheets with all their misrepresentations, but there are some sections added for the express benefit of the French-Canadians. We will quote a few words from the conclusion:—

"Conservateurs Canadiens Francais, le temps est arrive de rompre les vieux liens de parti, pour voter librement suivant les dictees de votre cœur et de votre intelligence. Votez comme vos compatriotes de la Province de Quebec. Votez comme M. M. Bellerose, Trudel, Garneau "(et quinze autres) "et tant d'autres qui veulent le renversement de SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD, de ses COMPLICES ET DE SES VALETS."

We will give the translation, remarking that the emphatic capitals are in the original:—

"French Canadian Conservatives, the time is arrived to break the old party ties, to vote freely according to the dictates of your heart, and of your intelligence. Vote like your compatriots of the Province of Quebec. Vote like Messrs. Bellerose, Trudel, Garneau (and fifteen others), and so many others who desire the overthrow of SIR JOHN MACDONALD, OF HIS ACCOMPLICES AND OF HIS VALETS."

This is the strongest possible proof that Mr. Mowat and his supporters are as deep as Mr. Mercier in the plot to punish Sir John Macdonald and his supporters for daring to administer equal justice. In this Provincial election Mr. Mowat asks for votes, not on Provincial issues, but in behalf of the conspiracy to overturn the Macdonald Administration (including such truly patriotic French Canadians as the Hon. Mr. Chapleau, Sir H. Langevin, and Sir A. Caron), because they would not interfere with the judgment of the law courts on Riel.

Well might Mr. Mowat express sympathy with his fellow conspirator, Mr. Mercier:—

"To Hon. H. Mercier, M. P. P., 88 Berri street :—

"PENETANGUISHENE, Ont., Oct. 16.—Have just received here the joyful news of your great triumph. I congratulate you and all our friends on your important victory. May your premiership be a long one and full of advantage to your Province and the Dominion, and of honor to yourself.

"O. MOWAT,
"Prime Minister of Ontario."

A REBEL MEETING.

Mr. Blake in Queer Company—The Rebel Cry Being Pushed.

UXBRIDGE, Dec. 14.—Messrs. Blake, Laurier and Pacaud addressed a public meeting this evening amid cheers and hisses. Pacaud is the employee of the Mowat Government who reviled the Canadian volunteers as assassins, outragers of women and theives.

DESTROYING EVIDENCE.

How Mr. Pardee Shielded Himself From Mr. Meredith's Charge of Corruption.

SOME of Mr. Pardee's friends are making a boast that Mr. Meredith did not press his charges against Mr. Pardee in regard to his corrupt transactions in the Algoma election.

The truth is that the evidence was destroyed in order to shield Mr. Pardee from the consequences of his criminal conduct.

We will give from the public records some evidence of this guilty concealment.

In the report of the proceedings of the Committee on Public Accounts on March 4, 1884, we find the following:—

"Mr. Meredith moved. That the accounts and vouchers for the following items of expenditure, appearing in the public accounts of 1883, be brought down forthwith for examination by the committee:—

Executive Council and Attorney-General's Department:
Paid for telegrams.....$368 07
Crown Lands' Department:
Paid for telegrams.....532 04
Public Works' Department:
Paid for telegrams.....122 14
Treasury Department:
Paid for telegrams.....160 04
Secretary and Registrar's Department:
.....224 54

"Moved by Hon. Mr. Hardy, seconded by Mr. McCraney, in amendment to the motion, That all after the word that be omitted, and the following substituted:—'The payments for telegraphing in the several Departments of the Attorney-General, Crown Lands, Public Works, Treasury, and Secretary and Registrar be brought down in detail without the names of the parties to whom messages were forwarded or from whom messages were received.'"

The amendment was carried against the Opposition by Mr. Pardee's friends, who knew that there was something so nefarious to hide that they did not dare even to let the names of the senders or recipients of telegrams be disclosed, for fear a clue might be afforded. It would have been right enough tactics for a thieves' lawyer, but was quite out of keeping in the transaction of public business by public servants. We will see presently the necessity for the precaution.

In the report of the Public Accounts Committee on March 15, 1885, we find Capt. Burden, the Commissioner of the Mowat Government in Algoma, under examination, and we will give a few extracts from his voluminous evidence.

"Q. You had some communication with the proprietor of a newspaper?
A. Yes, or rather he had communication with me.
Q. Who was that?
A. Mr. Alexander.
Q. What paper was he proprietor of?
A. The Progress.
Q. Did you make any communication in writing to anyone?
A. No.
Q. Had you any communication with the Commissioner of Crown Lands?
A. I sent a telegram stating that the paper could be had.
Q. Have you now the copy published in the newspapers?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that a correct copy?
A. Yes.

Evidently these were interesting communications, but they were too dangerous for Mr. Pardee to be produced, as the subsequent evidence of Capt. Borden shows:—

"Q. Have you any of the communications which passed between you and the Government?
A. I have no communications but such as are confidential.
Q. Will you produce them?
A. I would not like to produce them.
Q. Do you decline to produce these communications?
A. I would rather not. There is nothing in the communications which I should personally object to being made public.
Q. I would like to know whether you will produce them or not?
A. I haven't them here.
Q. You were subpœnaed to produce them?
A. Nearly all the communications that passed were of a private character. They were private and confidential.
Q. Have you any of the communications which passed between you and the Government here?
A. Yes.
Q. Why haven't you produced all?
A. Because I didn't think you would require confidential communications."

How very innocent, but how very impenetrable was Capt. Burden. But he adopted surer means than withholding evidence—he destroyed it.

"Q. Have you any telegrams received from any member of the Government?
A. No.
Q. What became of them?
A. I tore them up.
Q. Why?
A. Because I didn't think it necessary to keep them.
Q. Don't you think it a singular thing for an officer of the Government to destroy confidential communications with the Government.
A. I did destroy them.
Q. Why.
A. Because I didn't think it necessary to keep them.
Q. Is that the only reason you can give for destroying these papers?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did you destroy some and preserve others?
A. I did not preserve any.
Q. As I understand you, you state that these communications were state documents dealing with your duties as commissioner of the Province of Ontario, and yet you did not think it necessary to preserve them.
A. We were in a delicate position, and necessarily everything that passed between us was of a confidential character.
Q. That was the reason you destroyed them?
A. Yes."

The position was certainly very delicate and we learn from Capt. Burden who were in this delicate position.

"Q. Let us understand who you had communication with?
A. I had communication with Mr. Mowat, and during his absence in England with Mr. Pardee and once or twice with Mr. Hardy.
Q. Written or verbal?
A. Written.
Q. By telegram or letter?
A. I think both."

But in their craving for concealment they did not confine themselves to suppressing incriminating correspondence. Accounts were also mutilated.

"Q. Is that the account furnished by you?
A. Yes.
Q. What has been cut off?
A. I don't know.
Q. You will try and brush up your recollection?
A. It was not cut off by me.
Q. Something has been cut off the account
A. I don't know.
Q. Has anything been cut off that account since your name was written to it?
A. It looks uncommonly like it.
Q. Do you know what was there?
A. No.
Q. Do you know whether it went in that shape to Toronto?
A. I think it just possible that some remarks were made by me and cut off afterwards.
Q. That is your signature?
A. Yes
Q. Evidently a piece has been cut off right through your signature?
A. Yes."

And it is just possible that Mr. Pardee borrowed Mr. Hardy's scissors and relieved himself of the presence of damaging evidence. Later on we find how carefully they prepared for concealment.

"Q. You didn't communicate with the Provincial Secretary?
A. No.
Q. Nor he to you?
A. He sent me a telegram.
Q. What has become of that?
A. I destroyed it.
Q. When was the cypher code agreed on between you and the department?
A. I think we got the cypher book somewhere in July last.
Q. Where was the arrangement made for that code?
A. In the Attorney-General's office.
Q. Before you went?
A. No, after.
Q. How did you become aware of it?
A. I think it was done at my request. I communicated with Mr. Scott, representing the necessity for a cypher code.
Q. By telegram or letter?
A. By letter.
Q. The cypher was agreed upon then?
A. Yes.
Q. What was the name you used?
A. On one occasion "Casino."
Q. On other occasions?
A. Always my own name.
Q. Why in the name of "Casino" on that occasion?
A. I cannot say any particular reason. I remember that Mr. White communicated at the same time.
Q. Was this the telegram about the newspaper proprietor?
A. Yes.
Q. That was the only telegram under that name?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did you use the name?
A. Because we were using this means as a prevention against our telegrams being tampered with in the office."

This craving for secrecy could hardly have been exceeded if prompted by the guiltiest conscience. Now we will see who paid the piper.

"Q. The telegrams you sent from Rat Portage, were they paid for by you or the Department?
A. They were paid for by the Department.
Q. That telegram about the newspaper, was it paid for by you or by the Department?
A. It wasn't paid for by me.
Q. Did you direct it to be charged to the Department?
A. All telegrams were directed to be charged to the Department.
Q. The proprietor of the paper didn't pay for it?
A. Certainly not."

So everything was charged to the Department, but the people paid for it, and for a great deal more in consequence. Yet the people are not allowed to know even the names of the correspondents for whom they paid. One more extract will be enough for the present.

"Q. You have a letter from Mr. Alexander, the proprietor of the paper?
A. Yes.
Q. It had reference to the same matter as your telegram to Mr. Pardee?
A. I have a letter from Mr. Alexander, offering his paper for sale, or rather offering the use of his columns for a certain period during election time.
Q. Have you got that at home?
A. Yes.
Q. Will you produce it?
A. I don't think I have the right.
Q. Will you produce it?
A. Not without the sanction of the writer.
Q. On the ground that Mr. Alexander marked it private?
A. Yes."

There is much that is of interest in the 23 pages of Capt. Burden's evidence, such as particulars as to purchasing newspapers, hiring voters as policemen, and similar methods adopted by Mr. Pardee and his associates to carry the Algoma elections. But we have only given portions showing the care that was observed to leave no evidence. It is a pretty showing, cypher codes, suppressed letters, document destroyed, accounts mutilated, a system more like that of a gang of criminals than the transaction of official business in a civilized country.

Our readers will now understand why they are not allowed to know even the names of the people for whose telegrams they had to pay. A clue might have been given leading to obtaining evidence from some less careful witness than Capt. Burden, and then perhaps Mr. Pardee might no longer be able to crow over the failure of bringing his corrupt dealings in Algoma home to him, because he has destroyed official documents to make himself safe.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1886.

WE WOULD LIKE TO KNOW.

As Mr. Pardee, the Commissioner of Crown Lands, is now stumping our county, and has arranged to address us in town, there are several subjects on which our people would like him to enlighten them. We will put some of them in the shape of questions, in the faint hope that Mr. Pardee may condescend to answer such of them as he does not think it is more prudent for him to let severely alone, and these, of course, he will ignore, with exactly the same effect as when a witness declines to give evidence because he would criminate himself.

1. Why did Mr. Pardee spend more than the appropriation for colonization roads when there was an election on foot, and then cook the public accounts by holding over some items till the next year?

2. Why did Mr Pardee cook the public accounts by calling a village sidewalk a colonization road, and make us all pay for it?

3. Why did Mr. Pardee cook the public accounts by calling a drive to a water fall a colonization road?

4. Why does Mr. Pardee always require more money for the so-called colonization road fund when there is an election than in other years?

5. Why did Mr. Pardee make us pay for telegrams of which he was so ashamed that he obstinately refused to tell even the names of those to whom he sent them or from whom he received them?

6. Why did Mr. Pardee withhold from the late Mr. John Ludgate for many years a timber limit, if his claim was good; and why, if the claim was not good, did he suddenly allow it after all these years had elapsed?

7. Why did Mr. Pardee refuse repeatedly to recognise the claim of the Messrs. Hurdman to certain timber limits, and why did he recognize the very same claim the instant it was transferred to Reform members of the Provincial Legislature?

8. Why did Mr. Pardee give to Mr. Coe, a defeated political friend, large tracts of the public domain on exceptionally easy terms?

9. Why did Mr. Pardee assist Mr. Coe to wrong the municipalities and the settlers of taxes by holding applications of Mr. Coe as good against others, while systematically keeping them in abeyance till somebody else applied, thus saving Mr. Coe from paying taxes?

10. To how many Reform members of the the Provincial Legislature or their companies has Mr. Pardee alienated part of our timber or mineral property either directly or by transfer from others?

11. Why was Mr. Pardee a party to keeping the Factory Act inoperative for more than a year and a half if he thought it constitutional, and why did he vote for it and advise the Lieutenant-Governor to assent to it, if he thought it unconstitutional?

12. Why was Mr. Pardee a party to placing one S. S. Peck on the bench to dispense justice to the people of Haliburton, when he knew that Peck had embezzled large sums of money entrusted by the people of Haliburton to him as County Treasurer?

13. Why was Mr. Pardee a party to giving this Peck a bonus of $500 to get rid of him, when the public feeling against him grew too strong to resist, the money being paid to him (out of our pockets) for six months after he had left his post?

There are many other questions that we would like to put to Mr. Pardee, but as it is these will take some time for him to explain thoroughly, if indeed he is not afraid even to refer to some of them.

A NICE LITTLE ACCOUNT.

By not bringing down the Public Accounts early in the session, by not calling the Public Accounts Committee together until the session is advanced, by frequently preventing a meeting of the Committee on account of a quorum not being present, by refusing a sub-committee to examine papers and only allowing the members of the Committee to examine papers when the Committee is in session, and by holding back accounts from one year to another, the Provincial Government and its friends prevent a thorough examination of the accounts and Provincial expenditure. Yet a thorough investigation would be in the interest of the Province, as the scant opportunities that have been given for examination have shown.

Not long ago the Dominion Government was attacked on account of its expenditure on cab hire, and the sum thus spent was tremendously exaggerated in order to make a point against them. The expenditure of the Provincial Government, however, on cab hire is one to which the attention of these critics is invited. Entries in the Public Accounts for "travelling expenses," "livery hire," "car tickets," "boat hire," etc., are left out of the following calculation, and only entries for cab hire taken. The following is from the Provincial Public Accounts for 1885:—

There is another little account that might bear looking into. In 1885 over $7,000 was distributed among "sundry newspapers," without anything being given in the accounts to show who received the money, in addition to other sums paid to printers where the names are given.

S. S. PECK AND HIS FRIEND.

In the records of the proceedings of the Public Accounts Committee for 1886 we find the following suggestive document:—

"1st April, 1885.

"In the matter of the Stipendary Magistrate of the Provisional County of Haliburton, Mr. Peck, the Stipendary Magistrate having made application for six months leave of absence, and having arranged for the discharge of the duties of the office to the satisfaction of the Government, the undersigned respectfully recommends that one half year's salary be paid him, viz.: six hundred dollars ($600) less the sum of one hundred dollars ($100) to be reserved to pay the travelling expenses of the person who may act in his stead.

"O. MOWAT.

"The Honorable,
"The Treasurer."

This refers to a curious but very discreditable story. This S. S. Peck was, of course, the fraudulent Treasurer of Huliburton County, whom Mr. Mowat placed on the bench to dispense justice to the unfortunate people whom he (S.S.P.) had defrauded. The $500 was a little present made by Mr. Mowat to his disreputable friend while he was giving no return for it, but while he was occupying himself in the the United States on the farm, in which to secure it from his victims he had invested part of the money he had embezzled from the people of Haliburton. In fact S. S. Peck had then virtually abandoned his honorable but disgraced office. It is even probable that Mr. Mowat, finding that the odium of supporting his friend Peck was more than he could bear, gave him this bonus, at our expense, to get rid of him.

In his speech at Toronto, in his efforts to make out that the half-breeds were driven into rebellion by their wrongs, Laurier spoke as follows:—

"You may ask me, 'what were the grievances of the Halfbreeds?' 'What had they to complain of?' 'What were they asking for?' simply this. They were asking to be treated in the same manner that the Halfbreeds of Manitoba had been treated, and nothing more, and nothing less. The Halfbreeds of Manitoba had been given titles for the lands which they occupied. The Halfbreeds of the Northwest demanded the same thing. The Halfbreeds of Manitoba had been given a special grant of land for what we call the extinguishment of the Indian title: the Halfbreeds of the Northwest demanded the same thing."

Now a more deliberate suggestion of falsehood was never uttered. Riel himself, the members of his council and his principal lieutenants, with the single exception of Gabriel Dumont, were not Northwest Halfbreeds, but Manitoban Halfbreeds, who had already received their land and scrip to extinguish the Indian title. If therefore they rose to obtain such rights, they rose to swindle the people of Canada, by fraudulently exacting their claim a second time.

THE advocates of rebellion are repeating with glee a saying of Lord Chatham in the time of the war of independance. "If I were an American, as I am an Englishman, while a foreign troop remained in the country I never would lay down my arms." If they go to old world history they should give it correctly. By "foreign troops" Lord Chatham was referring to the hated Hessians, German mercenaries, who, in the fashion of those days, were employed by the British Government. It will be news to our Peterborough volunteers that they were to be regarded as foreign mercenaries while serving in the Northwest.

AMONG the expenses caused by the rebellion—expenses which the Rielites condemn so bitterly—there is one item, as appears by the public accounts, consisting of a pension to Mrs. Delany, the widow of the faithful official murdered at his post by the Rielites, who also shot down across his body the devoted priest Father Fafard, who was taking his dying confession. And the murdered man is slandered by the Rielite Cameron—the memory of the martyred priest is insulted by the advocacy of the rebels by the Rielite Laurier.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

A BAKING POWDER MATTER.

MORE OF THE ALBANY NEWSPAPER INVESTIGATION.

The "Journal" Re-affirms and Emphasizes the Facts—Plain Talk from Prof. Tucker—His Opinion on Amonia and Bread Risers Generally.

The Albany, N. Y., Journal some time since published an interesting report upon the subject of baking powders, in which it gave the results of some tests of an elaborate character made for the purpose of determining the question of which is the best and wholesomest of these articles. The analysis and tests required were undertaken by Professors W. G. Tucker, of the Albany Medical College, and W. P. Mason, of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute of Troy, chemists of the highest standing and reputation, well known for their extended and valuable services as public analysts. Messrs. Tucker & Mason, the Journal stated, had been directed to procure from dealers in Albany and Troy packages of baking powder, and to analyze and critically examine them, and to make their reports of facts found entirely without bias or favor.

The report proved a matter of interest and importance, and was widely copied and commented upon. From the facts presented housekeepers had no difficulty in determining for themselves the best and most wholesome baking powder to use. The Journal, its facts having been questioned by a local baking powder manufacturer, returns to the subject and publishes the following interesting interview with Prof. Tucker. The facts before stated are reaffirmed and emphasized in the most breezy manner:

A Journal reporter recently visited Prof. Tucker for the purpose of gaining further information in reference to the baking powder question. He was found in the extensive laboratory of the Medical College, hard at work, but good-naturedly submitted to an inquisitorial interview, the substance of which, here given, will be found of interest.

"Doctor," said the reporter, "it appears that one of our local baking powder manufacturers attempts to discredit the report some time ago published in the Journal with reference to baking powders, for which the analytical examinations were made by yourself and Prof. Mason. Were your analysis and opinion printed correctly?"

"They were," replied Prof. Tucker, "literally."

"Is there any part of the report, or of your views expressed therein, that you would modify?"

"Not a word. My examination was most carefully and accurately made; the deductions drawn from the tests were the inevitable ones, and the opinions I expressed were unquestionably correct."

"You say, Doctor, that the Royal baking powder is superior to any other baking powder which you have examined?"

"That is my report."

"Have you examined many other baking powders?"

"Quite a number."

"Wherein, Doctor, consists this superiority which you find in the Royal over other brands?"

"As stated in my report, in the great purity of its ingredients, in the unquestioned propriety and wholesomeness of those ingredients, in the exact proportions of the same, and the chemical accuracy and skill with which they have been combined. As I said before, it is, I believe, a baking powder 'unequaled for purity, strength and wholesomeness.'"

"Doctor, the Journal's lady readers would like you to inform them what are the peculiar virtues of a good baking powder over other and more old-fashioned methods of raising bread, biscuit and cake?"

"I'h it would require a long answer, something in the nature of a lecture. Briefly, however, the advantage of such a baking powder over yeast consists in the quicker work it accomplishes, in the preservation of some of the best elements of the flour which are destroyed in the production of the carbonic acid gas by the use of yeast, and in the absolute certainty of sweet, light and digestible food. Over other methods for quick raising, the merits of a pure baking powder are great. It is always ready for use, the acid and alkali are combined in exact proportions to produce definite results, or to render the largest amount of leavening gas and leave nothing more than a natural residum, which is not the result where cream of tartar and soda are bought separately and mixed in the kitchen, for it will always occur where this is done that one or the other of these substances will predominate, making the food yellow, heavy, bitter and unwholesome. Besides, the cream of tartar which can be procured by the housekeeper is mostly adulterated, adding to the uncertainty of the results or the unwholesomeness of the food. All these difficulties are avoided in the use of a pure, properly-made baking powder."

"Will baking powders keep? How long will they hold their strength?"

"If properly made, until used. A perfect baking powder must combine superlative strength with power to retain it indefinitely. Baking powders generally are robbed of the necessary preserving agent in order to give present strength, or else have their efficiency largely destroyed by the addition of large quantities of flour to prevent premature decomposition. The method by which both these qualities are retained in the highest degree produces the perfect article, and this, I believe, is fully accomplished in the Royal baking powder. I have seen an analysis of a baking powder which showed 21 per cent. of Rochelle salts. The baking powder was not fresh, and because of the improper manner in which it had been made the ingredients had combined, forming the purgative salt. I give this as an illustration of those baking powders whose keeping qualities are sacrificed to present strength. How to get both strength and keeping quality is the secret of baking powder success."

"Doctor, what about ammonia in baking powder?"

"Sesqui-carbonate of ammonia is sometimes used in the higher class of baking powder."

"Is it injurious or objectionable?"

"Nonsense! Quite the contrary. It has been used for generations in the finest food. It is a very volatile agent. Heat entirely evolves it into gas, leaving no residuum. Were it used in sufficient quantity to do the entire work of aeration, I am inclined to believe it would be the acme of leavening agents. Some of the highest authorities, as Hassal, recommend its exclusive use for this purpose in preference to yeast or other kinds of leaven. It is universally admitted to be a wholesome and valuable agent, and no chemist of reputation will class it otherwise. I have become indignant when I have read the silly charges that have frequently been made through ignorance or otherwise against it."

"Then those manufacturers who advertise that their powder does not contain it"—

"Confess that their powder lacks a most useful, wholesome and excellent ingredient."

"But they say its origin is filthy?"

"Its origin and method of preparation are no more filthy than are the origin and preparation of bread. All this talk about amonia in baking powder and its filthy origin is the veriest rubbish. A man disgraces himself when he lends himself to any such statements. It is particularly unfair for baking powder manufacturers to seek to pervert the truth, or prejudice the ignorant or unwary by statements that it is either harmful or dirty. Ammonia exists in the very air we breathe, and is largely present in nature as a wholesome substance."

The Planter's Wife.

The Port Hope Times of Dec. 10th contains the following:—"The audience at the Opera House last evening was larger than that of any previous evening. The performance was the best that has yet been given. In fact there appears to be no limit to the talents of Mr. Woodward's company. Each succeeding night they give more excellent entertainments than before. The Planter's Wife, the melo-drama presented last night, is a very strong play. The appearance of Mr. Woodward, as "Simeon Simcoe," an embryo author, was the signal for applause and laughter. His song, "The Accenton," was greeted with a storm of applause, and three times was he recalled. If Mr. Woodward does not in future favor the audiences with his imitable songs, he will have the hall pulled down about his ears. Miss Lindeman, as "Edith Gray," touched the hearts of the audience and gained the sympathies for her in her persecutions. Mr. Julian Magnus, as "Col. Albert Graham," was very good, and the support eminently clever. The personation by Miss Amy Stratton of "Angie Gordon," too young to have a Beau, marks that young lady as being possessed of abilities of more than ordinary merit. Her song, "I'm getting a big girl now," was received with hearty applause." This company will open a two weeks engagement in Bradburn's Opera House in a few days.

SONS OF ENGLISHMEN.

THEY MEET TOGETHER TO DISCUSS THEIR ANNUAL DINNER.

Tales of English, Irish and Scotch Glory—The Mayor in Replying to "Municipal Institutions," Makes a Promise.

On Tuesday evening the members of the Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, held their annual dinner at Snowden's Hotel. The dining room was very handsomely and appropriately decorated. The walls were nearly hidden with union jacks and mottoes worked in evergreens. Overhead hung festoons of red, white and blue bunting. About fifty Englishmen seated themselves around the board with Bro. Brundrette, the President, at the head of it, and Bro. Gunn, past President, at the opposite end. The President had to his right Bro. Clayton, the Right Worthy Grand Presidedt of the Order.

Bro. Richardson asked the blessing.

After the removal of the cloth the President addressed the assembly. He referred to the various benefit societies in existence here, all having one object in the main, relieving the sick and distressed, comforting the widow, educating the orphan, and raising the moral status of men. For these reasons these societies should be held in high estimation by the public, and he was glad that this was the case here and that they had the good will of the people. Though the Sons of England membership was confined to one nationality they did not hesitate to help those in distress, belong they to whatever nationality they might. (Applause.) For the reason of the membership being confined to but one nationality it might seem that they must have difficulty in getting members. Nevertheless the lodge had grown steadily and they now had 140 members. Since the Order was established, three years ago, $1,400 has been paid out in giving relief to the sick. Lansdowne Lodge had paid amounts between $600 and $700. No one could deny that this was a great blessing to those who were relieved.

The chairman proposed the first toast, "The Queen of England," "God Save the Queen" was sung.

Mr. A. Clegg then read the following resolution:—"Resolved that we, as British subjects, and especially as Sons of England, here meet to celebrate our anniversary and to keep alive memories of Old England, and to, if possible, fan the flame of patriotism into new life, desire to express our affection and continued devotion to our beloved Queen, Victoria the Good, and also to express our continued loyalty and attachment to the British Crown and constitution.

The "Prince and Princess of Wales and members of the Royal Family" was next proposed.

Bro. Turner sang "The Slave Ship."

"The Army and Navy" came next. The company sang "For they are Jolly Good Fellows."

Bro. Gunn sang "When I Saw Sweet Nellie Home."

The GRAND PRESIDENT said some one had said he was not an Englishman because he was born in Yorkshire, 9 miles the other side of England. (Laughter.) Nevertheless he took a pride in his nation. It had been said that the old glory had gone from British arms and that the valor displayed at Waterloo was no more. He had a different opinion. He thought the march before the battle of Tel el Kebir required more moral courage in a soldier than to make the charge before sunrise. (Hear, hear.) Imagine the soldier in a strange country. Conversation with his comrades is forbidden; no sound comes from them but the low monotony of the march. Full well they know that some of them must soon be knocked from the muster roll. Their thoughts would naturally turn back to their boyhood days and to the far away home. It required, indeed, great courage. He thought everyone would bear him out in saying that the English, united with the Irish and Scotch, had as much pluck and endurance as their forefathers ever had. He could also refer to the sons of English, Irish and Scotch here in Canada. The toilsome marches through the Northwest and the valor of the men only proved them worthy sons of worthy sires. (Hear, hear.) And if they were called on they would go again. (Applause.)

The Grand President then sang the "Red, White and Blue."

Bro. RUNDELL, who had a hand in opposing the Fenian raid, gave an instance of the readiness of Canadians. Out of a company of 65 men, non-commissioned officers, and officers, then commanded by Col. Williams, 64 answered to the roll call when the company were ordered out. The other man was sick, but inside of three weeks he was also to the front. He believed that a truer man or braver soldier than Col. Williams never lived.

The PRESIDENT said it was not only English soldiers which brought glory to the British arms. The Irish and Scotch were always in the battle side by side with the English. During the Crimean war it was the men in the kilts that frightened the Russians so badly. But if the Scotch were glorious in war, they were also glorious in song. He called on Mr. Galletly.

Mr. Galletly sang "The Battle of the Baltic."

Mr. T. D. M. CROLY, in replying for the Irish, referred to the prominent part the Irish always played in the British army, and particularly to their good service at Waterloo.

"Our Most Worthy Grand President" was the next toast."

Bro. CLAYTON in his reply said the executive always paid their bills monthly. The Order was in no debt. The prompt payment of bills when presented was an example which all might follow with profit. The Order was progressing. During the last term lodges had been opened in London, Bracebridge, Montreal and Dundas. Together with the Foresters they were trying to get an act passed called the "Friendly Act." All benevolent societies would reap a benefit if it was passed. An actuary would be appointed to examine the finances of societies and to pronounce upon them, so as to assure the people they were upon a sound basis. An arrangement was being made as to affiliation with the St. George's Society of the United States, a body of between 40,000 and 50,000 members. It would be a great benefit if such an arrangement could be come to. Their beneficiary was now working finely and the rate was very low. At the first death which occurred the window received the insurance money within ten days. He referred to the great strides the Order was making.

Mayor STEVENSON entered the room. He was received with applause.

The Grand President continued, dwelling at some length upon the friendly relations existing between English, Irish and Scotch societies.

Bro. WHITTIKER sang "The girl that I call mine."

"Our Sister Societies" were next toasted.

Mr. COCKS, of Court Little John, responded briefly, owing to his having a bad cold he could not reply in the usual manner.

Bro. J. FRASER, of Court Peterborough, complimented Lansdowne Lodge on its rapid growth in members. He explained the working of the order to which he belonged. One point of importance he brought out was that the Foresters reserve fund had grown from $4,000 two years ago to $23,000 at present.

Mr. T. WORKMAN on behalf of the Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows stated during his speech that there were now 208 lodges of Oddfellows throughout Ontario with a total membership of $14,742. In relief and death rates they were paying out money at the rate of $80.60 a day.

Mr. A CLEGG, in behalf of the A. O. U. W., gave some statistics. The main object of their order was to provide for deceased brethren's families. In their insurance plan no member could be called on to pay more than $7 per year for $1,000 insurance and most of the time it was much less. They were now 12,000 throughout Ontario. During their short existence $316,000 had been paid out in this way. Last year $168,000 was paid out. $4,000 was paid in Peterborough.

Mr. D. D. Galletly, of St. Andrew's Society, concluded his remarks confident that although there appeared rifts in the clouds in the Empire's horizon just now, all would be cleared away and that the three countries would be bound closer together than ever.

Mr. Galletly sang "Scotland yet."

Mr. CROLY in behalf of the Orange Order, firmly believed in the great good his order had done. As far Gladstone's bill is concerned he opposed it because he thought it tantamount to separation. However he hoped that the wisdom of statesmanship would devise means of relieving Ireland from its present unhappiness.

"Our Civic Institutions" was proposed.

Mayor STEVENSON apologised for his coming so late. An invitation had come to him, but he had not opened the letter till just before he came. When he found out what it was he put on his coat and came over. He was an Irishman, but at the same time would not yield to anyone in his love for England. If ever he crossed the sea he would visit both countries. Referring to the corporation, he said that he felt a deep interest in the prosperity of Peterborough. It had always been his aim to build up Peterborough. In his position he had something to do with charity as well as the societies, and he would say, not in the spirit of boasting, that no deserving one applying for relief was turned away. (Applause and cries of "that's so.") A good many were complaining of the high taxes this year. The rate had been struck a little too high and the consequence was that the corporation had a good "reserve fund." He could promise the ratepayers that their rate would not be higher than 12 mills on the dollar next year, even if the same Councillors were in. He only hoped that the people would send back as good Councillors. The town was free of debt. Every liability was fully provided for.

Councillor RUTHERFORD who has seen twenty one years of service in the council, said that he came here thirty-five years ago and had been since helping, in his own way, to build up Peterborough. For a long time the town had been governed wisely and well and it remained for the people to say whether or not Peterborough had not prospered under it. The Mayor had stated that we were out of debt, but there was one good point he omitted. The council had been offered a bonus of $7,500 on their debentures. Peterborough had all the conveniences of modern improvements and withall had not been put into debt to get them. Peterborough was fast progressing and all that was wanted now was the fostering of industries to build Peterborough into a thriving young city. It possessed magnificent priveleges for manufacturers, good water power, unrivalled shipping and distributing facilities, and in fact, everything necessary for the manufacturer.

The GRAND PRESIDENT said that after what the Mayor and Councillor Rutherford said he would carry away a high opinion of Peterborough. If the Mayor of Hamilton announced that the rate would be only 12 mills on the dollar he was sure that not only the Mayor but every alderman would receive a silver tea-set from the people. They paid 19 mills up where he came from.

"The Learned Professions" was responded to by Dr. Pigeon.

Bro. COUCH told a funny story and Bro. Creighton and Whittiker sang songs.

Mr. CROLY proposed "The Officers of Lansdowne Lodge."

The toast was responded to by Bro. Brundrette, Gunn, Brownlee, Waram and Richardson.

Bro Turner and Roberts sang songs.

Bro. COUCH, said that a lot had been said about English Irish and Scotch but not a word about the Welsh. All he knew of the English language he had learned during the last 12 years. He proposed the health of "The Ladies" in the Welsh language.

The toast was drunk amid laughter and applause.

The singing of "God Save the Queen," followed by cheers for the Mayor President and the Physician, brought proceedings to a close.

Christmas.

The near approach of the Christmas season is heralded with delight by old and young alike. The changes that are ever coming to the Christian world does not alter the love of all for this merry season, 'Xmas. Springtime, with its buds and blossoms, singing birds and bright warm sunshine, has its delights; summer, with its sweet and flagrant flowers, ripe and juicy fruits and green clad hills, has its charms; autumn, the season that constantly reminds one of the flight of Time, with its falling leaves and fading flowers, has also its charms; but Christmas tide, the season of family reunions—when loved ones from afar oft send greetings to dear friends who are divided from them by thousands of miles of land and water—and the season that gladens the hearts of the little ones that play around the home fireside—this is the one season of the year that is truly beloved by all. Let old and young join in making the season of 1886 a time of rejoicing, and let "Peace on earth, good will toward men," take the place of any envious and uncharitable thoughts that may have stolen into your hearts since last 'Xmas. "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all" is the wish of McNeil, Habiliment Hall.

FACING THE CHARGE.

WILFRED LAURIER, Privy Councillor of Canada, &c., &c., says that he has come to Ontario to face the charges made against him. If so, instead of talking about all sorts of things except the charges, it would be better to meet them squarely.

Did he or did he not state, in the Province of Quebec, that if he had been on the banks of the Saskatchewan he would have taken his gun and fired it? If he did so state at whom did he mean to fire?

Did he or did he not, in the Province of Quebec, speak of Riel as his brother?

Did he or did he not at the Chambly election say at a public meeting that he would speak only on the Riel question, as it was the great question before them, or words to that effect?

Was he or was he not present at any public meeting when Mr. Chapleau, or other Conservative leader, was silenced by cries of "hangman" or other insults, and if so did he or did he not protest at this absence of "British fair play"?

Having met these specific charges by denying or confessing their truth, the explanations he may wish to give might be in place. But he cannot expect them to be accepted as a substitute for "facing the charges against him" by dealing with them in plain terms. A cloud of words cannot conceal the fact that, although he professes loyalty in Ontario, he is represented, even by the press of his own party, as uttering, advocating and befriending treason in Quebec.

A REVOLUTION.

The Japanese Colony Thrown Off its Allegiance to the Management.

A revolution has taken place in the Japanese Colony which has been the centre of considerable attraction in the city during the past fortnight, and the interesting foreigners have thrown off the yoke of the management and declared their independence. The company was brought to this city by Messrs. Corazzi and Coope, a couple of enterprising Americans, the former of whom was for some time engaged in the Japanese trade. This combination, which has thrown off its allegiance, was part of a large company of Japs which he brought to America to establish an institution similar to the famous Japanese Colony in London. The Japs, who are at present here, were taken to Toronto by Mr. Corazzi at the request of the exhibition committee as an attraction at their fair. Since then they have travelled through Canada, and at Toronto their colony was several times visited by the Governor-General. The management recompensed the colonists by payment of weekly salaries, ranging from $12 to $15, in addition to all expenses. The salaries were a little in arrears and the Japs took advantage of this to break off the engagement, and on Saturday leased premises on their own behalf and intend settling here.—Montreal Star.

A MISSISSIPPI DISASTER.

Steamer Burned to the Water's Edge—Fifty or Sixty Lives Lost.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 14.—The elegant steamer, J. M. White, running between Vicksburg and New Orleans, was burned at an early hour this morning near Baton Rouge, La. Fifty lives were lost.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 14. 11.55 a.m.—The loss of the steamer J. M. White is confirmed. She was burned to the water's edge at 11 o'clock last night while lying at a land near Bayou Sara, La. About sixty lives were lost, mostly women and children. Nearly all of the crew were saved. Among the passengers reported lost is the superintendent of the Vidalia railroad at Natchez, who with his wife and children perished in the disaster. The books of the boat were lost. These meagre details have been received here over the wires of the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas railroad.

The J. M. White was the finest steamer on the Mississippi river. She was en route to New Orleans and had a cargo of cotton on board estimated at not less than 2,000 bales. The surviving passengers and crew were conveyed to New Orleans this morning.

TENNYSON'S NEW VOLUME.

One of Astonishing Power and Expression—Some Extracts.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Tennyson's new volume, appearing this morning, is recognized as one of astonishing power and expression for so old a man. There is internal evidence showing that it must have been written very recently. He calls it "Locksley Hall Sixty Years After." The dramatic monologue, in substance, is a bitter impeachment of the so-called modern spirit of progress. Speaking of old "Locksley Hall," he says:

"Forward rang the voices then, and of the many men was one;
Let us hush this cry of 'Forward' till ten thousand years have gone."

Closing a denunciation of impure literature, he says:

"Do your best to charm the worst, to lower the rising race of men;
Have we risen from out the beast? then back into the beast again."

In conclusion, he recognizes the fact that much of the apparent decadence may be due to the changes written himself, and adds, pathetically:

"Nay, your pardon, cry your 'Forward,' yours are hope and youth, but I—
Eighty winters I have the dog too lame to follow with the cry;
Lame and old and past his time, and passing now into the night,
Yet I would the rising race were half as eager for the light."

MR. BLEZARD'S PLATFORM.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I have just received Mr. Blezard's address, soliciting my vote in his behalf as a supporter of the Mowat Administration. With all due respect to Mr. Blezard as a gentleman, I regard his political position with contempt, believing as I do that Mr. Meredith's policy is more in accordance with the wants of this country.

Mr. Blezard, as an unqualified supporter of the Mowat Government, assumes the responsibility of their acts. I beg leave, therefore, to submit the following questions for his perusal, as well as the electors in general:—

Were the ratepayers of Ontario benefitted in any way by Mr. Mowat's pleasure trip to England, for which he received out of the Provincial Treasury the sum of $10 000?

Was it to the interest of the country that the notorious defaulter Peck, after being rejected by his constituency, was still retained in office by the Mowat Government, being appointed Stipendiary Magistrate whilst on his farm in Dakota which he had purchased with his ill-gotten gains?

Why was the sum of $10,000 given to Mr. Caldwell, who figured in the Streams Bill case, after all expenses had been paid?

Why do Mr. Mowat and his colleagues attempt to control our municipal elections? Of late years the Government officials have figured very prominently in our local affairs at Apsley.

Why has Mr. Mowat been making strenuous efforts to borrow money, if, as Mr. Blezard asserts, they have a surplus of $4,000,000? I think this surplus exists only in Mr. Blezard's imagination. I should want some more substantial proof than Mr. Blezard's word for it. It is most obnoxious to all law-abiding citizens, that Mr. Blezard, who but a short time ago clamoured for Riel's blood, should have mounted the Regina scaffold in order to rescue a murderous rebel from justice.

Mr. Blezard by his vote in the Local Legislature on the Riel question has forfeited the respect of all the upholders of law and order.

Mr. Blezard by his vote upholds and instigates rebellion.

Mr. Blezard and the Mowat Government has spoken, it yet remains for the country to speak.

RICHARD LEAN.

Apsley, December 14th, 1886.

WAR DANCE AT SELWYN.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The Grits had a war dance at Selwyn on Tuesday evening, the 7th. They had the bagpipes for their music. Of course Mr. Bertram was the bag, Mr. Stratton and Mr. Cox the pipes. Mr. Stratton began to pipe first, but could not raise a dance. There were about sixty in the hall, eleven Grit warriors, nine boys and the balance were substantial Tories. Those little warriors were so far apart they were unable to make much of a dance, so when the air that Mr. Stratton got from the bag was all exhausted he sat down, and Mr. Cox began to pipe. When the air that he obtained from the same source was all spent he sat down, but failed to make much music. Next came the bag and contents. We heard the sound of Separate schools in a way to suit certain parties. Some of the warriors seemed to enjoy it, but three of them, after hearing all the music, turned over to the Tory side, and could not enjoy the music any more. However, the bag bursted and there was a little whirlwind of condemnation poured out on Mr. Carnegie, Sir John and a few others, and the ball broke up at a late hour, with a loss to the Grits of three votes.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

INCREDIBLE CHARGES.

LISBON, Dec. 15.—At a meeting of the Geographic Society, yesterday, Mr. King presented to Major Sarah Pinto, the African explorer, the medal of the society. The Major, in a speech, censured the English missionaries at Blantyre station, for importing hand-cuffs with which to terrorize the natives.

MR. BENNETT AND MR. FIELD.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The Court of Appeal to-day rendered a decision in the case of the appeal of Mr. James Gordon Bennett from the award against him of $25,000 in favor of Mr. Cyrus W. Field for libel. The Court of Appeals in its decision sets aside the verdict of the lower Court on the ground that Mr. Bennett is not a British subject and does not reside in Great Britain. The Court holds, therefore, that substituted service in the case was illegal. Mr. Field is condemned to pay costs.

THE FRENCH CABINET.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—M. Goblet has finished the formation of the new Ministry, which is announced as follows:—M. Goblet, President of Council and Minister of the Interior and ad interim Minister of Foreign Affairs; M. Dauphin, Minister of Finance; M. Berthelot, Minister of Instruction; M. Sarrient Minister of Justice; Gen. Boulanger, Minister of War; Admiral Aube, Minister of Marine; M. Granet, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs; M. Lockroy, Minister of Commerce; M. Nieland, Minister of Public Works; M. Develle, Minister of Agriculture.

THE ANTI-RENT CAMPAIGN.

DUBLIN, Dec. 15.—The Freeman's Journal states that the movement led by John Dillon is directed against back rents. The Government is unable to indict him for conspiracy. The Express (Tory) declares that the Government must uphold the law and adds: "Either Dillon or the Government must go down."

JEALOUS OF ENGLAND.

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—The Kreuz-Zeitung says: As a result of the African delimitation conference, England has secured the best route to Victoria Nyanza. From this point of view quite a new aspect is lent to her zeal in preparing for the Emin Bey relief expedition. On the pretence of pursuing a humane purpose the English will immediately show their power in these parts and suddenly take possession of the route leading to the inland lakes.

GERMANY AND RUSSIA.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 15.—The Official Messenger confutes the articles which have recently appeared in the Russian press generally, describing German's attitude as hostile to Russia. The Messenger says: "It is to be regretted that the press has been thus deluded. Owing to their mutual vital interests, the relations between Russia and Germany have become more consolidate. It has been proved by several trials that both powers recognize their relations as important to the welfare of both. Russia firmly intends to respect Germany's special interests, and has reason to be assured that Germany will continue to abstain from any action affecting Russia's dignity or interest which have arisen through Russia's historical relations with her eastern co-religionists. Germany's influence will be exclusively directed to maintain the general peace which Europe needs, and which the Czar and Russian people earnestly desire. The more complicated and critical political affairs are, the more imperative it is to be discuss them calmly and with caution. On this account there is less justification for the precipitate and self-opinionated character of the comments of newspapers whose voices are by no means important in the international relation."

PANIC IN NEW YORK STOCKS.

Money Bid up to 50 Per Cent. Per Annum—A Heavy Failure.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—To-day has been a lively one in New York. Stocks have tumbled by leaps and bounds. Bankers are calling in their loans and a very panicky feeling prevails. Our local stock market is also weaker, as the stringency in the New York market is sure to extend here.

Montreal Telegraph and the Canadian Pacific were affected somewhat by the decline. The average fall in New York is from 7 to 13 points, those most effected being N. Y. and N. E., which declined from 67½ last night to 46¼ this morning; Delaware & L., 137 to 131 Man. Ele., 163 to 154; Reading, 42¾ to 32¾; Western Union, 71¾ to 68. Montreal Telegraph in sympathy deopped from 165¾ to 100, and Canadian Pacific was slightly off at 68 to 65. The bears are assisted in their raid by the tightness of the money market, the rate being 50 per cent. This afternoon that the rate became easier, dropping from 50 to 25 per cent.

A SCENE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The scene at the opening of the Stock Exchange this morning was one of the wildest ever witnessed there. For several minutes the entire floor was crowded with knots of brokers yelling from one side to the other, all seemingly bent on selling stocks. Prices dropped with such rapidity as to demoralize the brokers who had been buying, and little heed was paid to factions in making sales.

HEAVY FAILURE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Marks & Co., bankers and brokers, 52 Exchange Place, have failed with liabilities of over a million dollars. Money is now 50 per cent. bid. The panicky feeling continues on the Exchange. Trading is enormous. Nearly three-quarters of a million shares have already changed hands. The weakest stocks are Reading, Richmond and Westpoint, Hocking Valley, Lackawana, Norfolk and Western preferred, Canada Southern, New York Central, Western Union, Lake Shore, St. Paul, Jersey Central and Erie.

2 p.m.—The scene on the floor at this hour, while somewhat animated, has no appearance of a panic.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. have ordered the shipment of $1,000,000 gold from London, and the Seligman's have ordered 5,000,000 francs from Paris.

IN LONDON.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Buying orders were cabled over for heavy blocks of stocks, and helped to sustain Granger and trunk line secretaries. It is understood the movement is the result of a big combination against the bulls which engineered the large advance throughout the list, and trust companies controlled by friends of the "bear" leaders are said to have started the break by calling in loans on Reading.

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNECIE.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1886.

GIVE A HEARING.

We have felt it our duty to speak in severe but appropriate terms of the insult offered to Peterborough by bringing the avowed rebel Laurier to address our loyal people.

We do not fear, therefore, that we will be misunderstood as expressing any approval either of this outrage or him through whom it is offered, when we cad upon all with whom our words have any influence to give him a hearing. It would be hypocrisy to pretend to advise this course out of respect for the man, but we ask our people to do so out of respect for themselves. The loyalty of the people of Peterborough is too well assured to suffer by contact even with a Laurier. Let not even he whose bullies refused freedom of speech to men like the Hon. Mr. Chapleau, drowning his voice with shouts of "hangman," have any ground for pretending that we are afraid to hear him, or are opposed to freedom of speech. It will be the easier to treat him with this silent contempt, if, as at Toronto, he eats his own words, and hoping that we are ignorant of his disloyal ravings in the Province of Quebec, feigns loyalty in Ontario.

No doubt those who are bringing such a man here, in the hope of his giving them political aid, will misrepresent this lenity as approval. No doubt after he has made his deceitful speech, widely differing from his denunciations of us in his own Province as bloodthirsty murderers, it will be said "see how different he is from the description we have heard of him." But this is better than any misrepresentation of the fairness of the people of Peterborough. Besides it may be remembered that there are others even more to blame than he is, those who brought him here—he is a stranger to us and to our feelings, but those who know the loyalty and patriotism of our people, might have been expected to spare us such an insult. That, however, can be most fitly resented at the polls. It is not only Conservatives that feel agrieved; if all the Reformers in Peterborough town and county could be polled we are convinced that a majority of them would condemn the bringing of this blatant rebel to teach its duty to a loyal community.

We most strongly urge that, curbing the expression of their righteous indignation, those who go to Bradburn's hall on Friday should give even Wilfred Laurier an uninterrupted hearing.

MR. BLAKE'S VIEWS.

As the leader of the Opposition is to address the electors of Peterborough, many of them would be glad if Mr. Blake would enlighten them as to his views on a few points. Probably Mr. Blake, after a speech of glittering generalities, will not find time to attend to these details, but on the mere chance of gaining attention we will put a few questions.

1. Does he think a Privy Councillor sworn to his Queen and country to oppose rebellion, should avow his readiness to join the rebels in the field?

2. Does he know of one case of a halfbreed being actually deprived of any land in his occupation, or to which he even laid claim?

3. Can he name one Indian official guilty of immorality, so as to afford any foundation for the slanders of honourable men, some of whom died at their posts by the hands of his allies?

4. Would he have a lunch sent, according to the fashion of some luxurious English and Scotch sportsmen, to fellow Indians when on a hunt, so as to satisfy their appetites if they are unsuccessful?

5. Would he feed Indians on beefsteaks in idleness, though the treaties for which he is responsible, do not call for feeding them at all, except one treaty, which requires that they should be fed when starving?

6. Would he consent to feed Indians loitering near a town, the men to get whiskey and the women for immoral purposes, when provisions were awaiting them on their reserve?

7. Would he repeal the law, for which he is responsible, permitting members to hold shares in companies having dealings with the Government, so as to prevent a repetition of the practice of his former Government of subsidising the Speaker and rewarding parliamentary supporters?

8. How would he distinguish between Conservative members of Parliament being officials of subsidized railways and his own position as legal adviser in Canada of the Grand Trunk, a railway heavily indebted to the Canadian treasury?

9. Does he propose the reduction of the duties on cheap staple goods such as are manufactured in Canada so as to close our facturies?

10. Would he take off the duty on coal, and if so is he aware that the foreign coal owners pay the duty by a special reduction for that purpose off the price to Canadian importers, so that the amount of the duty would go into the pockets of the foreign colliery owners, not of the Canadian consumer?

11. Does he believe in freedom of speech or does he approve of the conduct of his fellow leader Laurier in countenancing his followers in closing the mouth of the Hon. Mr. Chapleau by cries of "hangman" because he did his duty as a Minister of the Crown?

12. Does he believe in the Province not interfering with the Dominion jurisdiction, or does he like Mr. Mowat rejoice in the partial success of the avowed attempt to punish the Quebec Ministers for refusing to condemn the Canadian Administration for permitting the execution of a condemned rebel.

13. Has he taken percautions that the facts and figures he gives us should be genuine and not prepared for him by forgers or blunderers, as has been the case on some recent occasions?

There are many other points on which we would be glad to learn Mr. Blake's views, but we abstain from putting them, as there may be a better chance of a small number of questions receiving attention. However we are not very hopeful.

MR. PARDEE VOTE MAKING.

MR. MOWAT and his friends attempt to defend themselves from the charge of extravagant and wasteful expenditure by tauuting the Opposition with not cutting down the estimates. In the first place they have no power, and in the second place it would be useless, for the Mowat Administration have no scruple in spending more than the sums voted by the Legislature if they want to buy votes, to reward supporters, etc. The following extract from the records of the Public Accounts Committee, being part of the examination on March 13th, 1884, of Mr. Cashman's, a clerk in Mr. Pardee's department is only a sample:—

"Q. Was there any sum voted for any road in the Bruce Mines district?
A. Yes.
Q. What amount?
A. I think it was $3,000.
Q. How much was actually spent?
A. $16,114.78."

It will be remembered that when this and similar transactions took place in Algoma Mr. Pardee was buying votes there and was using the public money so corruptly that he had to resort to a wholesale destruction of public documents to save himself from conviction.

In March 26th, 1885, Mr. Wood moved in the House a protest against an expenditure over appropriations the previous year of no less than $174,454, maintaining that $50,000 ought to be more than enough for unforseen expenses. Mr. Mowat and his servile majority declined to give up the system by which they make the voting of supplies a perfect farce, as they spend what they like.

Again Mr. Pardee was responsible for a great portion of this irregular and unconstitutional expenditure, but then he again had elections to influence in North-Western Ontario.

Really the methods of Messrs. Mowat, Pardee and Co. are very like those of their friend S. S. Peck, except that he bought land with the money he misappropriated, and they buy votes.

PAPERS PLEASE, MR. BLAKE.

In the House of Commons Mr. Blake has an insatiable craving for papers, apparently that he and his friends may utilize them as he and Mr. Cameron (Huron) did the Indian Department reports, that is, by mutilating and doctoring them so as to falsify their meaning. The people of Peterborough have no power to order the production of papers, but many of them would be glad if Mr. Blake would voluntarily satisfy their curiosity by producing in the light of day his correspondence with the rebels. In a letter from Jackson to Riel, dated "Prince Albert, 23rd July, 1884," may be found the following paragraph:—

"Maclise wrote privately to Blake asking him not to stop at L. Clarke's, and Blake wrote back that his health would not permit him to visit the Northwest this summer. Your visit may cause him to change his plans, but I can keep posted through Maclise, who has kept up a correspondence with him since 1882."

The italics are our own.

Now it may be that Mr. Blake may feel a delicacy as to violating the privacy of his friends, the rebels, and most likely the rest of their correspondence was also private. Or he may deem it dangerous to give publicity to this, no doubt, interesting correspondence. It is a pity if either of these considerations deters Mr. Blake from gratifying the desire of the people of Canada for the fullest possible information regarding this very important epoch in the history of their country.

HYPOCRITICAL HOWLINGS.

As we are threatened with a visitation of orators to urge the people of Peterborough to punish the Administration at Ottawa by driving them from power in vengeance for their having allowed justice to be done to a criminal, it will be of interest to recall the opinions expressed by these advocates of crime when they thought the criminal would not be punished. We will quote from a journal which boasts of having for its editor-in-chief a former minister of the crown, a colleague of the rebel Laurier and of his associate Mr. Blake. This is what the London Advertiser said when it thought that Riel's life would be spared:—

"Why should the Province of Quebec come to the rescue of Riel? Why should Quebec do for Riel what it never would have thought of doing for anyone who is English, Irish or Scotch? Why should it say that anyone having French blood in his veins should have immunities which it would not accord to any other race? Why should it overlook the murders of men and women, clergymen and laymen, and consequences of Riel's appeal to the Indians? And what is there in Riel's case that makes his life in the estimate of the people of Quebec of so much more value than lives he has sacrificed?"

What a howl these hypocrites were preparing to raise in Ontario if Riel had been spared.

THE Globe objects to the REVIEW'S indignation at the insulting visit of a boastful rebel to loyal Peterborough. Perhaps if the Globe's friends has been among the murdered instead of being, as they were, among the murderers, it would not take so much pleasure in hearing how a rebel who was absent would have tried to add to the slaughter of loyal Canadians if he had been on the spot.

IF any of our readers should chance to hear Laurier speak on the 17th, they will do well to remember that he is a forsworn Privy Councillor and that they should receive any statements he makes, like those of any other perjurer, without giving them any weight unless they are supported by the testimony of some honest man.

MR. BLAKE and his Laurier are to appear together on a public platform in our town on the 17th. What a pity that Mr. Mowat and his Pacaud will not be here to complete the party.

Gladstone and the Ladies.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Mr. Gladstone has given a curiously gratuitous rebuff to a number of ladies of Birmingham who expressed to him in writing their sympathy with the women of Ireland in their demand for Home Rule. Mr. Gladstone replied, rather curtly, that he is gratified at the sentiment, but adds: "I regret that you should be compelled to take part in the rude contentions and labors with which I have had so long to do." As the woman suffrage party is growing steadily among the Liberals in the House of Commons, this remark was not good tactics whatever else it may be.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

NORWOOD.

From a Correspondent.

POLITICAL MEETING.—A Reform meeting held in the Roller Skating Rink on Tuesday, was addressed by Mr. Bertram, of Peterborough, and the Hon. T. B. Pardee. The hall was brilliantly decorated with two small flags and the beautiful motto "Ontario safe for Mowat." The chair was occupied by Mr. W. E. Roxburgh. An attempt was made to get up a demonstration, but it resulted disastrously, there being a 'bus and two other rigs in the "procession."

OBITUARY.—The funeral of Peter P. Cope, jr., took place on Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock. The deceased was highly respected and beloved by the people of the village, and surrounding country. He was but barely nineteen years of age and had just finished his education. The parents have the sympathy of the community.

VERY ILL.—Mr. T. J. Howson, of the firm of Howson & Starr, is dangerously ill and but small hopes are entertained of his recovery.

FENELON FALLS.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. Nelson Day, of Fenelon, aged 72 years, was found lying insensible on his bed about noon last Monday, and died at 2 o'clock next morning. Since the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Lydia Day, he has lived alone, but was looked after by the family of his nephew, Mr. Nathan Day, some of whom saw him at 9 a.m. on Monday, when he did not complain of anything being wrong with him; but some time latter, while dressing, he was stricken, it is believed with paralysis, and did not speak afterwards.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday last Julius Fisk, the eldest son of Mr. J. B. Fisk, of Fenelon, met with a very serious accident, the results of which are still very doubtful. He was working at Mr. Thomas Archer's shanty in the township of Longford, and by some means got caught by a rolling log, which struck him on the back and knocked him down, and, it is feared, badly injured his spine. He was brought home and placed under the care of Dr. A. Wilson, who cannot yet give a decided opinion as to his chances of recovery.

THE LOCK GATES.—Owing to the non-arrival of iron from Montreal, work on the lock gates which were almost ready to put up, had to be discontinued, and the men have all left. The portable engine used in driving the planing maching was taken away by train last Monday, but will probably have to be brought back to pump the water out of the locks before the gates are erected.—Gazette.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CURLING AND SKATING RINK.—The directors expect to have the rink opened before long to the the public. Tickets can be procured as formerly from the caretaker, Mr. R. B. McIntyre.

LACROSSE CONCERT.—The Lacrosse concert on the 23rd, promises to be a great success. There will be a very extensive programme of songs, glees, dialogues etc. Let everyone turn out and help the club. Doors open at 7 p. m.; concert at 7.30 p. m.

PERSONAL.—Mrs. Johnston, wife of the Rev. F. Johnston, has been very ill but we are glad to learn she is some better and hope for her speedy recovery.

POLITICAL.—Politics are having full sway at present. A great deal of disgust has been expressed at the report of Messrs. Stephenson's and Carnegie's meeting in last week's issue of a contempory. Abuse and ridicule only revert to the party using them, when that party cannot refute some facts. The electors were insulted on Tuesday evening last by Messrs. Pardee and Bertram. These parties made statements which we are sure they cannot expect the electors to believe. Mr. Pardee stated that Messrs. Mowat & Co. have not been slandered. Why? Simply because it is only the Grit party who slander and sling political mud. Mr. Bertram gave us a lot of claptrap nonsense and abuse of Mr. Carnegie, yet he did not tell us what the Model Farm costs the Government to run it. He (Mr. Bertram) did not tell us about the Thunder Bay trip, or the Mowat gerrymander of the City of Toronto, &c., but did admit that the Government helped itself by gerrymandering. Mr. Pardee did not allude to Mowat's famous placard of '57, or give the judge's charge and jury's verdict on the conspiracy case; as to the latter he tried to pass off as a pun the idea that Mowat tried to work up a little sympathy for himself by it. He (Mr. Pardee) did not give Mrs Blake's opinion of the Hon. W.R. Meredith, and again both Messrs. Bertram and Pardee pitched into the Federal Government so as to draw attention from themselves. This we believe is contrary to Mr. Mowat's opinion that the Ontario parliament should not interfere with the Federal.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

TWO FACED HOWLER.

The Ontario Liberals, like the Globe, having clamoured for the execution of Riel until he was executed, then turned with hypocritical sympathy to the Quebe Liberals and said of the Government, "Have they not hanged Riel?"—Montreal Star (Indep.)

THE FRENCH IN MANITOBA.

Had it not been for the French vote in Manitoba the Norquay Government would have been smashed. This demonstrates that all the French Canadians—notably those who knew Riel best—do not subscribe to the race and revenge programme. Indeed, even in Quebec, there is a respectable remnant who have refused to rally around the bloody shirt. May their tribe increase. —Toronto World (Reform).

A BUSINESS SECRET.

Messrs. Copp, Clark & Co. refuse to tell how much they pay Mr. Thomas Nelson for his share of the School Book monopoly. They say it is a business secret, but it is also a matter of importance to the parents of the school-children of Ontario. Mr. Nelson got the monopoly from the Government and handed it over to Messrs. Copp, Clark& Co., who do the work, and of course make a profit upon it. Clearly Mr. Nelson's share was so much lost to the parents of the scholars. Messrs. Copp, Clark& Co. admit it is a large amount.—Toronto World (Indp.)

A WONDERFUL REMEDY.

The value of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, in the protection it affords from the dangers of pulmonary disorders, cannot be overestimated. Mr. C. K. Philips, Pittsburg, Pa., writes: "About three years ago I had severe Laryngitis, which resulted in chronic hoarseness. By the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I have since entirely regained my health." Mr. Henry Russell, Excelsior Printing Co., New York, writes: "Influenza became epidemic in my neighborhood. Several members of my family suffered severely with it, all of whom took Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and were cured by it in a few days. It is a wonderful medicine for Influenza. Too much cannot be said in its favor."

E. M. Sargent, 41 Andover st., Lowell, Mass., says: "I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral about the year 1842, as a family medicine, for Coughs and Colds, and have always kept it in my house since that time. I consider it the best remedy that can be had for these complaints." Dr. J. B. Robertson, Clayton, N. C., writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, in my family and practice, for a number of years, and have no hesitation in recommending it. It is an admirable preparation, and well-qualified to do all that is claimed for it." E. J. Styers, Germanton, N. C., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the best Cough preparation I ever saw. It gives instant relief."

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

has cured a Cough in a few doses. It always relieves irritation of the lungs or throat, and arrests the tendency to inflammation. It strikes at the foundation of all Pulmonary diseases, is without a rival as an expectorant, and is a sure cure for the most obstinate Coughs and Colds. L. Garrett, Texana, Texas, writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twenty years. For throat and lung diseases, I consider it a wonderful remedy."

OF WORTHLESS IMITATIONS

As there are many inferior goods, corded with jute, hemp, etc., offered and sold as Coraline by some unprincipled merchants trading on the reputation of our genuine Coraline we warn the ladies against such imposition by drawing their attention to the necessity of seeing that the name is stamped on inner side of all Coraline goods.

Pulling up Stakes.

Gough, the well known Peterborough Clothier, is about to vacate his present premises for a more central place of business. As will be seen in his advertisement, he is offering extraordinary clearing off bargains in overcoats and suits. On January 1st he takes possession of the premises popularly known as the Bon Marche, and in order to clear off his stock and make room for new importations, Gough will sell away down below par. Everyone needing an overcoat should call in and see what Gough can do for him before leaving his order elsewhere. For the next three weeks the prices will be cut down below wholesale rates. The sale is commenced and is now booming. Two thousand suits and two thousand overcoats must go before Gough pulls up stakes.

The place to buy your Carpets and House Furnishings is at the Golden Lion Carpet House. R. FAIR.

The Laurier Outrage.

We have received several communications suggesting that the rebel Laurier should not be permitted to talk treason in Peterborough, where some of our people have suffered so much at the hands of the rebels, whom he expressed himself so ready to join. We repeat publicly to the writers and their friends what we have already said to some of them in private, that natural as is their indignation they should, on no account, allow it to interfere with the fullest hearing. Any interference with free discussion, even of treason, would be misrepresented by the sympathisers with rebellion as caused by the loyal men of Peterborough, Conservative and Reform, being afraid to hear the other side. His speeches at Toronto and London also show that in Ontario he does not dare repeat his treasonable utterances in Quebec, his boasts of brotherhood with the rebel Riel or of his readiness to take up arms with him. If he chooses here to eat his words in Quebec by all means let us hear him do so. We will not treat him as he and his friends treated the Hon. Mr. Chapleau.

Personal.

Mr. E. Reid, who has been ill with quinsy, is improving.

Committee Meeting.

A meeting of the Ward Committees will be held this evening in the Conservative Rooms over Mr. Stethem's hardware store. All interested in Mr. Carnegie's election are invited to attend.

Horses.

Mr. T. Cavanagh left town this morning for Montreal taking with him seventeen fine draught horses. They were purchased in this vicinity the prices paid being from $1.20 to $1.50 each.

About Laurier.

Letters on the subject of Laurier from "A Volunteer," dated Winnipeg, and from "P. A. J.," dated Toronto, cannot appear in our columns for the reason, among others, that the names of the writers have not been sent to us.

The English Custom.

The Port Hope Times has the following paragraph among its local news:—"When a candidate, with more than commendable discretion, refuses to hold joint meetings with an opponent during a campaign, he calls it the English custom. Perhaps Mr. Burnham can tell us what custom it is that governs the action of a timorous candidate, who holds not meetings." The "English custom" (and Scotch also) is for the candidate (or member) to invite questions from electors as to his proposed action on any question, or in the case of a member as to his past action also. This portion of the proceedings is not hastened over, nor is it relegated to the very end, when the audience is weary and many are retiring, but is often a main feature of the meeting. It is considered that the information thus authoritively obtained is most useful in guiding the electors in their choice between the candidates.

A False Report.

Our attention has been called to a false report, evidently circulated with the malicious intention of exciting an unfounded prejudice against our Mayor. It has been stated that Mr. Stevenson has been paid for the wood which he has supplied for charity to our poorer townspeople, either on the order of members of the Charity Committee or his own action. This is utterly incorrect. Our Mayor has generously made a free gift of all this wood to an amount [illegible] $400 or $500. He has not received and will not receive from the town one cent, either directly or indirectly, to relieve him from this expenditure, which is altogether gratuitous on his part. And this is not the only manner in which our Mayor has unobtrusively assisted those in distress. This is no new action on the part of Mr. Stevenson, for he commenced this practice of free donations of wood immediately after he was elected last winter, as was publicly mentioned at the time by one of the Councillors, who knew the facts.

Hymeneal.

The Port Hope Guide says:—"On Tuesday quite a party of friends gathered at the residence of Mrs. Cullis, on Walton street, from Bowmanville, Peterborough, Cobourg, Fenelon, Camborne and other parts to witness the marriage of John Hull Esq., of the village of Lakefield, to Miss Jennie Cullis, of our town. The ceremony took place about 12.30, after which the company sat down to a well loaded table of good things, to meet the wants of the inner man. After the usual presents to the bride, who was richly and neatly attired in a beautiful brown silk dress, the packing of trunks and preparing for the departure of their future home in Lakefield took place. The happy couple left by the 3.45 train, for Peterborough, horses and carriages being there in waiting to convey them to their home. They were accompanied by Duncan Fraser, M. D., of Peterborough, who was out with the bridegroom on the occasion. The happy couple have the best wishes, for their future happiness, of all their friends."

Christmas.

The near approach of the Christmas season is heralded with delight by old and young alike. The changes that are ever coming to the Christian world does not alter the love of all for this merry season, 'Xmas. Springtime, with its buds and blossoms, singing birds and bright warm sunshine, has its delights; summer, with its sweet and flagrant flowers, ripe and juicy fruits and green clad hills, has its charms; autumn, the season that constantly reminds one of the flight of Time, with its falling leaves and fading flowers, has also its charms; but Christmas tide, the season of family reunions—when loved ones from afar off send greetings to dear friends who are divided from them by thousands of miles of land and water—and the season that gladens the hearts of the little ones that play around the home fireside—this is the one season of the year that is truly beloved by all. Let old and young join in making the season of 1886 a time of rejoicing, and let "Peace on earth, good will toward men," take the place of any envious and uncharitable thoughts that may have stolen into your hearts since last 'Xmas. "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all" is the wish of McNeil, Habilliment Hall.

COUNTY COURT.

The Regular Fall Session Opened at the Court House.

The regular fall session of the County Court opened at the Court House on Tuesday His Honor Judge Weller presiding. The Grand Jury were impannelled as follows:—

George Gladman, foreman.

W. Breckenbridge,	Wm. Buck,
T. M. D. Croly,	Wm. Carveth,
Wm. Clarkson,	Rich Darling,
John Cameron,	S. Deyell,
L. Dobbin,	Robt. Eastland,
B. Hales,	R. J. Lee,
Wm. Moore,	H. Owens,
W. Cox. sr.,	Wm. Fowlds,

Wm. Abbott.

The docket is a light one. The cases will likely be all heard by to-morrow night.

The bar was represented as follows: W. H. Biggar, Belleville; H. Muir, Hamilton; A. P. Pousette, Q. C., D. W. Dumble, E. B. Edwards, Jas. Henry, W. H. Moore, W. A. Stratton, and J. Green.

TAYLOR vs. HAMILTON PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.—The defendant advanced a sum of money to a relative, taking a lein on certain effects. The latter were sold under a writ issued by the defendants. The action was brought to recover the amount of the lein. Judgment for plaintiff. Dumble, for plaintiff; Muir, (Hamilton) for the defendants.

LEAHY vs. ROSSITER.—The celebrated "Rats" case has been again before the Courts. Last summer Henry Rossiter summoned Wm. Leahy before the Police Magistrate to answer the charge of using insulting language. The chief evidence consisted in the alleged calling of "rats" by the defendent in the first case. He was found guilty and fined $20. He then brought an action to quash the conviction. The conviction was quashed with costs Poussette, Q. C., for the plaintiff; Edwards for the defendant.

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT.

This forenoon the Grand Jury brought in their presentment as follows:—

We, the Grand Jurors of our Sovereign lady the Queen, beg to make the following presentment:—

We have to congratulate Your Honor on the freedom from crime in this county, there being no cases of a criminal nature brought before us.

We have, in accordance with custom, examined the gaol premises and have found everything in good [illegible] and the prisoners confined therein well cared for.

We have to regret that persons of unsound mind are still confined in our gaols and would urge that they be removed as soon as possible to a place better suited for their accommodation and where they can receive that individual attention their cases may require.

We have to express our satisfaction at the improvements that are being made in the county buildings, feeling convinced that they will add much to their comfort and convenience, and would suggest that the floor of the Grand Jury room be covered with some material to prevent the noise of chairs moving, etc., disturbing the court.

A PLUCKY BOY.

He Safely Navigates a Schooner—A Day and a Night at the Wheel.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 15.—The schooner Emily J. White, from Sands River, N.S., for New York, with a cargo of piling, was navigated into port last night by a lad named Patterson, who was the sole person aboard. The vessel sailed from Sands River with three aboard, Captain Patterson, Mate Atkinson and the boy. It was intended to put into another port on the Nova Scotia coast to complete the crew. Soon after going to sea the mate was knocked overboard by the main boom. Captain Patterson put off to his rescue, but too late to save the man. Turning to row back to the vessel she had disappeared. After searching all night he landed at Quaco. The lad Patterson stood all day and all night at the wheel, skillfully navigating the vessel clear of the numerous dangerous points, and finally making St. John Harbor. He was once beaten off by head winds, but when the breeze changed he again attempted to effect an entrance and this time succeeded. Weary with his ceaseless watch and labor, he ran the schooner on the flats and sought sleep in his berth. There the vessel was found by the captain, who had reached the city and despatched a tug to search for the schooner.

LAURIER'S BROTHER.

A Use for the Forsworn Privy Councillor's Gun in Riel's Camp.

Laurier, the boasted "brother" of Riel, says he would have taken his gun and fired it if he had been on the Saskatchewan. The following is an account by the Rev. Father Tourmond, the priest at St. Laurent, and the prisoner of Laurier's brother, of Riel's methods of influencing his men, and of the use to which he expected his voluntary recruits to put their guns. This is Father Tourmond's description:—

"When Riel had completely fascinated these poor people, and held them body and soul at his will, he next, to complete his object and plunge them into rebellion beyond recall, he announced that 500 mounted police were on the way to slaughter them: men, women and children, to the last one. 'Oh, my friends, look at those devils murdering your nation, see your wives and daughters ravished before your streaming eyes, see your wives and children tortured, dishonored, disembowelled, cut in pieces by those savage soldiers, who are paid and kept by tyrants to kill, slaughter and dishonor the half-breed nation.' 'To arms, to arms, or will you crouch and submit? God tells you to follow me. The Holy Ghost is with you in my person: courage, we will conquer.' Oh, my poor people, I could not restrain them; they were under the infatuation of this arch actor and trickster till he got them committed by the effusion of blood; then they were in his power, and he used what power without any feeling of mercy. I heard him say and proclaim, 'Death, death, death, to anyone who tries to desert,' and many of the poor people had guns pointed at their hearts, by Riel's orders, because he suspected them of wishing to get away, and to complete his terrorism over the poor people he declared it to be his determination to put me thus, dependent, in the front of the battle."

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The stock market to-day is comparatively quiet. Nearly all brokers had buying orders, and the few quotations from London being above last night's close gave a firmer feeling. Leading operators assured their friends they had taken steps to protect the stocks with which they are identified, all have buying orders in the market. At 11 o'clock the market was firm, money loaning at 8. to 12 percent, and in some cases 20 percent according to security given.

Manufacturers' Syndicates.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 16.—The Western glass manufacturers have completed details of the syndicate recently formed. Flattering reports of the condition of trade were received from all points of the West. A joint convention of the Western and Atlantic Mail Association will be held early in January to form a National Association or Syndicate to curtail production and maintain prices.

THE RIEL REBELLION.

DECLARATIONS OF HALF-BREEDS ENGAGED IN THE OUTBREAK.

Valuable Testimony as to its Cause of the Trouble—What the Grievances Amounted to—The Expulsion Charges Disproved.

DUCK LAKE, Nov. 20th, 1886.

"I, Joseph Charlette, French half-breed of Duck Lake, say that I came here in the year 1884, when Riel was already in the country. On my arrival I passed an evening at the house of Charles Nolan, where I saw Riel and Maxime Lepine. It was there that I heard Riel and the two others expose their plans. They said at first that by the Manitoba Act passed in 1870 the half-breeds had ceded only a small portion of territory; that the rest of the North-west had never been ceded; that consequently it belonged to them. That they were to ask the Government the amount in cash of the value of all the lands in the North-West at the Government price per acre; that if the Government refused to grant the sum en bloc they would then ask the interest on said sum during 20 years. They sent afterwards a petition to the Government in that sense. The reply was that the Government would not have anything to do with Riel. This vexed the latter, as also the principals who supported him. They said, 'if the Government don't want to give a few thousand dollars to satisfy us they will have to spend millions, and we will make trouble,' and then the trouble commenced in fact. After this juncture, however, Reil wished to go away, but the people retained him. I don't think, however, that there would have been any trouble if Reil had not been here, because Nolan and Lepine were not willing to make war. Riel was certainly not insane. I never heard that anyone was driven out of his land for the benefit of the Colonization Society. Most of the French half-breeds are living upon lands that are not entered, and they have never been troubled for that matter. It is true that I have heard that it was to avenge the death of Scott that Riel was hanged; but for my part, although I thought the execution of Scott was for something in the execution of Riel, I firmly believe that Riel has done enough in 1885 to richly deserve death, for, apart from what he has done, he would have done much more terrible things if he had been successful. I have myself heard some of his plans, which, if realized, would have been most disastrous.

"JOS. CHARLETTE."

"CARLETON, 10th Nov., 1886.

"I, Joseph Ledoux, French halfbreed of Carleton, say that I never had any greivance with the Government before the trouble of 1885. That I was persuaded to take up arms, as most of my neighbors were, without knowing why. I had already had my halfbreed rights in Manitoba. I never heard that anyone had been threatened or driven out of his land in favor of any colonization society. I never heard it said around me that it was because Riel was a French halfbreed that he was hanged. "JOSEPH LEDOUX."

"FISH CREEK, 23rd Nov., 1886.

"I, Pierre Tourton, French half-breeds of Fish Creek, say that the only grievances that I had against the Government before the troubles of 1885 was the slowness in granting the half-breeds rights. For me, I had my rights in Manitoba. It was owing to false report by Riel among the half-breeds that caused the taking up of arms. I never heard that anyone had been driven out of his land for the benefit of colonization societies. There would have been no trouble if Riel had not been in the country. Riel was certainly not insane. He was a good deal too smart for us. I do not believe that it was because he was a French half-breed that he was executed; it was because he deserved it. I attribute all our misfortunes to that man—

"PIERRE TOURON."

THE ANTI-RENT CAMPAIGN.

Four Nationalist Members of Parliament Arrested—Conspiracy Charged.

DUBLIN, Dec. 16.—Messrs John Dillon, member of Parliament for East Mayo; Wm. O'Brien, editor of United Ireland; Matthew Harris, member of Parliament for East Galway, and David Sheehy, were arrested to-day in the town of Loughrea, County Galway, charged with conspiracy to defraud. The prisoners have been acting as trustees in conducting the "plan of campaign," and have been receiving from dissatisfied tenants the reduced rents refused by landlords or landlord's agents. At the time of making the arrests the police took away from Mr Dillon a hundred pounds, which he had received in trust from the tenants. The four gentlemen were taken before a magistrate and remanded for a week.

SEIZURE OF MONEY AND DOCUMENTS.

An immense Nationalist demonstration was held at Laughrea to-day. Father Cunningham presided, and a number of other clergymen and Messrs. Dillon, O'Brien, Harris and Sheehy were on the platform. A large contingent of Lord Clanricarde's tenants were present. Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien addressed the meeting and then opened the Nationalist rent offices. Hundreds of tenants came forward and paid their rents. Suddenly the police rai-ed the offices. Inspector Davies seized the money, documents and books, and arrested Mr. Dillon. It is alleged that Mr. Dillon was roughly treated by the inspector. The police proceeded upstairs and took possession of more money and documents. They then arrested Mr. O'Brien, and afterward Messrs. Harris and Sheehy. The specific charge against the four gentlemen is that they were conspiring to induce the tenants not to pay their lawful rents. Mr. Dillon struggled with Inspector Davies for possession of the rent money seized by the latter. The four gentlemen arrested gave bail in $1,000 each. It is rumoured that the police have been instructed to pursue a similar course in the case of other Nationalist rent collectors.

THE CAMPAIGN TO BE CONTINUED.

The National League leaders have decided to continue their present tatics. Several of them will leave Dublin to-morrow for various parts of Ireland for the purpose of receiving rents.

BELFAST RIOTERS SENTENCED.

BELFAST, Dec. 16—Twenty-one persons have been sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from three months to seven years for participating in the riots here last summer.

MOONLIGHTERS AT WORK.

CORK, Dec. 16—Moonlighters have raided the Kailurk district. They visited fourteen houses and seized a quantity of arms.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

BISMARCK AND FERDINAND.

VIENNA, Dec. 16.—It is stated that the Prince of Reuss warmly supports the candidacy of Prince Ferdinand, of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, for the Bulgarian throne. It is rumored that the Emperor William has written to the Czar urging him to accept Prince Ferdinand and thereby end the Bulgarian troubles.

THE OSTEND MAIL ROBBERY.

BRUSSELS, Dec 16.—It is rumored that the London police have arrested three of the mail robbers and that the bulk of the diamonds stolen have been recovered.

AN OBNOXIOUS SERVANT.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The Legislative Council of Natal proposes to send a memorial to the Crown asking for the removal of the Governor, Sir Arthur Havelock, and the appointment of an official who is fitted to govern a colony possessing representative institutions.

A CHURCH TITHE WAR.

CARDIFF, Dec. 16.—The farmers in North Wales are resisting the collection of church tithes. In one section the farmers expelled the collecting bailiffs from the farms and escorted them out of the district. It is feared the movement on the part of the Welshmen may lead to serious results.

INTRIGUE IN THE EAST.

LONDON, Dec 16.—The Bombay Gazette says the French are actively intriguing against the British in the Somali country on the African east coast south of the Gulf of Aden. A party of Frenchmen recently hoisted the French flag over Dongarita, which lies within territory under British protection. The English agent at Bulhar has gone with twenty five men to remove the flag. Two French gunboats left Aden since the agent's departure, and it is presumed they have proceeded to Dongarita. The British gunboat "Penguin" has followed the French vessels.

THE BRITISH MAILS.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 14.—The case of the Cunard Steamship Company for refusing to carry the mails for the United States will come up for trial on Friday next. The Company have undertaken to carry the mails pending the decision in the case.

THE BRITISH ARMY IN EUROPE.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—England has decided to increase the expenditure for the standing army to 19,000 men and the army of occupation to 5,000, thus largely exceeding the cost of armament to the Egyptian Government.

THE "TIMES" ON THE RENT WAR.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The Times says:—"The landlords have many civil remedies available. A few examples under the strict pressure of the law would probably be sufficient to convince the tenants that to follow Mr. Dillon is to risk utter ruin."

INFLUENTIAL SUPPORT.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The Prince of Wales and Duke of Edinburgh vigorously support the candidacy of Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha for the throne of Bulgaria. They are using their personal influence at Berlin and St. Petersburg in Prince Ferdinand's favour, and it is considered certain that the Czar will approve of his candidacy. The Queen continues to favor the Battenbergs.

A TENANTS ROW.

DUBLIN, Dec. 15—The tenants of Baron O'Neill, at Shanes Castle, near Randalstown, County Antrim, met to-day to discuss the advisability of adopting the plan of the campaign. The meeting was noisy and troublesome, and a majority of the tenants voted to refuse to pay any rent unless a reduction was granted. The meeting broke up in a row that might have ended in riot but for the presence of 150 policemen, who attended the meeting to preserve order. A small minority of the tenants adopted a resolution declaring that Baron O'Neill was an indulgent landlord.

MUNITIONS OF WAR WANTED.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 16.—The papers here contain advertisements for tenders for supplying an enormous amount of war material, including 50,000 tents, 500,000 soldiers' cloaks, 2,000,000 pairs of boots, and gunpowder and bullets, to be delivered by April.

CHARGED WITH BEING A SPY.

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—A French officer has been arrested at Charlsruhe on suspicion of being a spy. Important papers relating to the fortress of Postdot were found in his possession.

UNEASINESS IN BERLIN.

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—The public feeling of uneasiness, owing to the war scare, though without definite basis, is beginning to visibly affect business and retard enterprise. It is reliably stated that a prominent attache of the court gave it as his opinion that there will be no war while the Emperor William lives.

THE FINANCIAL MARKET.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The financial markets are animated and bullish. It is reported that a heavy block of bullion has been ordered for shipment to the United States, owing to the disorganization of the Exchange. There is but little arbitrage business doing. The feature to-day is the firmness of the consols.

BIG STRIKE IN RUSSIA.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 16—Three thousand workmen in Hubbard's cotton mills at Alexandrovsky, a suburb of St. Petersburg, struck work yesterday. They made an attack upon the buildings and smashed the windows and pelted members of the firm with brickbats. Fifty of the rioters were arrested.

THE SPREAD OF COMMERCE.

MADRID, Dec. 16.—A number of wealthy merchants from London and Barcelona have apprised the Government of their intention to establish factories in Fernando Po and other Spanish colonies in the Gulf of Guinea. The foreign and colonial ministers promise to assist the merchants.

THE IRISH LAND WAR.

DUBLIN, Dec. 16.—Thomas Mayne, the Parnellite member of Parliament for Middle Tipperary, who, in the capacity of trustee under the "plan of campaign," is receiving from the Wexford county tenants reduced rents refused by landlords and their agents, has been served with notice by the agent of the Brookes' estates that if he makes any other use of the money so deposited with him than to return to the tenants the law will be applied to him. This threat, if carried out, will test the question of the rights of tenants to permit their entrusted rents to be expended in fighting the landlords or Government in prosecutions for participation in the "plan of campaign."

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

THE RIELITE SYMPATHISERS

It will be remembered that at the commencement of the Northwest rebellion, one of the great onteries of the Rielite sympathisers in the House of Commons was in condemnation of the Government for securing the arms of the defunct military organizations in the Saskachewan district.

In a confidential official report written just before the coming of Riel we find the following:—

"The French halfbreeds are closely related to the plain Indians and there is a danger of the halfbreeds persuading the Indians to join them should an uprising take place. The Indians have no arms or ammunition, it is true, but both arms and ammunition in considerable quantities belonging to the defunct Saskatchewan military organization are scattered thoroughout the country without protection and could be seized at any moment. These scattered arms and ammunition should be collected and placed under police surveillance at Prince Albert, and the force increased to the extent of 30 men with an officer in command."

We also find in the official report the following letter, showing that the secret white rebels had the suspected intention about these arms:—

"18th June, 1884.

"DEAR SIR,—I think there has not been since the commencement of the agitation a better time to strike than the present. Everything seems ripe for it. I am certain seven-eighths of the people of Winnipeg are in our favour, and I am certain four or five hundred good men will accomplish our object without any difficulty whatever. The fact of the matter is this, we have nothing to resist us, the military here is nothing more than a pack of boys, and we have easy access to the store-rooms. We had a small meeting to-night, and the parties present were unanimous in favour of making a strike at once. Now, I think if we delay we will not only be losing ground and the thing will never be accomplished. I would like to know the possible number of men we can be got from the country to assist in the scheme. I hope you will come to some definite conclusion at your council meeting.

"Believe me; I am in perfect sympathy with you, and I am ready at any time to take part in the more active part of the business and see if we can't get the people their rights. Kindly let me hear from you in the matter at your earliest convenience and oblige

"Yours fraternally,
"MACK HOWE, J.G.

"GEORGE PURVIS, Esq.,
"Brandon, Secretary,
"Farmers' Union."

This letter shows how actively these Reformers were working to incite the rebellion. Of course it would have been very satisfactory for them and for their halfbreed and Indian allies if the views of their sympathisers in the House had been accepted, and arms and ammunition had been left unguarded and scattered about the country so that they could seize them.

Later on we have further testimony as to the hidden white rebels in the Northwest.

Charles Nolin, a halfbreed, who was for a time detained by force in Riel's camp, till he escaped, speaks thus in an affidavit to which he swore:—

"Many English Halfbreeds, and whites also, encouraged the poor French Halfbreeds up to the culminating point and then cautiously left them to their fate and to the infamous and blasphemous leadership of Louis Riel, who has plunged them into distraction, despair, starvation and death."

The Rev. Father Fourmoud, priest at St. Laurent and director of missions, speaks to the same effect. In an affidavit made by him he says:—

"The poor ignorant half-breeds were encouraged on from step to step in the late uprising till their false, white, pretended, friends and the English half-breeds left them on the very verge of rebellion and bloodshed."

It is very apparent that there were three bands of the Rielites; there were the active rebels in the field, there were the secret white rebels stirring up the rising, and there were the sympathisers in the House assisting and encouraging them, and striving to thwart the Administration. The secret allies in the Northwest were clearly responsible in a great degree, but we can hardly suppose that they anticipated all the bloodshed and misery that would follow their attempts to set on foot disturbances that could be so misrepresented as to work to the party advantage. So too we cannot bring ourselves to believe that the sympathising politicians and journalists foresaid all the evils that would result from the tactics of their friends. Still they are almost more blamable than the secret rebels in the locality, for they deliberately rendered all the countenance and encouragement they could to the movement, with the hope that they could make political capital out of it, being apparently posted by their Reform friends in the local ring, the Purvises and such like, so as to be made of use, while being kept partially in the dark. And now when it is over these political Rielites are still trying to make party capital out of the affair, taking up the cause of the criminal leader, now that he has been executed, in a manner not inconsistent with their sympathy throughout the troubles, though from their tone when Riel's life or death hung in doubt, they were quite prepared to turn round and rave at the Administration if it had let the double-dyed murderer and rebel go "unwhipt of justice."

They have gained nothing in the eyes of the country, and have driven from them thousands of the loyal men of their party, who can no longer follow such leadership.

WILL MR. PARDEE OBLIGE US?

THERE are a few more questions that we would like Mr. Pardee to answer.

Why did he and his colleagues bring on the general elections in the holiday season, to the great loss of our retail merchants, and so as to cause the disfranchisement for four years of many thousands of new voters through the list being incomplete, as in our own township of Galway for instance, when an election at the end of January would have been early enough for a not over late session?

Why did they gerrymander over thirty constituencies, always to the advantage of their party, and often to the great inconvenience of the electors, as for instance in the case of our adjoining County of Victoria, where the electors of Omemee are united with those of far distant Nightingale, instead of with those of Lindsay, and so on?

Why they partially disfranchised all the electors of Toronto, giving them only two votes for three members, thus making by statute a Reform member for Conservative Toronto?

Why he refused to vote that rebels and murderers were justly punished because he would not interfere in Dominion matters, and yet voted for interfering with the Dominion authorities as to punishing rebels and murderers?

Why did he vote for insulting our judiciary and making the Legislature a Court of Appeal by absolving Dr. Dowling by statute from the judicial condemnation of his corruption?

Why did he assent to such an unjust and improvident arrangement with the publishers that (if Mr. G. W. Ross tells the truth), three of them became entitled to large sums as compensation for vested rights, when it was necessary to withdraw their privileges because injurious to our schools?

Why he consented to paying the compensation for the blunders of his colleagues and himself, not in a lump sum, which would let us know what their maladministration had cost us, but by a license to extort an excessive amount on every public school reader for ten years, for if there were no overcharge how could the monopoly compensate for vested rights, worth an enormous sum, according to Mr. Ross?

THE REFORM HALFBREED POLICY.

As the Reform leaders now contend that the Northwest halfbreeds should have any special privileges they choose to ask for, it might be supposed that they were most indulgent when in office. Well, this is what their Minister of the Interior, Mr. Mills, wrote in an official letter on March 18th, 1878:

"I don't see upon what grounds the halfbreeds can claim to be treated differently from the white settlers in the Territories.

"The halfbreeds, who have in some respects the advantage over new settlers in the territories, should be impressed with the necessity of settling down in fixed localities and directing their energies towards pastoral or agricultural pursuits, in which case lands would no doubt be assigned to them in the same way as to white settlers. But beyond this they must not look to the Government for any special assistance in their farming operations."

THE advocates of the rebels are falsely stating that Riel and his followers rebelled against the Macdonald Administration. We defy their speakers to point out in the evidence at the trials, petitions, letters by Riel, or other documents, anything to maintain their position. Riel always spoke of Canada, the people of Canada, the Dominion, the Canadian Government, the authorities of the Dominion, &c., as having wronged the halfbreeds ever since the Northwest was taken over from the Hudson Bay Company. It was Canada and Canadians, under whatever Administration, who were treated by Riel and his followers as intruders in that portion of the British Empire. Hence it was that their "grievance" could not be removed.

THERE is a desk in the House of Commons at Ottawa, that should certainly be added whatever the cost, to the Toursaud collection, with the effigies of its occupants. There sat shoulder to shoulder the great leaders Messrs. Blake and Laurier. At that desk Mr. Blake clamored for the best of guns for the volunteers, that they might be the better able to shoot the rebels, though now, by the way, he censures the Government because the guns cost money. At that desk Laurier adhered to the previously expressed wish that he had been there with his gun to shoot the volunteers—or perhaps a settler, official or missionery would have contented him.

MR. BLAKE with feeling that did him credit and that met with general sympathy expressed his grief at the death of his relation by the hands of the rebels. Yet he now consorts with a man who boasted that if he had been on the spot he would have taken his gun and used it, obviously to shoot some more volunteers, perhaps including another of Mr. Blake's relations. Mr. Blake must excuse others if they are less philosophical about the deaths of their relations, objecting to their slaughter, or even to threats of their slaughter, notwithstanding that Mr. Blake might be able to make some political capital out of them.

WHEN discontent first arose in the Northwest Territories the Mackenzie-Blake Administration was in power and the Hon. David Mills was Minister of the Interior. To complaints and petitions his official answer given over and over again was so short that we can reproduce it in full. It was simply "No.—D. M."

A Revolting Crime.

PARIS, Dec. 14.—During the trial of Jean Faure and Marie Blancher, for the murder of Claude Faure, in the assizes at Privas, in the Department of Ardeche, the prisoners broke down and confessed their crime. Jean said he struck his victim several times with a crowbar, causing death. He then, with a hatchet and saw, cut the body into pieces, which the woman boiled in a family cooking pot until the flesh became separated from the bones. The flesh was fed to the pigs, and the bones, together with such parts of the body as the pigs refused to eat, were buried in the barnyard. The woman told a similar story, supplementing it with the statement that after boiling pieces of the body she prepared soup for the family, herself included, in the same pot, without having cleaned it.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the ourden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

NOTES ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON BY DR. JOHN HALL.

Lesson XXI of the International Series for Sunday, Dec. 19—Golden Text, Revelations xxii, 21—Lesson Text, Revelations xxii, 8-21.

In a formal address it is common to put a number of explanatory or introductory statements at the commencement, and often there is a reference to them at the close recalling attention to the point from which the speaker set out. The lesson we are now to study is the closing part of the Revelation, and corresponds in some degree to the opening in Rev. i, 1-9. In both there is a rapid and informal passing from one point to another. V. 13 in our lesson is a repetition of Rev. i, 8. Other correspondences will be pointed out as we proceed. The teacher does not need so much to linger over connections that are obscure as to set out clearly the great and abiding truths, about the meaning of which there is no room for discussion.

Vs. 8-9. In Rev. xxi, 9, "one of the seven angels" said: "Come hither, I will show thee the bride, the Lamb's wife." At the end of this vision the apostle was so overpowered that he was ready to give worship to the angel. This is not the only time when men made the same mistake. See the case of Cornelius in Acts x, 25-26, and the people of Lystra, Acts xiv, 11-15. In the corrupt days of Christendom the worship of angels became a well established usage, contrary to the word spoken here to John. Yet it might have been thought that he was in no danger of giving God's glory to another. Fellow servants are never to get the honor due only to God.

V. 10. The apostle is directed to keep the messages now given him in such a way that men may know them. The divine will was a "sealed book" in God's hand till Jesus came and opened it, as in Rev. v, 5-7. But this is to be an unsealed, open book. The reason given is that "the time is at hand." The things in the book were not remote, speculative, but affecting the thoughts and life of professing Christians then and ever after. Whatever prophecies might need time to explain them by their fulfillment, there are very many statements of plain, practical truth for everyday life, and which all are to read. The epistles to the seven churches, for example, were appropriate for Christian study from the beginning.

V. 11. There are two "advents" of the Son of Man in the Bible, the first in humiliation to suffer, the second in glory to judge. But in addition to these and without interfering with them, God is often said to "come" when He inflicts judgments. And the day of death is practically to every man the day of judgment, for that day will not reverse any decisions made at death. See in illustration Matt. xxv, 13, 46. See in Prov. i, 24-28, the severity of God's sentence. This passage teaches that in life we are setting the seal of character, that death will not alter it, that if we be unjust then we shall be so forever. See Ps lxii, 12. No greater snare has ever been laid before men than the hope of another "chance," which the heart deludes itself into thinking it will then accept. "Now," says God. "At a convenient season," says the human soul (Acts xxiv, 25).

V. 12. The "quickly" refers probably not so much to nearness in time as to unexpectedness. Men are so approached one by one; so the world will be "at the last day." For the judgment is then universal—"every man"—and also just—"according as his work shall be." See Rom. ii, 6, and xiv, 12.

V. 13. How important it is to remember the divine nature and the infinite authority of the Judge appears from the repetition here of the words in the beginning (Rev. i, 8). So it is in John i, 1. Jesus is one with the Father, and He is "the author and finisher of our faith" (Heb. xii, 2).

V. 14. The language of the 11th, 12th and 13th verses naturally leads to this, in which the way of getting a right to the tree of life is set forth. It is doing "His commandments." Man was in the Garden of Eden and in innocence. He ate the forbidden fruit. So he was expelled. He disobeyed God's commands. (See Gen. iii, 24.) It is by reversing all this and obeying that he can get the right to the tree of life. (See Rev. ii, 7.) The figure of a city is here added in reference to Rev. xxi, 10. The obeying is more than mere saying or professing. See in illustration Matt. vii, 21. If one asks, "What commands are we to obey?" the answer is in such passages as I John iii, 23; Acts xvi, 31. This is the "obedience of faith. (See the revised version of v. 14.)

V. 15. Outside the Oriental city dogs live on the filth of the place. Hence we can understand the opening words, which have their meaning continued in the black list that follows. The climax is "loving and making a lie." See for other statements of this awful truth Phil. iii, 19; Gal. v, 19-21.

V. 16. Again the authority of this book is set forth, as in Rev. i, 1, and with the figure of Rev. v, 5, which in turn comes from Isa. xi, 1, 10. The "star" is from Num. xxiv, 17. Then follows the glorious recital of the invitation.

(V. 17), in explaining which the teacher may begin with "the water of life." What is it? The figure comes probably from the other familiar language, as of Ps. xlii, 1-2: "My soul thirsteth for God;" i. e., desires Him, as the thirsty man desires water, and this is water of life. The soul that has this desire satisfied has life. (See John iv, 13-14.) But how can we get it? Simply, come to the fountain and take of it. Believe in, come to, receive Christ. What encouragement have we to do this? The Spirit bids us come (John xvi, 13-14). All gospel invitations come under this head. The "bride" (see Rev. xxi, 9), is the church of Christ. Her testimony in preaching, writing and living is to Christ as the Saviour. The individual member—"let him that heareth"—is exhorted to repeat it, as converted, faithful Sabbath school teachers do. And, finally, it is renewed again in this divine word: "Whosoever will," etc. One might say: "I do not know the Bible nor the church, nor have I a Christian friend to teach me, but my soul thirsts for God." Then let such a one come. Jesus will not cast him out, but will receive him and put him in the way of learning. (See Matt. xi, 28-30.)

Vs. 18-19 contain a solemn statement of the completeness and perfectness of the revelation made, whether in this book itself for its own purposes, or in the entire Scriptures, of which this was meant to be the close, is not certain. No man can add to it without being plagued of God as this book threatens. (See Prov. xxx, 6; Deut. xii, 32; Cor. iii, 12-13.) To add to it would imply its incompleteness. To take from it would destroy its perfectness. So Jeremiah was instructed as God's prophet (Jer. xxvi, 2); so Paul wrote (Gal. i, 8-9). And as the "plagues" of the book are brought up in the one instance, so the symbols of the book are recalled in the other—"book of life" (Rev. xx, 15), "the holy city" (Rev. xxi, 2).

V. 20. If any one raises the question, "How does Jesus come quickly?" the answer is in the recorded experience of Paul (Phil. iii, 20), which is the same in substance with that in Isa, xxv, 9, and of all true believers, for "the glorious appearing" of the Saviour is "the blessed hope." And so much is the coming of the Saviour to take a soul to Himself the same in substance to that soul with the final coming, that millions of them have said, "Even so, come, Lord Jesus," with their last breath.

V. 21. The benediction of John follows, the same in substance as Paul's in Eph. vi. 24. It is not to be said or heard as a mere touching and beautiful word. Think of its meaning. Grace is that which God gives and makes sufficient for His people. It is the needed supply for each from the fullness that is in Christ. "May you each have from God your Father all you need every moment in life and forever!"—that is its meaning. Who would not say "Amen"? So let it be!

The sacredness of the Scriptures, the glory of Jesus Christ, the completeness of the restoration He effects, the freeness of the invitation to come to Him, and the greatness of the salvation He gives, these the teacher may well recall and impress on the mind of the scholar.

"The Maiden Assurance Society."

"The Maiden Assurance society" is a somewhat singular business institution in Denmark. The noblemen—for the association is peculiarly for this class—as soon as a female child is born to him enrolls her name in a certain association of noble families, and pays a certain sum, and thereafter a fixed amount to the society. When she has reached the age of 21 she becomes entitled to a fixed income, and to an elegant suite of apartments in a large building of the association, with gardens and park about it, inhabited by other young or older noble ladies, who have thus become members. If her father dies in her youth, and she desires it, she has shelter in this building, and at the fixed time her income. When she dies or is married, all this right to income lapses, and the money paid in swells the endowment of the association. But this very chance must enable the company to charge lower annual premiums and make the burden less on the father insuring. He has, at any rate, the pleasant feeling that his small annual payments are insuring his daughter's future and giving her a comfortable home and income after he is gone. It is obvious that the chances of marriage among a given number of women can be calculated as closely as those of death. The plan has worked well for generations in Copenhagen.—Tid Bits.

Superfluous Legal Language.

Mr. David Dudley Field, in a recent address on law and lawyers, made some very pertinent remarks on the useless verbiage that usually characterizes deeds and other documents drawn up by lawyers. He shows that more than 900 words are used in a deed, where 200 would answer all purposes. Of this verbosity Mr. Field says: "They beget and confirm our dreadful habits of verbosity; they make the young lawyers think that these words and phrases mean something and thus teach falsehood; they lead the minds of old and young to run in grooves; they encumber, and because they encumber, they tend to hinder, obscure, and confuse; they make it necessary to write, read and record in the course of a year millions upon millions of useless words, all of which cost a great deal of time and a great deal of money. Bonds, for instance, are copied or described in mortgages; the mortgages must be recorded, and when a foreclosure takes place the contracts are set forth in the pleadings. All lead to fees, and the fees are burdens laid upon the shoulders of the borrowers. The patience with which the people who pay for these things and are furthermore hindered by them is phenomenal."—Cleveland Leader.

Restlessness that Ruins Homes.

Thousands of farmers every year leave pleasant homes in the older settled states and make long and tedious pilgrimages to newer states and territories, not driven to it by necessity, but by a chronic restlessness—an idea that it is possible somewhere else to get on a little faster in the world. In nine cases out of ten the man would be really better off to stay where he is, but he is never satisfied until he has made at least one or two decided changes. Homes are destroyed in the most ruthless manner in pursuit of this phantom of bettering one's self—homes which can never really be restored to the family, for home is something more than the roof which shelters us. The associations of childhood, the friends of early days, the memories of the past, the ancestral graves upon the hillside—are these nothing? It will take more years than most of us can afford to give to build a new home and get into it the feeling with which we regard our present one, be it ever so humble.—Hartford Times.

Process for Preserving Flour.

In Holland they are said to have discovered a process for preserving flour, by which, with the use of watertight packages, it may be kept fresh for years, with no liability whatever to deterioration. The flour is placed in a great vat or chest, which is heated by steam pipes to a certain temperature, when the flour is subjected to a hydraulic pressure and reduced to brick form. It is unnecessary to state that development of this process is not looked upon with approval by millers in general, who are anxious to see their product go into consumption as fast as they turn it out, providing prices are satisfactory.—Boston Budget.

Poverty of India's People.

The conclusion arrived at is thus stated: "I can only repeat that the natives of India are growing poorer and poorer; that taxation is not only actually but relatively far heavier; that each successive scarcity widens the area of impoverishment and renders famines more frequent; that most of the trade is but an index to the poverty and crushing overtaxation of the people; that a highly organized foreign rule constitutes by itself a terrible drain upon the country, and that all railways and irrigation works on the planet, if concentrated in India at the cost of the peasantry, would but serve to hasten the inevicable catastrophe."—The Bankruptcy of India.

Disfranchised.

By the premature date fixed for the general election an enormous number of new voters, with others who have changed their residences, have been disfranchised for four years. This is the case in our own township of Galway, and it is no thanks to Mr. Mowat and his colleagues that it is not also the case in the Town of Peterborough, for only by night and day work was the list completed in bare time. Yet these hypocrits, who are unnecessarily disfranchising electors for four years, pretend that they are doing it because they could not let other electors wait for one session before exercising their franchise.

To the Electors.

You will soon be called upon to cast your ballot for one or other of the candidates in the West Riding election. That is well. You will also be expected to use your own judgment in the discharge of this duty. That also is commendable. You will have the privilege of voting for one candidate only, so that it will be of no use promising more than the one for whom you intend to vote. This, too, is essentially proper. You are expected to poll your vote early, and then look after others and see that they do likewise. That also is desirable. During the day of election, you will doubtless have your share of out-door work, and you will not feel at all comfortable if the weather is cold and stormy. This is bad—decidedly bad—but there is a remedy, electors. Before the 21th let every elector in the riding call on A. McNabb, Habiliment Hall, and get a comfortable and well-made election overcoat or suit.

SALT and Fresh Water Fish at OSTROM'

LIBERAL LEADERS.

Messrs Blake and Laurier Arrive on the C. P. R. Train—Mr. Pardee not With Them.

The Hon. Edward Blake, leader of the Dominion Opposition, and Wilfred Laurier, the man who boasted that, if in the North-West at the time of the rebellion, he would shoulder his musket and use it, arrived in town by the Canadian Pacific railway at noon to-day. There was a large crowd at the station, as the train came in the band played. The Hon. Edward Blake came first from the coach. He was greeted with cheers. Laurier was met with significant silence on the part of the people.

A procession was formed, the band marching at the head and followed by ten hacks and nineteen buggies.

George street was prettily decorated with bunting, flags and mottoes. The display of several flags bearing the "Stars and stripes," the United States colors, caused considerable comment.

The procession went to the Oriental Hotel. The front carriage halted and the Hon. Mr. Blake alighted first. He was cheered. Someone then called for cheers for Laurier. The party men obeyed the summons.

Mr. Pardee, Commissioner of Crown Lands, did not come with the others, and, from present information, it is likely he will not be here to-night.

At two o'clock the speakers were escorted from the hotel to Bradburn's Opera House, where the speaking is going on as we go to press.

NOTES.

There were ten hacks (probably hired by the Reform Association) and nineteen other vehicles in the procession.

The tricolor was the only flag hoisted at the meeting in Montreal on Nov. 16th, 1885, when the Riel agitation was begun. The same flag floated on the streets to-day to welcome Mr. Laurier.

In case any one should become confused from the appearance of the streets to-day, it might be well to remark that the Union Jack is the British flag.

It is reported that Mr. Pardee has changed his mind and will not face the music at the meeting to-day.

Resolutions of Condolence.

We find the following in the British Columbian of New Westminster, B. C.:—

"At the last regular meeting of Union Lodge No. 9, A. F. & A. M., held, on December 6th, the following resolution, moved by W. Bro. J. S. Clute, G. S. of W., and seconded by W. Bro. William Howay, G. S. B., was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The Supreme Grand Master of the Universe has seen fit to remove from our midst R. W. Bro. Josias C. Hughes, Past Master of this Lodge, and Grand Senior Warden of the Grand Lodge of British Columbia, and, while we bow in humble submission to the Divine will, we deplore the event which removes from our midst a worthy citizen, from a family a kind and affectionate husband and father, and from Union Lodge and the craft generally a most efficient and respected member.

Therefore, Resolved, That we extend to the widow of our deceased brother our sincere and profound sympathy, praying that he who doeth all things well may sustain, comfort and keep them in their great affliction; and therefore,

Resolved, That this our resolution be spread on the minutes of Union Lodge and a copy, under the seal of the Lodge, forwarded to the widow of the deceased. D. WILTON, Secretary." H. HOY, W. Master.

Conrad.

The sparkling comedy "Conrad" was presented by the Gorman Company in Bradburn's Opera House on Thursday evening. The caste was as follows:—

Conrad.....Mr. Dick Gorman
Philip Lawton.....E. E. McFadden
Frank Remington, a young physician..Geo. M. Hayes.
Isadore Levy, a rascally attorney, Geo. Booker
Tobias Peckskniff, his clerk....Harry M. Brown
Warren Duncan, a banker....Geo. Armstrong
Roger Blackburn, an escaped convict, Harry Clifford.
Sing Lung, a Mongolian importation.....J. J. Murray.
Steve, Sheriff, } members of Outlaw League } W. Norton, C. Richards
Elsie Duncan, the banker's daughter..Emma Hinckley.
Amelia Brannigan, from the "ould sod"..Virginia Melville.
Little Elsie.....Lapetite Sadie

The performance throughout was highly satisfactory. Dick Gorman, in the title role, showed himself to be a comedian of no questionable sort, and the support was strong. The little girl, Lapetite Sadie, performed her part with remarkable grace and ability for one so young. Should the Company ever pay Peterborough another visit they will doubtless be greeted with a crowded house.

NEW YORK Count Oysters at OSTROM'S.

COUNTY COURT.

The Regular Fall Session Opened at the Court House.

DARLING VS. CROUGH.—This case arose from a dispute as to the buying of a horse. Last summer the plaintiff bought a horse from the defendant, agreeing to pay $100, if the animal was sound. He paid $75, and gave his note for the balance, $25. The plaintiff claimed that the horse was not sound. He returned it to the defendant, but failed to recover his money and note. The defendant denied all the statements made by the plaintiff. He made no promise that the horse was sound. The defendant refused to take back the horse, and, in turn, claims damages for injury done to his crop. The defendant claimed $55 damages. The plaintiff got a verdict of $40 on consideration of the unsoundness of the horse. The defendant got a verdict for the full price of the horse and $3 for keeping him.

GRAHAM VS. DARCY.—This was an action brought by Alex. Graham against Thos. H. Darcy to collect a number of debts, transferred to him for collection, amounting in all to $110 77. The defendant took exception to number of the items and put in offsets against others. Reserved to the term. Stone, for plaintiff; Stratton for defendant.

CARPENTER VS. LUNDY.—The plaintiff brought an action to recover damages for unlawful distraining of goods. The defendant contended that the plaintiff had been in possession of his property and had paid no rent for two years. Judgement for plaintiff for $65, and for defendant $60. Stratton, for plaintiff; Hatton & Wood for defendant.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

BY MR. CLUXTON.

WHEAT.—The rise in the price of silver, caused by French coining for Tonquin, creates active speculation in cotton, and is helping wheat also. The yield of flour from French wheat is unsatisfactory. When we add the above facts to the short crop of wheat in England and France, one can not help thinking that we need not expect to see such low prices as have prevailed for some time past.

BARLEY.—This grain is almost unsaleable and the price is wretchedly low. It seems a pity to force sales of barley at present. I think as soon as the present glut has eased off, maisters will become free buyers to stock up, to hold over for another year, if prices should continue at anything like the present range. I think the price will improve later on. It is said there are cars loaded on the railway tracks at Buffalo six miles in length; and the railways do not want any more cars loaded until the blockade is relieved.

OATS.—Oats at about 28 cents per bushel is a very low price. The crop in Manitoba is short, and there will be some demand for shipment to that Province. In the spring there will also be a European demand, if prices continue low.

CLOVER SEED.—Owing to the demand in England and France last year for this continent, where the crop was short, and the high price which prevailed in consequence, more seed was grown last harvest in those countries, and the crop is also large in the States and Canada, although in some parts of Ontario red clover seed was injured by wet weather. So we may look for continued low prices for red clover this season. Alsyke clover will do better than the red clover. Choice red is worth $4.50, choicest Alsyke, $6 00 per bushel.

BUTTER.—The make of this article is turning out very deficient. In former years more butter was sold in the Peterborough market in one day than will be sold here altogether this season. It will keep the country busy to supply home wants this year. In Chicago they are still manufacturing butterine, notwithstanding the stringent prohibitive laws in force in the States.

The autumn business is now about over and this will be the last "Business Outlook" for some time, unless some unforeseen event should occur. I trust that they may have been of some use to the farmers in helping them to decide the best course to pursue in marketing their produce, and that they have been benefitted thereby. When I first wrote, in September, wheat was 70 cents in Peterborough—now it is 80 cents. Wheat, barley, cheese and clover seed have turned out as I have predicted, and we may expect to see wheat still improving in price until next May.

The Daily Review.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1886.

WHERE IS THE DISCREPANCY.

WE will imagine a group of three men conversing on George street:—

FIRS CONSERVATIVE:—"Did you see that fine black horse pass up George street?"

SECOND CONSERVATIVE:—"No, but I saw a pair of splendid brown horses driven down George street."

GRIT:—"What liars you Conservatives are! Why you are flatly contradicting each other and one of you must be telling a falsehood. I believe it is you F. C. for you are the biggest Conservative."

Of course there is no contradiction; both spoke truly of different circumstances.

This is a precise parallel to the contention of the Grits (honest Reformers are not so unfair) that Mr. Meredith was contradicted by Mr. Merrick in their evidence before the Commission as to the Bribery Conspiracy case hatched by Messrs. Pardee, McKim, Dowling & Co.

This is how they put it:—

Mr. MEREDITH, M. P. P.—"On the 17th of March this statement of Mr. Mowat was made. That was the first intimation which I had directly that any attempt was being made, or was said to have been made, to use improper means to secure the defeat of the Government."

Mr. MERRICK, M.P.P.—"After I heard the announcement, or at least the rumor, in the smoking-room, that some members had been approached. I mentioned the matter to Mr. Meredith. I think it must have been in the middle of the week preceding the date of the exposure of the plot."

GRIT PRESS AND SPOUTERS:—"Why, Meredith and Merrick flatly contradict each other on oath. One of them must be swearing falsely, and of course it is Meredith."

There is no more contradiction in this than in the previous case. Mr. Meredith may well have heard that "some members had been approached," without having any intimation of either a real or asserted attempt "to use improper means to secure the defeat of the Government." It is no more inconsistent than that one of his supporters should have seen the black horse going one way and not the pair of brown horses going the other way.

This charge of contradiction and falsehood is a dishonest attempt on the part of friends of Mr. Mowat to persuade careless readers that there is a discrepancy in the accounts given by Conservatives when none exists.

Having thus paved the way, they endeavor to maintain that Mr. Meredith did wrong in sanctioning or not opposing any "approaches" As a matter of fact the evidence goes to show that Mr. Meredith did not approve of these approaches. t If he had sanctioned approaches, or had even made them himself, what wrong would he have done? The very basis of our system of government includes the idea that electors will "approach" etectors, that members will "approach" members, that Ministers will "approach" representatives, and will endeavour by argument and persuasion to induce them to adopt the views, the policy and the measures of those who thus approach them. The very object of the debates in the Legislative Halls is to persuade and convince others. Almost every administration contains members in this manner "approached." Why our confederation itself was carried out by the leaders of both political parties "approaching" each other to unite in carrying out this great measure.

There is nothing wrong in approaching a political opponent if only honest means are used, and no one who knows Mr. R. W. Meredith will suspect him of using any other.

NO HALFBREED ROBBED.

IN his addresses to Peterborough audiences Wilfred Laurier let the keystone fall entirely out of his argument that the Northwest halfbreeds were justified in rebelling because they were driven out of possession of their homes and their lands.

With this assertion as the sole foundation for his justification of the rebels, and having had a year and a half to procure evidence in support of it, he only pretends to have found two cases. Only two cases as the cause of a general rising! And what are these cases?

In the first case, by his own showing (which appears inaccurate on some points), is was not a halfbreed who was robbed, but a halfbreed who robbed his priest.

In the second case, in answer to a question, he admitted that the entry made by one halfbreed of the land of another halfbreed was cancelled without any dispossession. He then said that the halfbreed might have another entry made of his land by some other, as he could not enter his narrow, river-frontage farm, owing to the square lot survey. But in the old Music Hall, in response to another question, he made the still further admission that the halfbreed could enter his lot by quarter of quarter sections running back from the river, a privilege that has been granted and that many of the halfbreeds have availed themselves of. Thus his second case proved as baseless as his first, and he has no other.

And so falls his justification of the rising under Riel. Even if being ousted from house and land is accepted as a palliation of rebellion, it cannot for a moment be allowed that a vague fear of being turned out some day by somebody can be held to justify a man in making war on his Queen and country or slaughtering his fellow subjects. And for this fear there was no cause, for they could have made their entries if they had chosen.

The general charges of robbing the halfbreeds of their land prove utterly empty, when these advocates of rebellion are put to the proof.

A SELF-CONFESSED REBEL.

WHEN the REVIEW requested Wilfred Laurier to answer a few plain questions, if he really wished, as he professed, to meet the charges made against him of being a rebel, it may have been open to him to ignore them.

But when he touched them and answered one, it was obvious that his declining to answer another was a plain confession that he could not do so.

Our second question, whether he had spoken of Riel as his brother, he answered in the negative. Then we can only say that he has been greatly maligned by the Quebec press of different shades of politics.

But to answer this question he passed over the first as to whether he said that if he had been on the banks of the Saskatchewan he would have taken his gun and fired it, and he thus passed over it knowing that it has been so stated, not only in Ontario, but in the Quebec press and in the House of Commons, without his repudiating it. He was reminded of it on the platform here, so he cannot plead forgetfulness.

It is on this fact, also, that mainly rests the charge made against him of being a rebel and a would-be murderer.

Silence under such circumstances certainly gives assent, and Wilfred Laurier, a Privy Councillor for Canada, stands before the people of Peterborough a self-confessed rebel.

HIGHLANDERS.

HIGHLANDERS and sons of Highlanders, Mr. Blake had the audacity to insult you by comparing your ancestors, on the ground of their devotion to the Stewarts, with the rebel Riel. When Prince Charles was wandering through the country in disguise with a reward of £30,000 on his head there was not found a Highland man base enough to betray him for the sake of the filthy lucre. The rebel Riel when he had deluded some and forced others of the halfbreeds into rising in rebellion with him, offered to sell his cause and his people for $5,000. What think you of Larriers insulting comparison?

Now received a large variety of the Willard Tract Depository's Publications consisting of Illuminated Scripture Books, Scripture Cards, and a general assortment of books, cards, etc., etc. JOHN ERSKINE.

Exodus of Negroes.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Dec. 17.—A special from Edwards, Miss., says the exodus of negroes from this vicinity continues unabated. Every train carries carloads of men, women and children, the victims of emigration agents, who make them believe that the bottom land section is a veritable negro paradise. The country hereabouts is fast being depopulated, many large planters not having a family of negroes left on their places. The merchants and planters are becoming apprehensive for another year's crop. The indignation of the people is increasing against the immigration agents.

NOT ASKED TO BE KING.

SOFIA, Dec. 16.—The Bulgarians deny that they have invited Prince Ferdinand, of Saze-Cobourg-Gotha, to become a candidate for the Bulgarian throne.

WILL NOT CHANGE.

DUBLIN, Dec 16.—United Ireland says: John Dillion's line of conduct will not be changed by the Government's sentence or compel him to furnish bond with two sureties for his "good behavior in future." "Nobody," says United Ireland, "cares a rush for Judge O'Brien's pious opinion concerning the legality of the plan of campaign."

EXTERMINATING THE DACOITS.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—Despatches from Mandalay state that Col. Heyland with a body of British troops recently pursued 700 Dacoits and killed 200 of them. Many others were made prisoners. Stores of ammunition were seized in several places.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The Daily News says: Lord Salisbury has carried the majority of the Cabinet with him in adopting Mr. Goschen's views of a Local Government bill as opposed to those of Lord R. Churchill, backed by Mr. Chamberlain, who wanted the original measure drafted by Sir C. Dilke, and elaborated by Mr. Chamberlain. The bill will, therefore, not be based upon the elective principle and will probably create dissensions in the Unionist party.

LONDONDERRY'S TENANTS.

DUBLIN, Dec. 16.—The tenants on the County Down estates of the Marquis of Londonderry, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, have refused to accept an abatement of ten percent. of judical rents.

PREPARED FOR EMERGENCIES.

ROME, Dec. 17.—In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday Signor Ricotti, the Minister of War, after reading the military budget, declared that Italy was now in a position to mobilize and virtual 400,000 troops, not counting the reserves. The work of providing the troops with repeating rifles has been begun, and 1,000,000 of them would be in use by 1888. Though at present there was nothing to threaten the peace of Italy, it was useless to ignore the warlike indications in the East. He believed Italy would be well prepared in the event of an outbreak.

A PAPER'S OPINION.

BELFAST, Dec. 16.—The News Letter, commenting on the action of the Government in arresting Messrs. Dillon and others, says: "The results would have been deplorable if the Government was weak enough to allow men who had just been ordered to find securities for their good behaviour to set the law at defiance."

A FAIR TRIAL.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—The Morning News says that it hopes the Government will grant the arrested men a fair trial and leave the country to decide between the leaders of the rent movement and their intended victims in the interim.

A NATIONALISTS APPEAL.

DUBLIN, Dec. 17.—The Freeman's Journal says it does not believe any movement against rack rents will induce the English people to consent to coercion. The paper appeals to the people to falsify the malign prediction that the arrests of the leaders in the campaign against rack rents would induce outrage.

ENGLAND AND THE VATICAN.

DUBLIN, Dec. 17.—The National learns that in connection with the question of appointing a British ambassador to the Vatican Lord Iddesleigh asked that the British Government shall have the right of objection to the appointment by the Vatican of dangerous men in filling vacancies in the Catholic sees of Great Britain. To this request the Vatican replied that persons who had rendered themselves liable to the action of law should not be encouraged anywhere, nor would they be. The reply further says that the dissemination of the gospel of peace is the object of the church.

The Church and the Knights.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—The Record says:—"An important conference, bearing on the relation of the Catholic Church to the Knights of Labor in the United States is believed to have taken place in this city yesterday between Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Corrigan, of New York, and Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia. Whatever occurred at the conference is kept a close secret, but it is understood the meeting was for the purpose of discussing thoroughly the principles of labor unions and labor political movements with a view of either condemning or approving them, according as they appear to be in conformity with the Church; also that any action that might be taken should be uniform throughout the country. It is believed the action of Archbishop Corrigan in suspending Dr. McGlynn formed the leading subject of the deliberation."

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

BLAKE AND LAURIER.

SPEECHES BY THE LIBERAL LEADERS IN BRADBURN'S HALL.

The Instances Cited by the Latter Where Halfbreeds Had Been Dispossessed are Flimsy Pretexts for Murder and Rebellion.

At half past two o'clock the Blake-Laurier meeting opened.

The hall was very prettily decorated with flags, evergreens, flowers and bunting. There were three large mottoes on the walls. "Equal Rights to all Citizens" was probably intended as a reminder to Mr. Laurier that he must be careful; "Many Races—All Canadians" was posted up in forgetfulness of the Reform secessionists in Nova Scotia, and "Mowat and Honest Government" may have been an ironical reference to Peck, formerly of Haliburton and colonization road expenditure in Algoma in election times.

On the platform were, besides the two speakers, Messrs. J. Bertram, chairman; Thos. Blezzard, M. P. P.; Geo. A. Cox, candidate in the Liberal interest for West Peterborough in the Dominion election; J. R. Stratton, the Ontario Government candidate for West Peterborough; J. Lang, the candidate in the Liberal interest for East Peterborough; A. R. Kidd, Warden of the county; the Rev. Father Conway, parish priest, Peterborough; the Rev. Father Fayol French priest, Peterborough; Rev. Father O'Connel, parish priest, Douro; D. W. Dumble, Police Magistrate of Peterborough; the Rev. I. Tovell, pastor of the George Street Methodist Church; T. E. Fitzgerald, E. B. Stone, T. G. Hazlitt, Dr. Massie, N. T. Leplante and several others.

Mr. Bertram in opening the meeting referred to the eminent men who had visited Peterborough during the last few months: Dr. Burns, of Hamilton, had given a splendid address on the rights and wrongs of Ireland and then they had an antidote from two gentlemen from the north of Ireland. Justice McCarthy, of world-wide reputation had visited them, and so had Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues (Applause) and now they had the Hon Edward Blake and the Hon. Mr. Laurier (Applause). He spoke for them a fair hearing. He went on to say that Mr. Blake was now applying scientific treatment to public questions—he was going on the "inductive method" Speaking on Mr. Laurier he said that a certain paper had said hard things of him. But it was like a man who had a swaring neighbor—he paid no attention to any violent statements which were made. He then introduced Mr. Cox.

Mr. Cox made some complimentary remarks as to the fine audience. He then referred to the REVIEW's attacks on the Hon Mr. Laurier and stated that he thought there was not a more truly loyal man in the Dominion than the man thus attacked (hear hear). The Government claimed credit for having constructed the Canadian Pacific Railway. He gave them credit for pluckily standing at the back of the Canadian Pacific railway company and voting away millions of the peoples money to build that railway. He congratulated the company on building a most magnificent railway. It was second to none in America in equipment construction and appointments. It was simply a magnificent road; but it had been constructed by the people's money and the company owned it. He did not think the government had enough shrewdness or the Canadian people would have owned the road. The people had now to pay for the road and they were already finding it a very heavy burden. It was the duty of the Government to fill up this vast country with farmers, that they might help to bear the burden and not to bring in mechanics to compete with Canadian labor. He was sorry that the Government did not build the Trent Valley Canal as well as the Canadian Pacific Railway. It must have disappointed the Conservatives here. In their carelessness in the management of the Northwest the Government and what had been squandered in rebellion, more had been wanted than would have built it. He had been represented on the platform as a protectionist. He was a protectionist in certain directions. He believed in fair protection to all. But under the National Policy the tariff was too high here and too low there. On some cases there was such an exorbitant tax on raw materials that those industries interested barely struggled for existence. He would not favor a change in the present trade policy; but he did not believe in taxing one person for the benefit of others. He would not be brought into line by any party. He would express his opinion according to his conviction. (Applause.) He asked for the united support of the people of Peterborough. (Applause.)

Hon. WILFRED LAURIER, in commencing, agreed with Mr. Bertram that the likening of the REVIEW unto a swearing neighbor was appropriate. The REVIEW had not treated him rightly. He believed if the editor of the REVIEW had been a lady he would not have had such treatment; but he entertained doubts as to whether the editor of the REVIEW was either a lady or gentleman. (Applause.) The REVIEW called him a rebel, a traitor and a sympathiser with murder and rebellion. These were strong adjectives. He did not object to strong adjectives, but he decidedly objected to misrepresentation. (Loud applause.) The REVIEW said a few days ago that he did not speak in Ontario as he did in Quebec. He denied the charge as false and baseless. He defied his bitterest opponent to point out to one single sentence where his language in the one Province on public questions differed from that uttered in another. His sentiments were the same here as they were there. He freely expressed them and believed them to be those of a true Canadian. (Applause.) The REVIEW said that he did not say in the city of Toronto what he said in Quebec—that "Louis Riel was his brother." He did not repeat it because he never said it. He dwelt upon the privileges which Britain granted to Quebec, and on these grounds he said he was a loyal subject. He denied that he preached in Quebec that Riel was a patriot and that in Ontario Mr. Blake preached that he was insane. But he could say that Riel was more fit for a lunatic asylum than for hanging. He was a perfect crank. But at the same time he was the champion of an oppressed race. (Here loud shouts came from all over the hall of "no, no," "traitor," "rebel," accompanied by hisses. Someone shouted "put them out," but the speaker said "let them stay in, its not the saved I come to convert but its the sinners.") After this he struck off on a different tack, finding, by the angry clamour, that he gave the people all they could stand on Riel's patriotism. He argued that the Government were to blame for the rebellion. The halfbreed rights had not been respected, they had been goaded on to rebellion, and the Government was to blame for it. He defended the halfbreed rebellion and his own position by citing the case of Lord Chatham, who declared in the English House of Commons that, at the time of the American rebellion, if he were an American, as long as foreign troops were in the land he would never lay down his arms. No one said that Chatham was a traitor (applause). He himself was loyal but he was not a slave (applause) and there was good reason for the rising of his countrymen. He repeated that he was not a rebel. La Minerve, a French paper charged him with saying that Riel had murdered Scott. The REVIEW called him a rebel because he upheld the rights of the halfbreeds. He contended that the Tories were appealing to the prejudices of the people of both provinces. (Hear, hear.) All they wanted was the retention of power. (Applause.) It had been said of him that he maintained that Riel should not have been executed. But had he not said that Riel was guilty of murder? He held the Government responsible for all the blood spilled and treasure spent in that Northwest Campaign. The Government of Canada had dishonored itself in not treating the half-breeds as they should have been treated (here here). They had denied their rights for seven years. They had petitioned but their petitions were unheeded. At last these poor halfbreeds had to take their lives in their hands and fight for their rights. It was the battle at Duck Lake that forced the Government into action. The halfbreeds had such grievances as to goad them to madness and force them to rebel. The opposition in Parliament knew that the people were discontented. They asked for papers papers in 1883 but did not get them till 1885 when the rebellion was broken out. It was like pulling teeth to get the papers from the Government. (Laughter.) The people when the rebbellion broke out asked for information about it—why was it that the halfbreeds rebelled? They rebelled simply because they didn't get their rights. In Manitoba the halfbreeds had their land surveyed in narrow strips ten chains frontage and two miles deep. The Saskatchewan halfbreeds wanted the same thing but the Government refused to give it to them. The square block system was introduced and the halfbreeds were dispossessed (shouts of "point that out.") Mr. White said here that not a single case could be pointed out where a halfbreed had been dispossessed by the whites. But he could prove that there had been halfbreeds dispossessed. (Shouts, "you cannot.") The policy of the Government was such as not only did dispossess the halfbreeds, but it was liable to eject them one by one. He went on to tell how the Northwest was settled up, and stated that in 1878 Mackenzie recognized the claims of the halfbreeds, out on account of his being put out of office by that plan of Sir John Macdonald's labelled the National Policy (Applause and hisses), he was unable to carry his recognizance into effect. With the change of the Government policy also changed the Northwest policy. The halfbreeds were denied British fair play and after long suffering they rebelled. A petition had been sent in for a re-survey and it was granted and he held the Government responsible for deceiving the people there. He read a letter from Mr. Duck, land agent at Prince Albert, advising a re-survey. It had been said that under the Government's management of the Northwest not a single halfbreed had been dispossed and he had been challenged to point out an instance (applause). He took issue. He could point to the Kelly case. Father Andre wrote to the Government stating that he had been in peaceable possession of 200 acres of land for 7 years at Duck Lake and that a man named J. Kelly had jumped his claim. It was true that Kelly had written to the Mail, making an affidavit that he purchased the land from a man named Thibeau, who had possessed it for some years and had made his claim good by doing the necessary improvements, but that made no difference. Mr. Laurier also acknowledged that Father Andre bought the land back from Kelly for $100, but that seemed to make no difference either. This was the first instance where the halfbreeds had been dispossessed by the whites. The next case cited was that of T. Salter. This man had come in and had entered a claim at the land office for a quarter section dispossessed a halfbreed who had improved the land and had a just right to it.

Mr. TOKER, editor of the REVIEW, asked if Salter's application was not cancelled.

Mr. LAURIER—Well what if it was cancelled. That doesn't make any difference. If Salter didn't dispossess him someone else might. The halfbreeds have rights. They should not be disturbed in their possession of lands.

Mr. TOKER—That halfbreed never was disturbed.

Mr. LAURIER said that the person questioning him was only echoing the state-

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the ourden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

BLAKE AND LAURIER.

ments of the Hon. Mr. White. He then went on to tell over again how the half-breeds settled on their lands. The Government knew that they were discontented and they should have treated them well. If they had done so the rebellion would not have broken out. The Government had not carried out their promise of re-survey. Was this not a grievance? (Two or three on the platform—"yes.") The rest of his speech went to prove his loyalty. He was loyal to the Queen and constitution. (Applause.) He hoped that the people would send in a Government at the next elections that would do its duty and that it would be headed by the Hon. Edward Blake. (Loud and long applause and shouts of "never.")

The CHAIRMAN, in introducing Mr. Blake asked the audience to give him a good reception.

Mr. BLAKE was received with cheers. He regretted that he could only offer them the remains of his voice, as it was affected by a cold. His pleasure in visiting Peterborough was enhanced by meeting so many old friends. He was surprised, however, in marking the other signs of progress, at the remarks made by some of the other speakers. On the previous occasion on which he came here they had just had a visit from the Ministers, and he had expected that on their recent visit the Ministers had come by the Trent Valley Canal. There was, however, no Trent Valley Canal. He had been asking for the estimate of the costs of the canal, but could not get them. They would, he thought, be guiled no longer by promises regarding the canal.

A VOICE—You will remain in Opposition.

Mr. BLAKE—I hope so, if you are on the other side.

Many voices cried "put him out," meaning the man who had interrupted, and there was considerable noise.

Mr. BLAKE proceeded to say that he had come here with his friend Mr. Laurier. Mr. Laurier thought that his visit would dispel some of the misapprehensions regarding him.

Some talking under the gallery again interrupted the speaker.

Mr. BLAKE again resumed and said that his weak voice would not allow him to overcome any noise, and asked for complete silence. He had read a Peterborough paper for the last few days, and was assumed at its language. He condemned what he termed the strokes of these hypocritical fires for calling on the people, in its last issue, to give Mr. Laurier an uninterrupted hearing. He said that Mr. Meredith was Sir John Macdonald's lieutenant, but Mr. Mowat was not his (Mr. Blake's) lieutenant. In Provincial politics he was independent, but was a consistent follower of Mr. Mowat. He would not pretend that every step Mr. Mowat had taken met with his approval, but he knew of no Government in office so long that had done so much, done so well and made so few mistakes as Mr. Mowat's Goverment had. He eulogized their administration. They had not hoarded up money, but it had judiciously expended it. The time was passed when a Government should go ahead of public opinion. Mr. Mowat had been contending against a foreign policy and engaged in a defence of the rights of the Province against foes abroad and traitors within. He had been contending for home rule in Provincial affairs, and the speaker instanced the licenses, escheats and boundary cases. Mr. Mowat was fighting the Provincial Opposition. Who cared for Mr. Meredith or Mr. Carnegie? Mr. Mowat was fighting Sir John Macdonald. The reputation of the great constitutional lawyer had been shattered. Sir John Macdonald was asking them to turn out the watch dog and let in his brother wolf, Mr. Meredith. Mr. Mowat's opponents had begun another system of warfare—a cowardly system. They were giving incitements to cause a war of religions, The Mail was doing this work, but the Conservative candidates dare not use the same arguments on the platform. They attempted to run with the hares and hunt with the hounds, but one section of the community could not stay with them on account of the action of the Mail. They had had a regular Opposition in the Legislature, and if anything had been done to the injury of the majority in the Province would they not have objected? Some of the changes complained of had been made previous to the last two elections. The Separate Schools had been established previous to confederation and had been confirmed by the constitution of the country, so that they could not be taken away. He would not have the public schools made Protestant schools, because he hoped that all children would yet attend those schools. The Protestant churches had asked to have Scripture read in the schools. The Government took a book of selections which had been prepared and submitted it to a committee representing various churches, who approved of it. Yet it was said, however, that some poison had been instilled into it because it had been submitted to Archbishop Lynch. He rejoiced when he heard that His Grace had seen the selections, because of his desire to have national schools. These selections were now read in more schools than the Bible had been read in before. The Government had arranged for a great improvement in the schools. He thanked God when the selections were adopted, and he thanked God on account of it still. Had the Protestants not confidence in their religion? And when they were five to one were they in danger of being overborne? The Liberal party would remain true to civil liberty, equality and freedom of conscience. As the Protestants were strong they could afford to be generous. All minorities had susceptibilities, and they ought to be respected. He had not the slightest apprehension of giving liberal justice to the minority. He would up and running over. He would have liked to have discussed various Dominion questions, but he would not because they had able men among them. He hoped that he would be able to revisit Peterborough and discuss these topics. He would touch another phrase of the North west question. In 1869 the half-breeds in Manitoba made claims, which were conceded. One of them was the right of the Indians to the lands generally. The half-breeds in the Northwest had the same claims and rights. In 1878 these claims were pressed by the Northwest half-breeds. He censured the Government for not having attended to these claims. In 1884 the half-breeds despaired and sent for Riel. The only thing the Government did was to send a man to remove the rifles which were in that section for volunteers and to ask the Hudson's Company for Fort Carleton. In January, 1885, an Order-in-Council was passed to enumerate the half-breeds, but nothing was done until the rebellion broke out. There were 2,000 persons with this grievance, and although only a few who rose had these grievances, the relatives of these few rose with them. There were twenty-four declarations in the Mail to-day made by half-breeds, but he claimed that eleven of them tended to show that the Government had neglected the half-breeds. No man's pulse beat faster because those two hundred half-breeds rose. The danger was that others should join them. In desperate dread and anxiety the Government sent a Commission to investigate the half-breed claims. He charged the Government with being responsible for all the blood spilt and all the results of the rebellion. In older days they would have been in danger of their lives. He admitted that there was treason on the banks of the Saskatchewan, and that it had not a legal or moral justification, yet there were grounds for palliation, and there had been treason in Ottawa. The people should put other men in the place of those who now governed. The Government, he said, pleaded that all their sins were washed away by the blood of Louis Riel. If they did do their duty in executing Louis Riel it must have been a painful one to honorable men, especially when they had caused the rebellion. The Mail had gone further and published diatribes against the French Canadians and the Catholics. Ontario had nothing to do with Quebec institutions. There was a way in which they could do good, and that was to exemplify in their lives the virtues they wished others to adopt. He again urged them to be just and generous. He trusted that Mr. Mowat would be successful and that the Liberal party would be successful in the Dominion elections. He resumed his seat amid applause.

The meeting closed with cheers for the Queen, the band playing the national anthem, and while it was playing a joint cheer for Messrs. Blake and Laurier was given.

NOTES.

The decorators of the hall were either very fresh or very imaginative for they had placed the Royal Crown and V. R. over the platform, on which stood Laurier the Privy Councillor, forsworn to his Sovereign, and ready, if handy, to wage war on her and her subjects.

The band welcomed the visitors with "Auld Lang Syne," probably in reminiscense of the days of Prince Charles and his trusty highlanders compared by Laurier to Riel and his rebels.

Mr. Bertram, the chairman, made a little slip. He said Mr. G. A. Cox was a candidate at the next election, and therefore, should be heard. He seemed quite to forget that Mr. J. R. Stratton is the Reform candidate at the next election and did not call upon him to speak. He did, however, in the evening.

Mr. J. R. Stratton was on the platform for he immediately afterwards led cheers for Laurier the rebel.

THE FRENCH ADDRESS

In the evening at half past seven o'clock the French Canadians of Peterborough with many of our English speaking people assembled in the old Music Hall, which was decorated with mottoes, flags, &c., to hear an address by Wilfred Laurier.

On entering with Mr. Laplante he was received with cheers.

Mr. Laplante took the chair, there being also on the platform (some of them entering later) the Rev. Father Fayol and Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, J. B. McWilliams and T. G. Hazlitt.

Mr. LAPLANTE, speaking in French, said he would introduce to the audience the Hon. Wilfred Laurier, leader of the Dominion Opposition in Quebec.

Mr. LAURIER, speaking in French, described his satisfaction in having this opportunity of speaking his own language to a meeting of his compatriots. He supposed the majority of his audience had been supporters of Sir John Macdonald, and he had no wish to force their conscience, but he thought they might change their politics and support Mr. Blake and Mr. Mowat. Not long ago the majority of the people of Quebec had supported Sir J. A. Macdonald, but now there was a change. He spoke of his pride in being French, though he spoke as a British subject. The French, he maintained, should have their rights, and he asked nothing more. He claimed it had been the French of Quebec who had been the first to recognize the right of the Protestant minority to Separate schools. Ontario had followed the example under J. Sandfield Macdonald of granting Separate schools to the Catholic minority. This was guaranteed by our constitution at confederation. He charged, without proving it, that the Ontario Conservatives were attacking Separate schools, and insinuated, rather than asserted, that Mr. Carnegie was of the number. He claimed that the Protestant minority in Quebec had always supported the Conservative Government of Quebec, so it was evident that they were not oppressed. He said he had come especially to Ontario to meet the charges against him of countenancing the Northwest rebellion. He accused the Government of causing it, and being responsible for it and all its consequences. He maintained that rebellion was sometimes justifiable and referred to the old history of Canada. He declared that the Northwest rebellion had still more to justify it. He complained that Mr. Chapleau had not treated him fairly when he was in Peterborough. As to the rebellion, he admitted that Riel had much to do with it, but argued that he could have done nothing if the Metis had not had grievances. Their principal grievance was in connection with the land, and he gave much the same account of this question as he had done in English in the afternoon. He laid especial stress on the social character of the French, which led them to have their farms close together in long strips running back from the river. The Metis on the Saskatchewan naturally followed this plan. He read the letter of Father Andre pointing out the inconvenience and injury that would arise in his settlement if the square lots were adhered to, but did not say that the change he desired had been carried out by the Government wherever there were a number of French half-breeds together. He again read the petition of Gabriel Dumont and others, but did not tell his hearers that three-quarters of these petitioners were not North-west halfbreeds at all but were new arrivals from Manitoba who had already received their lands, sold them and moved on to try it again. He related the promise made to Father Leduc to lay out river lots for his flock, but misrepresented this promise as applying to the Saskatchewan settlements generally. He made a great deal of the Government not bringing down the written promise given to Father Leduc to show his flock, as if they could ransack Father Leduc's desk. He declared that the promise had not been carried out in spite of the fact that it was for the locality in question, though not of course for the whole Northwest. He greatly amused his audience with the story of a man who sent a crowd to look for a whale in the Port of Marseilles, and finished by going to look for it himself. Apropos of this he repeated his tale of Metis robbed of their land and then gave his two cases, a halfbreed not robbed but robbing a priest, and a half-breed who entered on another halfbreed's lot but had his entry cancelled, as he admitted in answer to a question. He complained that the French Metis of St. Laurent has been kept waiting longer than the Scotch highlands of Prince Albert, but did not explain that the Prince Albert settlement was made much earlier. He claimed that the Metis had been tyrannically treated. He disavowed that he raised any question or race of creed, and said that though his sympathies were of course with his own race, yet he wished justice for all. The Conservatives were very fond of the French when having their support. But now some Conservatives were leaving them, and he named some of the National party. He turned the cry of Provincial rights into an appeal on behalf of Mr. Mowat. He seemed very angry with Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Meredith because they would not agree with some journals that he condemned for insulting the French. He concluded with an eloquent peroration.

The meeting terminated by the chairman calling for three cheers for the Queen and Mr. Laurier which were given.

Young Men's Meetings.

The good singing has always been a point for which the Young Men's Christian Association meetings were noted. In future at the Saturday night meetings it will be led by one of the best cornetists in town, Mr. John Miller.

A Musket.

During the meeting in the Opera House on Friday afternoon Laurier produced a toy gun which had been sent to him, probably as a reminder of his boast at the Champ de Mars, Montreal, and afterwards at Chambly, that if in the Northwest at the time of the rebellion he would have shouldered his musket and used it. But though given this strong hint he neither acknowledged nor denied that he uttered the expression.

Grand Opening.

Messrs. Porter Bros., the carriage makers, will hold a grand opening of their show rooms on the first Wednesday before Christmas, when a magnificent stock of cutters and sleighs will be shown. The exhibition will embrace those of the latest styles in designs and finish. The painting is especially a strong point, that part being accomplished by Mr. R. Martin, a finisher of recognised reputation, he having served ten years in the leading carriage manufactories of Hamilton, London and Chatham The exhibition will be well worth seeing.

Our Police Magistrate.

Many comments are made, and not only by Conservatives, on the gross impropriety committed by our Police Magistrate in taking a seat on the platform on Friday. It is bad enough that Mr. D. W. Dumble should make hot partisan speeches at party meetings, but it is too much that he should thus publicly advertise his disregard for the breach of his oath by a Privy Councillor. When he does so, how can he expect that implicit confidence will be placed in his regard for his own oath as a Magistrate, it influenced by party considerations. He should respect his quasi-judicial position, if not himself.

OUR stock of Photograph Albums is immense, beautiful, and at prices that satisfy all. A. L. DAVIS & Co.

To the Electors.

You will soon be called upon to cast your ballot for one or other of the candidates in the West Riding election. That is well. You will also be expected to use your own judgment in the discharge of this duty. That also is commendable. You will have the privilege of voting for one candidate only, so that it will be of no use promising more than the one for whom you intend to vote. This, too, is essentially proper. You are expected to poll your vote early, and then look after others and see that they do likewise. That also is desirable. During the day of election, you will doubtless have your share of out-door work, and you will not feel at all comfortable if the weather is cold and stormy. This is bad—decidedly bad—but there is a remedy, electors. Before the 23th let every elector in the riding call on A. MCNEIL, Habiliment Hall, and get a comfortable and well-made election overcoat or suit.

THE "QUIET" CANVASS.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—Would you kindly publish the following correspondence? I may say that to my last letter given below I have received no reply, and as I find the unfounded charge is still being used to injure Mr. Carnegie I think it only right that the public should know the truth of the matter referred to.

Your obedient servant,
W. H. MOORE.

PETERBOROUGH, 19th, Nov. 1886.

DEAR SIR,—Mr. Timothy Cavanagh states to me that he had a conversation with you recently in which you said that I had told you Mr. Carnegie did not thank any Roman Catholic for his support.

As I have had no conversation with you upon any matter political or in regard to the election now pending and it is quite untrue that I ever used such an expression, I have to ask you to do me the favour, over your name, of relieving me from this imputation.

I find the above is being used to Mr. Carnegie's detriment and I therefore beg you to reply on receipt and much oblige

Yours truly,
W. H. MOORE.

Dr. Kincaid, Peterborough.

PETERBOROUGH, Nov. 19, 1886.

DEAR SIR,—In reply to yours of this day's date, received by special messenger from your office, I beg to say that the words you used were as follows: "Mr. Carnegie holds that he can be elected without the aid of the Catholic vote."

Other words followed, but the above struck me as rather peculiar coming from one holding the high position you do in the party.

I remain,
Very faithfully yours,
R. KINCAID.

W. H. Moore, Esq., Barrister, &c., Town.

PETERBOROUGH, Nov. 22, 1886.

DEAR SIR.—In yours of the 19th instant I observe that you do not answer what I wrote you regarding whether it was a fact that you had informed Mr. Cavanagh that I had said to you Mr. Carnegie did not thank any Roman Catholic for his support.

The words you now attribute to me are of very different import from the above, and it may be considered significant, I think, that you do not name the time nor place of their being used, nor whether it was on the occasion of a private conversation or public utterance. But however that may be, I altogether repudiate the using of the words you put in quotation marks. They are not mine nor is the sentiment contained in them mine. You have, I fear, heard the story from some one who invented it, for its supposed political effect. That is the most charitable view I can take of the matter.

Yours truly,
W. H. MOORE.

Dr. Kincaid, Peterborough.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—A duel with swords was found yesterday morning in Humboldt Park. One of the contestants receiving a sword thrust through the breast and his opponent was cut across the face, and will probably bear the scar for some time. With this drawing of blood the duelists seemed to be satisfied, for they quickly got into their carriages, which were driven to the nearest drug store, where their wounds were dressed. Circumstances point to the Editor of the Pharmaceutical Journal, and a young medical student as the principals. It is said the cause of the affair was a dispute as to the hand of a young lady.

MONDAY. DECEMBER 20. 1886.

THE NOMINATIONS.

Tomorrow at noon the official nominations of candidates to represent West Peterborough in the Legislative Assembly of Ontario will be taken at the Court House, Peterborough.

The nominations for East Peterborough will take place at the same time at the Town Hall, Norwood.

After the nominations there will be addresses by the candidates.

A VILE FORGERY.

THERE is often a difference of opinion between the Peterborough REVIEW and the Belleville Ontario, and we suppose we must agree to differ. We cannot, however, see that such difference of opinion justifies the Ontario in using a most cowardly and dishonest trick to injure our character. In its issue of Dec 18 it inserts a disgraceful forgery containing false statements, slanders of honest men, and so forth, to which it further forges the name of the Peterborough REVIEW. If the Ontario must publish such vile falsehoods and abuse, we will thank it not to affix our name to its ribaldry. The organs of Messrs. Mowat and Blake seem to be growing so desperate that they stick at no means, however despicable, of injuring their political opponents.

MR. BLAKE AND PROHIBITION.

The following article from the Montreal Witness, a staunch Reform journal, shows how Mr. Blake's tergiversation and truckling to political expediency are regarded by some of his old followers:—There are times when a blunder is really worse than a crime. Mr. Blake is one of the most conscientious of men, but he has committed a moral blunder which, unless Heaven forfend, may easily prove more mischievous to his country than ten thousand crimes. He has thrown his mighty moral influence on the side of the liquor makers and liquor sellers, every one of whom will rejoice exceedingly in his attitude on the Prohibition question. He has thrown his mighty moral weight in the path of Prohibition. For every broken home and every broken heart over which the country will have to weep during that postponement, Mr. Blake will be morally responsible. He has theories of law and he follows them; he makes no room in his reasoning for the conclusion reached by men who are actually at work trying to save men, who have laboured in anguish for the purpose, who have tried moral suasion till it seemed positively foolish in the presence of licensed temptation. Here are, on the one side, the whole host of the religious and benevolent who have been forced to the conclusion that so long as temptations are publicly, and with the countenance of the community, held forth to our growing boys, so long will a proportion of them be brought to ruin, and so long will the community be responsible for that ruin. On the other side are the Sybarite philosophers who deplore evil at a distance and have theories about it, and the bar room moralists who glibly proclaim themselves the true temperance reformers, a claim which they share with the Montreal Herald. The deep and settled conviction of all the religious classes counts for nothing with Mr. Blake against some theory of his. But what sort of even theoretic righteousness is there in a system by which the state licenses mills to be fed day by day with the bright youth of the land and remorselessly to crush their souls out, and receive revenue from this destruction. When the earnest women of Ohio had labored long and vainly for the salvation of those who were dear to them and these whom they pitied, they went with earnest words and much prayer to the tavern-keepers, thinking that if only they saw the evil they were doing they would desist. With a few exceptions, which made no permanent difference in the volume of the business, these simply replied that they had paid for their licenses. Their business and they individually were guaranteed respectable by the state, and as long as this was done and they kept within the law no one had any fault to find. What could these women then do but turn to their own husbands and brothers and sons and plead with them that this public infamy should no longer be permitted. It is for a continuance of this iniquity that Mr. Blake has declared. As was said to Queen Esther when a similar license system had been inaugurated for the destruction of her people, salvation will arise to the people from another quarter.—Montreal Witness, Dec. 16, 1886.

NICHOLLS HOSPITAL.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The main cause of complaint to-day among the ratepayers is not what it has cost, the first 12 or 18 months, to maintain the Nicholls Hospital, but what the ratepayers have actually been compelled to pay in their taxes this year to this institution, and also they have no idea what they will have to pay in the years to come, having no control of the spending of their money. The council should control the spending of the thousands of our money which will doubtless be demanded, and not a body of men chosen either by Mrs. Nicholls or the churches. Few men can be found who favor the continuity of this institution by the town. Provision dealers and merchants who would be likely to lose the patronage of such and a few friends of the person after whom it is named might object. We are asked to possess ourselves in patience. We can't do it or we won't do it, until this thing is put right. How far will Mrs. Nicholls' $300.00 (and warmest interest) go towards maintaining this hospital? It don't pay within $25 a year the salary of the lady superintendent and hired man and their board. The wages and board of the present staff amounts to $1,296 00 a year, to say nothing about fuel, light, bedding, wear and tear to furniture and a thousand and one things of which we will hear nothing until we have to pay for them. Ratepayers, should there come an influx of non-paying patients into this institution and the staff of nurses and attendants doubled, are you aware that you can be compelled to pay all expenses over and above the $900 above mentioned? This I understand is the position the charter of Nicholls Hospital places you in. And, moreover, see what it costs you to convey a few hundred dollars to some of our afflicted townspeople. About $3,000 has to be spent yearly to convey this little help to them. There are men and women paying taxes to this concern who can't pay their own bread or doctor's bill. Men and women who are grinding their very life and soul out to make an honest dollar and are forced to support this staff of officials and assistants from their scant earnings. Ratepayers, should this be so? Ratepayers, are we expressing your sentiments when we say we won't stand this sort of thing? If we are compelled to (which Heaven forbid) we will legislate at once to change the name of this institution Let your answer to the above questions be heard loud and distinct at the polls of 1887 Vote for no man who refuses to pledge himself to do all in his power to relieve you of this burden.

TAXPAYER.

BLAKE AND LAURIER.

A CONTINUATION REPORT OF THEIR SPEECHES.

Blake Says that the Minority in Quebec are not Oppressed and Laurier says That they Are—Which are We to Believe?

At the evening meeting in the Opera House there was a very large attendance, and there were a number of ladies in the audience. When Mr. Blake entered he was received with cheers. Mr. Bertram again occupied the chair.

The CHAIRMAN opened the proceedings with a few remarks, and called on Mr. J. R. Stratton, the Reform candidate for the Provincial Legislature.

Mr. STRATTON expressed his pleasure at the opportunity afforded him of addressing such a large audience. He was sure that they had been delighted in the afternoon with the address of Mr. Laurier and the address of Mr. Blake. As this meeting had been called in the interest of the candidate for the Commons, he would not take up much of their time. The local questions had been discussed on that platform at the meeting when Mr. Bertram appeared for him. Sympathy had been expressed for him because he had not attended, but he had written a letter to his opponent explaining his reasons for not holding joint meetings, reasons to which he still adhered. He referred to the Boundary Award and Streams Bill, and claimed that Mr. Mowat deserved support on account of his position on these questions. He charged the Conservatives with endeavoring of deprive Ontario of its territory. He said that the Privy Council had ratified the boundary award, and Mr. Mowat thought that that settled the question of the ownership of the land, but now a suit was before the courts to settle that part of question. Mr. Mowat appeared and defended a suit on the Streams Bill, and the Government also entered a suit with the Dominion in regard to escheats. The insurance case was another instance of the encroachment. His opponent handled the Separate School question as if it were fire, but Mr. Bertram had explained it fully and showed that the changes in the law had only given the Roman Catholics the same privileges as Protestants. He had endeavored to make a personal canvass, and he asked all present to come out on the 28th and support the Mowat Government, which was a capable and honest Government and had $6,776,000 of a surplus. He believed, there was something told him, that he would be elected. There were Conservatives who were taking a more patriotic view of the situation and would support him—(laughter)—and he asked the Liberals to give him strong support. He sat down amid cheers.

The CHAIRMAN said he welcomed young Stratton to the ranks of public speakers. He then called on the Hon. Edward Blake.

Mr. BLAKE was received with loud cheers. He regretted that he came before them with a very exhausted voice. He repeated that Mr. Mowat was not his lieutenant, but that Mr. Mowat followed him in Dominion politics and he followed Mr. Mowat in Provincial politics. He eulogized the Mowat Government for some time in general terms. He went over the boundary matter, and said that under the federal system he held that the Provincial Legislature should have full power to deal with every question that did not interefere with Dominion interests. If they had to submit their laws to the Dominion Cabinet they might as well let the Cabinet make their laws at once. They disallowed the Streams Bill, but the Privy Council decided that the Streams Bill took no man's property from him. He also referred to the License matter. He had thought the Provincial Opposition would stand up for the rights of the Province, but it was not so, and they defended Sir John on the ground that as Mr. Mowat had made a bad use of the license law, the power should be taken from the Province. They knew now why it was, because Mr. Meredith was Sir John' lieutenant. He repeated what he had said in the afternoon in regard to the Bible in the schools, his desire for national schools, and Separate schools. He appealed to them to rally to the support of Mr. Mowat. In Dominion politics there were the questions of finance, with the burdensome tariff, the Senate, and other questions. He wished them to consider whether they would continue longer the anomaly of the Dominion Senate. The members of the Senate were nominated by the ministers of the Crown.

Some talking near the door interrupted the speaker at this point and the Chairman asked for complete silence.

Mr. BLAKE, continuing, said that the first Minister made the Senators. How many of the Senators did they know the names of? Some of them were appointed on account of their creed, or their services to the party, and some because the people had rejected them at the polls. And, no matter how they became moral, physical or mental wrecks they retained their seats so long as they could drag their weary bodies once in two years to the Senate. The Senate should be made elective. There was also the question of Parliamentary independence, and others, but he would dwell principally on the Northwest rebellion.

At this point Mr. Laurier entered and was cheered.

Mr. BLAKE said the question of the Northwest was the greatest political question. The form of governing the North-west was a difficult one, because the people there had no representatives in Parliament. He did not complain of that, as it was to a certain extent necessary, but it threw more responsibility on the Government. They proposed to settle that country on a better system than had been adopted in any other country Large sums were spent for that purpose, on the Mounted Police, Indians and Canadian Pacific Railway. The population of the country was threefold. One part of the population was Indians, who were mostly Pagan and hunters by nature. The Indians, who had been without control, were pent up on reserves, and send the white men dominating and themselves degraded. Could they wonder that the Indians were dissatisfied? He did not blame the Government for that, but it made it all the more necessary for the Government to be attentive. The buffalo, which had furnished the Indian with clothing and food, disappeared, and the Indians were in danger of starving. This added another duty of providing for them. The halfbreed was and important element in the population. The halfbreed was a means of communication between the whites and the Indians, and it was necessary that he should be treated generously, in consideration of policy as well as of justice. They knew the conditions of the white settlements, scattered, and largely at the mercy of the Indians. The officials appointed to go to the North-west should be of the best character. The halfbreeds had many grievances but he would only deal with one that of the Indian title. There was a rebellion in 1869 in the Northwest, caused by the precipitancy of the Government in sending up surveyers. The rising results in a proposal for consiliation, and among the claims conceded was that of the title of the Indians in the land. For the halfbreeds of the east 14,000,000 acres of land was set apart. The halfbreeds in the west did not participate in this settlement, yet what was justice on the Red river was justice on the banks of the Saskatchewan. The halfbreeds of the west claimed the same justice that the others got. In 1873 the Government took power to deal with the matter, but from that time they did nothing until the winter of 1885, although the people sent petitions and deputations to Ottawa. After five years an event occured which should have caused contenation—Louis Riel was invited into the Northwest; Riel, who had such great influence with the halfbreeds and Indians. The Indians had caused trouble before, and the half breeds and Indians were in a explosive condition. There was no excuse for losing a day without action after Riel arrived. A meeting held in the Northwest telegraphed a resolution to Ottawa, and Sir John Macdonald replied that it would be considered when the minister of the Interior, who was absent, returned. Whether it was considered or not nothing was done. There were two duties of Government—that of dealing justly with the people and that of suppressing insurrection when it occurred. The Government was not altogether neglectful of the second duty. They sent up to the Northwest to have the arms there taken away, and in connection with this papers had been withheld. In January, 1885, an Order-in-Council was passed to number the halfbreeds with a view to a settlement, but proceedings to do it were not taken. Then the fight at Duck Lake took place, and a commission was appointed but when the Commissioner went to Winnipeg he telegraphed to have fuller powers. At that time the rebellion was in progress. The people rose on account of this claim. He referred again to the declarations in the Mail, and repeated that he held the Government responsible for the rebellion and its consequences, and charged them with treason. In the execution of Riel the Government might have been right or might have been wrong. (A voice—explain.) They knew his opinion, and he was prepared to defend it, even before an Orange Lodge. He had no doubt it was an Orangeman who interrupted him just now. The Government could not claim that the blood of Louis Riel washed away their sins. They had, through the Mail, attempted to stir up race and religious prejudices. Ontario could not interfere with Quebec institutions, and the minority in Quebec was not oppressed. They were past the age of intolerance and jealousy, and could not be led away by delusive and dangerous cries. He believed the censure of the Government would be decisive.

The CHAIRMAN then asked for an attentive hearing for Mr. Laurier.

Mr. LAURIER, who entered as the Hon. Edward Blake was speaking, was received with loud applause, followed by hisses for several minutes. He commenced, as in the afternoon, with condemning the REVIEW for terming him a rebel. It appeared to him that that paper was written in pure cussedness. (Laughter and hisses.) He denied the charge made by the Hon. Mr. Chapleau that he was an atheist. (Hear, hear.) If he met Mr. Chapleau on the platform face to face he would answer him in the way he deserved to be answered. He knew Mr. Chapleau to be a very religious man—in election times. (Laughter.) He compared Mr. Chapleau to the Pharisee and the other people to the publican. (Laughter.) He claimed that Mr. Chapleau, in common with the rest of the Tories, appealed to race and creed prejudice and not to reason. He repeated his sentiments on the Scott murder as in the afternoon. He claimed that the Conservatives of Quebec held that the killing of Scott wasn't murder. For years the French Canadians had kept the Conservatives in power and now that they were leaving the the Conservatives the latter were trying to appeal to race and creed prejudices. It had been said that the Protestants of Quebec had been oppressed. They were and it was the Tories who oppressed them. He was one of the great Liberal party. He had prevented the organization of a catholic party to Lower Canada in 1877. He was proud to belong to the race redounded for their chivalry and generosity, but he was a Canadian above everything. (Applause.) He went on at some length in protestations of his loyalty. But he did not believe in being ground in the dust. It was not against England that the halfbreeds rebelled first against the Canadian Government.

He resumed his seat amid applause and hisses.

The Two Stories Told to Suit Different Audiences.

The Montreal Gazette writes speaking as follows:—"It may suit Mr. Laurier to dub the halfbreeds who rose in rebellion 'miserable wretches' when before an Ontario audience, but that is not the kind of language he uses in this Province. On the Champ de Mars he declared 'If I had been on the banks of the Saskatchewan when the rebellion broke out I would have taken up arms against the Government.' He repeated that statement during the Chambly contest last July, and on the same occasion thus harangued his hearers:—' I will speak only on the Riel issue. We stand on the classic grounds of Canadian Liberty'; we stand in the place of those who were not afraid to face British bullets. It is for you to punish the Government who executed our brother, the Metis leader.' Mr. Laurier's opinions of the Metis and of 'his brother Riel' are modified or intensified according to the character of the audience he happens to be addressing."

New Way to get Rich.

The Provincial Treasurer, in making out his wonderful surplus, not only counts the trust funds in the hands of the Dominion Government, but he counts as a present asset some $200,700 of drainage assessments, which by law are only payable by the municipalities in annual instalments over a period of twenty-one years. On the other hand, the Province owes of moneys voted to railways the sum of $2,000,000, payable in semi-annual instalments, over a period of seventeen years; but he refuses to count that as a present liability. Anybody could count himself rich in that way, by reckoning that he had all that was payable to him in a series of years, but declaring that he had no liability for payments he had to make in the same series of years!

The amount to be paid to railways for several years to come is in the neighbourhood of $250 000; but the Treasurer being unable to meet his payments, borrowed $230,643 in 1884 and $271.319 in 1885, on the annuity plan, binding the Province to pay $17,400 in annual instalments for forty years, amounting altogether to $1,036,000, yet he never takes into account that he has incurred a liability! This is a new way to get rich. Borrow $500,000 and give your notes for it payable in semi-annual instalments; that you are worth half a million, and don't owe anything—at least so the Treasurer of Ontario says!—Owen Sound Times.

Yet death will seize the doctor, too."

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1886.

KEEPING IT DARK.

AMONG other advantages that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues hope to gain by their holiday season elections, forced on with such haste as to leave many thousands of voters disfranchised for four years because the new voters lists had not been completed, is the prevention of full knowledge being acquired by the people of Ontario of the iniquitous jobbery of the Administration in regard to the new Parliament buildings.

They know that if the whole of the facts were authoritatively disclosed the condemnation of the electorate would be pronounced upon them, so they are carefully hiding the facts that would give full knowledge of their dishonesty, extravagance, want of patriotism, and contempt for honest working men in this matter, till their premature election is over. They hope to snatch a verdict by suppressing the evidence against them.

There are already, however, sufficient facts known, to afford in combination with their autocratic refusal of further information to the people, good grounds for the condemnation they would avoid. We will briefly point them out.

The Mowat Administration after much shuffling on their part, obtained the sanction of the Legislature for the construction of new Parliament Buildings in Toronto, but with the condition that they should not cost more than $300,000.

Architects were invited to submit plans with reference to this money limit. Tenders were invited on plans selected from those sent in, but the tenders when opened were found to exceed the assigned sum, though nearly all were below $750,000.

Then, after more shuffling, including the putting up of a private supporter in the House to move the resolution, so as to relieve them from facing the responsibility of their position, the Mowat Administration obtained the sanction of the Legislature to raising the limit of cost for the building to $750,000.

The former plans had been submitted to experts who had approved them, and now that the Legislature had increased the available sum to an amount exceeding the old tenders, their acceptance evidently became practicable.

But now Mr. Mowat and his colleagues took a step which for combined dishonesty towards the people of Ontario and unfairness towards Canadian architects could hardly be exceeded. They ignored their own committee, among them the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, who they feared was too honest for their purpose, and placed the Canadian plans in the hands of a foreign architect, with unfettered license to make new plans without competition. The Canadian architects had contributed their plans, found acceptable except for the money obstacle now removed, and they were simply robbed for the benefit of this foreigner. They were not even asked to join in a new competition.

Next came an even more iniquitous step by the Administration. With suspicious secrecy they let a contract for the masonry of the foundation and walls, at a price which they obstinately refuse to disclose officially. There is some light, however, on the subject, for a Reform authority, who had seen the contract, incautiously published the fact that the amount was $800,000, or $50,000 more than the sum authorized by the people's representatives for the whole building. To break the force of this indiscreet exposure the Globe has since asserted, without producing any proof, that the contract is only for $671,250. We may say frankly that we utterly disbelieve the Globe's assertion. That journal is as much under the control of Mr. Mowat as are the clerks in his office, being hired by him from the chief proprietor, Mr. Nelson, for the considera ion of a sum of money collected by him from every public school pupil. The Globe therefore is only the voice of Mr. Mowat and cannot be relied upon when endeavoring to m ke light of a robbery perpetrated by Mr. Mowat. For even by the Globe's own figures it is clear that there is a robbery since, even if the contract is only for $671,250, (which we do not believe) it is certain that the whole cost of the building must necessarily far exceed the $750,000 to which he was strictly limited by the Legislature. He has made arrangements to take money out of our pockets to an extent absolutely refused to him by our representatives, trusting that circle sumptuous will subsequently blind afterwards for his dishonesty.

As an incidental injustice he again defrauds the Canadian architects by this jobbery, for if they had the chance of making plans without restriction as to cost like this foreigner, they would not have been hampered and could have designed a gorgeous edifice.

Mixed up with all these wrongs, as to the architects, their plans and the cost of the buildings, other grave wrongs have been committed as to the materials. The stone is stated, on good authority, to have been accepted at a price higher than better material would cost, because obtained from a quarry in which a Reform member is interested. And the bricks for this edifice, in which laws are to be made in the interests of honest men and for the restraint and punishment of dishonest and criminal men are to be provided in a most objectional manner, though at the same time in a manner befitting the rest of Mr. Mowat's arrangements for the whole transaction. He has come to the conclusion that it would be incongruous that he should get his bricks made by honest workingmen, so they have to go without the profit, while the bricks for our Legislative halls are made by convicts sent to prison for the protection of the law-abiding community. Possibly Mr. Mowat intends it as a delicate compliment to honest workingmen to decline to associate them in any way with a business which he has stained with dishonesty from the beginning to the end. He will restrict the honest workingman's share to paying for it—paying his share of $2,000,000, the sum at which the cost of the building is computed by the foreign architect's friends.

Mr. Mowat's mouth-piece pleads, it is true, that the contract is subject to the assent of the Legislature, that it could be disallowed, and the work stopped. Well, if Mr. Mowat should be sustained, we know by experience that his supporters would endorse this, like other jobs, however nefarious. The only way to restrict the cost of this building within the cost of a prudent economy is to refuse to entrust Mr. Mowat again with the power that he is abusing so recklesaly and dishonestly.

BOGUS HALFBREED CLAIMS.

MR. BLAKE argued that as Mr. Thos. White, the Minister of the Interior, said that Riel hurried on his rebellion because he feared that the knowledge that a commission was being sent to give scrip to the halfbreeds would prevent them from rising, this was an admission that the halfbreeds had genuine grievances. The true explanation is that Riel knew that the fraudulent claims made by his lieutenants, who except Dumont were Manitoba halfbreeds and had already received their scrip but were trying to get paid over again, would be exposed and their blackmailing scheme would thus fail.

His friend Laurier prudently but not very honestly concealed this point when he quoted the petition of Gabriel Dumont and others, though he must have known, with the book before him, that more than three-fourths of the signers were Manitoba halfbreeds already paid and masquerading as old Saskatchewan settlers.

The halfbreed claim was in fact to the whole soil of the Northwest for themselves and the Indians, a claim which could not be allowed.

FROM beginning to end of their addresses the two ex ministers who were brought here by the Reformers to aid their desperate cause confined themselves wholly to the subject of Riel and the halfbreeds, that was the beginning, the end and middle of their discourse, except a part of one of Mr. Blake's speeches. The Ontario leader appealed to his hearers in solemn tones to turn out the Macdonald administration because as the halfbreeds had risen they must have been badly treated. The Quebec leader boasted that they had gained a majority in Quebec, though any gains they had made there were solely on the Riel cry, and yet we are told that it is wrong for Conservatives even to mention Riel in Ontario.

In five speeches made here by the Dominion Reform leaders on Friday, we had Riel, the halfbreeds and the Northwest question over and over again, and in great variety. The speakers were full of sympathy for the halfbreeds, who, after selling their scrip in Manitoba were rebelling for their "rights" as old settlers on the Saskatchewan. But was one word of sympathy heard for the victims or their friends—for the settlers, officials, priests and volunteers killed or wounded, or the men, women and children taken prisoners by the allies of these sympathisers with murderers and rebels but not with their victims?

It was not convenient for Wilfred Laurier, while answering one question that suited him, to take any notice of the further question whether he had sanctioned the closing Mr. Chapleau's mouth by the cries of "hangman," and other insults. He found his political opponents in Peterborough more generous.

NOVA SCOTIA GRIEVANCES.

How the Liberals Propose to Remove Them—Speech of Mr. Anglin.

HALIFAX, Dec. 15.—No more than 500 people attended the inauguration by the Liberals of the Dominion campaign in Halifax. Mr. W. C. Silverman, dry goods importer, presided. The speakers were Hon. Messrs. Anglin, Jones, Fielding, Longley and Roche. After referring to the North-West rebellion, the hanging of Riel, Government extravagance, etc., Mr. Anglin touched upon the repeal question, mention of which was received with a chorus of applause, which both surprised and embarrassed the speaker. He said while Ontario Liberals sympathized wish any grievances Nova Scotia had, they preferred that the province should remain in the Confederation, and Mr. Blake if he came into power, would remove all grievances and make it easy for Nova Scotia to stay in. The Liberals would not stand on the dignity of the country, but would obtain reciprocity with the United States, for when there was a will there was a way. They would sweep away the National Policy and rearrange taxation, although it would be impossible to reduce it, increase subsidies to all the older provinces to meet present needs, and have the new arrangement sanctioned by the Imperial Government as a final settlement. He believed the Liberals would attain power next election, and that five years hence the repeal cry would not be heard in all the land. But if the Tories were again returned heaven help this unfortunate country. Mr. Jones followed and said repeal was in the hands of the people. If they wanted it they could only get it by persistent and determined agitation. He only spoke on the subject three minutes, then wandered off to a vicious attack on the Hon. Mr. Thompson, who, he alleged, had been inciting Western Ontario Orangemen against the Roman Catholics and then went to Glengarry and deprecated stirring up race and religion difficulties. The meeting was a bitter disappointment to the ardent secessionists.

Trick of a Traveling Doctor.

Several months ago one of these traveling healers of all diseases came to Detroit with a great flourish of trumpets, and in a few days the fame of his wonderful cures spread abroad and filled his rooms with crowds of lame, halt and blind. I went over one day to see him lay on hands and heal. One of his patients was a young man who alleged that his right arm had been useless for months. The great quack rubbed it, and the patient experienced great relief. He came again and again, and in a week was completely cured. There was another with spinal complaint, a third who had been deaf for ten years, and several others who were almost blind. All were cured. Some of us were amazed at ese wonderful cures and after the quack had worked the town for what it was worth he vanished with a wallet stuffed with bank bills.

It was only the other day that I heard something drop. I learned then, from the very best authority that the "doctor" employed no less than twenty-one different "patients" to travel with him from city to city and pass themselves off for residents and be "cured" of their ailments. We are a gullible people. The biggest frauds upon earth find a rich crop on American soil.—M. Quad in Detroit Free Press.

A College During the War.

The building of the bridge across the Hudson at Poughkeepsie puts us in mind of the fact that the project was first broached a great many years ago by Professor Eastman, of that town. He labored long and hard to bring the public to see the advantages to be derived from such a work, but died before he had enough supporters to bring his plan to a head. Eastman made an enormous fortune in Poughkeepsie with a business college. At the time of the war he was eking out a living as the proprietor of a small school. Under the draft law scholars were exempt from military service, and Eastman soon found his school so full that he had to move into more commodious quarters. The secret of the plan to evade conscription leaked out, and within six months Eastman rented every vacant room in the town and filled it with "scholars." Illiteracy spread with alarming rapidity, and middle-aged men who had been considered fairly educated merchants suddenly forgot how to read and write or to do their sums, and found it necessary to attend Professor Eastman's business college. The professor prospered accordingly, and even when the war deprived him of his "scholars" his business was firmly established.—Chicago News.

"Erosion" in Artillery.

"Erosion" is the greatest difficulty of the modern artillerist. For some reason or other modern big guns are scored to pieces by their own charges before they have been fired many times. At the Iron and Steel institute the engineers had a good deal to say on the subject, but they did not come to any definite conclusion about it. Some authorities maintain that it is the friction of solid particles of powder driven along at enormous speed over the intensely heated surface of the tube which destroys the gun. Others think it is due to the chemical action set by the gases liberated in the ignition of the powder. But in reality very little is known about the matter.—St. James' Gazette.

Quarrelsome Light House Keepers.

Two light house keepers on the North Carolina coast quarreled about the color of the sea, and did not exchange another word for three months, when both were discharged by the government.

STICK A PIN.

It is now stated in the leading Grit organ that the contract for the stone and brickwork for the erection of the proposed Parliamentary buildings at Toronto is but $671,250. It is also said that even that contract has to be ratified by the Legislature at its next meeting. Let us stick a pin just there, and urge upon the electors not to send anyone to the Legislature who will not promise to put his foot down upon an expenditure which will amount in the end to not less than $2,000,000, or more; to say nothing of the large increased annual outlays that would be incurred in keeping so huge a pile of buildings in a proper condition as respects service, heat, light, cleanliness, etc.—London Free Press.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

Grand Removal Sale. — A Boon for Peterboro.

THE WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN'S DETERMINATION.

2,000 OVERCOATS AND SUITS to be SLAUGHTERED BEFORE THE 1st JANUARY. 1887. KEEP it IN MIND, IT is worth remembering, for GOUGH NEVER ADVERTISES ANYTHING HE DON'T DO, and in order that he may open out in his New Store with an Entire New Stock, he will offer Suits and Overcoats until Jan. 1st AT PARALYTIC PRICES. I have completed an EXTRAORDINARY LOW PURCHASE of ONE THOUSAND OVERCOATS, which will be opened out this week, and not having room to show them in my present Store, and in order to avoid the rush, and GIVE EVERY PERSON A CHANCE TO SECURE ONE, I will open them out in the Store

☞ NEXT DOOR TO THE REVIEW OFFICE. ☜

CHEAP NEVER IN CANADA has such an opportunity been offered to secure an Overcoat so Cheap, and other Wholesale Dealers should take advantage of it, as I am going to sell Away Below the Wholesale Prices. GOUGH

THIS IS NO HUMBUG! as on the 1st January I move into the STORE NOW OCCUPIED BY MR. CARTON, better known as BON MARCHE, and when I tell you I will, for the next 3 weeks, give you Clothing at less than Wholesale Prices, I will KEEP MY WORD, as I kept it when I told you I would throw away 500 Linen Coats from the top of the Opera House last Summer. This is and ever will be GOUGH'S GREATEST OFFER TO THE PUBLIC, as it is only once in a lifetime that a man can stand such a Sacrifice as I promise for the next 3 weeks only. People will wonder how I can afford to do it, and so as not to deceive them, let me here state that I Cannot afford it, for Cheap as I buy I certainly will not make money during this Grand Removal Sale, but my great motive is a Gigantic Advertisement that will ever afterwards MAKE THE AIR ECHO WITH THE NAME AND PRAISE OF GOUGH, the Wonderful One Price Gheap Clothier, Peterborough.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEW RAILWAY PROJECT.—Our energetic Reeve is trying to bring about a scheme whereby the C.P.R. would run to Lakefield, and this week we were visited by some of the head men of the C. P. R. and Grand Trunk with a view to carrying this out next summer. Should this become an accomplished fact it will be a grand thing for Lakefield, as not only would it largely increase the number of visitors to our beautiful lakes during the summer, but the C. P. R. would draw large supplies of wood, stone, &c., from the back country.

L. O. L. 122.—The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Bro W Preston	W M
" J Morrison	D M
" W Edwards	Chaplain
" C I Burgess	Rec-Sec
" W S Northy	Fin-Sec
" S Hunter	Treas
" A Fitzgerald	D of C

COMMITTEE—Bros C Quimo, S Nelson, D Arnott, J Madill, J McCormack.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.—The approaching municipal elections do not attract much attention yet, nor will they until after the 28th. In some places the opinion has been expressed that our Council requires some younger men in it. Though the position in itself is a peculiarly thankless one and the Councillors get "more kicks than ha'pence," it is to be hoped that some of the young men that have the interests and progress of the village at heart will become candidates at the approaching elections.

COUNCIL MEETING.—A regular Council meeting was held on Monday evening, Dec. 13th. Present, the Reeve, Councillors Cox, McWilliams, Isbister and Moore. A letter from A. Bell, Returning Officer, was read, giving the result of the vote on the Waterworks By-law. A letter from Wm. Leahy was read claiming $25 from the municipality for an accident which happened to him on the road between lots 15 and 16, concessions 7 and 8, Douro. The Collector's time for collecting the taxes was extended a fortnight. Moved by Councillor Isbister, seconded by Councillor Cox.—That this Council make an arrangement with Mr. Donald McLean for the term of three years for exemption of taxes, if he will agree and make satisfactory arrangements with R. & G. Strickland to run the said mill on what is called mill privilege, and to run said mill for five years.—Carried. The Clerk was authorized to obtain a new order book from the REVIEW Printing Co. The following accounts were ordered to be paid:—

Isaac Watson, wages	$ 22 27
J. Rodgers, horse hire	1 00
W. Smith, wages	1 00
J. R. Stratton, printing	42 75
Canadian Rubber Co	20 00
Village Clerk, by-law expenses	11 51
W. H. Casement, hardware	14 18
W. A. Eastland, nails	32 75
W. Abbott, ladder poles	1 80
D. Smith	5 75
M. Harrigan	3 00
J. Charlton	5 00
P. Bastle, lumber	71 98

The Council then adjourned to meet on Thursday, the 23rd.

NORWOOD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SKATING RINK.—Mr. A. Henderson, the proprietor of the roller rink, intends to fit up the drill shed for an ice skating rink. This will be a bonanza for the young people in the long winter evenings, which for the last few winters they have found so hard to fill in. We have no doubt but that the best accommodation will be provided and wish Mr. Henderson every success and hope the villagers will give him the benefit of their patronage.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.—The Clerk has issued his bills for the municipal election. The number of voters has necessitated the division of the village into two wards. Jas. Kelly has been appointed Deputy-Returning Officer. It is probable that Reeve Stephenson and the rest of the council will be re-elected unanimously.

SCHOOL EXAMINATION.—The Model School examinations are finished and the scholars have returned to their homes. The result will likely be known without any lengthy delay.

FENELON FALLS.

FINED.—Last Tuesday about half a dozen young lads residing in this village were summoned before Jas. Dickson, J. P., and fined $3 and costs for misconducting themselves at a Salvation Army meeting. It served them right. The Salvationists have done some good and are trying to do more, and no person will be allowed to molest or annoy them. Those who object to their religious proceedings can keep aloof from them, but must not express disapproval by objectionable methods.—Gazette.

A Sunday fire.

On Sunday afternoon a fire broke out in a house two doors west of the Snowden House. The fire brigade turned out promptly and quenched the blaze without difficulty. The fire was caused by burning soot having fallen to the base of an old fashioned chimney which has its foundation in the cellar. The brands found their way out of an opening and caught on combustibles near by. The loss is not large.

Burned.

This morning at about one o'clock a house recently built for Mr. Matthew Wright was found to be on fire. The fire alarm was sounded and the brigade turned out. The back part was already nearly consumed when they got on the ground, but the main part was saved. Mr. Wright was busied all summer in getting his house completed, and had packed up his household goods on Saturday to move in. He thinks that the fire was the work of an incendiary. The building was fully insured.

Pay him a visit and you will profit thereby.

EDUCATIONAL.

Large Collections Taken in the Methodist Churches for the Fund.

The Methodist Church of Canada has a theological and arts college in Sackville, New Brunswick, a theological college in affiliation with McGill University, Montreal, and a theological college in affiliation with Victoria University, Cobourg. To support these institutions, and to provide loans for young men without means entering the ministry, a collection is taken up annually in the Methodist Churches throughout Canada.

On Sunday the Rev. Dr. Potts, of Toronto, and the Rev. Prof. Burwash, of Cobourg, were here to make appeals in the interest of the educational work.

Dr. Potts preached in the George Street Church in the evening, taking for his text Ephesians 3, VIII. Preaching was a duty which was not to be performed perfunctorily. In all the range of Church history it was to be seen that the greatest success resulted from the preacher being deeply imbued with the responsibility which rested on him. Thus it was in the words of the text. Paul said that even to him, less than the least among saints, was this great and honored task laid upon. All through Paul's life, from the time of his conversion, he was seen to be glorifying his work and humbling himself. The practical lesson to all was: "Clothe yourself with humility." To preach was a divine appointment. It was a tenet that must be emphesized in this 19th century. The young man behind the counter, at the desk, or at the bench, might be called by God to preach His word. It was then the duty of the church to train them and properly dicipline them. Preaching was the grandest work of man. The earthly good of a nation might depend on a statesman, the fate of a nation on the ambassador, but the preacher of God's word had even heavier responsibilities and was engaged in grander work than either of these. He taught, like Paul, the "unsearchable riches of Christ." Christ was rich in power, in grace, and in love. He was able to calm the tempest-tossed sea, to make the leper whole. His grace was so broad that he passed none by. Love, he said, was the only power for good. Some might say God is the only power for good. But the only definition we have in the Bible was: "God is love." The love of husband, wife, father, mother, was great, but who could scale the heights or fathom the depths of Christ's love.

In the evening Prof. Burwash preached a learned discourse in the Charlotte street Church, taking for his text the 20th verse of the last chapter of Mathew. He laid down that a part of the commission of the church was to preach and that another part was to teach. He laid stress upon the latter commission. He traced the course of Christain teaching from the early ages, through the middle ages, the reformation times to our own day. He held that it was essential to Protestantism that the church be guided by a well-trained clergy. He referred to the new scheme of federation in which church and state combined to advance higher education to the advantage of both.

The collection taken in the George Street Church in behalf of the fund was $198.00. Last year $80.00 was given. In the Charlotte Street Church $162.00 was collected. Last year 176 00 was collected. All of the returns are not made to the committee of either churches yet.

Don't Fail to See Him.

We have pleasure to inform our readers that Dr. Potts will be at his rooms in Croft's Hotel from Tuesday noon, 21st, until Thursday noon, 23rd inst., where he will be pleased to receive patients. All who are afflicted with any chronic trouble disease of the eye or ear, or any deformity should not let the opportunity pass, don't fail to see him. He is skilful and successful in a great many cases said to have been beyond the reach of medicine and surgery. The latest discoveries in Medical Science has placed the Medical and Surgical Specialists from 10 to 50 years in advance of the best local practitioners. Some would be Medical Specialists it is true, vaunt impossibilities, and bring discredit on the honest, upright practitioner. Dr. Potts qualifies himself to keep on a par with the advance of the age, is skilful and well known, and therefore don't fail to see him. 1d145

An excellent variety of Hosiery and Gloves. J. ERSKINE.

The Opera House.

The Kingston Daily News of Nov. 2nd contains the following:—The Woodward company was greeted by a large audience last evening at the opening of their three weeks engagement here. Mr. Woodward and Miss Eugenia Lindeman, were first presented to a Kingston audience through Wilson Day's dramatic company. Mr. Woodward has now embarked at his own manager and is supported by a first class company. "Confusion" was the title of the drama put on last evening and without a doubt confusion reigned supreme for a time. George Woodward as "Blizzard" kept the audience in roars of laughter by his funny sayings and comical ways. Mr. Carl Smith as Dr. Jones sustained his reputation, and so did Mr. James Rowlands as "James, the butler." Miss Lindeman was greeted with applause when she first appeared on the stage. Her rendition of "Rose" the wife of "Mortimer," was excellent and highly pleased those present. All the other parts were well taken. The farce "Cool as a cucumber" was also presented and caused great amusement. Those who enjoy a good laugh should go to the opera house to night.

Now received a large variety of the Willard Tract Depository's Publications consisting of Illuminated Scripture Books, Scripture Cards, and a general assortment of books, cards, etc., etc. JOHN ERSKINE.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

The Talk as to the Prospective Councillors for 1887.

The bills announcing the date of the municipal nominations have been issued. The nomination for the Mayorship will be held in the old Music Hall on the 27th of December at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and those for councillors at 12 o'clock, noon in the various wards.

The polling places in the different wards are:—No 1 Ward, Mission School house; No 2, the Old Music hall; No 3, Rathburn's office; and No 4, Mr. Lee's shop. The Deputy returning officers appointed are as follows: for No 1 Ward, Jas. Lundy; for No 2, Chas Cameron; for No 3, John Irwin, and for No 4, Wm. Lee.

In No. 1 Ward there promises to be a stiff contest. The three old councillors, Messrs. Cahill, Davidson and McNaughton are in the field. Mr. J. L. Hughes is also busy in his canvass. Mr. Clement Gordon will likely run again. If he does a number of Mr. J. McNamara's friends talk of running Mr. McNamara against him.

In No. 2 Ward the three old councillors, Messrs. McClelland, Kelly and McNeil are going the rounds in their canvass. So is Mr. Stenson.

The contest in No. 3 is likely to be the same as last year—between Messrs. Yelland, Rutherford, Moore and Douglass.

No. 4 Ward will have offers from at least four to represent it—Messrs. Kendry, Hartley, Menzies and Langford. Some talk of bringing Mr. H. Stabler out.

DEATH BY FIRE.

The Agony Suffered by a Millbrook Druggist.

By Telephone to the Review.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 20.—On Friday night Mr. J. Smith, a druggist of this place, was in his shop alone. A passer-by noticed a blaze inside and going up to the place was horrified to find Mr Smith in a mass of flames. A number of people gathered around and as quickly as possible quenched the fire. This was not done, however, till the clothing was burnt from his body and his skin in many places seared to a crisp.

It was found that Mr. Smith was pouring some combustible drug from one bottle to another, with a lamp close to the fluid. It caught afire and in his efforts to put it out he spread it over himself.

Dr. Ough, who was summoned, did every possible thing to save the life of the unfortunate man, attending him constantly from the time of the accident till a few minutes after 12 o'clock last night, when he expired in intense agony.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

PLEADING FOR PEACE.

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—It is reported that Emperor William has written a long telegraph letter to the Czar, without having consulted Prince Bismarck, urging the maintenance of peace and asking his forbearance from any policy tending to bring about a European war. In his letter the Emperor asks the Czar to give explicit assurance that he will assist in the preservation of peace during his closing days. The Czar has sent an affectionate response to the Emperor, assuring him of his co-operation.

WARNING TO TURKEY.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Post this morning in an inspired article warns Turkey against further coquetting with Russia. The British Government, it says, has undergone great sacrifices to uphold the integrity of Turkey even against the opinions of a large portion of the English people. Any hesitation on the part of Turkey will now compel England to adopt a course to counteract Russia's threats by measures that will speedily impress the Porte with the fact that her present doubtful policy is the worst for her own interests.

AN ALLEGED ALLIANCE.

PARIS, Dec. 19.—The Journal des Debats publishes a despatch from Berlin stating that Germany, France, Russia and Turkey are in complete accord on the Bulgarian question. Turkey is to continue to have the initiative in advancing proposals respecting Bulgaria, and the three other powers named are to accept the proposals as made. The Debats' telegram says Germany advised Austria to join in supporting Turkey's proposals, but refused to guarantee her against the consequences of a double dealing policy.

PARNELL INTERVIEWED.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Mr. Parnell, who has just arrived in London, said to-day that he was slowly but firmly recovering from his recent gastric attack. His doctor will permit him to resume parliamentary duties on the opening of the session if he promises to be careful. Mr. Parnell does not intend at present to express an opinion on the plan of campaign, wishing first to go to Ireland to consult with the promoters of the plan, whom he has not seen since the end of the last session of Parliament. He also desires to obtain fuller knowledge in regard to various matters before he speaks on the subject. He declares that he was not aware that the plan of campaign had been devised, or even proposed, until it had been published. Mr. Parnell will go to Ireland shortly.

MARVELLOUS LONGEVITY.

Death of a Woman in Indian Territory Aged 136 Years.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 19.—A letter from Sassakawa, Seminole nation, Indian Territory, gives an account of the death there on the 5th inst. of Mrs. Susanna Warren, perhaps the oldest person in the United States, if not in the world. She was born in the old town of St. Auguatine, Fla., in 1750. She was born a slave, and was the property of a Spanish master until 1818, when she, with other Spanish slaves, fled from Pensacola when it was taken by Gen. Jackson. She lived in the Seminole country from then until the second treaty of peace with the Seminoles, when she was regarded as their colonion properly, and was removed with them to the Indian Territory. She leaves one daughter living in Austin, Tex., and who is in her 97th year. She leaves many grandchildren here, some of them nearly 70 years of age.

WATCHING THE PIRATES.

Fourteen American Vessels Looking for Bait in the Vicinity of Shelbourne.

SHELBOURNE, N. S., Dec. 20.—The cruiser "Howlette" has watched fourteen American fishing vessels during the past week. Some of them put in short of provisions, some for water, others for shelter and repairs, but the officers of the cruiser believe that nearly all them are looking for bait. American skippers say that fresh bait is very scarce at the home ports, and too expensive to buy, mackeral costing $10 and $12 per barrel. Three fresh haddockers are here without bait. They trusted to luck to catch squid on the banks and did not succeed. The people of Shelbourne have plenty of bait to sell, owing to the non-arrival of vessels gone to Fortune bay for herring and the exceedingly mild weather around Grand Manan. The largest portion of the Gloucester fresh fish fleet are unable to do anything.

SIR JOHN'S NARROW ESCAPE.

The Window of His Private Car Smashed at Thamesville.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Sir John Macdonald's private car, the Jamaica, with the Premier and party on board, reached here early this morning from Chatham. As the train was leaving Thamesville station an accident happened to the Jamaica, which fortunately was unattended with serious consequences. The official conductor in charge, Mr. J. Milton Dowdall, says that a freight train was passing at the time, and the theory is that a projecting piece of lumber struck the car. The window in the door of the Jamaica facing the Pullman to which it was attached, the large window adjoining, and the first window on the off side were smashed to atoms. Beyond the slight alarm consequent on the mishap, the occupants of the car were not disturbed.

ENGLAND AND RUSSIA.

The Relations Becoming More Strained —Withdrawal of Ambassadors.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The relations between Great Britain and Russia are daily becoming more strained. In order to mark the bitterness of his feelings against England, the Czar recently recalled his ambassador from London, leaving important questions now pending between the two countries to be transacted by the Charge d'Affaires. Lord Salisbury has retaliated by summoning the Queen's ambassador, Sir Robert Morier, to London on a trivial pretext. It is not likely that he will return to his post until the situation assumes a more peaceful aspect. The Czar is furious about the manner in which Prince Alexander was received at the English court. On the other hand his objections to the candidature of Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg has given great offence to the Royal family here.

REFORMERS FALL OUT.

Their Journals Described by Each Other —Their Leader Under the Lash.

The Montreal Witness and the Montreal Herald are having a very hot fight and are describing each other less politely than truthfully. The Witness thus refers to the slanderous course of its contemporary and to the tergiversation of Mr. Blake:—

"The Herald has commenced one of those processes of systematic slander which are adopted by some advocates of a cause when other argument fails.—Mr. Blake recently declared himself opposed for the present to prohibition. In doing so he necessarily declared himself in that particular opposed to the Witness, and the Witness opposed to him. That fact might be supposed to go without saying, but we did say it, and the Herald immediately replied with the statement that the Witness, while condemning Mr. Blake, would support any whiskey-soaked candidate who would promise that he would vote for prohibition. This was simply a falsehood, as all Canada knows. We have over and over again opposed men who promised to vote for prohibition but whose record was out of accord with their promises. The Herald could not possibly be so very much asleep as not to know that the Witness has distinctly condemned the choice of its party in Glengarry, because, though promising to vote for prohibition, he is not by record one who can properly be looked to for sympathy with the movement. When accused of having said what everyone knew to be false the Herald replied that it understood your words to be a condemnation of Mr. Blake, implying that our accusation of falsehood was with reference to that statement. Such prevarication did not seem worth notice. But the Herald, being the Montreal tuning forkman of the Reform choir, thinks it can tune all the small voices at a distance into some vague condemnation of the Witness, and keeps on repeating its prevarication thus:

The Witness will doubtless be pleased to observe that the Mail, the Ottawa Citizen, and probably other supporters of Sir John and opponents of the cause the Witness professes to have at heart, are quoting the Witness against Mr. Blake, and making capital out of our contemporary against its political and temperance friends. When the Herald ventured to point out what the Witness was doing our religious friend said we lied.

"If the Herald supposes its readers to be simpletons, it should not proclaim it. Yet who but a simpleton would expect the Witness not to condemn Mr. Blake's attitude when he sets himself in square opposition to what it, and we fully believe the country, demands of him. If the opponents of Mr. Blake find comfort in this, and if the Herald finds cause for chagrin, it is Mr. Blake's fault, not ours. It is disagreeable to have to make any reference to the Herald in connection with these attacks, but we have already had evidence that it will not stop till it is knocked down."—Montreal Witness, Dec. 20.

PACIFIC COAST EXPLORATIONS.

Resources of the Islands and Mainland of the Western Slope.

Capt. Newton H. Chittenden, who has been since the spring of 1884 employed by the provincial government of British Columbia in exploring the Queen Charlotte Islands, on the west cost of British Columbia Southern Alaska, and the interior of British Columbia, was interviewed this morning by a Journal reported. Capt. Chittenden stated that previous to his being employed by the provincial government he had been engaged in explorations in Mexico, Oregon and California.

"It was," he said, "in the spring of 1884 that I was employed by the Government to explore the entire coast line and interior of the Queen Charlotte Islands. In company with several Indians, I circumnavigated the Islands in canoes, taking in all the bays and harbors, and penetrating into the interior by the large rivers. The object of these explorations was to find out the interior and coast resources of the country, and present a report to the Provincial Government, which has since been printed.

"In the year 1882 I was employed by the Government to explore the entire west coast line of British Columbia and Southern Alaska, as well as the interior of those countries. I made a thorough examination and exploration of the Cariboo region, out of which has already been taken over $40,000,000 worth of gold. The mining outlook of this region is very promising."

"What are your opinions of British Columbia as a farming and grazing country?"

"Well, it is hard to give a satisfactory answer to that question without entering into a slight description of the country. First, we have the Rockies and the Selkirk range of mountains, which occupy a distance of 200 miles straight through. This country of course is very mountainous, and is noted for its mineral resources. Then after passing the Selkirk range we strike a beautiful, level country, which is the best farming and grazing lands in the province. It is called the Valley of the Okanagon and Shuswhaeen rivers. The climate in this district is in winter cold, in summer, hot and spring delightful, and it is well watered. Passing on we strike the Gold Range of mountains and the Coast Range. After passing these we come into a totally different country, the land being mountainous and wet, but not cold, there being only about three months of winter. This district, especially that west of the Fraser river, is an excellent grazing country."

"Well, what about Southern Alaska?"

"Well, it does not amount to much after you pass the coast; the interior is one series of vast bogs and morasses upon which no human beings could live."

HOODWINKED.

How Parnellites Succeeded in Hoodwinking the Authorities.

CORK, Dec. 29.—Messrs. Joseph Richard Cox, Jeremiah Jordon and Joseph Edward Kenny, Parnellite members for East and West Clare and South Cork respectively, succeeded yesterday in totally hoodwinking the police and in collecting and escaping with all rents due from tenants on the Vandeleur estates in County Clare. They went to Kilrush on Friday. It was known to the police that they went there to act as trustees under the plan of campaign to collect from the tenants of the Vandeleur estates the reduced rents refused by the proprietors. The authorities, however, could not ascertain the nature of the arrangement to be carried out between the tenants and trustees, and were led to believe that the tenants were to assemble at Kilrush on Saturday and hand in the rents. The police accordingly were kept on the alert, and were instructed to watch for the arrival of tenants and to arrest the trustees and secure the money when it had all been handed in. The trustees, after having put the police on this track, appointed three places of rendezvous outside the town of Kilrush and managed to have all the rebellious tenants instructed to go to the proper places. On Sunday it snowed very hard at Kilrush. The trustees left their hotel separately, went each to his appointed rendezvous, collected the rents, returned unobserved by the police, and closed up their business without attracting any attention on the part of the authorities, who continued to watch for the assembling of the tenants at Kilrush, and finally concluded that either the rigor of the police arrangements or the severity of the storm had prevented the plan from being carried out. As a result the trustees were able to get away unmolested with all the rents, and some of the County Clare authorities are yet in doubt as to whether the Vandeleur rents were certainly collected yesterday or whether this statement that they were is not part of a stratagem to throw the police of their guard against the postponed collection.

A family of eight persons, residing at Carrick-on Suir, were asphyxiated by escaping gas last night. Five of the children have since died. The parents and and the other child are dying.

It is announced that M. de Lesseps has given the Khedive of Egypt $400,000 for sufficient government land to widen the Suez canal.

Signor Magliani, Italian Minister of Finance, announced in the Chamber of Deputies that the budget of 1885-6 showed a deficit of $6,000,000. He said he hoped in the budget for 1886-7 that the receipts and expenditures would balance in spite of the increase in appropriations for the army and navy, and that the budget for 1887-8 would show a surplus of $400,000. He had great confidence in the financial future of the country. He then presented a bill providing for the conversion of 5 per cent. stock into 4½ per cent.

A terrible railway collision occurred at Charkow, Russia, on Saturday, resulting in the killing of 13 persons and the injuring of 30 others.

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

OBJECTING TO EXTRAVAGANCE.

When well founded complaints are made of the extravagance of the Mowat administration by which they have brought us to yearly deficits in spite of increased subsidies obtained from the Dominion, and of the sacrifice of a part of our real escape capital to eke out our income, the retort is made that the Conservative Opposition did not object specially to items of the expenditure. Mr. Mowat's more reckless defenders, including his own rented organ, the Globe, even pretend that the Opposition only objected last season to the $1,400 voted to the East Simcoe returning officer.

In fact the Opposition objected last season not only to this item but to many others, to the amount not merely of $1,400 but of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

We will first take the item quoted. "The $1,400 was nominally voted to the returning officer, but in reality went into the pocket of Mr. Drury M. P P., to recoup him for the costs he incurred in defending his seat, forfeited by the acts of the returning officer and others. The Opposition objected, but Mr. Mowat and his followers insisted upon this misuse of our money.

The Opposition also objected to the vote of $18,800 for immigration. Mr. Mowat and his supporters insisted upon making mechanics and others pay for the importation of competition to deprive them of employment.

Again the Opposition objected to a wasteful expenditure, not as pretended for colonization roads but for political purposes and to obtain votes for their party supporters, especially where there were elections.

The Government and its friends voted down this attempt at checking extravagance and corruption.

The previous year the Opposition objected to the increase of the vote for Parliament buildings to $750,000. Mr. Mowat and his friends insisted upon it, and have since made arrangements for an enormous further increase of the expenditure without any legislative sanction.

The Opposition objected to the extravagant management of the Agricultural College and Farm—to such waste as would ruin any farmer who took them for an example. The Government refused even to allow an enquiry into their wasteful operations.

The Opposition objected to the agreement with the school book ring, involving, as Mr. G. W. Ross, the Minister of Education, himself says, compensation for an immense sum for injurious vested interests, created by the Administration. The Ministerialists voted to saddle upon us this expense at the cost of every public school pupil.

The Opposition objected to the wasteful and corrupt expenditure on so-called colonization roads. The Reformers determined in spite of them to maintain this corruption fund undiminished.

The Opposition objected to the increased expenditure on sessional clerks, &c., and moved a reduction of $5,000. The Ministry insisted on retaining the vote, which they largely misapply for partizan purposes.

The Opposition objected to an expenditure over appropriations of $174,454 the preceding year. Mr. Mowat and his colleagues resisted this protest against their dishonest and unconstitutional misappropriation of our money without legislative authority, trusting to the subsequent whitewashing of their misconduct by their subservient majority.

The Opposition objected to the payment of $19,000 to a member for his costs in a private suit. The Ministerialists voted thus to subsidize their colleague with our money.

The Opposition objected to the large vote for immigration and moved to cut it down by $3,000. Mr. Mowat and his friends refused to make any reduction.

In the preceding session, the first of the late Legislature, the Opposition objected to the authorization of two sets of School Readers. The Ministers and their supporters insisted upon this step, since confessed by them to be unwise and very costly.

The Opposition objected to authorise the renewal of Railway Aid Annuities to the amount of $6,195.96. Mr. Mowat and his friends voted for issuing these promises to pay, to be a charge upon the Consolidated Fund.

The Opposition objected to the payment of $2,750 for a dam on Burnt River. The Ministerialists insisted on thus improving the private property of a friend at the public expense.

The Opposition objected to the expenditure of $17,212 16 in excess of the vote under the pretence of Colonization Road building. The Ministers and their friends sustained this corrupt and unconstitutional expenditure.

The above extravagant expenditures were objected to specifically by the Opposition during the three sessions of the last Legislature of Ontario. We will repeat them in tabular form:—

Costs, Mr. Drury, M. P. P.	$ 1,400 00
Immigration	18,800 00
Increase in Parl Buildings	250,000 00
Sessional Clerks (Reduction)	5,000 00
Expenditure on Appropriation	174,454 00
Costs, Mr. Caldwell, M. P. P.	10,000.00
Immigration (Reduction)	9,000 00
Railway Annuities	6 195 96
Private Dam	2,750.00
Exp. over Appropriation (Col. Roads)	17,212.16
Total objected to	$495.712 12

Thus the specific instances of extravagant expenditure to which the Opposition in the recently expired Legislature objected, amount to very nearly half a million.

But this is not all. They also objected to the following items of which the amount could not be ascertained. Probably it would not be much less than the other table:—

Corruption under pretence of Colonization Roads	Amount unknown
Waste at Agricultural College and Farm	Amount unknown
Reader Ring Monopoly (Paid by school children)	Amount unknown
Waste and Corruption on Colonization Roads	Amount unknown
Two Sets of Readers (Paid by school children)	Amount unknown

They also objected to the whole plan of railway annuities, requiring an ultimate payment by the Province of $6 000.000, in order to save a present entrenchment upon our surplus of $300,000 and a yearly payment of $142,000 until 1892, with decreasing payment until 1902, when the whole would be paid.

And these, it must be remembered, are only the items actually challenged formally on the grounds of extravagance and maladministration. Objections were taken to many others in debate and committee, without a vote being forced, as Mr. Mowat's servile majority showed themselves prepared to support him through thick and thin, so there was nothing to be gained by perpetual divisions.

There was another reason why it was useless for the Opposition to object to any extravagant item, except occasionally as a formal protest. Even if the Ministry had consented to reduce the amount, there would have been nothing gained. For year after year the Administration have deliberately exceeded the sums voted by the House, taking further amounts out of our Treasury with no more authority than if they had picked (or S.S. Pecked) our pockets, trusting to their followers for a bill of indemnity.

Thus the charge that the Opposition made no attempts to check Mr. Mowat's extravagantly increased expenditure, is shown by the public documents to be altogether baseless. Mr. Mowat and his colleagues cannot thus shirk their responsibility.

RAILWAY AID.

MR. BLAKE talked on Friday of the C. P. R. being a great work, but one that should belong to us, as we had paid for it. When Mr. Blake was in power at Ottawa he offered to give even more to anyone who would build the road, but in vain, for there was not the same faith in Canada under his rule. When Mr. Blake crept into power at Toronto, by howling for Riel's punishment as Scott's murderer, by corrupting a Cabinet minister, and by denouncing Sandfield Macdonald's railway aid fund, he largely increased the fund and presented large sums to companies whose railways would do him most good politically, without ever dreaming of acquiring property in the subsidized lines. There is hardly a municipality in the land that has not adopted the same course. The public money is given to secure the accommodation, not to acquire property. This is, with rare exceptions, the practice not only in Canada, but in the United States as well. It is a practice that he has himself adopted time and again without scruple.

What a pity it is that Mr. Blake, with his intellect, should indulge in such transparent tricks and shifts in politics, after the fashion of the lowest type of petty court lawyer adopting any quirk or quibble that may serve the purpose of the moment, without any regard for consistency or even for honesty.

In discussing our tariff policy in a recent public speech, Mr. Blake said:—"The issue is whether the present tariff is perfect, or defective and unjust." If that really is the issue, we must admit that our tariff is a human, uninspired production, and therefore necessarily is not perfect. Why, even the great and good Mr. Blake is defective, or he would not have appeared before us on the same platform with a self-confessed rebel, nor have made a blasphemous appeal to his maker in defence of rebellion, while using the base device to attain the position he covets.

ON THE SPOT.

The Opinion of the Priest at Batoche as to Riel's Crime.

We have quoted the opinion formed of Riel by a number of Roman Catholic priest's at or near the scene of the rebellion, because they had exceptional advantages in forming an opinion both of him and of his influence of evil over the halfbreeds. We will add the following discription by Father Picquet of Batoche:—

"If like me you would follow the steps and studied the hypocrisy, the cunning and the secret arts that Riel has used to deceive and seduce the people and drag them into rebellion, whether they would or not, you would as I do, cast upon that cruel and tyrannical man all the blame of that revolt. Riel made use of their religion; he made use of their ignorance and of their simplicity, touching every sensitive chord, to make them the dupes of his ambition."

As to Riel's sanity and his responsibility for the crimes committed, Father Picquet says:—

"There are persons who say that Riel is mad, but the more his conduct is examined the stronger must be the convictions, that nefarious man, under the appearance of madness, preserves the plenitude of his reason. All his plans have a sequence and a directness which show a fixed purpose to attain his end, and at the same time to escape the gallows if his criminal undertakings should fail. Riel must bear all the responsibility of his rebellion. He alone is to blame for all the calamities that have happened or are still to happen—the necessary consequences of those troubles which have caused us all so much suffering."

"Be medicines life may be prolonged,
Yet death will seize the doctor, too,"

True, all must die, yet few must suffer while they live. Stop pain and prolong life, by trying Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," a cure for consumption (which is scrofula of the lungs), as well as for coughs, colds, bronchitis, catarrh, and a specific in liver complaints, scrofula, and all blood and skin diseases. Sold everywhere.

TOWN CHARITY.

To the Editor of the Review.

RATEPAYERS.—What would the shareholders of any company who, at the end of each year, would say, we have distributed a few thousand of your loose cash among our poor friends and you are not now who the recipients are as some of them are sensitive folks. Their feelings would be wounded if you should. How long would such conduct be tolerated by said shareholders?

Your Council are treating you in like manner. I have an idea that if the list of charity receivers was published your eyes would stick out in their sockets at beholding an array of names of people living on your hard earnings who are too lazy to work, and who are the farthest from being real objects of charity. The ratepayers want nothing done in the dark. The reason why many are ashamed to let their neighbor know they are receiving help from the town is because they know that many of the poor paying for this help are needing it more than them. Away with such mock modesty. Real poverty is no disgrace. The ratepayers are only too anxious to help the needy but they want to know whether such are helped indeed.

It is a matter of thousands of dollars yearly to the ratepayers of this town, and they reasonably demand to know where the money goes. Select your men, ratepayers; now is your time. Vote for men who will do things above board.

Mrs. S. D. Bodwell, Wilmington, Mass., writes concerning the treatment of her daughter, who was troubled with sore eyes, as follows: "I gave Ayer's Sarsaparilla to

She has taken but half a bottle." A. J. Simpson, 147 East Merrimack st., Lowell, Mass., writes: "My weak eyes were made strong by using Ayer's Sarsaparilla." C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. which I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers."

For a Number of Years,

I was cured of both diseases by using six bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla." M. G. Henry Cobb, 41 Russell st., Charlestown, Mass., writes: "I was completely cured of Dyspepsia, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla." Wm. Lee, Joppa, Md., writes: "I have tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and it has done me so much good that I shall always regard it as the best of blood purifiers." Eminent physicians prescribe Ayer's Sarsaparilla in all cases requiring a powerful alterative treatment.

BEWARE

OF WORTHLESS IMITATIONS

As there are many inferior goods, corded with jute, hemp, etc., offered and sold as Coraline by some unprincipled merchants trading on the reputation of our genuine Coraline, we warn the ladies against such imposition by drawing their attention to the necessity of seeing that the name is stamped on inner side of all Coraline goods. Without which none are genuine.

'GROMPTON CORSET CO.'

Grand Removal Sale. — A Boon for Peterboro.

THE WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN'S DETERMINATION.

2,000 OVERCOATS AND SUITS to be SLAUGHTERED BEFORE THE 1st JANUARY, 1887. KEEP it IN MIND, IT is worth remembering, for GOUGH NEVER ADVERTISES ANYTHING HE DON'T DO, and in order that he may open out in his New Store with an Entire New Stock, he will offer Suits and Overcoats until Jan. 1st AT PARALYTIC PRICES. I have completed an EXTRAORDINARY LOW PURCHASE of ONE THOUSAND OVERCOATS, which will be opened out this week, and not having room to show them in my present Store, and in order to avoid the rush, and GIVE EVERY PERSON A CHANCE TO SECURE ONE, I will open them out in the Store

☞ NEXT DOOR TO THE REVIEW OFFICE. ☜

CHEAP ☞ NEVER IN CANADA has such an opportunity been offered to secure an Overcoat so Cheap, and other Wholesale Dealers should take advantage of it, as I am going to sell Away Below the Wholesale Prices. GOUGH

THIS IS NO HUMBUG! as on the 1st January I move into the STORE NOW OCCUPIED BY MR. CARTON, better known as BON MARCHE, and when I tell you I will, for the next 3 weeks, give you Clothing at less than Wholesale Prices, I will KEEP MY WORD, as I kept it when I told you I would throw away 500 Linen Coats from the top of the Opera House last Summer. This is and ever will be GOUGH'S GREATEST OFFER TO THE PUBLIC, as it is only once in a lifetime that a man can stand such a Sacrifice as I promise for the next 3 weeks only. People will wonder how I can afford to do it, and so as not to deceive them, let me here state that I cannot afford it, for Cheap as I buy. I certainly will not make money during this Grand Removal Sale, but my great motive is a Gigantic Advertisement that will ever afterwards MAKE THE AIR ECHO WITH THE NAME AND PRAISE OF

GOUGH, the Wonderful One Price Gheap Clothier, Peterborough.

YOUNGS' POINT.

SLEIGHING. — The beautiful snow has come at last and the sleiging is perfect.

POLITICAL.—A common subject of remark was the wording of Mr. Carnegie's bills for his meeting on Monday night in which he "cordially invites his opponents," etc., etc., to be present and speak. This is commented on as being far more liberal than the manner in which Mr. Stratton conducts his meetings.

CONCERT. — The concert given by the children of the Young's Point school on last Friday evening was a decided success. About a hundred of the parents and friends of the children assembled and listened to a well-conducted programme. When all did so well it would be impossible to particularize. At the close an informal meeting of those present was organized and a joint vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Lee was proposed by Messrs. C. Young and P. A. Kearney, which was unanimously adopted. Mr. Lee returned thanks on behalf of himself and wife, and a most enjoyable evening was terminated by all singing God Save the Queen.

DOMESTIC AND USEFUL.

A cool closet in a place that never freezes is perhaps better than most cellars for keeping grapes.

In frying fish, biscuit powder of well pounded toast or other plain biscuits is preferable to flour, it gives the fish a brighter look, and browns evenly and well.

The latest thing in house-decorations is a little slate with gilt frame and flowers painted upon it, hung up in the hall by a bright ribbon. Upon this callers who are without cards inscribe their names.

Short waists, after the style of the first empire are to be the fashion in Paris this winter, if the leading dressmakers can manage to persuade their fair customers to disfigure themselves like their ancestresses.

To kill cockroaches, try a teacupful of well bruised plaster of Paris, mixed with double the quantity of oatmeal, to which a little sugar has been added. Strew on the floor or in the chinks where they frequent.

The gloss on linen is obtained principally by the use of the iron. Turpentine, glycerine, soap and other things are used to glaze, but the iron does the most of it. The harder the table the iron is done on, the higher the glaze.

To make cotton fabrics unwettable, soak in strong cold soap solution—it should be strong enough to set to thin jelly—wring out and dry; then pass into a solution of sulphate of alumina eight ounces and water one gallon; work about well, and allow to lie for an hour; take out, dry.

In making cream candy take the white of one egg, an equal quantity of cold water, and sufficient confectioner's sugar to make it stiff enough to handle and form into balls. A great variety can be made by using different kinds of nuts and candied fruits. Press them in the balls before the candy stiffens.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefited the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

Dr. S. E. Sylvester, Portland, Me., says: "I have used it in nervous debility with most satisfactory results."

A Christmas Card for the Colonies.

Mrs. Craik, the author of "John Halifax Gentleman," contributes the following verses to the Christmas number of the English Illustrated, under the title "Colonial Papers, Please Copy":—

English yet! though strange your faces,
Browned by hard colonial toil,
In our hearts we keep your places,
Brothers, born on foreign soil.
Listen in each distant clime
To our English Christmas chime.

English yet! Should ever trouble
Enter your dear mother's door,
Would ye not then love her double?
Shed your blood, expend your store?
Nor in ends o' the earth forget
That ye all are English yet?

English yet! The world seems narrow
To your hearts so warm and wide;
And they fly straight as an arrow
Home to us each Christ-tide;
And our eyes with tears are wet,
Thinking ye are English yet.

FROM ALL OVER.

The Manitoba Legislature will meet about the middle of February.

Count Herbert Bismarck will receive the Bulgarian delegates separately.

It is estimated that the costs of the Campbell divorce case will amount to $125,000.

The action of Mrs. Adams against her father, Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, has been settled privately.

It is reported from Dublin that the police have been instructed to arrest campaign leaders everywhere.

A large number of Kerry moonlighters have been sentenced at Cork to eighteen months' imprisonment.

Tone up the system by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will make you feel like a new person. Thousands have found health, and relief from suffering, by the use of this great blood purifier, when all other means failed.

M. De Lesseps declared at a meeting of the French Geographical Society that the Panama Canal will be open for the traffic in 1886.

Of nine youths found guilty of criminally assaulting a girl in Sydney, N.S.W., six were hanged and the other three will be imprisoned for life.

During this winter the Northwest Mounted Police will be relieved of all outpost duty except the protection of the Prince Albert mail route.

The proclaiming of the Anti-Rent Campaign is accepted by the leaders of the National League as a step on the Government's part towards the suppression of the League.

Nordheimer's block, in Montreal, including the Music hall, was totally destroyed by fire on Saturday afternoon. The loss is estimated to reach $130,000, with only partial insurance.

Forty years' experience, in every clime, has proved Ayer's Cherry Pectoral to be the most reliable remedy for colds, coughs, and lung diseases. Colds should not be neglected. The Pectoral will prevent their becoming deep seated in the system.

Mothers! Mothers!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

NEW YORK Count Oysters at OSTROM'S.

Teachers and Students.

The Canadian Pacific Railway will sell, for Christmas and New Years' holidays, to Teachers and Students of all schools, on presentation of certificates, cheap return trip tickets, good during December 15th to 31st, and to return until January 15th, 1887. Full particulars at the Company's offices.

The Eastern Question.

Mr. Duncan McLeod held one of his campaign meetings in Ashburnham on Monday night. Mr. John Erskine occupied the chair. In his speech of about two hours Mr. McLeod touched several of the leading questions of the day and also raked up a few of the local sins committed by the Mowat Government. The meeting broke up with cheers.

A Grand Entertainment.

Reserve the evening of Tuesday, January the 4th, for the St. Andrew's Sunday School entertainment in Bradburn's Opera House, consisting of singing, tableaux, and charades. Miss Howden of Millbrook, and other local celebrities will take part in the programme. No person should miss this chance to spend a highly enjoyable evening.

Veneering White Brick.

Mr. S. J. Fox, of Lindsay, has two hundred and fifty thousand fine, white-faced, veneering brick at his yards at Lindsay. He offers his goods for sale in large and small quantities. Builders here, who desire to make arrangements with him, will be met at the station in Lindsay if they drop him a card. He will be pleased to have Peterborough builders inspect his goods. He will sell now at reduced prices.

Scott Act.

The cases Queen vs. Cavanagh and Queen vs. Halpin, were resumed at the Police Court on Monday. After the examination of several more witnesses one swore that he drank whiskey at the Stewart House. The case was enlarged to the 30th of December, two days after the Ontario Legislature elections. In the latter case several more witnesses were examined. The case was put off to the same date.

Church Parade.

The city battalion held their second church parade on Sunday, by attending St. Paul's Church in a body. The Rev. Mr. Carmichael, of Norwood, preached the sermon. At the conclusion he addressed a few words to the men. He did not know whether any present were through the Northwest campaign or not, but he knew well that if called on they would be ready to bravely defend their country's honor as those who had gone there had done. He hoped they would be good soldiers of Christ as well as good soldiers of the Queen.

Germany.

A most interesting "talk" on Germany was given in the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Monday evening by the Rev. F. H. Wallace, M. A., B.D. Cologne and its cathedral, the Rhine, Munich, Leipsic, Berlin, and other places came in for vivid description. The people, their manners and customs, education and religion were described in a very entertaining way, and frequent humorous incidents called forth the laughter of the audience. The lecturer paid the highest tribute to the character and worth of the people, and was quite optimistic as to the future of the empire, especially as regards social progress and religious activity. He closed by reminding Englishmen how much they owed to Germany—for the Protestant reformation and the printing press, in philosophy and in systematic theology. He also touched on our Anglo-Saxon origin, and in that connection said that an Englishman and a German got into a dispute as to the respective merits of their countries. After arguing for some time the German angrily exclaimed: "You English are nozzing but baf Germans anyhow." At the close Mr. Orr Bennett, B.A., proposed a vote of thanks to the lecturer, seconded by Mr. D. B. Gardiner, which was tendered Mr. Wallace by the Chairman, Mr. Geo. M. Roger.

THE TELEGRAPHERS CHAT.

Talking from One End of the Continent to the Other.

On Sunday, December 19th, the longest telegraphic circuit ever yet made was accomplished. By a pre-arrangement the wires between Victoria, British Columbia, and New Orleans, United States, were connected via Montreal, Peterborough, Toronto, Buffalo, Chicago, St. Louis and Indianapolis, a distance of five thousand, six hundred and eighty-two miles.

Mr. Sampey, the operator in the Canadian Pacific Railway uptown office, says that he heard the messages as they went through with remarkable distinctness. Each station on the circuit sent a report of the weather. In New Orleans and Victoria it was mild and warm; in Chicago they had two inches of snow; in Montreal, also, there was snow, and in St. Louis it was fine.

Personal.

Mr. T. Arnold Haultain, of the Educational Weekly, is in town.

No. 3 Ward.

As will be seen by advertisement in another column, Mr. E. C. Hill has offered himself as candidate for municipal honors for 1887. He will no doubt poll a good vote.

A Big Pig.

Mr. H. C. Winch bought a large pig this morning for his 'Xmas display, which weighed 525 pounds. It was fed by Mr. E. Bulmer, of Smith, and is the largest weighed on the scales this season.

FINE Bulk Oysters at OSTROM'S.

Scott Act.

The Port Hope Guide accuses the REVIEW of having "coached" the special correspondent of the Mail in regard to the Scott Act. We were not aware that the Mail's correspondent had been in town till after he had left, and then heard of his visit from a Reformer.

Important Connections.

The Canadian Pacific Railway telegraph line is now being pressed forward with rapidity to tap all the leading towns in Canada. On Monday an office was opened out in Napanee, to be followed shortly by others in all the frontier towns and cities. When the Canadian connections are completed the C. P. R. line will have as wide a connection as any line in existance.

Christmas Beef.

Don't fail to see the large display of 'Xmas Beef at Harry winch's stall this week. Mr. Winch has always been noted for the artistic way in which he decorates his stall with the nicest beefs, procured from the best cattle feeders in the country; but this year he has out-done all previous occasions, and those who [illegible] to be sure of getting the very best meat of the season.

The Dying Year.

The good old year of 1886 is fast drawing to a close. It seems but only a short time since it was welcomed in, and yet it is nearly twelve long months ago. Such is the flight of time. With the dying year there will doubtless go up from a vast number of homes prayers that the incoming year of 1887 may be blessed, and that peace and contentment may reign supreme over the entire length and breath of the civilized world. The glad New Year is a time of great rejoicing—a time when all enmity and malice is put aside and the broad mantle of charity is thrown o'er those who in the past were deemed other than friends. Christmas and New Year's holidays are enjoyed by everyone and the citizens of Peterborough always join merrily in the gay festivites. They also purchase largely of A. McNeil, Habiliment Hall.

GERMANY AND RUSSIA.

Indications of a Better Feeling—Interests of the Two Nations.

BERLIN, Dec. 20.—The North German Gazette welcomes the indications of a better feeling between Russia and Germany, as shown in the recent article in the St. Petersburg Messenger. The two nations, says the Gazette, recognize that there are permanent binding interests common to both. The Gazette attributes the press bickerings to the influence of partisans of a policy to revenge against France. It says concord among the European powers is regarded as inconvenient from the English point of view and that for the Poles war against Russia seems the first necessity. The Gazette rejoices that the Messenger recognizes that the German policy is ever directed towards peace, with unmistaken confidence in the wisdom and firmness of the Czar.

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS.

The Nominations Made at the Court House To-Day.

At twelve o'clock, noon, on Tuesday the nominations of candidates to represent West Peterborough in the Local Legislature took place at the Court House.

Sheriff Hall asked for nominations.

M. T. G. HAZLITT moved, seconded by Mr. RICHARD WARAM,—That James R. Stratton be a candidate to represent West Peterborough.

Mr. A. P. POUSSETTE moved, seconded by Mr. W. H. MOORE,—That John Carnegie be a candidate to represent West Peterborough.

Mr. W. A. STRATTON moved, seconded by Mr. MELVILLE MILLAR,—That John Bertram be a candidate.

Mr. E. J. TOKER moved, seconded by Mr. GEO HATTON,—That Geo. Hilliard be a candidate.

Mr. A. McNEIL moved, seconded by Mr. WM. HINCHCLIFFE,—That A. P. Poussette be a candidate.

A poll was demanded for Messrs. Carnegie and Stratton only.

AT NORWOOD.

The following nominations were made at Norwood:—

Duncan McLeod (Independent reform,) Peterborough, nominated by John Brakenridge, seconded by Hugh Drain.

Thomas Blezard (Reform) Otonabee, nominated by John Lang, seconded by James Moore.

W. H. Stephenson (Conservative) Norwood, nominated by David Rose, seconded by James Fife.

Jas. G. Jardine (Reform) Cobourg, nominated by Dr. Massie, seconded by Thomas Fraser.

John Burnham (Conserv Peterborough, nominated [illegible]wd, seconded by John Knox.

J. B. McWilliams (Reform) Peterborough, nominated by Wm. Moher, seconded by J. J. Chrow.

The first three intend going to the polls.

JOINING HANDS.

Unless the Reformers can secure a majority in Quebec they may as well throw up the sponge. Their leader and some of their representatives in parliament, backed by Mr. Mowat and their organ in this city, have joined hands with the French Canadians who raised such a clamour over the execution of Riel, and to lose the game after going as far as men of British birth could decently go in sympathising with the Rielites the humiliation of defeat would be more than they could stand. The provincial elections in Quebec did not turn out to be the Riel rush to victory that was expected. Will the Dominion elections in that province flatten out in like manner.—Toronto Telegram (Ind. p.)

COWARDLY AND FALSE.

Reading Against Time to Silence the Conservative Candidate.

MR. BERTRAM'S TRUE COLORS.

ABUSING MOWAT AND CURSING THOSE OF DIFFERENT CREED.

And then Changing his Mind for Reasons Unknown—The Morrow Appointment —Mr. Peter Ryan in the Background.

On Tuesday after the nominations of candidates to represent West Peterborough in the Local Legislature, the Sheriff inquired who demanded to go to the polls. Demands were made on behalf of J. R. Stratton and John Carnegie. The Sheriff then asked the movers and seconders to offer remarks.

Mr. T. G. HAZLITT, as mover of Mr. Stratton's nomination, said that he would leave the discussion of the political issues to the candidates.

Mr. A. P. POUSSETTE, as mover of Mr. Carnegie's nomination, claimed a few minutes to state the reasons why he thought Mr. Carnegie a fit and proper person to represent West Peterborough. In 1867 Mr. Carnegie first came before the electors of Peterborough and from that time to the present he was actively engaged in politics. He was fully qualified to fill the position, being thoroughly conversant with all matters relating to the welfare of this Province [illegible] of this county. The electors of Peterborough were now called on to say whether they will have Mr. Carnegie again as their representative in the Local House in Toronto or whether they desire to replace him with his young friend Mr. Stratton. It was contended that personal qualifications should not be taken into consideration, and yet he was in opinion that these should not be lost sight of. Some held that electors should support the candidate who pledged himself to support a certain Government. Yet it would be well, he thought, for the electors to consider whether it would not be advisable to choose one who, by his acknowledged abilities, is more likely to benefit the Riding for which he is now a candidate as representative. Mr. Carnegie's past course had shown beyond doubt that he was eminently qualified to be their representative again. He was well acquainted with the affairs of the Province from the time it became a Province, as he had shown in his many speeches on many platforms. It behoved the electors to consider well whether it was in their interests to replace Mr. Carnegie by a young man of Mr. Stratton's attainments.

Mr. MOORE, as seconder, called attention to the fact that after nineteen years of public life no one, whether he be Reformer or Conservative, could point his finger at one wrong doing by Mr. Carnegie. (Applause) There were few men occupying public positions for so many years of whom the same thing could be said. He deemed it nothing less than a misfortune if the electors of this Riding did not return Mr. Carnegie. His reputation was now so well established that if Meredith were returned to office—and he hoped he would be—Mr. Carnegie would be sure to be one of the Cabinet. (Applause.)

Mr. STRATTON was the next speaker. He spent about twenty minutes in reciting the same "patent" speech which he has recited in numerous places since the campaign commenced. He claimed, amid laughter, that the Mowat Government had given Ontario its admirable municipal code, but had the prudence (probably at the suggestion of Mr. Peter Ryan, who sat opposite) to correct himself later on and to give the credit where it was due. Among other things which he claimed for the Mowat Government was the extension of the franchise to unmarried women and widows in municipal elections. He then read out of the blue books a whole string of figures as to the expenditure on various things. From this he went on and read a lot more from the blue books as to the receipts obtained from timber sales, winding up with the assertion that the Mowat Government sold their timber limits for $400 a square mile, while the Dominion Government sold theirs for $5 per square mile. From the crown lands expenditure he went on to read about the colonization road expenditure. He claimed that the colonization road money had all been spent honestly, and that though Mr. J. B. McWilliams had spent some of this money he had spent it well. He then proceeded to rehearse the various legal contests which Sir John Macdonald and the Hon. Mr. Mowat had engaged in. Getting through with that he had resort again to the blue book. He claimed that out of the total expenditure during the last session of $2,891,532, only $2,750 was objected to, and that was to build a dam across Burnt River. Mr. Carnegie objected to it. He admitted that it was of benefit to Mr. Mansfield, who owned the mill there—(hear, hear)—but Mr. Mansfield happened to be a strong worker against Mr. Carnegie at the last election. (Hear, hear, and shouts "of course.") He then recited the part of the Hon. Mr. Ross' speech on public institutions, even down to the expression of the blind being "shut out from the sunlight of Heaven." He then, to vary the thing, read for a while about how many pages certain school books in New York had and what they cost per page. Comparing that to the price of Ontario readers. He then went on the Gerrymander Act, which he termed the "redistribution Act." The Government had aimed at lowering the population of electoral ridings having more than 21,000 and of increasing those having less. He stated that he could prove that Mr. Carnegie went back on his address of 1883. Then he said he would favor a reduction in the number of representattves sent the Local Legislature. But he voted for an increase. He read part of a resolution for which Mr. Carnegie voted.

Mr. CARNEGIE—Read it all.

Mr. STRATTON refused to read the whole resolution because he well knew that the other clauses so qualified it as to change the whole meaning. The electors were not satisfied with his conduct and gave expression to it by jeers. Notwithstanding Mr. Stratton refused to read the rest of the clause. From Gerrymander he went to Agricultural College affairs. It was evident that Mr. Stratton was defeated in his attempt to speak, or rather, read, against time, had not Mr Peter Ryan, Ryan, who sat opposite, came to the rescue. This worthy continued to pass slips of paper across to help Mr. Stratton to keep on his feet. Mr. Bertram, too, came to his aid, and gave him a few pointers now and then when he showed signs of sitting down. At last he got hold of a long newspaper extract which kept him going for half an hour. It was a statement of one Kirmin, who Mr. Stratton stated got out campaign literature in 1883. He also read pamphlets addressed to the Irish Catholics in 1883, which he said were written by Kirmin at the instance of Mr. Bunting who was making all this Protestant howl.

Mr. C. W. SAWERS—Mr Bunting has published denied that he had anything to do with it.

Mr. RYAN tapped Mr. Bertram on the shoulder and both went out for a few minutes.

Mr. STRATTON went on to state that the Irish Canadian was in league with the Mail to put Mowat out of office. The owners of the paper "all" Conservatives and it could be easily seen the reasons of their action. And yet when Mr. Stratton further on read the statement of who owned the paper, and their politics, he was compelled to contradict his own assertion by reading that there was one Reformer among them. The Irish Canadian claimed that the Catholics did not get enough offices. He was not one to give an office to anyone either because he was a Protestant or a Roman Catholic. He stood on the broad platform of citizenship.

Mr. C. W. SAWERS rose to speak, but Mr. Stratton continued on. At length Mr. Sawers got a hearing. He asked why it was that Mr. Bernard Morrow got the Registrarship. Was it not because he was a Roman Catholic?

Mr. STRATTON was muddled for a moment but he had recourse to the Irish Canadian's statement that the Roman Catholics did not get their fair share of offices, thus taking back at one gulp, odious though it must have been, the statement he made only a minute before. As to Bible readings he said that Protestants should esteem it highly that Archbishop Lynch, representing a large and influential portion of the community, should have approved of them. He read from the statutes again for a while. When he emerged from the law books he came out with the statement that if a Protestant landlord had a Roman Catholic tenant and that if the tenant happened to run away before the taxes came due, the Protestant landlord could pay his taxes to the Public Schools if he chose.

A VOICE—That's a lie.

Mr. STRATTON repeated the statement.

Mr. Wm. MONTGOMERY, of this town, got up and said that he had a case and that he was compelled to pay the tax towards the Separate School. He would forfeit $100 if this was not the case. (Applause and sensation.)

Mr. STRATTON said that they may not do it here but that was the law anyway. In reference to Roman Catholic trustees on High School Boards, Mr. Stratton stated that Mr. Carnegie and been convinced of the justice of Mr. Fraser's arguments.

A VOICE—He was convinced by Mr. Fraser's lies.

Mr. STRATTON referred to the REVIEW'S report of Mr. Carnegie's speech in the Opera House in which Mr. Carnegie is represented as saying that when Mr. Fraser said that the Roman Catholics were not appointed as representatives to the High School Boards simply because the Municipal Councils were so bigoted he replied that he was sorry that any man's religion should debar him from a position which he had a lawful right to fill.

The REVIEW REPORTER who took the proceedings at the meeting in question rose to say that it was impossible to give a verbatum report of Mr. Carnegie's speech owing to the length of the speech and the limited space allotted. Scores who were at the meeting will testify that Mr Carnegie followed by saying that Mr. Fraser told what was untrue and that the facts of the case were that Roman Catholics were appointed as representatives on High School Boards by Municipal Councils. It was to reduce the length of the report that this was left out.

Mr. STRATTON then went on to read the Mail's comments on the Christain Guardian the Mail's comments on the Bible readings and a lot more readings. It was now dusk. The gaoler came in an lit the gas. The audience grew so thoroughly wearied of Mr. Stratton's manifest attempt to talk recute and read them all out of the room so that Mr. Carnegie would not have the chance to reply, that they shouted at him to sit down hissed him and made all sorts of clamour. But Mr. Stratton had the cheek to talk on in spite of the electors' disapprobation and it was not till Mr. Melville Millar, President of the West Riding Reform Association, nodded his head at the reader and reciter sat down. But even after this Mr. Stratton got up and asked for a moment to make an explanation, had the impudence to talk for nearly a quarter of an hour when he was again hissed into his seat.

Previous to Mr. Stratton's sitting down Mr. Carnegie asked permission to say a word. He said that as he had a meeting in South Monaghan—

Mr. STRATTON—I have a meeting in Ennismore.

A VOICE—Take your Ryan with you, Jim.

Mr. CARNEGIE, continuing, said that he had no time to follow Mr. Stratton and reply to him. He would, however, challenge Mr. Stratton to come to the Music Hall any night between this and election day, there to make the same statements and there to be replied to. (Shouts of hear, hear)

Mr. STRATTON declined on the ground that he could not speak well enough, though for the last three hours and a half or more he occupied the time of the electors.

Mr. CARNEGIE said it was no surprise to him that the effort to choke off free discussion had been made. In the whole history of campaigning in the county for the last 20 years never had such gross unfairness been perpetrated as had been on this occasion. (Hear, hear.) Not only had Mr. Stratton been unable to manufacture enough material to keep him going, so as to prevent a reply, but he had to send to Toronto to get priming. (Applause and hisses.) If that man Ryan was not known here as "shoddy" Ryan (loud cheers), he was known up and down this Province by that title. If there was one thing he regretted it was that the unfortunate people of Ennismore were to have "shoddy" poured out upon them to-night. And Mr. Stratton was going with him to repeat perhaps the statements which he here gave expression to and in which there was no truth. Him talk of the Mowat Government giving Woman's suffrage! Well he knew that half the Government side, including Messrs. Pardee and Firser, were against it, it was the Opposition that carried it through. The statement made that he went back on his address of 1883 regarding the reduction of members to the House had no truth in it. Mr. Bertram and Mr. Stratton had both read half the resolution and then had drawn their arguments. What he did object to was that 166,000 people of this province should be represented by 7, while 124,000 were represented by 8. Mr. Stratton had the hardihood to get up here and say that it was a bill to get represented by population, 21,000 being the average. Was it pure ignorance or what that made him say so? In West York the population 18,000, was — increased? no, decreased to suit party purposes. Instead of being raised to 21,0 0 it was decreased to 16,000. It was not possible to follow him through all his maze of misrepresentation. He had been endeavoring to have fair discussion on the platform, but that was denied him. (Cheers.) Even his old opponent Mr. Bertram had attended only one of his meetings. What was Mr. Bertram's course in this campaign. He hoped Mr. Bertram was here now for he wanted to be fair and square. He did not wish to hit Mr. Bertram with his back turned as Mr. Bertram had done to him in South Monaghan. He had it from his friends that in South Monaghan Mr. Bertram stated that he (Mr. Carnegie) was very attentive to his duties. Having searched the journals of the House he found Mr. Carnegie's name recorded on every division except one and that was the Riel question, and there Mr. Bertram left it. In Smith Mr. Bertram acknowledged that that he didn't think Mr. Carnegie had shirked the vote. Well Mr. Bertram knew the reason why his (Mr. Carnegie's) name was not recorded. Because he was called away by sickness in his family, Mr. Bertram tried to make a little political point out of it. It was cowardly for any man to act in this way, (Cheers.) Why did Mr. John Bertram take the course that he has in this campaign It was not long ago that he stated openly and frankly that he would take the stump against the Mowat Government at this election, (Applause and "hear, hear.") The reason he assigned was that the people here were ruled by the Catholics and John B. McWilliams. But Mr. John Bertram is a lumberman now and Mr. John B. McWilliams is Crown Timber Agent, and the latter has it in his power to look at any lumberman's logs and say "they are not sound; I'll reduce the measurement from 16 inches to 12 inches." Thus if Mr. Bertram did not wheel into line Mr. J. B. McWilliams could crack this whip over his head. Gilmour, a conservative, had bitter experiences in this matter. Another of Mr. Stratton's statements was, that the Ontario Government is getting $400 a square mile for timber limits while the Dominion Government only got $5 per square mile. Was it because Mr. Stratton was unacquainted with the facts or was it downwright wilful lying. The facts were the Ontario Government sold out their limits complete, while the Dominion Government charged a ground rent.(applause)

Mr. BERTRAM here entered.

Mr. CARNEGIE said that as he never made a statement behind a man's back that he was not prepared to make before his face he would repeat what he had said.

Mr. BERTRAM acknowledged that he made the statement in South Monaghan that Mr. Carnegie made was recorded on every division except on the Riel question and that he made no explanation, not even the expression of his belief that Mr. Carnegie had not striked the vote. He did not know that Mr. Carnegie was called away on account of sickness in the family.

A VOICE—It was in every paper in town and every paper in Toronto.

Mr. BERTRAM—I don't read the REVIEW.

Mr. CARNEGIE then went on to repeat what he said in reference to Mr. Bertram's taking the stump against the Mowat Government. He could bring evidence to prove that Mr. Bertram said it.

Mr. BERTRAM—Produce your evidence.

Mr. CARNEGIE—You deny the statement and I will.

Mr. BERTRAM—Then I say its a lie.

Mr. Isaac GARBUT, a well-known resident rose and said that Mr. Bertram told Samuel McRibbon and Mr. McRibbon told him that Mr. Bertram was going to work against the Mowat Government. (Hear hear.)

Mr. James KENDRY said that he was prepared to state an oath that Mr. Bertram expressed his determination not only to stump Peterborough but the County of Victoria against the Mowat Government. (Hear hear). It was not long ago that Mr. Bertram said this in the Auburn Woollen Company's office. He and Mr. Davidson, Kelso agent were there. They did not question Mr. Bertram about it but he made the statement voluntarily. The reason given by Mr. Bertram for this was on account of the Morrow registrarship affair. He said "the damned Catholics are getting all the offices." Mr Kendry was prepared to affirm this on oath.

Mr. BERTRAM—Produce your affadavit (Laughter and jeers.)

Mr. W. H. MOORE rose and said that shortly after the Morrow appointment Mr. Bertram publicly stated in Mr. Menzie's bookstore that he was utterly disgusted with the Mowat Government. He had fought against the appointment and it was made directly against his wishes. He would do all he could to oppose the Government on every occasion.

Mr. CARNEGIE continuing said that he did not want Mr. Bertram to get the opportunity of saying that he (Mr. Carnegie) said behind his back what he would not say before his face. Mr. Bertram had asked for the evidence and he had it. He then went on to repeat a reason for Mr. Bertram's sudden flop over, assigning the power which Mr. J. B. McWilliam's had over him.

Mr. Bertram laughed.

Mr. CARNEGIE said that Mr. Bertram might laugh, but he left it to the electors present to say whether it was a laughing matter or not. (Cheers.) Mr. Bertram's sudden turn-over had something behind it at all events. He charged Mr. Bertram with having made deliberate misstatements, instancing the Cornwall gerrymander. Mr. Bertram and Mr. Stratton were not men enough to read the whole resolution, but garbled it to suit themselves. As to J. B. McWilliams, he (Mr. Carnegie) had him under oath. That gentleman spent some of the colonization road money and let the jobs while he went around with Mr. Roxburgh on an electioneering campaign. (Loud laughter.) He did not want anything but fair discussion. If Mr. Stratton chose to come to the Music Hall any night between this and the election he would agree to half hour and half hour.

Mr. STRATTON—I have meetings every night between this and election.

Mr. CARNEGIE—Have you one on the 4th line of Smith? They want to see you up there. (Laughter.)

Mr. STRATTON—Yes.

Mr CARNEGIE closed with repeating his offer to have this out in the Music Hall with Mr. Stratton.

Mr. BERTRAM next had the floor. It was really amusing to listen to the manner in which he tried to get out of his corner. First he said there was only hearsay evidence against him. (Shouts of no, no, Kendry's statement.) Then he said that the whole thing was a joke. The electors present seemed to think Mr. Bertram's last statement was a good joke for they laughed heartily. Mr. Bertram then tried to lead of the electors to gerrymander questions. He repeated that Mr. Carnegie had voted against cutting down the parliamentary representation, instancing the Cornwall affair, and that the motion was on page 171 of the journals.

Mr. FOLEY—It is not there as you represent it

Mr. Bertram said it was there.

After a short discussion the "stumping statement" was brought around again. Mr Bertram wanted to swear Mr. Kendry.

Mr. KENDRY replied that his word was as good as Mr. Bertram's. He repeated that only a short time ago Mr. Bertram stated in the Auburn mills office that he would stump Peterborough and go to Mariposa and work against the Mowat Government. The reason he gave was that the "damned Catholics were getting all the offices."

Mr. POUSSETTE—He didn't say "damned" Catholics, did he.

Mr. KENDRY—That was the very expression he used.

Mr. POUSSETTE—Shame, Shame.

Mr. BERTRAM asked if Mr. Kendry was sure of the adjective.

Mr. KENDRY again repeated Mr. Bertram's statement. It was no conversation. Mr. Bertram came up to the office and blew off the whole thing.

Mr. BERTRAM acknowledged that he was against Mr. Morrow's appointment. But he denied having fought against it, all he had to do with it was this: One day he was at Toronto. He wanted to see Mr. Blezard, He saw him. Mr. Blezzard had some business with Mr. Mowat and they both went to Mr. Mowats office. Mr. Biezard said "Mr. Bertram is in favor of Mr. Ludgate's appointment.' He, Mr. Bertram, said "I have every confidence in the representative of our county, Mr. Blezard, he will make a good appointment." When he found out who was appointed he was not only dissapointed but grieved at the Government's action. But he would support the Government nevertheless. No doubt Mr. Mowat best knew who had a right to the appointment.

He thought it was not fair to repeat a private conversation for political purposes, but he forgot that he made the statement in a public office, and in a public place of business. He did not think that Mr. Kendry would state what he did not believe to be true.

To the Electors
OF THE
WEST RIDING
Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1886.

THE WORKINGMEN.

It is generally conceded by the artisans, the mechanics, the factory operatives, in short, by those who are popularly described as "workingmen," that the Conservative Government of the Dominion, with its National Policy and its other legislation in the same line, has been especially serviceable to them, as it has been to the country at large. The contrast between their policy of encouraging home industries, Canadian manufactures and that of their predecessors, the Reformers, who would have us all deal with foreign manufacturers, foreign workmen, giving the employment and the profit to them instead of to our own people, if thereby a cent could be gained at the moment, is very marked and the Canadian workingman has no hesitation in preferring the Canadian system.

In the Provincial Legislature the beneficial position of the Conservatives towards the workingmen has been less striking at first sight, simply because Mr. Meredith and his followers, being in opposition hitherto, have not been able to effect so much as they wish. There have, however, been indications that are unmistakable to the intelligent observer, and they have even been able to force upon the reluctant majority some beneficial legislation.

Last year Mr. Meredith introduced a bill making employers liable for injuries to those in their employ. Mr. Mowat and his colleagues persuaded their followers to throw out this Bill. This year, however, the Reformers, under the pressure of the moral force thus brought to bear upon them by the Conservatives, and being frightened at the unpopularity their refusal had brought upon them, introduced themselves the measure they had so unceremoniously burked, and the measure of Mr. Meredith, somewhat curtailed in spite of Conservative protests, is now to be found, in consequence of his action, in our statute books.

Mr. Meredith and his friends, finding that the immigration expenditure had chiefly been used to introduce competing labour, have for years opposed the appropriation. They have not been able to force their views upon Mr. Mowat and his supporters to their full extent, but by their persistence they have secured a considerable reduction of the amounts thus spent.

The Conservatives, under the leadership of Mr. Meredith, pressed for the extension of the franchise, but, as usual, met with a curt refusal from the falsely-styled Reformers. Their advocacy of manhood suffrage has so far been unsuccessful, owing to the determined opposition of Mr. Mowat and his forces. But in other respects the Conservatives have been more successful in procuring the franchise for workingmen; they proposed that the sons of mechanics in our towns should have the same privilege in this respect as the sons of our farmers, and after a refusal they forced this upon the reluctant Reformers; with a similar object they asked for an income franchise, with the same refusal for a time, and the same ultimate success; and so it was with other clauses of the Franchise Act, the whole of which, indeed, may be credited to Conservative action.

The exemption of wages from seizure, the priority of wage earners over other creditors, and similar legislation, is due to Mr. Meredith and the Conservatives, even while in Opposition. On the other side of the House their services in the same line would be still more effective.

As an offset to these and other beneficial interventions by the Conservatives in favor of the workingmen, Mr. Mowat can only point to the Factory Act, but the circumstances show that he passed it reluctantly, and was most unwilling to put it in operation. He hoped that the Dominion authorities would disallow it, but to his chagrin they approved of it, and let it become law. Then he almost went down on his knees to them to beg them to oppose it, to fight it in the law courts, to take a case to the Supreme Court. The flat refusal of the Dominion Minister of Justice and the Cabinet to obstruct the operation of the Act increased Mr. Mowat's dismay. The final taunting enquiries from the Minister of Justice, why he thought his legislation unconstitutional, and on what points and grounds he wished to have it contested, completed his route, and being utterly unable to give an answer to these embarrassing questions, he at length gave in, and by along deferred proclamation gave validity to the Act only this very month, when it should have been in force long ago, if he had not been dishonestly playing with the question.

Some of his more unscrupulous defenders including his own rented organ, the Globe, pretend that the Dominion Administration caused the delay by withholding their assent, but this is an impudent falsehood. The Dominion authorities under Conservative advice assented to the measure, declined to reconsider their decision to please Mr. Mowat, utterly refused to join him in his game of obstruction, and forced him tardily and reluctantly to give effect to this law, which he had never intended to make operative, but only to use it as "a chip on the shoulder" to provoke a fight if possible with the Dominion Administration.

The workingmen are not to be deceived by such transparent artifices, and well know who are their friends.

W. H. Stephenson (Conservative) Norwood, nominated by David Rose, seconded by James Fife.

Jas. G. Jardine (Reform) Cobourg, nominated by Dr. Massie, seconded by Thomas Fraser.

John Burnham (Conservative) Peterborough, nominated by J. P. Brown, seconded by John Knox.

J. B. McWilliams (Reform) Peterborough, nominated by Wm. Moher, seconded by J. J. Chrow.

Mr. J. Fraser was nominated by Mr. J. B. McKelvie, seconded by Mr. J. Harper.

The first three intend going to the polls.

When the hour for nominations was passed. Dr. MASSIE moved, seconded by Mr. W. H. STEPHENSON, that Mr. W. E. Roxburgh take the chair.

The motion was carried.

The CHAIRMAN, after a few remarks, asked if there was any arrangement as to time.

It was replied that each speaker was to have half an hour.

Mr. BLEZARD was the first to address the meeting. He defended the Government for bringing on the elections at this time on account of the extention of the Franchise. He thought more of the Mowat Government now than he ever did. "Provincial rights" was next touched on, and the Boundary Award came in for attention. They had not direct taxation yet, though it must come some time in the future. Referring to the Streams Bill the astonishing statement was made that it would not effect any case pending in the Courts. The license question was dealt with, and Sir John Macdonald's "ignorance" condemned. He said that the Provincial Government got $400 per square mile for timber limits, and the Dominion Government $5, suppressing the additional charges and conditions in the Dominion regulations and the further fact that the $5 was a yearly rental. He acknowledged that the Government made a mistake in authorizing three series of School Readers, but defended the existing monopoly. He said the Opposition had got up the cry of "Protestantism in danger" and he recommended each one to go to the statutes and see what the law was. The Conservatives, he said had appealed to the Catholics before. He knew no one by his creed or nationality in his position as representative. He diverged into an attack on Mr. Burnham. In regard to the charge of centralization he tried to use the "you're another" argument by referring to the Dominion Government's Franchise Act and the "Gerrymander" bill. He attacked the members of the opposition as being of no ability. He denied that he had voted against the hanging of Riel, and said that the opposition tried to get the legislature to exonerate the Government from all blame. He charged Sir John Macdonald with hypocrisy because he wished after 1870 that he could catch Riel. He appealed to them for votes, and said that he had not recommended Mr. Morrow for the registry office, but the Government had ignored him.

Mr. McLEOD said he would not support Mr. Blezard if he would maintain the Mowat Government in office until the time of their children's children. As to "rings," he claimed that Mr. Blezard attempted to form a "ring." He (Mr. McLeod) said he was an Independent, in favor of Confederation, British connection, and legislation in the interests of temperance. He had unfurled the banner of freedom, justice and equality before the law. No Roman Catholic would want more, and no Protestant would wish to grant less. He stood, not in the low rut of party, but on the ground of patriotism. He said that the hierarchy of the Catholic Church should confine themselves to the sacraments and doctrine, and not interfere with politics. (At this point there was considerable interruption). He referred to the French schools in Eastern Ontario, and said the books used there were authorized by the Cardinal. These schools were public schools, and the Government was guilty of a crime in connection with them. In the schools in which there were German children the English language was taught. He quoted from a speech of Mr. Mowat in opposition to sectarian schools, and read from a placard in which the people were appealed to, years ago, to vote for "Mowat and the Queen, or Morrison and the Pope," and claimed that Mr. Mowat had changed his mind for power and patronage. He said that Archbishop Lynch had interfered in elections. What had made Scotchmen the world over famed for integrity? (A voice, "Whiskey," and laughter.) It was the Bible. The Scripture selections were referred to, and he asked if the Protestants had equal rights with the minority. He argued that they had not, and went into school matters to prove it. All the changes in the law were made while Mr. Blezard was in the Legislature. Mr Blezard had acknowledged that the Registrar was appointed on account of his religion. He appealed to them for their votes on patriotism.

Mr. STEPHENSON was pleased to see so large an audience. He appeared before them, not an orator, but as one of themselves, knowing their requirements. He had the interests of his country at heart, and at this time he considered it his duty to be a candidate. What had Mr. Blezard done for them and the country? The Boundary Award and the Streams Bill were brought up to lead the people away from other issues. The timber, he believed, was not in all cases sold by tender, and if the Province had money in the treasury, why sell the timber, which was each year increasing in value? The heads of families knew by experience whether there was anything in the school book question, as they had been put to expense. The monopoly was for ten years and the publishers were making large profits. He was opposed to Ontario expending money for immigration. The cost of the new Parliament buildings was a matter for them to consider, as the $750,000 appropriation, which should be enough, would not complete them. He had always endeavored to do what was right, and he would continue to do so. His principle was equal rights to all. He asked them for their votes and influence, and if he was elected he would not betray their confidence.

Mr JARDINE complimented Mr. Blezard for his able speech. The exhibition made by the speaker following Mr. Blezard was a painful one, and it was a shame that any man should use the language that he did, when he would have been as dumb as a mummy had he not been refused an office. He thanked God that Mr. McLeod was not a Reformer, and the Conservatives would not have anything to do with him. He argued that the school law gave equal rights to all. Father Corby had denied, under oath that he had written the letter referred to by Mr. McLeod. Mr. Stephenson was a better man. The Mowat Government never sold timber limits except by tender, and in this connection the speaker wandered into Dominion politics. He eulogized the Mowat Government generally, and especially the Crown Lands Department and their railway policy. Mr. Mowat had given them 2,731 miles of railway, he claimed, for $7,000,000. About a million and a half had been expended on colonization roads. The Government had expended $8,000,000 in the past three years, and the Opposition he said had only objected to the expenditure of $40 000, but he overlooked over $400,000 that they had objected to. In regard to immigration he attempted no defence, but again attacked the Dominion Government. In regard to the school readers the blame of the three series blunder rested upon the Deputy Minister of Education, who is an official of the Government. The present readers were, he claimed better books than the old ones. The old readers were published in Europe, but the new readers were entirely published in Canada.

After the time was up Mr. Jardine attempted to go on, but the Chairman stopped him.

Mr. BURNHAM said that Mr. Stephenson had two Reformers to run against. Mr. McLeod had been a war-horse in the Reform party. The Conservative party had nothing to do with Mr. McLeod's candidature. He condemned the raising of religious questions, and the course of the Mail in that connection. He replied to some personal references made by Mr. Blezard. He censured the Government for bringing on the elections in the holiday season, and at such a time that it disfranchised a number of electors. Mr. Mowat acknowledged that the elections were brought on to help Mr. Blake at Ottawa. A township in this County would have to vote on the 1885 list, and for a similar reason some 1,600 persons were disfranchised in London. It was the duty of each Legislature to look after the interest of the people whom they represented, and the Dominion Parliament must consider the whole Dominion. The Dominion Government, in the Boundary Award, wished to have the matter settled in a way that no Province could be dissatisfied. The Dominion had purchased the rights of the Indians in the lands, and the position of the Dominion or Province in regard to them had never been settled, and a decision should be obtained to decide it. He read from the River and Streams Bill, showing that it did interfere with a case before the Courts, and that Mr. Blezard and the other Reform members constituted themselves a court of appeal from the courts of justice in this country. The Factory Bill showed that Mr. Mowat had little claim to the title of a constitutional lawyer. After passing the Act, Mr. Mowat confessed that he did not know whether they had a right to pass it or not, and begged the Dominion Government to consent to a suit to test it. Mr. Mowat had appointed Police Magistrates for parts of Counties, but the convictions made by them were quashed because Mr. Mowat had no right to appoint them. An official of the Mowat Government, such as Mr. McWilliams was, did wrong when he interferred in elections and went north to influence electors. Mr. Pardee was not impeached in regard to colonization road expenditure because they destroyed the telegrams and evidence. In regard to the railway policy, it was doubtful if Mr. Jardine would have been here but for the railway policy of Sir John Macdonald. There were competing lines in this neighborhood, but Mr. Mowat consolidated them and formed a monopoly. The motion against which Mr. Blezard voted stated that just punishment had been inflicted, and it was plain upon whom. In 1871 they heard a great deal about Riel's guilt, but the same men, who denounced Riel then, denounce the Dominion Government for punishing Riel. Mr. Mowat, by his congratulation to Mr. Mercier, in Quebec, the leaders of the Rielites showed sympathy with that agitation, and he did not deserve the confidence of the loyal people of Ontario.

Mr. J. B. MCWILLIAMS defended his action in electioneering. He argued at length that the extension of the franchise necessitated elections, and that the present time was a good one to hold them. He claimed that the John Sandfield Macdonald Government was a Reform one, and charged it with rapidly increasing the expenditure. The Mowat Government railway legislation was referred to, and he misrepresented Mr. Carnegie by saying that he was opposed to the Agricultural College. The Government's aid to asylums, schools and roads was commended, as was also its crown timber policy. He defended the giving of timber limits to the late Mr. Ludgate, and exhibited a cartoon on the temperance question. He said that Conservatives were appealing to the electors on the ground that "Protestantism was in danger," and exhibited another cartoon from Grip. The Separate school law, he argued, was fair, and the Scripture selections were approved. The school book monopoly was defended, and also the cost of the new Parliament buildings. He believed that as religious questions had been raised it was his duty, holding the position he did as the head of a society, to come out and speak.

Mr. FRASER said that at present he would not be a candidate, but at some future time he might solicit their suffrages.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Chairman, and cheers for the Queen and the candidates.

FATHER DOWD ON RIEL.

His Description of the "National" Politicians and Journalists—Riel's Guilt.

In view of the false accounts that we have recently heard of the Rielite agitations in the Province of Quebec it will not be out of place to quote the opinion of one of the most respected ministers of the Gospel in the City of Montreal. The Rev. Father Down thus expresses his opinion of the movement at the head of which were Messrs. Laurier and Mercier:—

"The City of Montreal, for so long a model city, had of late been turned into one of the places that might be said to be in the hands of a mob. Night after night there had been inflammatory speeches at meetings convened by deceitful politicians, the streets had been occupied by processionalists, and respectable citizens had been insulted. What was the cause of all this? A section of the people seemed to have gone crazy. He did not address himself to them; he had no right to advise them; they were not his flock; but he had a right, it was his bonded duty, to warm his hearers, for whom he was responsible to God, to have nothing to do with this movement, which must result disastrously; to avoid their meetings, processions, and Sunday desecrations. They might say, 'But we have been advised to join.' Advised by whom? by foolish journalists and deceitful politicians."

And the following is Father Dowd's opinion of Riel's guilt and of his punishment.

"The foolish, rash men who advised them to join his national party would have them sacrifice everything in a moment of impulsiveness. There was nothing in it. The wretched man who had been executed had admittedly been guilty of two rebellions. He had sacrificed some of the lives in the Dominion and had initiated a war that brought about massacre, outrage, disaster and death. He had been fairly tried, and the highest court in the empire had pronounced the sentence a just one. He had been pardoned for one rebellion, for the other as the leader of savage tribes and semi-civilized halfbreeds, who had to be taught respect to the law and the constituted authorities, the Government had taken the responsibility of making him suffer the death penalty."

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of house manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

Twenty-four O'Clock System.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec 20.—The twenty-four o'clock system, which has been found to work with such great satisfaction on the western division of the Canadian Pacific railway, will be put in operation next week on the Manitoba and North-Western and at the next change of time table on the eastern division.

Queer Grounds For Pensions.

In a conversation to-day with a clerk in the Pension office, who was passing through Chicago, he told me that few people had any idea of the colossal cheek of some of the people who apply for pensions. "I will give you," he said, "two or three examples of cases that have passed through my own hands. One man, with a nice set of front teeth, claimed that all of his backteeth had been shot out by a musket ball, which, however, did not wound his cheeks or flesh in any way. One man wanted a pension for a wound received in a battle which never occurred. One claimant sadly relates that when at a place called pony Creek a mule kicked him in the mouth and knocked out all his teeth. Another wanted a pension because when soldiering in Virginia he went "foraging," and a rebel took a club and broke his skull. The worst case was that of a fellow who was in Baltimore on July 21, 1861 (the day of the Bull Run' panic), and was seized with an ague which had lasted ever since."—Chicago Journal.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1886.

A SYMPATHIZING TRICKESTER.

As clear proof of Mr. Bertram's complicity in the plot to speak against time in order to prevent the Conservative candidate from obtaining a fair hearing, there is the fact that he called down town, and about half past four o'clock informed our "Reform" Police Magistrate that Mr. Stratton was still talking against time, at which these two dishonest party wire-pullers chuckled together over the disreputable trick.

A COWARDLY PLOT.

NEVER before has any nomination of candidates for West Peterborough witnessed anything so disgraceful and cowardly as the plot of Messrs. J. R. Stratton, P. Ryan, and J. Bertram to shut out the Conservative candidate from obtaining a hearing by the assembled electors. For hour after hour the standard bearer of Mr. Mowat read campaign fly-sheets of this and previous elections, written remarks, printed works, anything and everything that could consume the time to the disgust even of men of his own party, with the sole object of preventing Mr. Carnegie from speaking there or forcing him to abandon his advertised meeting that evening in the country.

The cowardly system adopted by the Reform managers of holding one-sided meetings so as to allow them an opportunity of indulging in any amount of misrepresentation, varied to suit each locality, without the risk of being refuted on the spot, has gained them no honor with fair-minded men.

But deliberately to talk or rather read against time in order to prevent an opponent from speaking for more than a few minutes at the official nomination, is a confession of cowardice and unfairness that has never been shown in West Peterborough except by Mr. Stratton. We believe indeed that it is unprecedented in the history of Ontario.

Such a confession of the weakness of a cause that cannot meet fair discussion and must shun free debate even by the most craven methods, is not caluclated to gain it strength. On polling day many honest men will mark their ballots for Mr. Carnegie on the strength of this dishonest and dastardly trick to deprive him of a hearing at the nomination.

"A QUESTION OF VERACITY."

PITIABLE was the exhibition made at the nominations by Mr. John Bertram when he flented his threat to stump the country against Mr. Mowat for giving Mr. Morrow the Registrarship, and his wholesale curses against the Roman Catholics, only to have his denials contradicted by gentleman after gentleman who rose to testify to his use of the very words he was thus eating. The unsavory diet did not seem to agree with him, for he looked livid as he sat there with every appearance of guilt on his countenance, while his falsehoods were being thus proved beyond a doubt. Vainly did he, summoning up all the effrontery he could command, persist that it was merely a question of veracity between him and those who thus repeated his words. There was no question of veracity, for besides the fact that the word of every one of these gentlemen is individually worthy of more credit than his own, the combined testimony against him of a number of honorable men is conclusive, and further corroborative evidence could be obtained from dozens of others if necessary. Neither could he maintain the poor excuse that he had spoken in such a heat of passion as to have forgotten his own words, for he must have had ample time for reflection while he was running round the town poring out his griefs into all these different bosoms one after the other.

We have said that the word of any one of those who repeat his statements to them, is simply more worthy of belief than his own. Those who remind him of the sayings he would now repudiate are men of the highest repute in our community, men without a stain upon their characters, and Mr. Bertram's character is already sadly besmirked by his own actions. At the last election Mr. Bertram, in his rash haste to score a point against the Dominion Government, gave away the secret of his having made an unsuccessful attempt to defraud the revenue. He had imported from the States some goods, on which he had been allowed a special reduction, not obtainable by purchasers in that country, this allowance being made for the purpose of recouping to him the duty, a common practice with which all business men are acquainted, for we all have had such offers. But Mr. Bertram was not content with this good bargain; he entered the goods not at their value in the country of production, but subtracted the amount allowed him to pay the duty, hoping to evade the duty on this portion. His trick being discovered he was forced to pay the full amount he owed the country, and in his agony at losing some of his idolized money his complaints betrayed his secret. Again something is known to very many of our community of his grossly improper arrangements with a railway president to deal with property of the company for their benefit instead of that of the shareholders, to whom any profit honestly and legally belonged.

Why, Mr. Bertram cannot even read truthfully with a book in his hand If he said he found in Holy Writ the words, "Thou shalt bear false witness against thy neighbor" leaving out the "not" as defeating his purpose, he would be speaking just as honestly and truthfully as he did at the nomination and on other occasions, when he read part of a resolution, said Mr. Carnegie had voted for that, and omitted the portion that quite changed the meaning he was falsely ascribing to the motion.

With the word of such a man as this against that of any one of the men of honor and good repute who squarely established the falsehood of his repudiations of his statements with regard to Mr. Mowat, there could be no doubt on which side lay the truth. When to Mr. Bertram's word is opposed the combined testimony of a number of such men the weight of evidence against him is absolutely overwhelming.

If Mr. Bertram had changed his mind from further light or reflection he might have owned it and so have saved himself this exposure of his utter want of veracity. But he could not do this, for he was speaking his real sentiments in regard to Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, till he found it would pay him or his friends for him to change them.

GOOD MEN AND TRUE.

SOLEMN TESTIMONY FROM HONORABLE MEN AS TO MR. BERTRAM.

His Language When Refused an Office for a Friend—His Change When Appeased by Mr. Mowat's Liberality.

As Mr. Bertram at the West Peterborough nominations denied having used the words employed repeatedly by him in regard to opposing Mr. Mowat, and as he accused those who repeated them of misrepresenting him, we publish the following testimony from men of unimpeachable honor:—

We, James Kendry and J. Irvine Davidson, of the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, do solemnly declare that on a day between the 1st and 20th days of September last, Mr. John Bertram came to the office of the Auburn Woollen Co. and voluntarily and without any inquiry by us stated in our presence as follows:—That at the next election he would stump this County and Mariposa against the Mowat Government, on account of its appointment of Mr. Morrow as Registrar. He added that "the damned Catholics are getting all the offices"; also that "my friend Dalton Ullyot has not much religion, but when it became a question of Protestant or Catholic, he was a Protestant, damn them"; also, "Let them bring on their man. I'm ready for them."

And we make this solemen declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true, and by virtue of the Act passed in the thirty-seventh year of Her Majesty's reign entituled "An Act for the suppression of voluntary and extra-judicial oaths."

Declared before me at the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, this 22nd day of December, in the year of our Lord, 1886
E. A. PECK, Notary Public.

DIRECT QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Knights of Labor Platform Substantially agrees with Mr. Carnegie's Present Position and Past Record.

Peterbroough. Dec. 20th, 1886.

Mr. John Carnegie, Candidate for the Local Legislature:—

DEAR SIR,—At a regular meeting of Assembly 6,962, K of L., of Peterborough, held on Dec. 15th, 1835, it was unanimously resolved that although we cannot promise our undivided support to either of the candidates) as the parties are at present constituted) still, having a wish to see certain measures become law, we wish to lay our platform before you, stating that a favorable answer may secure some votes.

Our platform is

1. Manhood suffrage.
2. No more assisted emigration.
3. Prison labor not to come in contact with honest labor either on Government works or otherwise.
4. A law making it imperative on railway companies to provide better security for their employees.
5. A law making it a criminal offence, punishable by law (by imprisonment) to ask or receive more than 7 per cent. per annum for the use of money.

Now, Sir, if elected, will you use your utmost endeavors to have the above become law even if you have to vote against your party.

Please answer from the platform on the day of nomination, and oblige,

Yours truly,
JOHN O'BRIEN, R.S.

A copy has been sent to each candidate.

PETERBOROUGH, Dec. 22, 1886.

John O'Brien, Esq., R. S. of Assembly 6952, K. of L:

DEAR SIR,—As, owing to the course pursued by Mr. J. R. Stratton at the nomination yesterday, I was practically prevented from replying to the questions contained in your letter of the 20th instant, I now desire to do so in this form and as follows:—

QUESTION I.—By reference to the Journals of the Provincial Legislature of 1885 you will find at pages 137-8 that Mr. Meredith moved a motion in favor of manhood suffrage, which was supported by myself and the members of the Opposition, while it was voted down by every member of the Government and their followers. That was my position then and that is my position now.

QUESTION No. II—Again I beg to appeal to my past record. By reference to the journals of the Legislature for 1886 you will learn that I with my political friends voted to a man against the appropriation of the sum of $18,800 to defray the expenses of immigration for the year 1886 (see pages 117 and 153), while every member of the Mowat Government and all their supporters voted in favor of it. Surely if acts, not promises, are to be commended, I deserve your support on these two planks at least.

QUESTION No. III.—I am of opinion that prison labor should not be brought into competition with honest labor, and have already supported Mr. Meredith and Mr. Ermatinger's efforts in this direction.

QUESTION No. IV.—I am in favor of all laws calculated to protect, not only railway employees, but all employees, and as far as the Provincial Legislature can do so, they shall have my support, as the Factory Act did have.

QUESTION V—This is a matter undoubtedly entirely within the control of the Dominion Parliament, and with which I have nothing to do as your representative. Under these circumstances I apprehend I am no asked for an opinion—an opinion which can only be given by the candidates for the House of Commons, Messrs. Stevenson and Cox.

Trusting this will be satisfactory to at least the many friends which I believe I have among the Knights of Labor.

I am,
Yours respectfully,
JOHN CARNEGIE.

The above play was presented last night to a fair audience at Bradburn's Opera House. Miss Eugine Lindeman as Rose Rumpleford was a general favorite, and Geo. After the formation of committees and other business had been transacted the President read a communication from Mrs. Rutherford, of Kingston, urging the necessity of immediate steps being taken to procure the instruction of temperance in the schools of our town. The question will be laid before the School Board at an early date. An encouraging communication from an "Absent friend" was also received. Committees which were appointed will meet at Miss Sanderson's store next Monday evening at half past seven o'clock.

The Dying Year.

The good old year of 1886 is fast drawing to a close. It seems but only a short time since it was welcomed in, and yet it is nearly twelve long months ago. Such is the flight of time. With the dying year there will doubtless go up from a vast number of homes prayers that the incoming year of 1887 may be blessed, and that peace and contentment may reign supreme over the entire length and breath of the civilized world. The glad New Year is a time of great rejoicing—a time when all enmity and malice is put aside and the broad mantle of charity is thrown o'er those who in the past were deemed other than friends. Christmas and New Year's holidays are enjoyed by everyone and the citizens of Peterborough always join merrily in the gay festivites. They also purchase largely of A. McNeil, Habiliment Hall.

MORE SUMMONS ISSUED.

DUBLIN, Dec. 19.—Mr. William O'Brien, who was in Dublin yesterday, received a summons similar to the one served on him at Loughrea to appear in Dublin and answer to another charge of "conspiracy to defraud." A similar summons will be served soon upon Messrs. John Dillon Wm. Redmond, Daniel Crilly, David Sheehy and Matthew Harris, all Parnellite members of Parliament. It is alleged that the conspiracy to defraud consists in accepting as trustees for tenants the reduced rents refused by landlords. It begins to look as if the Government has arranged to resist the plan of campaign by arresting the trustees under it in every locality wherein they accept refused rents,

The Daily Review.

THURSDAY. DECEMBER 23. 1886.

To the Electors
OF THE
WEST RIDING
Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,—As, owing to the conduct of my opponent—Mr. J. R. Stratton—at the nomination on Tuesday last I was practically denied the usual opportunity of discussing the issues of the campaign in the presence of all parties—an opportunity never before denied the actual candidates in such contests in this county, I deem it expedient to adopt this method of placing before you my views on two of the most important questions at issue in this campaign.

The first of these questions, to which I shall refer, is that of the Separate School Law as it now stands and as it effects taxpayers.

Under the Act of 1863 the actual payer of the rate, be he landlord or tenant, is the person who has a right to decide to which school the school tax on the property he represents shall go. Consequently the Roman Catholic landlord, who agrees with his Protestant tenant that he, not his tenant, shall pay the rates, has the right to send the taxes on a property leased to or occupied by a Protestant to the Separate School. And this right has been guaranteed to him by an Imperial Act, which cannot be interfered with by Provincial legislation. Hence, although an Act passed in 1881 by the Ontario Legislature declares that any agreement between landlord and tenant for the payment of the taxes by the landlord, shall be of no effect, and that the tenant shall, notwithstanding, be the person to say to which class of schools the school tax on the property occupied by him shall go, yet owing to the position in which the act of 1863 is placed, it is obvious that this latter act is null and void so far as the rights of the Roman Catholic landlord are concerned, and that as a consequence, while the Protestant landlord is bound by the act of 1881, the Roman Catholic landlord can still claim the right given him under the act of 1863, and by his contract with his Protestant tenant send the taxes to the Separate School despite the act of 1881. In my opinion all landlords and all tenants whether Catholic or Protestant should stand in precisely the same position with regard to this matter, and if honored with a renewal of your confidence, I shall deem it my duty to use my best efforts to have this law so amended as to bring about such a result.

The second question to which I desire to refer is that of the Bible in the Schools.

As I now understand this, matter and I take my information from the last report of the Minister of Education, the regulations now in force, and the instructions which have been given for the carrying out of the same require, that no Roman Catholic child shall be allowed to remain in a Public or High School while the scriptures are being read unless the parent or guardian of such child notifies the teacher that he desires such child to so remain. That being the case, it is obvious that whether the Bible or merely selections therefrom are to be used, is a matter which concerns Protestants and Protestants alone. Had our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens or their Bishops on their behalf ever come forward and expressed a willingness to have the children of their faith join with Protestant children in the reading of any portion of the Scriptures in the public schools, I would be willing to go a long way in order to bring about such a result, but until they do so, and in view of the fact that whenever it suits them to do so they are at liberty to have their own schools, and teach their own religious opinions, I am of the decided opinion that Protestants and Protestants alone should have the right to say what portions of the Bible should be read to their children.

Moreover, I am of opinion that where our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens have, as in Peterborough, withdrawn from our public schools, Protestants should have the right, as a simple matter of justice, to introduce into such public schools just as much of religious teaching as Protestants deem expedient, without any interference on the part of those who have withdrawn therefrom.

These, gentlemen, are my sentiments on these two important points, and I think they will commend themselves to all classes and creeds of the electors as being fair to all and unjust to none; but whether they do or not, I must frankly say that I hold them so strongly that I am prepared to go the length of breaking the political ties of a life time in order to have them carried out. Upon the proper education of our children and of those who are to come after us depends the future of our country, and, therefore, I hold this matter to be one of primary importance.

In conclusion, I would urge upon all who are in sympathy with my views the great importance of their going to the polls in order that no uncertain sound may be given on the 28th of this month.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN CARNEGIE.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

TO KILL BY INCHES.

However, Mr. Blake and his friends have made this much pretty plain, that their strategy is to kill the National Policy by inches. The Canadian people are not likely to give them the chance.—Canadian Manufacturer.

THE QUEBEC LEGISLATURE.

The announcement that the Quebec Legislature has been called for January 27 revives the squabbling about the Government's majority. By the end of next month the country will know which majority is the more tangible one, and those who say the least meanwhile, may have the least to take back then. Mr. Mercier need not delay his cabinet making.—Montreal Star. (Indep.)

BY ROUND ROBIN.

Now a new thing is being introduced into the constitution, namely, the round robin. A party which has gained a majority at the polls pants so much for power that it cannot wait for a parliamentary victory; while the defeated party is so tenacious of power that it refuses to acknowledge the majority.—Montreal Witness (Ref).

MR. BLAKE'S SYMPATHIES.

Making Political Capital Even out of his Relation's Blood.

Judge Elliott, the father of Mr. Skeffington Elliott, who bravely fell at Duck Lake while loyally fighting for his country, has at length grown tired of the insulting accusations of sympathy with the rebels launched at him and his dead son by Mr. Blake and his followers. He has published a letter expressing his indignation and defending his son. We quote a passage in reference to Mr. Blake's cold-blooded want of sympathy for his dead relation, as Mr. Skeff. Elliott was:—

"But it is hard to bear that people should be amongst us who do not hesitate to dishonor the memory of these men by confining their sympathy to Riel, and by attempting to justify his acts. If Riel was justified in what he did; if, as they say, his cause was a just one, then those who voluntarily stood in the breach and opposed him died in an unworthy cause.

Where is Mr. Laurier's sympathy for these men, and for those whose hearts were torn with agony? Or where is the sympathy of Mr. Blake, who has such undering relations with Mr. Laurier as to designate him his "dear friend"? Alas! it is not for the brave men whose blood stained the snow; it is on the side of the man who murdered them, and who did his best to incite the Indians to desolation and slaughter, and whose patriotism was measured by the price of $35,000."

"Be medicines life may be prolonged,
Yet death will seize the doctor, too."

True, all must die, yet few must suffer while they live. Stop pain and prolong life, by trying Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," a cure for consumption (which is scrofula of the lungs), as well as for coughs, cold, bronchitis, pain in the side, and all pectoral complaints, scrofula, and all blood and skin diseases. Sold everywhere.

Senor Morel, Minister of Foreign Affairs, is opposed to granting exclusive privileges to the United States.

NEGROES AS KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

CHARLESTON, S.C., Dec 21.—A bill now before the legislature to prevent the organization of colored laborers in the agricultural sections in Knights of Labor, is causing great commotion among the leaders of the colored people. The Rev. J. Wofford White, one of the most intelligent colored preachers of the states, has issued an address in which he says that this bill has for its aim the grinding down and driving to the wall of negro laborers.

DEPRESSION OF TRADE.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The final report of the Royal Commission, appointed to investigate the reason for the prolonged depression of trade in Great Britain, has been published and circulated among members of Parliament. The Commission says that in its opinion the chief features of the commercial situation are:—First, the very serious falling off in the exchangeable value of the soil; second, the increase of the production of nearly all other classes of commodities; third, the tendency in the supply of commodities to outrun the demand; fourth, the consequent diminution in the profit obtainable by production; and, fifth, a similar diminution in the rate of interest on invested capital.

AN UNHOLY TRAFFIC.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The Governments of Holland and Belgium have signed a declaration agreeing to suppress the traffic in girls.

THE CLANRICARDE ASSAULTERS.

DUBLIN, Dec. 22.—In the case of persons accused of assaulting bailiffs on the Clanricarde estate at Woodford, the jury at the Connaught Assizes, yesterday, found that the prisoners had committed assault, but several of the jury men considered that the assault was justifiable. Counsel for the prisoners submitted that no verdict had been found. The judge directed the jury to again retire. When they returned they announced a verdict of "guilty," but they expressed their belief that the prisoners had a right to defend a neighbor's home, and had acted in ignorance of the law. The judge entered a verdict of "guilty."

NATIONAL COUNCIL SCHEME.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Mr. Chamberlain stated last year that his scheme of National Councils in Ireland had the support of the Irish leaders. This was denied, and Cardinal Manning was asked to produce correspondence bearing on this subject in order to verify Mr. Chamberlain's assertion, but he declined to do so, regarding the correspondence as confidential. Mr. Chamberlain is now said to have gotten in his possession the actual letters in which Mr. Parnell approved of the proposed National Council. If this is so there will be some lively scenes in the coming session of Parliament.

To the Electors
OF THE
WEST RIDING
Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

The Daily Review.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1886.

WE are told by Mr. Bertram that he does not read the REVIEW. Perhaps that accounts for the falsehoods he told about its contents when he took the chair for a rebel. However, we challenge Mr. Bertram to point out one thing asserted in the REVIEW as a fact, (not a mere matter of opinion, as to which people will always disagree), and prove it untrue. We have never been proven guilty publicly like Mr. Bertram, on the testimony of honorable men, of having uttered wilful falsehoods.

THE Globe in its scurrilous "Political Intelligence" column accuses Mr. Carnegie of shirking the vote on Riel in the Legislative Assembly. The Reform stump speakers here are well aware that Mr. Carnegie had at that time been summoned to the sick bed of his son. They made the unmanly and dishonest insinuation in the very hope that it would convey the idea that he had "shirked" to those who did not, likely themselves, know the facts. Mr. Carnegie is not in the habit of any cowardly concealment of his opinions and his views as to the punishment of Riel are well known.

MR. CARNEGIE'S opponents are fond, for want of arguments of styling him a nonentity. If he were so unimportant a member of the Provincial Legislature how is it that such desperate efforts are being made to defeat him? We have had, in this riding, the leader of the Reform opposition in the the Dominion; his brother leader, the rebel from Quebec; Mr Ross, the Minister of Education; Mr. Pardee, the Commissioner of Crown Lands; and Mr. Peter Ryan with a budget of campaign documents supposed to be effective in Ennismore. These public efforts and the private attempts in speeches, dishonest canvassing, and floods of campaign literature to defeat Mr. Carnegie do not look as if the Reform leaders rated him as a nonentity.

AN ACKNOWLEDGED SLANDER.

WHEN Mr. Bertram went down town on Tuesday afternoon to report to the Police Magistrate the success of the cowardly plot to shut Mr. Carnegie out from addressing the electors, his ignorance of what had taken place in his absence caused him on his return to make a slip very inconvenient for his protege. Mr. Stratton, knowing he could not be answered in all his inaccuracies, had made the false assertion that the Dominion Government sold its timber land for $5 a square mile. Mr. Bertram returned just as Mr. Carnegie was stating in a few words that the $5 was a yearly payment, not a sum given once for all. Not catching the point, Mr. Bertram said he could not see what Mr. Carnegie was aiming at, as every boy knew that the $5 was only a yearly payment. Yet Mr. Bertram has sat by Mr. Stratton and let him state uncorrected that the Macdonald Administration sold their timber lands for $5, and go on to compare this with the sums obtained by the Province. Mr. Bertram is not a boy, so he was dishonestly a party to a slander of the Dominion Administration, well knowing the attack to be unfounded. But that was the very object of their one-sided meetings, at which they could misrepresent without being refuted on the spot.

THE SCHOOL READERS.

WHEN Mr. Stratton was reading against time at the nominations he gave some of his attention to the Reader question. He made a comparison of prices but, it was altogether fallacious, for, compared the price of the last monopoly job with the price under their previous two or three readers job. A comparison with the price of the reader before this jobbery would have shown that the old reader was cheaper, as might be expected, for its price was no fixed to cover compensation for valuable "vested interests," as Mr. Ross claims. Then there was another deceptive comparison of books, but this was an acted falsehood, the book compared with the present reader being an old production merely intended to fill a gap for a time.

But the most unwarrantable assertion was that the agreements, which had to be cancelled at so much cost, for the two sets of readers, were made by Mr. Crooks when his mind was failing him. They were not made by Mr. Crooks but by Mr. Hardy, the acting minister. But suppose they had been made by Mr. Crooks, then we have Mr. Mowat and his supporters claiming at the time that the arrangements made under the influence of a defective intellect were the very height of wisdom, and that the condemnation of such blunders uttered by the Conservatives was groundless, and only inspired by envy of the perfect wisdom of the Administration thus again manifested. According to this Reform contention the Conservatives were abused worse than pickpockets for objecting to what is now stated to be an act of insanity.

But the truth is that the late Mr. Crooks' colleagues are in a dastardly manner making a scapegoat of their dead friend by uttering falsehoods about him. It was not Mr. Crooks with an enfeebled brain, but Mr. Hardy with the consent of his colleagues who perpetrated this jobbery. It was an act, not of insanity, but corruption.

RECKLESS EXTRAVAGANCE.

ONE very urgent reason why Mr. Mowat and his colleagues should be no longer entrusted with the administration of our affairs is their extravagant and dangerous increase of the Provincial expenditure.

In 1871, the last year of the Administration of J. Sandfield Macdonald, the amount of the Supply Bill was $1,816,866. In 1886 the amount of the Supply Bill was $3,136,651. Thus the increase while the Reformers have been in power has been $1,319,785. As the amount spent on Public Buildings by Mr. J. S. Macdonald (who really erected most of the institutions of which Mr. Mowat boasts) was about fifty thousand dollars larger than this year, and the Municipal Fund and Land Improvement Fund called for $150,000 more, the ordinary expenditure has been nearly doubled under Reform rule.

This enormous increased expenditure, though partly met by the augmented Dominion subsidy, has caused a deficit, comparing income with expenditure, year by year, almost without exception. How has this deficit been met? Much as it would have been met by any private individual who had steadily exceeded his income. It has been met, for the time at least, in three ways. Our cash capital, the surplus left in bank and in interest bearing investments by Sandfield Macdonald (not a surplus like Mr. Mowat's of trust funds and expectancies) has been drawn upon to the extent of three millions. Our real estate capital, land, timber and minerals has been drawn upon to at least an equal extent. A Provincial debt has been established, a quarter of a million having been borrowed in 1884, and the same amount again in 1885. By each of these three means of getting ready money to pay our way the Province has been impoverished, for our capital is diminished, our liabilities increased, and we have nothing to show for them, our property not having been converted from one form into another, as when Sandfield Macdonald sold lands and timber and banked or invested the proceeds; but having been eaten up by current expenses.

How long can such recklessness last, without exhausting our capital, annihilating our income and bringing us face to face with direct taxation, so that the Provincial tax collector would have to call on every farmer in the country, onevery householder in town, as in the United States?

There is only one remedy—the dismissal from office of Mr. Mowat and his incompetent and extravagant colleagues.

MR. ANGLIN'S SPEECH.

It is better sometimes not to trust to telegraphic reports of political speeches. They are not always accurate. The Halifax Chronicle, the chief Liberal newspaper in Nova Scotia, is to hand with a report of Mr. Anglin's speech, and it appears from it that although his remarks on the protection question were correctly reported, his utterances in regard to the repeal question were mistaken. Mr. Anglin did not repudiate repeal on behalf of the Liberals of the Dominion. On the contrary, he made as direct a bid for the the repeal vote as was possible without declaring in favor of the disruption of the Dominion. He complimented the repealers and referred in slighting terms to those who opposed the repeal agitations. Some idea of his utterances may be obtained from the following extracts from the Chronicle's reporter of his speech:

"These gentlemen who advocate repeal are, it is true, with us in Dominion politics and I am delighted to find that out."

"But while we sympathise fully with the people of Nova Scotia, and while we most heartily and ardently desire that they should attain to a position fully satisfactory to themselves, by such means as they may finally choose to adopt for themselves, yet we would prefer, on the whole, that as we are in the confederation—and you know that I am now speaking as an old anti-confederate, who has not changed in the slightest degree in that respect—we should make further effort to keep all these provinces together, doing even-handed justice together, and adopting a favorable trade system, and giving to all as ample an opportunity to obtain and enjoy independence as fully as they could enjoy it in any other condition. (Applause.) We do believe this, that if the Tories be again elected at the next general election—though we do not fear such an occurrence—the people of Nova Scotia would find themselves placed in a position where they would be compelled to seriously deliberate as to what may be best for them to do."

"I do not think that the people of this province should abandon anything that they regard as necessary to their own welfare, but we would like to retain you in the confederation, and I trust we would succeed by doing all the justice you are entitled to, and by so regulating the tariff and fiscal policy as to assist the industries at present in a depressed condition."

These three extracts are taken from different parts of the speech, but are not wrested from the context in such a way as to change the meaning. The real meaning of his words seems to be that the repeal agitation was justifiable so long as the Conservatives were in power, that by sweeping away the National Policy the Liberals would probably be able to satisfy the repeal agitators, but if they were determined to secede, he would not urge them to abandon their object. He repeated all the old repeal statements to the effect that Nova Scotians were forced by the tariff to buy goods from Quebec and Ontario, and pay more than their due share of Dominion taxation, and that they were deriving no benefit from the Canada Pacific Railway which they helped to pay for. The greater part of his speech was occupied with a denunciation of the National Policy. Mr. Anglin is one of the editors of the Toronto Globe, but it is safe to say that he would not make the same speech in Toronto.—Montreal Star.

THE RIEL ISSUE

Introduced in Ontario by Messrs. Langelier, Bergeron and Prefontaine.

TORONTO, Dec. 22.—The Mail to-day says: "The tour of Mr. Laurier through this province has been closely followed by a visit by three other prominent Rielites, Messrs. Langelier, Bergeron and Prefontaine. These worthies have made a sudden descent upon the County of Essex, and they are now engaged in the congenial task of exciting, by appeals to race and religious prejudices, the French Canadians of the country, and arraying them against their fellow citizens of British origin. Had these three gentlemen remained in their native province the Riel question would undoubtedly still have been an important factor in the contest, but their presence here interfering in our purely local concerns, advocating the elections of men of their peculiarly unjust views to make laws for us, and inflaming the French Canadians against the British, makes it the more necessary that all Ontario should speak decisively upon the issue they have thrust to the front. This is a British province. Messrs. Bergeron, Langelier and Prefontaine have come here to invite this British people to condemn British justice, and Messrs. Bergeron, Langelier and Prefontaine, coming here as they do in response to Mr. Mowat's appeal, forwarded through Mr. Mercier, for the help of Rielite orators, should receive a sharp and decisive reply.

QUEBEC, Dec. 22.—The House is to be summoned to meet for despatch of business on 27th January.

King Christian's Prudence.

The prudence of the King's resolution to keep himself and his family out of any disputes that may arise over the succession in Bulgaria must be commended. It is of a piece with all that we know of the thrift and the luck of that fortunate monarch. The "throne" of Bulgaria, even if it can be called a real throne, is not a very dazzling object to a King who has so many thrones in the family already. With one daughter in the way to be Queen of England, and another already the Empress of Russia, it is likely that the King of Denmark will be taken care of, and find a decent asylum for his old age even if his own people should rise up against him. This security could be taken away only by his own act. He might do something so rash and foolish that it would deprive him of the protection of one or both of his sons-in-law, and such an act would be his consent to the elevation of his son to the Bulgarian throne in defiance of the wishes of Russia. King Christian has already one son a monarch in partibus, so to speak. The King of Greece has had a much easier time of it than could have been expected, but life at Athens has not been all roses, and of late the position of the King of Greece has become one not to be envied by any sensible person. The position of the Prince of Bulgaria is less dignified than that of a full-fledged sovereign like King George, and it will be much more difficult and dangerous. King Christian has shown his usual business sense in forbidding his son to accept a post which is distinctly one of more danger than honor.—N. Y. Times.

REVIEW.

HINTS FOR TEACHERS ON THE QUARTER'S LESSONS BY DR. HALL.

Lesson XIII of the International Series for Sunday, Dec. 26—Golden Text, Revelations xxii, 17—A General Review Upon the Quarter's Lessons.

Concluding, as we have done, with lessons from the last section of the New Testament, it will be appropriate for a reviewer to recall the outline of the whole book, and give a valuable aid to the memory as to the structure and contents of this volume, like which the world has nothing.

Points like these may be concisely drawn out by questions. The New Testament begins with the gospels, for it is the life of Jesus that lays the foundation for it all. It begins with history—facts being always easier to remember than abstract truths. They come after. The Christian faith has its foundation in history.

Why four gospels? Why four drawings of a house by the architect? To give a complete view of front, inside, elevation, side view. So with the wonderful life of Jesus. This can be illustrated.

Are the Gospels all alike? No. Why? Each writer has his own aim. Matthew thinks of Jews, and often quotes the Old Testament; Mark of Romans, and is concise and rapid in detailing the deeds of Jesus. The educated Luke writes for all, Jews and Gentiles, showing that Jesus came to save both. John came last, when Greek philosophers were puzzling their minds about the person of Jesus Christ and His standing toward the Father, and he showed that "the Word was made flesh," and "the Word was God."

And what came of Christ and His teaching? The Acts of the Apostles—a book which might better be called "The Acts of Jesus," for it tells all that Jesus did after He ascended—answers this question. (The Gospel of Luke told what He said and did before.)

And what did He do? Came to the twelve, gave the Holy Ghost, called out thousands of believers, turned Paul to Himself, sent the Gospel to the Gentiles, founded the churches.

And why the Epistles? Because as Christian communities grew up practical questions rose, from ignorance, from errors, from contact with Judaism and with heathenism; and the Epistles deal with these. Some are to Jews, some to Gentiles; some are to churches, some to individuals. Some deal with doctrines (they may be named), and some with organization as well, like those to Timothy and to Titus.

Then readers of the Gospels might ask, What is to be the end of all this? Will Christianity go forward and succeed in the end, or will it be put down? The answer is in the Revelation, with Satan bound, with its city of glory, its New Jerusalem, its Paradise of God and its innumerable multitude of the redeemed.

Different writers, of different habits of mind, are employed, so as to reach all. Different styles are used for the same reason—biography, history, letters and the matchless Revelation. All men crave an insight into the future. Here it is, as far as it is good for man. The book is one glorious organic whole, and the complement of the Old Testament, which begins with Adam in paradise. This ends with paradise, with all the features of the old on a higher plane, and with, not a single pair, but a great multitude of holy, perfect human beings—so great that no man can number them. Evil is vanquished, though saints suffer, the devil is not the victor; creation is not in vain; the Lord is glorified.

In continuation the reviewer may rapidly run over the twelve lessons of the quarter now closed, under the following division into three sections, the second being the connecting link between the first and third:

I. Christ in humiliation—(1) betrayed, (2) before Pilate, (3) given to be crucified, (4) crucified.

II. Jesus after His death—(5) risen, (6) convincing Thomas, (7) restoring Peter, (8) enlightening saints; the very things he is doing still to men like Thomas, Peter and John.

III. Jesus in His glory—(9) as seen by John, (10) as worshiped with the Father, (11) as surrounded by His saints, and (12) as closing up His revelation and renewing the invitation of His grace.

This is comparatively easy of recollection, and presents a really interesting group of vital and experimental truths, and it reveals to us Him who is "the same yesterday, and to-day, and forever."

What the Chinese Consul Says.

"Why is it that so few Chinamen learn English? Is it simply to maintain an exclusiveness peculiarly their own, or it is because they find it difficult?"

"For the educated Chinese, those who understand the grammar of their own language, English is very easy. It is simpler than ours and does not contain a sound that is not in ours, so we do not find it difficult either to read or to speak—or, at least, to understand. The ear of the uneducated Chinaman will very readily catch English words and he will learn to understand them long before he will trust himself to an attempt to express himself in them. He is apt to be timid about essaying an imperfect utterance, through fear of ridicule. Though, as I said, all the sounds of the English language are employed in the Chinese, there are several dialects in China and in those of southern China, whence come most of the Chinese in this country, where the 'r' is little sounded and is generally uttered with difficulty. That accounts for some Chinamen's trouble in sounding that letter without substituting an 'l' for it—which some Americans find to be very funny. They never think how infinitely more funny they would be if they attempted to talk Chinese."—New York Sun Interview.

One of the Solid Men.

Jonathan Bass, of Cambria, N. Y., is a solid man. In 1848 his joints began to stiffen and grow into solid bone; in 1857 he took to his bed, and there he now lies perfectly stiff, every joint solid, unable to stir, unable to masticate food, and blind. Yet he eats the heartiest food by sucking it into his mouth and swallowing it whole. His constitutional health is good, he keeps himself informed on current topics, and is likely to live many years yet. He is now 56 years old, and weighs but seventy-five pounds.—New York Sun.

SPRINGVILLE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

RECOVERING.—Mrs. Jas. Baptie and Mrs. Robt. Bowies are recovering from their recent indisposition. Mr. Hamilton Lackey, of Fraserville, who has been ill for some time, is still in a critical condition.

CHRISTMAS TREE.—The friends of the Fraserville Sunday School intend having a Christmas tree and social entertainment on Christmas Eve. Mine host Archie, of the same place, also intends having a shooting match on Christmas. Gatling guns ruled out.

LANGUID FEELINGS.—Judging from the attendance at Mr. H. H. Burnham's meetings the Reformers in West Durham are not very enthusiastic. Mr. Burnham recently held an organization meeting in Springville. Two Tories and one Grit were all that put in an appearance. The Reform man had on a white collar, and presumably intended to be chairman. Mr. Burnham decided no quorum was present. The two wicked Tories went home well enough satisfied, but the other fellow was rather disgusted.

REMOVING.—Mr. J. W. Bidgood is about removing from these parts to the township of Smith. Our loss—Smith's gain.

Tone up the system by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will make you feel like a new person. Thousands have found health, and relief from suffering, by the use of this great blood purifier, when all other means failed.

Charles McAuley was tried at the criminal Sessions in Toronto on Wednesday on the charge of manslaughter for causing the death of his father on the 17th ult., and was acquitted.

Forty years' experience, in every clime, has proved Ayer's Cherry Pectoral to be the most reliable remedy for colds, coughs, and lung diseases. Colds should not be neglected. The Pectoral will prevent their becoming deep seated in the system.

IN NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Dr. S. E. Sylvester, Portland, Me., says: "I have used it in nervous debility with most satisfactory results."

Mothers! Mothers!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Masonic Sermon.

A special sermon to the Freemason's of Peterborough will be preached by Bro. the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw at St. Luke's church Ashburnham on St. John's evening, Sunday Dec. 26. The brethren of the Peterborough Lodges, with visitors belonging to the craft, will meet in the Lodge room at 2.30 p. m., the service beginning at 3.30 p. m.

Christmas Presents.

Messrs. Breeze & Bain are showing a very complete stock of Stoves, Lamps, Cutlery and Brass Goods at low prices. The following speaks for itself:—

PERTH, Dec. 20th, 1886.

Peterborough Stove and Furnace Co.:

GENTLEMEN,—The cooking range "Mystic," which I am using in my house, is giving every satisfaction. The oven is as near perfection as I think it possible to get. The amount of coal consumed in 24 hours I consider very small—only two ordinary scuttles. I find it very simple and easily managed in every way. I might also add that the hall stove "Rideau" is ahead of anything I have ever had for giving heat, and, like the "Mystic," is easily managed.

(Signed) JNO. MCMASTER.

A Pretty Sight.

In passing the store of Mr. Andrew McNeil, Habiliment Hall, one cannot help but notice the artistic and beautiful manner in which the windows are dressed. The north window is solely taken up in displaying a magnificent line of gentlemen's holiday neckties in multifarious patterns, shapes, qualities and designs. This window is a sight that will attract the attention of all the young men in Peterborough, as a finer selection of that very necessary appendage to a man's dress could scarcely be wished for. The south window is filled with an excellent stock of suitings and overcoatings. There are some decidedly handsome patterns displayed, and many of them are entirely new lines. A man who could not pick a suit to please him out of the large stock now on hand at Habiliment Hall, surely could not tell what he wanted. A very large assortment of small wares is constantly kept, and gentlemen in need of furnishings of any description cannot do better than give Habiliment Hall a call. The cut and workmanship, together with the class of goods, is always the best, and great care is bestowed on every article turned out of the establishment. Buy your 'Xmas presents from A. McNeil, Habiliment Hall, George Street.

Christmas Day and Our Poor.

A correspondent writes:—This season, above all others, is, I think, one of the happiest. I do not know of any other period of the year when unites our affections and thoughts more closely and mutually than Yule Tide. An unlimited amount of goodwill and hilarity greets one on every side. I feel compelled to write these few lines, not in the light of a philanthropist, but as one who has had some experience of the wants of our poorer brethren. There are, I dare say, a number of your readers who hail from the Old Country. Year after year the columns of the several London papers have been filled with appeals from different charities asking for money and clothing, particularly the latter, in order that their inmates, if I might call them so, might have a comfortable meal and suitable garments on Christmas Day. People tell me that in this country we have no poor, but my experience is quite the reverse. Now, I think it would be a great boon to a good many in Peterborough if a free Christmas dinner could be given on that day. It is easily done. The leading papers, I think, should unite to urge subscriptions, and if the clergymen in town would meet and form a committee the matter could be brought to a successful issue. I admit that at this season one's purse is called upon for a good deal, but surely 25 cents for a charity of this kind would not make a very material difference. I have spent Christmas in Germany and France but nowhere is it kept with such down right goodwill as in England. I hope, therefore, the residents of Peterborough will come forward on that day or any convenient day and do what they can for the poor, and I am sure they will find that they have been the means, in this matter (should it take place) will only feel that they have been the means, shall I say, of saving a few lives? but will enjoy their own Christmas dinner with greater zest. Compare your own fireside with one of theirs. You are warm and comfortable. They are cold and cheerless, and I think you will admit that the contrast is very great.—"ANGLO-CANADIAN."

THE CLOSING EXERCISE.

The End of the Fall Term at the Peterborough Business College.

The closing exercise of the past term at the Peterborough Business College was held this forenoon in the Theory and Practice Department, in the presence of the pupils and visitors.

Mr. Bannell Sawyer, the Principal, presided.

The first thing on the programme was a chorus by the pupils, "The Festal Day Has Come."

Mr. SAWYERS then gave an address. He referred to the history of business colleges and to the pioneers in the work. It was only twenty-five years ago that men, few in number, recognized the necessity of business training. They started two schools and had now so far taught the fact of the necessity of a business education, and overcome the prejudice and ignorance contended with, that now there were 625 business colleges scattered up and down this continent. Their object was to teach young men and young women, not aiming at professional pursuits, just such things as would aid them in life. He contended that the business college should become part of the national education. He had advocated for years that every town of 5,000 inhabitants should have one. If we were to have a progressive Minister of Education we would have these before long—and Mr. Ross had made one step in that direction.

The prize to be given to-day was a copy of Chambers Journal, given by Dr. Patter, of Ottawa, one of the most actively interested men in educational work in Canada. It was given for the student highest in general proficiency in the following subjects:—book-keeping, business forms, correspondence, commercial law, commercial arithmetic, mental arithmetic, banking, bank book-keeping, advertising, practical grammar, business practice, package making, foreign exchange and composition.

An essay on "Success" was taken into consideration to test the student's composing abilities. Several read the essays. A committee appointed awarded the first place to Mr. F. White. The prize was won by Mr. Thos. Allen, who took within 5 per cent. of the highest taken at the College. The percentage of marks is as follows:—Thos. Allen, 85; Hugh Lackie, 82; R. McClelland, 79; F. White, 68; Wm. Wright, 67.

These were the graduates. Several others graduated during the term. Of late Miss Keele, who was not competing for the prize, graduated, taking 88 per cent. Mr. A. Bell and Miss Smyth graduated in shorthand, the speed of the former being 103 words per minute on three five minute tests, and the speed of the latter 104.

Mr. STONE, barrister, etc., delivered a very interesting and wholesome address to the pupils, pointing out the advantages which the present times gave to them, which advantages were denied to their forefathers. He dwelt on the great good which the Peterborough Business College was doing in training up young men and women in sound business principles.

The students sang several choruses.

Miss GILES gave a recitation, in which she exhibited considerable dramatic attainments.

Mr. LACKIE read the Valedictory address.

Mr. SAWYER again addressed the students giving much good advice. He laid special stress on "hard work," advising the graduates to get something to do at once and to always keep to the motto of the college "Courage and Faith."

The singing of the National Anthem ended the proceedings.

Temperature.

The thermometer readings to-day at the hours mentioned were as follows:—8 o'clock a. m., 20 above zero; 1 o'clock p.m., 35 above zero; 3 oclock p. m., 35 above zero.

Important.

Owing to the fact that the Saved Army have gone to considerable trouble in fixing up the old Music Hall for Christmas, the meeting of the Liberal Conservative Committees and all friends of Conservatives, advertised to take place there this evening, will be held in the Parlor Roller Rink, Water Street. A full attendance of the different committees is particularly requested.

Fire.

On Wednesday night at shortly after eleven o'clock a fire occurred in a barn belonging to Mr. James McFadden, on Smith street. Mr. James Jordan, who had the place rented, lost a quantity of hay, a cow and two heifers. It is not known how the fire originated. There was no insurance on the building or contents. The fire brigade got half way up to the place, but the building, which was a small one, was levelled in a very short time, and their efforts would have been quite useless.

MR. GLADSTONE'S LAST.

He will Support the Government in the Anti-Rent Campaign.

LONDON, Dec, 22.—An interchange of views between Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues of the last Liberal Cabinet, on the attitude to be adopted by the Liberal party on the opening of Parliament has resulted in an agreement to support the Government in all legal efforts to suppress the Anti-Rent Campaign, but to urge the immediate enforcement of some form of Mr. Parnell's bill for the suspension of eviction. The Gladstone circle is angry over the action of Messrs Dillon and O'Brien, and the anti-rent leaders have been warned that there is no chance that the co-operation of Mr. Gladstone will continue unless they submit to Mr Parnell, who is desirous of a common policy with Mr. Gladstone. Mr. Parnell is suspected of aiming to suppress the Plan of Campaign. The Pall Mall Gazette declares that both Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Parnell are no longer in accord with their followers, who, it says, unless they discover and amend their error will find themselves, when Parliament meets, without even the rump of a party. Notwithstanding Mr. Parnell's displeasure, Messrs. Dillon, O'Brien and Healy continue their anti rent tactics.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Greene's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of the tax, coupled with the increased demand, enables us to increase the size of the bottles containing these medicines, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d24

THE "PRIVATE CONVERSATION."

THE attempt made on behalf of Mr. Bertram to cast a doubt upon the honor and veracity of Mr. Kendry is as dastardly and contemptible as Mr. Bertram's own cowardly and mendacious denial of his oft-repeated denunciations of Mr. Mowat and of his curses so liberally bestowed upon the Roman Catholics.

We will not do Mr. Kendry the injustice of condescending to urge upon the people of Peterborough his high character and the implicit confidence that may be placed on his word. They know him and are well aware that he is a man of unstained honor, whose truthfulness and fairness can be doubted by no one who knows him.

But for those at a distance and who do not know Mr. Kendry and Mr. Bertram, it is only right that we should point out the circumstances that render absolutely certain the truth of Mr. Kendry's statement and the falseness of Mr. Bertram's denial.

The affidavit or solemn declaration of Messrs. Kendry and Davidson by no means stands alone. There is the public declaration to the electors by Mr. Moore that similar language had been used by Mr. Bertram in his presence. There is the public declaration made at the nomination by Mr. Garbutt that his son-in-law Mr. McKibbon had been addressed in the same way by Mr. Bertram. Other witnesses could be produced by the dozen who could relate the same experiences. In fact it seems as if it would be difficult to find in Peterborough a man who has not heard Mr. Bertram's complaints and curses from his own lips, or who has not been told of them by some intimate and trusted friend as having been spoken to him. The fact of Mr. Bertram's having used the words imputed to him is as well known to every one in Peterborough even if he did not hear them, as is the act of Queen Victoria being our Sovereign and Mr. Mowat our Provincial Premier.

The mean insinuation that Mr. Kendry did wrong in repeating a private conversation is just as disgraceful. It was no private conversation. Mr. Bertram went into a place so public as the Auburn Woollen Mills, and blurted out his opinions to two gentlemen, one a Conservative and the other a Reformer, without a word to imply that it was a confidential communication. Were they "private conversations" when Mr. Bertram went round town forcing his woes and his threats upon anyone he would get to listen to him. As well might Mr. Bertram describe as "private conversations" his addresses to the electors at meetings which he had arranged should be private at least to the extent of his refusing to allow any answer to his false statements or dirty insinuations.

But even if it had been a private conversation, no honest man knowing the circumstances, would refuse to admit that Mr. Bertram by his conduct had released Mr. Kendry from any obligations of secrecy, nay more, that he had compelled him to speak. Mr. Bertram was asked before the assembled electors if he had used the words so generally attributed to him. His reply in the face of the electors was that the statement was "a lie."

This was uttered in the presence of Mr. Kendry, and he would have been less than a man, he would have been an accomplice in a foul wrong, he would have degraded himself to the level of Mr. Bertram, if by his silence he had aided and abetted Mr. Bertram in fixing an unjust stigma on those who were telling the truth while Mr. Bertram was giving them the lie. There is no pledge of confidence, however solemn, that does not include an expressed or implied release from the obligation of secrecy if it would make the giver of the pledge a party to an injustice, an accomplice in wronging the innocent. Justice, fairness and common honesty have their undeniable claims. Mr. Bertram forced Mr. Kendry to speak and let the truth be known. To have sat silent would have been criminal cowardice, would have been to steep himself in dishonor, and Mr. Kendry is not a man of that character.

It is now alleged in defense of the cowardly and dishonest action of the Reform leaders in their plot to prevent the Conservative candidate from obtaining a hearing at the nomination by reading against time, that an equitable arrangement was proposed by Mr Stratton and was refused by Mr. Carnegie. Well, we will state this proposition, and will ask any honest, fair-minded man if it was "equitable." It was that the Reformers should have three hours to speak, and Mr. Carnegie only an hour and a half in the middle. And then after a sitting of about five hours from the time of meeting there would be no fear of the electors waiting for a reply. It was a cowardly and dishonest proposition intended to secure an unfair advantage if accepted, or to be replaced by a still more cowardly and unfair plot to evade discussion if rejected.

IN BOHEMIA.

VIENNA, Dec. 22.—In the Bohemian Diet to-day, the House having decided to pass the order of the day upon motions of Herr Plener in favour of the division of Bohemia into two parts, Czech and German, according to the language of the inhabitants, Deputy Stsjkal declared that the German members would withdraw from the Diet unless they received a guarantee that their grievances would be discussed. The German members then left the House in a body.

LORD R CHURCHILL RESIGNS.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The Times announces that Lord Randolph Churchill has resigned his seat in the Cabinet owing to a disagreement with the Admiralty and the War Office with reference to the increasing expense of the country, in view of the existing financial difficulty, and also because he disapproved of the home legislative programme of the Cabinet.

VIENNA, Dec. 22.—The Tageblatt states that the Russian War Council has adopted a scheme for the occupation of Central Asia as far as the Hindoo Koosh mountains, including Herat.

PARIS, Dec. 22.—M. de Lesseps attended a banquet last evening, and in his speech stated that 139,500,000f. were still needed to complete the Panama canal.

FAVOURS THE PLAN.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Right Hon. A. J. Mundella, a member of the last Gladstonian Cabinet, in a speech to-day expresses his approval of the Plan of Campaign. He objected to the Government bringing criminal action for what were at most civil offences.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Mr. Gladstone denies that Mr. Parnell has ever visited him at Hawarden.

LAND IN EGYPT.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The claim of the Egyptian Government to lands in Egypt owned by Ismail Pasha, former Khedive, has been rejected by the court, which has ordered the lands to be surrendered into the custody of Ismail's agent.

PLAN OF CAMPAIGN ABANDONED.

DUBLIN, Dec. 22.—At a meeting of tenants at Magheralelt, in Londonderry, to-day, Mr. Pinkerton, M. P. for Galway, informed his hearers that the Plan of Campaign had been abandoned, and urged them to form tenants' defence societies, the payment of rents to which the Government would be unable to prevent.

CHAMBERLAIN'S MEASURE.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Mr. Chamberlain has written a correspondant a letter, in which he says he still adheres to his original Irish scheme, which has nothing in common with Mr. Gladstone's measure.

SARDOU'S NEW COMEDY.

LONDON, Dec 22.—Sardou's new comedy, "The Crocodile," was produced last night. The actors and actresses had a hard task to sustain the interest of the audience, the work being deficient in emotional and comic incidents. The scenery was gorgeous.

LORD SALISBURY'S MEASURE.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The Tories say that Lord Salisbury will introduce several of his bills in the House of Lords instead of being first presented in the House of Commons. He will thus save time and receive in some measure the credit of that body with the people.

RUSSIAN FAITH.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—In the trial of the cadets and officers of the Bulgarian army for conspiracy against the Regency, evidence has been adduced showing that the defendants were in communication with the Russian consul.

TENANTS REINSTATED.

DUBLIN, Dec. 23.—Four tenants recently evicted in Finhalls, near Carrick-on-Suir, County Tipperary, have re-occupied their holdings upon an agreement of fifteen years' purchase. The event has caused great rejoicing.

NO RACK RENTS.

DUBLIN, Dec. 23.—The Nation advises tenants in the event of the plan of campaign failing to keep their rent money themselves as an essential condition of victory and not pay rack rents, thus virtually abolishing landlords in Ireland.

AN ALLEGED THREAT.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 23.—It is reported that England threatens the permanent occupation of Egypt unless Turkey breaks with Germany.

CABINET CRISIS.

VIENNA, Dec. 23.—The Hungarian Minister of Commerce has resigned on account of the opposition of Parliament to the Government's financial policy. It is expected that other members of the Government will resign.

ABBE LISZT.

VIENNA, Dec. 23.—The Franciscan Friars have declared under oath that Abbe Liszt desired to be burried in the vaults of their monastery at Pesth.

CHURCHILL'S RESIGNATION.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The Times discussing Lord Randolph Churchill's resignation says:—Lord Randolph Churchill considers Mr. Smith and Lord George Hamilton prepared exobitant estimates for the army and navy departments respectively, which were uncalled for by the state of foreign affairs. Lord Salisbury supported Mr. Smith and Lord Geo. Hamilton. Lord Randolph further considers the legislative measures for Great Britain proposed for the next session of parliament are inadequate. The Times approves Lord Salisbury's decision to support the defences of the country. It reproves Lord Randolph Churchill for hastiness and the desire of reckless economy instead of trying to reform the departments and secure greater efficiency without an increase of the estimates. His resignation, says the Times, deprives the Government of its ablest member and completely changes the political situation. Lord Salisbury, it continues, will do well to renew overtures to Lord Hartington for a coalition government. A reconstructed Conservative Cabinet without new blood cannot last long, and will lead to the return of Mr. Gladstone to office.

OCCUPATION THREATENED.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 23.—It is reported that England threatens the permanent occupation of Egypt unless Turkey breaks with Germany.

OCEAN YACHT RACE.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The Royal Thames Yacht Club announces an ocean yacht race for one thousand guineas to be sailed on the occasion of the Queen's jubilee, in honor of the event.

ORDERED TO RETURN.

BERNE, Dec. 23.—German students in Switzerland have been ordered to rejoin their regiments immediately. Many officers on furlough have also been ordered to return to Germany.

THE COMMONS LEADERSHIP.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The Times says: It is possible for Lord Salisbury to go on with an administration constructed on the lines of the present ones, but without Lord Randolph Churchill's aid. Lord Randolph Churchill was much more than Chancellor of the Exchequer. He was the leader of the House of Commons, and the Autumn session showed that whatever may be his quality as a financier, he has in a high degree the gift of managing men, and especially of guiding a loosely organized and impressionable popular assembly. No statesman who does possess that gift can lead the House of Commons to any good purpose, and unless the House is skillfully led even a great and loyal majority will not avail to save the ministry from disaster.

THE TREASURY.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beech will probably re-take the chancellorship, which he held under the last Tory administration.

HOPES OF HOME RULE.

DUBLIN, Dec. 23.—The Mayor Limerick, presiding at the meeting of the Irish National League to-night said the resignation of Lord Churchill would lead to return of the Liberals to power and Home Rule for Ireland.

BAILIFF BEATERS.

DUBLIN, Dec. 23.—At Woodford to-day eleven of the prisoners charged with assaulting the bailiffs of the Clanricarde estate were found guilty, and were liberated upon giving recognizances for their good behaviour.

LORD HARTINGTON.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—Lord Hartington will return to London immediately, and until he arrives the Marquis of Salisbury will remain quiescent. It is thought improbable that Lord Hartington will accept office, as Mr. Chamberlain and a majority of the Unionist leaders object to his so doing. On the other hand it is learned from a reliable source that the Queen will use the utmost pressure to induce him to join the Ministry and become the Conservative leader in the House of Commons, believing that he alone can neutralize the effect of Lord Randolph Churchill's course.

ATTACKING ENGLAND.

PARIS, Dec. 23.—The Journal des Debats renews its attack on England, which it accuses of being the only power whose conduct has aggravated the trouble which has culminated in the present crisis in South-Eastern Europe, and declares she has sought to to embroil Austria and Russia in the dispute.

A ROYAL INTERVIEW.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The Queen summoned Lord Randolph Churchill and Lord George Hamilton, First Lord of the Admiralty, to Windsor on Tuesday. Failing to reconcile Lord Randolph to the Cabinet's views, the Queen gave him time to consider the points at issue.

WILL SUPPORT THE GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The Cabinet will not meet until next Wednesday. All the Ministers will pass Christmas at their country seats. Lord Randolph Churchill authorizes the statement that he will continue to give a general support to the Government, and on disputed questions in Parliament will hold aloof rather than oppose the Government, avoiding everything that might tend to jeopardize the entente between the Tories and Liberals on Unionist principles.

A BREACH OF FAITH.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—Lord Salisbury was aware of Lord Randolph's decision morning, and the matter was whispered at a ball given at Hatfield House last evening. Lord Randolph's premature divulgence of his decision to the Times is considered a breach of faith.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1886.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,—As, owing to the conduct of my opponent—Mr. J. R. Stratton—at the nomination on Tuesday last I was practically denied the usual opportunity of discussing the issues of the campaign in the presence of all parties—an opportunity never before denied the actual candidates in such contests in this county, I deem it expedient to adopt this method of placing before you my views on two of the most important questions at issue in this campaign.

The first of these questions, to which I shall refer, is that of the Separate School Law, as it now stands and as it effects taxpayers.

Under the Act of 1863 the actual payer of the rate, be he landlord or tenant, is the person who has a right to decide to which school the school tax on the property he represents shall go. Consequently the Roman Catholic landlord, who agrees with his Protestant tenant that he, not his tenant, shall pay the rates, has the right to send the taxes on a property leased to or occupied by a Protestant to the Separate School. And this right has been guaranteed to him by an Imperial Act, which cannot be interfered with by Provincial legislation. Hence, although an Act passed in 1881 by the Ontario Legislature declares that any agreement between landlord and tenant for the payment of the taxes by the landlord, shall be of no effect, and that the tenant shall, notwithstanding, be the person to say to which class of schools the school tax on the property occupied by him shall go, yet owing to the position in which the act of 1863 is placed, it is obvious that this latter act is null and void so far as the rights of the Roman Catholic landlord are concerned, and that as a consequence, while the Protestant landlord is bound by the act of 1881, the Roman Catholic landlord can still claim the right given him under the act of 1863, and by his contract with his Protestant tenant send the taxes to the Separate School despite the act of 1881. In my opinion all landlords and all tenants, whether Catholic or Protestant, should stand in precisely the same position with regard to this matter, and if honored with a renewal of your confidence, I shall deem it my duty to use my best efforts to have this law so amended as to bring about such a result.

The second question to which I desire to refer is that of the Bible in the Schools.

As I now understand this matter, and I take my information from the last report of the Minister of Education, the regulations now in force, and the instructions which have been given for the carrying out of the same, require that no Roman Catholic child shall be allowed to remain in a Public or High School while the scriptures are being read unless the parent or guardian of such child notifies the teacher that he desires such child to so remain. That being the case, it is obvious that whether the Bible or merely selections therefrom are to be used, is a matter which concerns Protestants and Protestants alone. Had our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens or their Bishops on their behalf ever come forward and expressed a willingness to have the children of their faith join with Protestant children in the reading of any portion of the Scriptures in the public schools, I would be willing to go a long way in order to bring about such a result, but until they do so, and in view of the fact that whenever it suits them to do so they are at liberty to have their own schools, and teach their own religious opinions, I am of the decided opinion that Protestants and Protestants alone should have the right to say what portions of the Bible should be read to their children.

Moreover, I am of opinion that where our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens have, as in Peterborough, withdrawn from our public schools, Protestants should have the right, as a simple matter of justice, to introduce into such public schools just as much of religious teaching as Protestants deem expedient, without any interference on the part of those who have withdrawn therefrom.

These, gentlemen, are my sentiments on these two important points, and I think they will commend themselves to all classes and creeds of the electors as being fair to all and unjust to none; but whether they do or not, I must frankly say that I hold them so strongly that I am prepared to go the length of breaking the political ties of a life time in order to have them carried out. Upon the proper education of our children and of those who are to come after us depends the future of our country, and, therefore, I hold this matter to be one of primary importance.

In conclusion, I would urge upon all who are in sympathy with my views the great importance of their going to the polls in order that no uncertain sound may be given on the 29th of this month.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

MR. MOWAT CONDEMNED.

THE severest condemnation of the Mowat Administration that we have seen for a long time is that contained in a sort of supplementary platform issued by their standard bearer in West Peterborough.

In a reply to the Knights of Labor Mr. Stratton announces (1) that he will support manhood suffrage; (2) that he will oppose the importation of labour to compete with workingmen; (3) that he will oppose prison labour being brought into competition with honest labour; (4) that he will favour making railway companies responsible "to the fullest possible extent" for the lives and limbs of their employees.

We heartily applaud these sentiments; they do honour to Mr. Stratton's heart and head; in fact they are very important adoptions of the Conservative platform.

But in advocating such just measures Mr. Stratton deals a deadly blow at Mr. Mowat and the other Reform leaders. If he had been in the last Legislature and had then held these views, Mr. Stratton must have voted want of confidence in Mr. Mowat and his colleagues on these four very important points, and more than four times. He would have had to vote on many occasions against Mr. Mowat, against his colleagues, against the whole body of Reform memberrs, of course including Mr Blezard. He would have had to vote with Mr. Meredith, he would have had to vote with every Conservative member, and in the same way as Mr. Carnegie.

Mr. Meredith and his followers, including Mr. Carnegie, more than once moved in favour of manhood suffrage. Mr. Mowat and his supporters, without exception, obstinately refused to grant it and voted it down. Mr. Stratton would have condemned Mr. Mowat, would have voted against him, and would have voted with Mr. Meredith.

Mr. Meredith and his friends, including Mr. Carnegie, several times opposed the immigration vote and the expenditure of money to import labour to compete with Canadian workingmen. Mr. Mowat and all the Ministerialists voted against the motion and to maintain this injurious policy. Mr. Stratton would have been the solitary exception, would have condemned Mr. Mowat, would have voted against him, and with Mr. Meredith. So he asks us to believe.

Mr. Meredith and his party, including Mr. Carnegie, more than once objected to bringing prison labor into competition with honest labour. Mr. Mowat and his party supported this injustice to honest workingmen. Mr. Mowat has even surpassed his former misdeeds, and in the very teeth of these Conservative protests, has just made arrangements that criminals in gaol shall make the bricks for the very building in which laws are to be made, leaving to honest workingmen, who have not qualified themselves for Mr. Mowat's patronage by becoming gaol birds, the privilege for their share of paying for this extravagant building. Mr. Stratton, according to his supplementary platform would be bound to condemn Mr. Mowat and to assist Mr. Meredith in turning out an administration guilty of such an outrage on honest labour.

Mr. Meredith and his supporters, including Mr. Carnegie, voted to remove the special restriction on the liability of certain railway companies for injuries to their employees. Mr. Mowat and his backers refused in a body to place these companies on the same level with other employers. Mr. Stratton, to adhere to his new platform, would have to oppose Mr. Mowat and to vote with Mr. Meredith.

In acting and voting in this way Mr. Stratton would have done well and such a change for the better in a new convert should be applauded. He must be a new, a very, very new convert, only a few days old indeed, for with all his means of publicity of late he has never condemned Mr. Mowat for his misdeeds as he now holds them, nor given praise to Mr. Meredith for supporting his present views so zealously and persistently. Nay more, he has during this campaign condemned Mr. Carnegie for having invariably adopted the wrong course in the recently expired legislature, and has never given him credit for his many votes which he now says represent his own ideas and intention in regard to these four points of such material importance.

It will occur to many electors that since Mr. Stratton has now adopted the views of Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Meredith on some of the most important questions of the day, it would be the wisest course to choose the tried, experienced, trained and consistent representative who has served them so well, rather than an inexperienced, untrained novice, who is so recently converted to these good ways that he might by pure accident find himself voting on a division against his new born convictions.

It will perhaps be wise not to take such risks.

THE friends of Mr. Mowat are bragging over the fact that in the next session of the Legislature he will have the support of the members for the two Algomas, not elected to sit there by the electors, but seated by statute passed by Mr. Mowat and his servile supporters. This dishonest trick is probably one of the causes why Mr. Mowat unnecessarily hurried on the elections during the Christmas week. If he had waited till after next session he must have faced the people of Algoma, but now he has made sure of two partisan supporters who represent not the people, but only his partisan majority.

IT has been asked why the Reform candidate had to take strangers from Toronto into Ennismore to assist him. Well he could not get on without somebody and he could not well take his usual backer, Mr. Bertram, just after the exposure of his views as expressed in his "private conversations" with the town of Peterborough.

GOUGH { THE KING OF CLOTHIERS AND WORKINGMAN'S BEST FRIEND

A FUTILE EXCUSE.

An attempt is being made to excuse the cowardly and dishonest conduct of the Reform managers in plotting to shut out the Conservative candidate from addressing the electors at the official nomination for West Peterborough. It is said that Mr. Carnegie would have done the same thing if he had the chance. There is Mr. Carnegie's record to prove the utter falsehood of such a slanderous attack. Mr. Carnegie has been an active politician for twenty years and during that time no man can say that he has made a dishonest attempt to silence his opponent or has shrank like a coward from allowing a reply to himself. Such a thing as preventing one of the candidates from addressing the electors assembled for the official nominations is unknown in Ontario, and no one who knows Mr. Carnegie would suppose him such a craven and so unfair as to set such a precedent, dishonorable in itself and insulting to the electors who have the right to hear the views of their candidates at the time of nomination.

Colored People Leaving South Carolina for Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 22.—Several colored families from South Carolina passed through this place yesterday. and will locate in Drew, Chicot, Despa and other counties in the southern portion of Arkansas. They are from Aiken and Barnwell counties, South Carolina, and give a gloomy account of affairs in that State, claiming that the cotton crop was virtually a failure the past season, that the price of that staple is lower than ever before, and that the landlords under the law absorbed the proceeds of black labor They also allege that they had no political rights, being to all intents and purposes disfranchised. Under these circumstances emigration was a matter of necessity if not of choice. Large numbers will leave Appleton, Blackville and other points in South Carolina within the next six weeks bound for Arkansas.

STANLEY FALLS.

Capture of the Congo Station by the Arabs—The Present Danger.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 21.—Captain Conquiltol, chief of the Bungalo station on the Congo State, who is here on a visit, confirms the report that Lieut. Dubois was drowned in the Congo river while retreating from Stanley Falls station. The evacuation of the place by the whites Capt. Conquitol attributes to a short supply of ammunition. The captain reports that after the unsuccessful attempt of himself and party to retake Stanley Falls from the ascent to which he was driven by ambush firing by the Arabs alongside the river banks, he punished the Arabs severely at Zoparra. Captain Conquiltol does not believe that the capture of Stanley Falls station is a prelude to an Arab descent on the Lower Congo, and says there is plenty of time to bar the passage of the Arabs should they attempt such a move and to retake the Falls station.

DENOUNCES COERCION

DUBLIN, Dec. 22.—Dean Byrne, presiding at a meeting of five thousand Nationalists at Pomeroy, County Tyrone, to-day, denounced the Government. He said if the coercive policy was persisted in, he would not be responsible for the peace of this district. Sir Thomas Esmonde, M. P., and a number of Catholic priests spoke in a similar strain. The approved the Plan of Campaign, and said they were willing to take up arms to rid Ireland of landlordism. Several Government reporters were present at the meeting.

Howden's Great Display.

The display of Christmas beef at Howden's meat market is simply a magnificent one. It is the largest and finest ever seen in Peterborough. The choicest beef, pork, lamb, fancy meats, fowl, and everything in the butcher's line is shown in great abundance and variety.

Municipal Elections—Ward No. Three.

A meeting of the electors of this Ward will be held in the new machine shop of William Hamilton's Manufacturing Co., Reid Street, adjoining their office, on the 30th inst., at 7.30 p. m., when the Nicholl's Hospital and other matters will be discussed. All interested are invited to attend. W. H. MOORE, candidate.

Where is he?

Some great humorist says that when you put your finger where the flea really is—he isn't there. At the fourth-line of Smith Temperance Hall last night Mr. Stratton in his speech said: "If elected I will support all moral and temperance measures." No doubt this last expression will create laughter among the temperance men and thought among the hotel-keepers.

Wainwright's Display.

To look at Wainwright's display of meat, and the fantastic ornamentation of it, reminds the people that the festal season has come around once more. Mr. Wainwright has done much to fill his stall with a very attractive display. Messrs. Nickly, of Burleigh, W. A. Hall, of Smith, and T. E. Fitzgerald, of the same township, Robt. Gervin, of Douro, Mr. Scully, of Otonabee, and Mr. Wilson, of Dummer, deserve no small credit for Mr. Wainwright's handsome assortment of meats. Mr. Wainwright has slaughtered 10 beeves, 25 sheep and lambs and several hogs to provide for his trade. The speciality in the display is the calf, six months old when slaughtered, which weighed 400 pounds when dressed.

Howden's Holiday Cheer.

The Howden meat market this Christmas presents an appearance of "full and plenty." Inside and outside the place is decorated with fine roasts of beef, trunks of mutton webbed into fat, all sorts of fancy meats, and with flags and evergreens. The beeves were purchased from such well known breeders as Jos. Redmond, Ottonabee; Mr. Armstrong, Douro, Mr. Robinson and Mr. Whittington, South Monaghan; and Mr. E. Haitrick, Otonabee. The hogs were purchased from Mr. A. Cox, Smith. The mutton is the best. The choicest of a flock of two hundred sheep and lambs, owned by Mr. Howden, were slain to supply toothsome cuts for the holiday trade. No doubt many will visit the Howden's market this evening to see the really magnificent display.

Personal.

Mr. James Billington, who for the past year has made the city of Winnipeg his home, is here on a visit to his friends and will remain for a few days.

A Christmas service will be held at the Charlotte Street Church to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. F. H. Wallace, B.D. On Sunday the pastor will preach in the morning, and the Rev. Jas. McMullen in the evening. Morning subject "Miracles"

Against the N. P.

One of the chief attacks on the Conservative policy made by Mr. J. R. Stratton and Mr. Bertram in Smith last night was to explain how the National Policy had deluded the electors. The workingmen of this town are not likely to agree with the views of Messrs Stratton and Bertram.

Important.

Owing to the fact that the Saved Army have gone to considerable trouble in fixing up the old Music Hall for Christmas, the meeting of the Liberal Conservative Committees and all friends of Conservatives, advertised to take place there this evening, will be held in the Parlor Roller Rink, Water Street. A full attendance of the different committees is particularly requested.

St. Luke's Church.

There will be the usual services at this church to-morrow, viz., at 8 and 11 a.m. The Choir has prepared special music for Christmas, and the services will be befitting to the occasion. On Sunday next, the 26th inst, there will be four services at St. Luke's Church, viz. at 8 and 11 a.m. and 3.30 and 7 p.m. At the afternoon service, commencing at half past three o'clock, the Masonic lodges of Peterborough will attend and the Rector will preach a suitable sermon to the craft. All are invited. Seats free.

Harry Winch.

Mr. Harry Winch is again in the van with a fine Christmas show of meats. The stall in the market block is fairly burdened with a wealth of decoration, including the artistically trimmed meats themselves. The place is filled to repletion, inside and outside the stall, with such a variety of plain and fancy meats as cannot fail to please the most fastidious. Beeves have been selected from the herds of Robt. Carter, John Lang, Otonabee; Wm. Buckam, South Monaghan; H. Moore, Otonabee; Jas. McKibbin, Smith; and two head were purchased from Geo. Howden, Peterborough. Lambs and sheep have been taken from the folds of H. Reid, and Moloney Bros., Douro; A. Finny, Wm. Dawson, Wm. Buckam and J. Thorne, South Monaghan. Mr. E. Bulmer has supplied the "hog of the season," weighing 675 pounds. Two waggon loads of turkeys have been captured from the roosts of Messrs. Swain and Staples, of Cavan. Mr. Tenice Guerin, the well-known and popular head butcher, deserves great credit for the artistic way in which the meats are dressed and arranged.

SPECIAL drive of wool knitted goods this week at the Golden Lion.

A Pretty Sight.

In passing the store of Mr. Andrew McNeil, Habiliment Hall, one cannot help but notice the artistic and beautiful manner in which the windows are dressed. The north window is solely taken up in displaying a magnificent line of gentlemen's holiday neckties in multifarious patterns, shapes, qualities and designs. This window is a sight that will attract the attention of all the young men in Peterborough, as a finer selection of that very necessary appendage to a man's dress could scarcely be wished for. The south window is filled with an excellent stock of suitings and overcoatings. There are some decidedly handsome patterns displayed, and many of them are entirely new lines. A man who could not pick a suit to please him out of the large stock now on hand at Habiliment Hall, surely could not tell what he wanted. A very large assortment of small wares is constantly kept, and gentlemen in need of furnishings of any description cannot do better than give Habiliment Hall a call. The cut and workmanship, together with the class of goods, is always the best, and great care is bestowed on every article turned out of the establishment. Buy your 'Xmas presents from A. McNeil, Habiliment Hall, George Street.

OUR stock of Photograph Albums is immense, beautiful, and at prices that satisfy all. A. L. DAVIS & Co.

THE FISHERIES ACT.

Imperial Sanction of the Bill—Bad Look out for Poachers

OTTAWA, Dec, 23.—The Government have been notified that the Canada Gazette of this week will contain the proclamation announcing that the Queen has sanctioned the Fisheries bill of last session, which was reserved for the purpose of receiving the sanction of the Imperial authorities.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

Presentation to the Rev. A. Bell of St. Andrews Church.

About eight o'clock on Thursday evening the occupants of St. Andrew's manse in this town were greatly surprised in answering a ring at the door to find a company of nearly thirty ladies of the congregation trooping in declaring that they had come unasked to take possession.

After depositing their baskets and parcels in convenient places amid the silent wonder of the household they took seats and after a few preliminary remarks asked if Mr. Bell was at home as they wanted to see him. On appearing the Rev. Gentleman was directed to a particular chair set for the purpose. He silently obeyed, and no sooner had he taken up the position allotted him than he was approached by Mrs. Carnegie who read the followidg address—the presentation being made by Mrs. Nicholls

To the Rev. Alex. Bell, Minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Peterboro'.

REV. AND DEAR SIR,—On behalf of the ladies of your congregation we beg to herewith present you with this pulpit gown as a slight recognition of the faithfulness with which you have, ever since your advent amongst us—now more than nine years ago—preached unto your hearers the precious truths alone to be found in the Bible; and the earnestness with which you have ever labored to bring those entrusted to your spiritual care to Jesus.

We earnestly trust that He who rules all things may be pleased to long spare you to wear the accompanying gown, and to go out and in amongst us, breaking unto us and those who are so dear to us the Bread of Life, and that when our great Master calls you hence you may prove to have been a reaper who needeth not to be ashamed, and whose garner is well filled with sheeves, not a few of which have been gathered in St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough.

In conclusion we would avail ourselves of this opportunity to wish Mrs. Bell and family, as well as yourself, the compliments of the season, and many, many, happy returns of the same.

Signed on behalf of the ladies,

MRS. NICHOLLS.
MRS. CARNEGIE.

Mr. Bell, who had not the slightest intimation of what was coming, replied to the following effect:—

MY ESTEEMED LADY FRIENDS.—You have taken me completely by surprise. I never dreamed of such kindness, and I had no expectation of its coming. Your gift, however, is no less pleasing, and no less valuable to me that it was unexpected, and I accept it cheerfully at your hands and with all the sincerity and earnestness of my heart I thank you and all who had a share in procuring it. I shall gladly wear it for your sakes.

I fear it is only the greatness of your good will that makes me speak so favorable of my labors among you. It is your indulgence that judges me, and my faults and shortcomings are not remembered. When I became your minister I promised to preach the gospel faithfully and fearlessly to all, and next to the approval of my own conscience I value your testimony so kindly given, as it tells me that in your judgment at least, I have in some degree succeeded.

I trust that while I wear such a handsome token of your favor it shall ever remind me of what you expect and stimulate me to greater faithfulness—that running and striving and working together in the good will of the gospel we may grow in grace together, and at last rise to shine together in the possession of a share of the inheritance reserved for the righteous.

I cannot trust myself to say more than that I sincerely reciprocate, for you and yours, the good wishes expressed for Mrs. Bell and our children, and I hope that the good feeling of which your presence now gives ample evidence, may never fail between us.

Again I thank you for your handsome gift.

The remainder of the evening was spent in happy conversation and the enjoyment of the good things provided.

ITALY AND THE VATICAN.

The Pontiff Complains of His Treatment by the Italian Government.

ROME, Dec. 28.—The Pope, in receiving Christmas congratulations from the College of Cardinals, spoke at some length of the position of the Church in Italy. He protested against the anti-clerical movement which is being carried on in the country, and said the Holy See was now despoiled of the last remnants of its patrimony. The only liberty left to him was that held by the Roman Pontiffs in the earliest ages. The Italian Government, he declared, assisted the laity in unduly interfering with the administration of the Church; had expelled religious bodies, and had tolerated an organized hostility against the Vatican. As the head of the Church, he must continue to protest against the position in which he is placed.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90
